SEVEN MINERS RESCUED AT SPRINGHILL

Canada Rejects Protest At Laws Against Dumping

U.S. Retaliation Threat Accorded Cool Reaction

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has reacted coolly to United States hints of possible retaliation if Canada persists with her stiffened anti-dumping laws against low-priced imports.

External Affairs Minister Smith informed U.S. Ambassador Livingston Merchant, in a note dated Oct. 24, that the Canadian administration feels its toughened legislation is entirely consistent with Canada's obligations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Mr. Merchant, in a note dated Sept. 3—sent after a previous one had been unanswered—intimated it was not; that it was a violation of GATT; that Canada had taken a retrograde step on International trade; that her legislation would impede the flow of shipments between the two countries and might force the U.S. to impose restrictive measures of her own.

Mr. Smith, in reply, merely offered this government's "explanation" of its action. But he offered also to discuss with the U.S. one aspect of the legislation—its impact on imports of American fresh fruits and vegetables.

Out of the notes, made public by the external affairs department Friday, came a disclosure that Canada has started to bargain with the U.S. to boost seasonal tariffs on imports to some two dozen fresh fruits and vegetables.

Mr. Merchant suggested in his note that higher reserve prices for Canadian growers should be a sufficient protection, without need of applying a provision of the new Canadian customs legislation. This empowers the government to set the price of a product for duty purposes at the average price of the preceding three years.

DANGEROUS EXTENSION

This, said Mr. Merchant, represented a "dangerous extension" of administrative discretion. It would create a "damaging precedent" for international trade in agricultural products and seriously weaken the ability of the U.S. government to withstand strong pressures from domestic growers for measures of similar protective intent."

It is the opinion of the U.S. government that Canada's proposed increases and extensions of seasonal tariffs on fruits and vegetables "should in themselves be sufficient to safeguard adequately any necessity for arbitrary valuation and opportunity for dumping duties."

Mr. Smith replied that the Canadian administration appreciated the U.S. "concern" and officials would be prepared to discuss with U.S. officials the seasonal vegetable negotiations.

But he gently closed the door on other aspects of the American protest.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Mostly fair weather continues over the province this morning, but cold air which has moved south over lower lakes overnight has definitely ended the mild spell which prevailed a couple of days earlier. Today's temperatures in Southern Ontario were in the 40s, contrasting with the 60s of Friday. It will be good football weather Sunday's weather is a toss-up. The odds favor continuation of fair to mild weather with gradually moderating temperatures.

U.S. REJECTS PLAN TO USE CANADIAN GAS IN COUNTRY

Feels Supply Not Sufficient

WASHINGTON (CP)—The federal power commission Friday night turned down an embattled plan to supply fuel-hungry areas in the north-central United States with natural gas from Canada but expressed conviction the Canadian fuel eventually will find a U.S. market.

Acting with "profound regret," the commission rejected an application by Midwestern Gas Transmission Company, a U.S. pipeline, for permission to import 264,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from the Trans-Canada pipeline and sell it in North Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

It did so, the commission said, because it was not convinced the Trans-Canada Pipe Line Limited, just now completing a 2,300-mile pipeline across the Alberta gas fields to Eastern Canada, lacks sufficient gas even for its own Canadian customers, let alone provide a surplus for export to the U.S.

At the same time, the three-man commission left the door open for applications of two rival American pipelines — North Natural Gas Company and Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, which were competing with Midwestern for the four-state market. It found Midwestern had no facilities for storage project while Michigan Wisconsin's plan was uneconomical.

In Ottawa, both Acting Prime Minister Green and Trade Minister Churchill said they had no comment. Also declining comment was Henry Borden, whose royal commission last week recommended that a company be set up to build the formal Liberal government to move Trans-Canada to export can be disallowed.

Federal action was called for by Premier Manning of Alberta, who said:

"The rejection emphasizes the necessity and urgency of the Canadian government to build the Trans-Canada national gas export policy without further delay."

The U.S. commission expressed conviction the Canadian fuel "will eventually inevitably will" be made available to U.S. consumers by the mutual benefit of both countries.

The commission left the way open for the companies to present new applications proposing projects limited to Canadian gas on the basis of the natural gas act of 1938 as it now stands to serve. They have 10 days in which to indicate their plans.

The Friday decision closed a complex case which opened in October, 1955.

The only authorizations granted were for Northern to import additional supplies to existing customers, principally in Iowa, and for Tennessee Gas Pipe Line Company of El Paso, Tex., to import an additional 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily to Northern.

All Brought Out Within 4½ Hours After Location

Moans and Voices Spur Crews to Great Effort

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Seven more men were found alive in the caved-in Cumberland coal mine early today and within 4½ hours had been safely brought out and taken to hospital.

They had been buried for 8½ days but were described as in excellent condition considering their ordeal.

First contact with the men was made at 4:45 a.m. The last of the seven was carried through a screen of cheering rescuers at the mine entrance at 9:16 a.m.

100 HAVE SURVIVED

The second miraculous rescue in three days brought to 100 the number of survivors of the gigantic upheaval nine days ago in the heart of North America's deepest coal mines.

Though some of the seven were injured, all appeared to be in good condition. Doctors, in fact, than 13 brought out Thursday after being imprisoned for 8½ days — from Nov. 1 to Nov. 9 — in the 13,000-foot level as those found today. Forty are still miss-ing.

First man brought out today, less than an hour after the first seven were discovered, was Bryce Morash, 25, who had been in about six feet square the full time, separated from others.

Rescuers said he appeared in good shape." He lifted his arms in greetings to crowds as he was put on an ambulance and taken to hospital.

Next to come out was Garnet Clarke. At interval the other five were borne from their tomb in succession.

Forty others are still missing. Ten, it was feared, were in the giant underground upheaval nine days ago on the night of Tuesday, Oct. 21.

A colliery official said "the hope of more life is getting dimmer and slimmer."

Men working through the area that was the only group of survivors were found have reached the end of the 1,000-foot level. The official said there is "no sign or sound of life" beyond the wall.

Bodies of dead have been seen but no count was available immediately.

There is still 100 feet of rock, coal and debris separating the men from the 1,000 level. It is from there that some rescue crews are working on the last of the 10,000-foot tunnels.

MARTIN HEARD OTHERS

During more than 300 hours underground Martin remained in an open pocket about 75 feet away from the six others. He could hear them talking but they couldn't see him or hear him.

His air supply was good while they were bothered by the gas.

Springhill Women Faint and Weep On Learning Their Menfolk Alive

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)—"He's alive!" a woman neighbor screamed, then fainted, as she heard the news of her husband's rescue from the Cumberland coal mine today.

She ran to the pithead to be on hand when her husband, one of seven found alive early today, would emerge at the surface.

His ailing mother said: "This is the end of the worrying and now she's worried this one."

Friday night, the last of 88 survivors rescued in the explosion two years ago today.

"My 24-year-old said with tears in her eyes: "Frank's coming out probably tonight early. Later won't be there to meet him. She said Ester was hearing up well under the strain of the ordeal.

Will Frank go back to the pit? "I don't know," she said. "I think Frank will go back. He knows no other work and he needs money to raise his family well."

Bryon Martin's wife Marion broke down for the first time.

"I cried and cried. I'm so happy to know he's safe."

Her son Robert, 15, an only boy, ran to the pithead.

Then Martin said: "No, I don't want him to go back in that pit.

Exile of Nobel Author Pasternak Is Forecast

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia will permit Nobel-prize-winning author Boris Pasternak to go abroad to receive his prize if he wishes to, the Soviet news agency Tass said today.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet pressure built up today for traitor's exile of Nobel prize winner Boris Pasternak.

The Literary Gazette, official voice of the Soviet Writers' Union, cried for his expulsion from "this country whose interests he betrayed."

The newspaper printed a full page of attacks on the 68-year-old author of Doctor Zhivago.

Moscow branch of the Writers' Union, terming Pasternak's novel Zhivago anti-Soviet, appealed to the government to strip Pasternak of his citizenship — a move observers here said could mean his exile.

Clarification of the exact meaning in the opinion of experts here must await official action.

Trap 26 Youths By Roadblock North of Cobourg

PETERBOROUGH CP— Provincial police trapped 26 leather-jacketed youths from the Oshawa area Friday night in a roadblock six miles north of Cobourg following a disturbance in Hastings, 25 miles east of here.

Corporal Archie Eady of the provincial police detachment in Campbellford said the names of the 26 were taken. The possibility of charges was being discussed with Crown Attorney H. R. Dayman of Cobourg.

Cpl. Eady said that a week previously her detachment was given a service station in Hastings—Paul Sullivan, 24, and James, 19 —were involved in a fracas with two Oshawa youths and got the better of the argument.

BROTHERS THREATENED

Late Friday night, five cars loads of Oshawa youths drove up to the service station. A number of them threatened the Sullivan brothers, the wielding chains around their fists.

As a crowd of about 100 villagers gathered, provincial police were called into the disturbance. Their cruiser was 10 miles away. By the time it arrived, the Oshawa youths had left.

Cpl. Eady said no one apparently was hurt in the disturbance.

While two constables in the Campbellford police cruiser chased the five Oshawa cars south on highway 45, they radioed ahead to the Cobourg detachment, which set up the roadblock.

All Over Country Hallowe'en Rode Along to Normal Noisy Conclusion

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wee goblins in bed sheets soaped windows and begged treats across Canada Friday night.

But there was one town that had a cleanup problem today.

The children of Springhill, N.S., didn't go out Hallowe'en.

Many of them cried themselves to sleep.

Last week, children of the dis-sister-struck Nova Scotia mining town were told by their school teachers not to turn out for the usual Hallowe'en hijinks. Most didn't have to be told.

Nearly every one of them has a father, a brother or a father-in-law among the dead, missing or injured of Nov. 2 and 9.

The annual Sadie Hawkins dance at the Springhill armory in Springhill, N.S., turned into a temporary hospital for injured miners.

Elsewhere in the country, the night rode along to its normal noisy conclusion.

There were some incidents of note. At Toronto two youths wearing masks robbed delivery driver Ed Johnson, 18, of $13 and ran away.

Women wearing long mask underwear and Indian costumes invaded the smoky interior of Edmonton's meat-only taverns but police said they wouldn't "pay any attention to them."

One tavern closed for a while to stave off the unwanted females. But police in Alberta capital reported a quiet night—except for one report from the mounted when pranksters turned five coyotes loose from the Edmonton Para police, who called it a stupid trick," had to shoot two of the animals, recaptured five other three.

In the Victoria suburb of Saanich, police found five Hallowe'en dynamite bombs in 15-year-old Ken Hall's paper bag and nine more in his bedroom drawer at home. Police said "any one of them would have blown the roof off the house."

The lad and his chum were placed on probation after getting a tongue-lashing from a magistrate.

In many cities the hideous masks that loomed up at front doors were accompanied by donation boxes for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

THINK RUSSIAN POSITION OPEN TO NEGOTIATION

Nuclear Test Talks Underway at Geneva

The United States, Britain and Russia planned private meetings today to clarify East-West positions on policing a nuclear test ban.

Western delegates said they felt that the Russian position, though calling first for permanent suspension of nuclear tests, was sufficiently flexible to leave room for private negotiation.

They got this impression from a statement by Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin at the opening of the three-power conference in the Palace of Nations Friday.

In a closed session that followed, the Russians submitted a draft agreement on suspension of tests. Neither Russian nor Western delegates would detail its provisions.

The Soviet opening statement and initial remarks of the Western delegates—U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth and British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore — emphasized these fundamental lines:

1. The Russians want all three powers to suspend tests forever at once, and then take up the negotiation of a world control system to safeguard against cheating.

2. The West insists that the control should be reversed, with a control system worked out and put up, before any commitment to a permanent suspension. The United States and Britain advocate a short-term suspension until there is a signed agreement.

'Thank God' Says One Miner 'Give Me Quart of Whiskey' Another's Greeting to Wife

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Bryon Martin spoke through swollen lips today and whispered: "Thank God I'm alive."

His family met him at All Saints Hospital. They got in a few broken words his story of 8½ days in a rocky hole in the Cumberland mine.

He said it was "horrible."

Relatives said he had difficulty hearing their questions. His voice was barely audible.

Martin's 12-year-old son sat sobbing beside his bed as doctors worked over him.

He was in the worst condition of the seven miners rescued today and recovering in hospital.

Rescue workers said Martin was trapped alone. When asked if he had any food or water he said he shook his head.

Mrs. Herbert Pepperdine posed for photographers and dabbed at her eyes outside the hospital. She said her husband was "just fine."

Then she laughed and said: "The first thing he told me was 'give me a quart of whisky will you?'"

Douglas Jowkes was the spry-est of the seven. He sat up erect on the stretcher as he was carried from the ambulance, waved to everybody, spotted his friend Jim McLeod and called cheerfully: "Hi, Jim, old man!"

All of the men were in excellent condition considering their ordeal. None is seriously injured.

Speaking from a hospital bed, Jowkes said "I feel like a million dollars."

Maurice Ruddick, 46-year-old father of 12 children, quipped back: "So do I but all mine is spent."

The men said they remained confident they would be found. They heard sounds of rescuers three days ago and as the crews approached they calculated they would be freed by about 5 p.m. today.

Ruddick led the men in singing and they "prayed a lot," said Arnie Patterson, chief of public relations for Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

Currie Smith's wife Mabel said her sister, Minnie Brown, had joked that Currie would be "in today because it's fine and he doesn't like wet weather."

'Was Not Like Royal Prince But Like Prince of a Man'

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—"He wasn't like a royal prince but like a prince of a man."

In these words Mrs. Harold Raper, widow of one of the victims of this week's mine upheaval, described her impressions of Prince Philip.

The prince paid a surprise call to her home Friday night during his 36-minute visit to the coal-miner-bit town. Mrs. Raper only hours before had buried her husband.

"The prince just walked in and held my two hands in his until I got up," she said.

"I didn't even hear him come in the door. I didn't even say Your Royal Highness. I just said 'I'm very glad to see you.'"

Her description voiced the sentiments of many in this saddened community of 7,000.

Informality was the keynote of the royal visit from the moment Mayor Ralph Gilroy introduced Prince Philip to survivors of the shattering bump which rocked the Cumberland No. 3 colliery Oct. 23.

"Boys—here's His Royal Highness Prince Philip," the caved-in miners.

At All Saints' Hospital Prince Philip walked among the many injured, with cheerful words of encouragement and sympathetic condolences to those whose kin were still missing in the caved-in diggings. More than 30 men were killed in the accident.

Mayor Gilroy conducted the royal visitor through the hospital where lay the 13 "miracle" survivors brought alive from the mine early Thursday.

The prince went on the No. 2 pithead on his tour and talked with mine rescue workers.

The prince was relaxed and talked easily with the miners.

He grasped their calloused hands and was touched by their unexpected visit.

Prince Philip had protocol by signing autographs.

He amazed a Red Cross worker by recalling a bad report on her daughter—a flower girl—during his 1951 visit to Canada with his wife.

The royal visitor interrupted his honeymoon flight to Canada from Ottawa to visit Springhill. He travelled here from Moncton by car, and later resumed his journey across the Atlantic.

The prince made brief stops at the armory, the Red Cross relief centre set up in the Baptist Church and a Salvation Army lunch tent.

Then he hospital he walked with hands clasped behind his back.

Earlier Friday, the prince was told Levi Milley, the miner who kept spirits high during a six-day entombment by talking about chicken farming.

The 54-year-old miner told the prince how he helped pull a miner to safety by grabbing his leg.

"Is that how he broke his leg?" the prince asked. Every body laughed.

Prince Philip's chill wind the prince walked among the people on the mine grounds without a raincoat. Hamilton, chief of Desco operations, escorted the prince into the mine entrance. He looked down the long shaft leading a mile underground and asked questions.

The crowds that followed the prince through town were usually quiet. Only at the hospital and pithead were there cheers. Mostly the people just waved, Musgrove, principal of Belleville's third secondary school.

Because the success of this future of this program it is hoped that many parents of this year's grade VIII students will be interested persons will take advantage of the opportunity to learn at first hand about this revision of our educational programme.

Vandalism Kept at Minimum As All Enjoy Hallowe'en

Commendation for the youth of Belleville who enjoyed themselves on Hallowe'en as Hallowe'en celebrants should without any show of vandalism, was heard this morning from city police who said vandalism was at an absolute minimum.

Certainly, hundreds of windows, but then maybe exaggerated by the words of police "maybe they needed washing anyway," and the only report of damage so far received was of one school window being broken.

"I must commend the youth of the city in behaving within reason," said Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes. "There was no vandalism, but then maybe extra police on duty had something to do with it."

Residential areas, as well as the downtown section of the city were well covered by the costumed fraternity, who received their customary bagful of apples, likely the last Hallowe'en fare.

A jointly sponsored dances held at the Armouries by the Belleville Police Association and the executive committee of the Belleville Collegiate and Quinte Secondary Schools was the second and undoubtedly kept many of the younger crowd off the streets.

Many of the younger set turned up in costume at the Armouries party, but for the most those in attendance were in formal or semi-formal attire.

City public schools had their Hallowe'en parties on Thursday with Friday being a holiday to allow teachers, to attend a convention.

Friday afternoon girl members of the YMCA held a party at the "Y", while last evening at Albert College the student body had a party in the college.

The Albert College party was attended by students and staff and included a promenade with prizes for the best costumes. Following was the "ghost walk"—the evening being concluded with traditional Hallowe'en refreshments and a dance.

Provincial police reported some more boisterous Hallowe'en celebrants turned over or damaged a number of garbage boxes.

They said the pests apparently had been shoved over by autos.

Start Paving On Parking Lot This Monday

Paving operations on the parking lot at the rear of Front Street stores and south of the footbridge gangway, will commence on Monday with the area to be closed off for at least a week.

City Planning Engineer Charles Mott said the entire area would be graded for proper drainage to the river, then would be covered with one inch of fine crushed stone and then topped with two inches of asphalt.

Later the area will be marked off with white traffic paint to indicate the centers installed.

Paving of the area was approved by city council on recommendation of the city traffic committee headed by Alderman Ross Thompson and the second phase in the committee program for provisions of off-street parking.

Although the area will be closed to the general public during paving operations, delivery trucks with stock for delivery to stores will be allowed in as will city garoage trucks. Merchants will be placed at the two alleyways serving the area with flagmen on duty at all times.

Two small buildings on the river bank will be removed before paving is done and precast curbs will be placed at the river to act as bumpers for parked cars. When completed there will be a parking space for close to 100 cars.

Planning engineer said the parking area would be closed to the public for at least a week, or possibly longer, depending on how the work progresses.

A flash fire, which caused more damage through heat and smoke, than flames, left a family homeless last night when it scorched the interior shown in the above photo. Furniture suffered the worst damage and a budgie bird died in the blaze. It was the home of Bob Gray, 45 Water St., Trenton, and was believed to have started in or behind a chesterfield chair which was near the oil heater. Trenton firemen, under their chief, Cecil Ellis, had the fire out in short order. (Photo by Georgeson.)

Campaign by United Appeal Is Extended Week to Nov. 7 As Returns Slow, Gifts Low

"Well," said Mrs. Jane Forrester, "that gives us another seven days to convert a lot of residents into citizens."

Mrs. Forrester, chairman of the United Appeal here, was conferring with Archie Lewis, campaign chairman, and Louis Maraskas, publicity chairman, after they and other officials had decided to extend the appeal for one week, until Nov. 7.

This extension was necessary because of two major disappointments — tardiness in the receipt of returns and failure of the returns received to measure up to expectations.

If the United Appeal is to succeed in reaching the objective, $85,000, in this, the first year of its operation here, the coming week must see two developments.

An additional effort must be made by canvassers so that every Belleville resident is reached before the campaign closes.

An increased number of these residents must prove that they are real citizens by assuming their share of the responsibility for the work of the nine welfare organizations which will have placed their cheapest fortunes in the hands of the United Appeal.

"I am pleased by the number of people who have made donations in excess of what they gave to the Community Chest in previous years," remarked Mr. Lewis, campaign chairman, "but far too many people are giving just the same amount as in the past or, what is much worse, are not giving at all.

RETURNS TARDY

The tardiness with which returns have been received is revealed by the fact that by Friday afternoon, reports had been received from only 40 per cent of the canvassers. These reports revealed donations or pledges of $37,600, or 40 per cent of the objective of $85,000. First reaction would be that the United Appeal was travelling on schedule in a most satisfactory manner. Unfortunately the figures tell only half the story. The reports received are, in large measure, from the best canvassers, appealing to citizens who had been expected to prove the impetus for a successful drive to reach the quota, in baseball terms "the top of the batting order."

"Of course," observed Mr. Maraskas, "we have had some excellent returns."

"Oh, yes, magnificent ones," agreed Mrs. Forrester.

"Take Ontario Hydro now," said Mr. Lewis, "seventy per cent of the employees giving, with average donations of $20, the highest in the city. Our own Public Utilities Commission employees have done well, too."

"And the Brewers' Warehouse employees, with practically all giving and with payroll deductions ranging from 30 cents a week up", said Mr. Maraskas.

"But - - -", said Mrs. Forrester.

"But - - -", echoed her co-workers.

72 OUT OF 1,000 GIVE

One of the "buts" is provided by a group of 1,000 workers, relatively high paid, who have provided only 72 contributions to the Appeal. Contrasted with this, 41 out of 43 employees of a small local concern, relatively low paid, have contributed. There are three establishments in which all employees have donated.

The results of the payroll deduction division are fair to poor, depending on how one analyses them. Of 75 units in this division, 34 have reported. These cover 2,785 workers and donations have totalled $16,091. This works out to an average of $5.77 per employee, disappointingly low. But the average donation per contributor has been $10, a much more satisfactory figure. The difficulty is that too many people have made no donations at all.

By Friday afternoon the house-to-house canvass had yielded $2,695 which might be considered to be far from disappointing when it is remembered that a large porportion of householders would be covered by other divisions of the Appeal.

MUST REACH ALL

However, Mrs. Forrester, Mr. Lewis and Mr. Maraskas tend to regard this relatively high figure as an indication of failure to reach people under other divisions of the canvass. It had been realized from the first that the average donation was likely to be larger under the payroll deduction plan than from a home call.

While organized labor here was one of the driving forces behind the organization of the Appeal in the first place, and while the managements of most plants have co-operated in heart-warming fashion, this response has not been universal. The Appeal has been unable to approach workers in one large industry and this makes the task of covering every home in the city by the house-to-house canvass doubly important.

The next week will reveal just how many of Belleville's residents are really citizens.

Goblins, Witches on Prowl But No Serious Complaints

TRENTON — Police Chief Jack Taylor reported this morning that his department had received no complaints of any serious pranks during the night when "goblins and witches" were on the prowl.

He said, "things were very quiet and I really think children are becoming more considerate of other persons' property on Hallowe'en."

Extra men were called out for duty during the evening just to be on the safe side but other than the normal soaping of windows, etc., no damage was done.

A mannequin, one which had been apparently taken from the ruins of the Titus Block, was noted hanging over Dundas St. west from a sign in front of the Jewell Beauty Salon and nearly every store window in the business section received the soap treatment. Cars parked on the streets also had their windows "decorated".

Children in their many and varied costumes went from door to door for trick or treat and several of them also carried UNICEF cans.

Several private parties and costume dances were held in town and other organizations will be holding costume dances tonight. Among these will be the Trenton Kiwanis Club which will hold a ladies night and dance in the Batawa Community Hall.

Youngsters Will Have Two Hours Free Skating

TRENTON — Youngsters of Trenton will receive two hours free skating on Saturday afternoon next, November 8, the Canadian Legion Poppy Day, courtesy of the local branch of the Legion.

Branch Chaplain F/L (Rev.) Charles W. Bryce has announced that the Trenton Community Gardens has been engaged from 1 p.m. till 3 p.m. on that afternoon and that all Trenton children wearing a poppy would be admitted free.

The kids will have no difficulty in obtaining a poppy, as these will be distributed, free of charge, of course, to every school in Trenton and Middleton Park, on the previous day, Friday, November 7.

This will continue the practice established last year when several hundred children enjoyed free skating thanks to Branch 110.

Local children will not be deprived of the opportunity of assisting in the poppy day campaign by enjoying the skating as Padre Bryce advises that those who desire to help with the sale of poppies may do so on Saturday morning, November 8, and should report to the Trenton Legion Memorial Hall at 9 a.m. for instructions and directions.

Police Report Record Sale For Hockey Game

TRENTON — Local policemen report a record sale in their tickets to the hockey game tonight between their team and a team made up of members of the Belleville detachments of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The game will be held in the Community Centre in Trenton tonight at 8.30 p.m. and all children under the age of 12 and accompanied by their parents will be admitted free of charge.

Proceeds of the night's activities will go into the policemen's benevolent fund and will be used for Christmas parcels for the needy families of Trenton.

Between periods figure skaters from both Trenton and Belleville will take over to provide added entertainment for the many who are planning to attend the game.

It was reported last night that referees for the night will be Leroy Wannamaker and Jack Wilson of Murphy Street.

Lineups of both teams are somewhat vague and will not be known until before the game starts. However the Trenton police have enlisted the services of at least two "imports." They are Constable Tom Guy of the Brighton OPP and Cpl. A. Eeddie of the Campbellford OPP. They may have two other OPP men coming in from Cobourg.

Trenton police who will be playing, are: Constables C. Schlieger, Larry Mastin, M. Holden, R. E. Miller, F. Nokes, S. Vickers, G. Davis, J. Graham and D. Camp.

Known members of the Belleville Ontario Provincial Police team are: M. Robertson, T. Schreiber, K. Williamson, J. McBride, J. Logue, Dick Lewis, R. Wood, J. Fullerton, and Reg. Rackham.

Admission to the game tonight will be 50 cents for adults.

Family Homeless After Flash Fire On Water Street

TRENTON — A flash fire at the home of Bob Gray, 45 Water Street left one family homeless and forced another to move out last night about 6.30 p.m. A budgie bird was burned in the blaze.

An estimate of the damage was not immediately available but is expected to be several hundreds of dollars. Most of the damage was to the furniture of the living room, where the blaze started, and the kitchen. The wall board was also badly scorched but the flames had not been able to get inside the walls.

There was no one home at the time the fire broke out and when it was noticed by two men the fire department was alerted and had the fire out in a matter of a few minutes, under the direction of acting Fire Chief C. Ellis.

One of the men who discovered the blaze said when the kitchen door was opened the force of the heat which came out threw them back against a tree about 25 yards from the house.

It was believed that because the home was all closed up the fire had partially smothered itself and was unable to make much headway before the firemen arrived.

It was only necessary for the department men to use the booster line to quell the blaze but they were forced to tear off some of the wall board to make sure there was no fire in between the walls.

It is believed the fire started in or behind the chesterfield chair, which was near the oil heater. On arrival at the scene volunteer fireman Bob Mitts grabbed the chair to throw it outside when it burst into flames from its overheated condition — and coming in contact with the air.

Neighbors helped remove the furniture from the rest of the house and out of danger. The home was insured.

Traffic Moving Over North Lane On Town Bridge

TRENTON — This morning work has begun on the south half of the town bridge and traffic is being allowed to pass over the new cement less than 48 hours after the last of it was poured.

Corrugated steel sheets have been placed along the bridge work to prevent traffic from hitting the side of the bridge. They will also act as a protection to pedestrians from getting sprayed with water when they are crossing the bridge at the same time as cars. These steel sheets replace plywood which had been used previously.

Steel rods have been put in which will support the top of the overhead bridgework down through the girders below itself and was unable to make much headway before the firemen arrived.

It was only necessary for the department men to use the booster line to quell the blaze but they were forced to tear off some of the wall board to make sure there was no fire in between the walls.

Pope-Hersey Tubes, Limited, one of Canada's many Canadian-owned and Canadian-founded industries, is doing its part by always BUYING CANADIAN.

Of the many millions of dollars spent by Pope-Hersey Tubes, Limited, in the last year for materials and services, 92% was spent right here in Canada. This is a pretty high percentage having regard to the fact that certain machinery peculiar to our industry and certain of our raw materials are not made in Canada.

Over hundreds of Canadian families rely on Pope-Hersey for jobs. Thousands more Canadians work for Canadian firms that supply Pope-Hersey and thousands more have good jobs all across Canada installing and using Pope-Hersey steel pipe products.

You and your husband work hard to make your home a pleasant place in which to live. You are doing everything you can to give your children a good start in life.

But remember—it all starts with your husband's job. He can only keep that job when other Canadians make sure they buy from him or the company for which he works.

IF JOHNNY CANNOT ADD - SMALL WONDER

One of the textbooks used by Grade 9 students here, and we presume in other Ontario cities, is "Intermediate Mathematics, Book Three."

The book is published by the Copp Clark Publishing Co. Ltd. Five authors are listed, P. A. Petrie of the Ontario College of Education, V. E. Baker of the Lawrence Park Collegiate, Toronto; W. Darbyshire of Jarvis Collegiate, Toronto; J. R. Levitt of Lawrence Park Collegiate, Toronto, and W. B. MacLean of University of Toronto Schools. The book is marked "approved for use in Ontario," presumably by the Ontario Department of Education.

All these "credits," to borrow a TV phrase, instill confidence in the book.

But a look at the other night shook this faith.

Three of the last five problems on Page 202 cannot be solved. The book lists answers for all problems. But for two of the questions there are alternative answers every bit as correct as the ones given.

As we see it, this means that the authors of the text book rescued only 60 per cent on these five questions. We suggest that sixty per cent is not a pass mark for a textbook on mathematics.

Question 25 reads: "The difference between two numbers is 4. A third number is 5 less than the sum of the first two, and the sum of the first and third numbers is 19. Find the numbers which fulfill all these conditions."

The book gives the answers as 5, 9 and 9. Now it is simple to arrive at these numbers if one assumes that the first number is smaller than the second number. But the question does not tell us this is so. It says that the difference between the first two numbers is 4. Since when, in mathematics, has it been permissible to assume that one unknown number is larger that another? If assumptions are to be permitted, it would be just as reasonable to assume that the first number was larger than the second. If we make this assumption, we shall arrive at three other numbers, 7 2/3, 3 2/3 and 9, which fulfill all the conditions of the problem just as fully as do 5, 9 and 9.

Question 27 reads: "Jack fired 16 shots at a target. If a hit counts 3 and an inner counts 1, how many hits did he make if his total score was 38?"

The phrasing may trouble the marksmen. "Since when," he will enquire, "was an inner not considered a hit", and, "a hit counts more than an inner, should 'hit' not read 'bullseye'?"

But let us not quibble over technicalities. Perhaps it is too much to expect mathematicians to understand the customary terms of reference used in connection with the setting in which they have elected to place their problems. Let it suffice if the gem itself be truly a precious one.

This mathematical gem is as phony as a dime diamond.

Not even Einstein would have had a better than 50 per cent chance of arriving at what the authors of the book consider the "correct" number of "hits," eleven.

It is true that Jack could rack up a total score of 38 if eleven of his 16 shots were "hits" and five were "inners."

But it is also true that Jack's score would have been 38 if he scored twelve "hits" and two "inners" and missed the target completely with his other two shots.

Even mathematicians who know nothing about terms used in target shooting should know that it is possible to miss the target entirely and they are more justified in requiring the student to assume that all shots were either "hits" or "inners" than they were in Question 25 in requiring the student to assume that the first number was smaller than the second number.

If any person consider this criticism picayune, more's the pity and the more he is to be pitied.

Pity is indicated, too, for the poor mathematics teacher who is expected to use such a textbook as a tool in the none-too-easy task of instilling in Grade 9 students a love for mathematics as a science, the soul of which is exactitude.

THE INFLUENCE OF WOMAN

By EDGAR A. GUEST

What would be the use of singing songs
If there was no little woman near to hear them?
What would be the use of fighting wrongs
If a little woman ever ceased to fear them?
What would be the use of getting rich;
Oh, what would be the use of winning fame,
If the conquest wasn't really something which Brought glory to a little woman's name?

What would be the use of all the striving,
The turmoil and the heartache and the sight?
Who would bear the goad of ceaseless driving
If it wasn't for the lovelight in her eyes?
If it weren't for a woman's tender glances
Who waits at home with welcome food and true,
If we ever ceased to live our sweet romances,
What would be the use of all we do?

Vienna's Coffee Houses

...City of Vienna News Release...

This year, Vienna celebrates the 275th birthday of the coffee house, that typical Viennese "home-away-from-home" that cradled both "American coffee (with cream and sugar)" and the first public free speech in the western world.

The Viennese used them from the outset as meeting places for friends, as places to conduct business and as family favorite games, to read newspapers and to speak their minds freely. The first coffee house in Vienna began sales to Viennese intimate ly after the first abandonment of the Turkish siege of 1683. Before it was a Viennese house to befriend strangers. Knowing strangers to which coffee house has always been politically and socially important in Vienna. In short, the coffee house has been all things to all men (ladies penetrated relatively late in the story.)

Neither the intoxication of coffee to the west, nor the founding of the first coffee house is strictly attributed to a Viennese, but the Viennese popularized coffee in their own particular way and it became a favored beverage of the western world. They have been during this variety the world now calls "American coffee" consumed in such coffee houses in America.

As for the founding of the first coffee house in Vienna, it was an amusing result of the deliverance of the Occident from the Turkish menace.

The worlds met and did battle then as now, along the Danube. Unlike now, they also traded briskly. The east-west war occupied much of the seventeenth century and trade continued throughout. One Franz Kolschitzky (a Slavonic version of whose name was more complicated), a Polish-Ukrainian ancestry, had for years been a skilled interpreter for one of the trading companies. He spoke all Turkish habits and language, he was employed there during the second siege of Vienna. If the city's key to Europe, were to fall, legend has it, so was the Sultan's. The city walls had been breached by the Turkish artillery and dragging its feet. They must be informed of the immediate emergency. Kolschitzky volunteered, what had been considered the impossible. He reached the enemy camp the city. Legend says he swam the wide treacherous Danube. He reached the enemy camp and relief army under Duke Karl von Lothringen, who broke the march into a dash and saved Vienna.

A grateful city made Kolschitzky an honorary citizen, bought him a brand new house as a reward. He asked for and was given the sacks of green beans found piled everywhere in the abandoned Turkish camps. Viennese had thought them camel fodder — useless. Kolschitzky said t h e y were beautiful for use after being roasted coffee and could be ground with a pestle and mortar. It was good to drink. The Viennese found this "soup bitter and not to their taste." By accident Kolschitzky discovered what happens to coffee when cream and sugar are added. Thus was born "American" coffee. The Viennese began to drink it by the gallon and later added whipped cream to the concoction. Viennese coffee is t h e now famous "cafe mit schlag."

Kolschitzky, dressed in sumptuous Turkish attire, assisted by his beautiful wife, Ursula, served coffee to the greatest heroes of h i s time, calling them "brothers" in my heart. They included Prince Lobkowitz, victor of the Turkish wars, and the indomitable Prince Eugene of Savoy, who finally delivered Vienna and Belgrade and is called "The greatest mercenary general of all time. At Kolschitzkys the atmosphere was intimate, the talk was free — and the coffee became famous.

Seventeenth century memoirs remark with amazement that in the Vienna coffee houses the Austrian government, its ministers, the life and politics of the empire, were freely criticized. In the mid-nineteenth century, revolution as well as forty Kinds of coffee was brewed in them — right under the noses of Metternichs secret police. It was easy to k e e p them in the dark for, then as now, everyone knows everyone else and strangers are quickly spotted in the coffee houses. If is probable that no planned plot was formed anything not meant for his ears but Metternich was the thriving free speech of the Vienna coffee houses has been an inspiration to the world.

Long before the press became free the Viennese coffee houses and those coffee houses which supplied them with newspapers. When the press was gagged, the coffee house industry, as avalanche of foreign and domestic newspapers poured into the coffee houses. They still supply free reading to their patrons. They also provide chess boards and dominoes. Cards were popular before gambling. Once it was whist, now its bridge and pinnata. Scrabble has also appeared.

The coffee house became specialized very early. Socialists patronized one, musicians another and so forth. The actors and theirs as an agents office. The Silberner Kaffee Haus became boards and dominoes. Cards were popular before gambling. Once it was whist, now its bridge and pinnata. Scrabble has also appeared.

During the occupation, there were coffee houses frequented chiefly by spies and by the secret let operators, but the institution has outlasted even that and has weathered the shortages of those difficult days. With its marble tables, its deft waiters, its glass topped with spoons, its pastry and with newspapers and easy chairs it is currently fighting the competition of the Espresso, and will probably win out. Vienna likes leisurely ways, friendship, free speech and the right to be what be they "American or "Viennese. Today there are about eight hundred coffee houses, complaining in the Viennese manner, but all survivals, all offering a distinctive bit of Vienna life to visitors.

REGARDING TEMPTATION

We hear a great deal about the necessity of resisting temptation.

Many a time temptation assails us and it must be resisted and overcome. But most of the time temptation is best dealt with not by fighting it, but by running from it, not by resisting it but by fleeing it. Joseph was sorely tempted Satan. He did not gird up his loins and make ready for contest. His words were, "Get thee behind me, Satan."

The Bible does not say, "Fight, youthful lusts." Instead it says, "Flee youthful lusts." Aggression has to be resisted with force. Smallpox has to be fought with vaccination. It has to be resisted with a vaccine.

But the best way to handle moral temptation is to get away from it. Now this is precisely the thing most people do not want to do. They like the fascination of temptation. They go on flirting and toying with it. The Bible from beginning to end says that if you want to avoid a temptation you Don't take a chance by attempting to fight it. The only people are that you are only half-hearted in your resistance anyway.

When the temptation comes toward you, get going. Choose companions who will help you overcome it. Remember the temptation will not be so prevalent. Stay away from places and from evil-doing companions. Switch to a new "dale."

Flee temptation. This is the surest, easiest, and most effective way of dealing with it.

"Like this job better than delivering ice, Joe?"

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

JUST BE PLEASANT

You don't have to graduate from anything in order to practice the art of being pleasant. I met Mrs. Cudlip the other day in the late E. W. Howe, famous Kansas editor. She always urged people to be pleasant. Certainly a most worthy occupation.

Pleasantness covers up a multitude of neglects, petty faults, and misunderstandings and mistakes. Pleasantness seeks out the soul of a person and silently communes with that one. People who are pleasant create an aroma of good will and encouragement about them. People like to meet such folks and introduce them to others.

It's the small acts of thoughtfulness that register as large in the world. Business people like to do business with pleasant people. They also know the value of pleasant workers in an office and especially of the salesmen as they send out. We all know how pleasant it is for us to buy from pleasant clerks. Proprietors recommend them out and themselves learn the value of pleasantness.

Business like a small matter to dwell on the value of, so common a thing as mere pleasantness but little things are forever mounting into big things! Just imagine the power there would be in the world if we all sought to demonstrate pleasantness in our home our business and no matter where we might move about, it often seem to me that pleasantness is the very important thing to practise and advise. Nothing at least it does and that is it lights up the path wherever it is practised.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There was a government leaflet issued lately with regard to civil defence and what the householder should keep on hand in case of disaster and evacuation from city and town. I showed a copy to my guide on a recent hunting trip, and he read it with consternation.

"Look," he said, "if there's set explosion, you got up here as fast as you can, and I look after you."

What fills him with dismay about cities and towns is our complete dependence upon electricity, gasoline, fuel oil and supermarkets.

"Why," he says, "in two days all the food in town would be gone. You live from hand to mouth in cities. One bang and you're done for. If you haven't a button to push, a switch to twitch, if you can't telephone to somebody to deliver something to you, where are you?"

He lit his pipe with my civil defence leaflet, ignited at the camp fire.

"If you have to read something," he said, "there's two books my sporty friends h a v e with them. Peterson's guide and another, and I go along with both of them. Horace Kephart's "Camping and Woodcraft," and Paul Provencher's "I Live In the Woods." He's a Canadian. Tough our Commando boys how to survive in the bush. You can read them and get your kids to read them. Then you can keep alive t o n g without the comforts of home. After that you'll look after you."

I shook hands with him. It's a deal.

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WOMAN'S CASE OF NERVES TREATED BY PSYCHIATRIST

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am writing in regard to Mrs. X's letter, I, too, had a case of nerves and went to my family doctor for a year and a half.

"He tried by talking to me and giving me tranquilizers. He was very nice but I myself just kept feeling worse. My symptoms were exactly as stated in her letter, plus more. I was frightened by it all. I prayed every day to feel better.

"Our doctor finally suggested that I visit a psychiatrist. I went to one, through one of the clinics, and had five visits. He would talk to me and give me mild sedatives to take as I needed.

"After the fifth visit he discharged me. I am just about over my symptoms and feeling happier and healthier than I have felt in about two years. My husband is pleased that he has his girl back again.

"I am grateful to our family doctor, but I recommend the psychiatrist for helping me. If I ever get sick again, he said don't hesitate to call. I am glad I went. — Mrs. R."

The above is the kind of letter that I hope — and believe — will come more frequent as time goes on.

There aren't enough psychiatrists, yet, for all the work that needs doing.

Neither is there enough understanding even of the principle that psychiatric treatment needs special attention in the process.

IT DEPENDS ON PROBLEM

That depends, of course on what type of problem is involved. Psychiatric treatment can vary as widely in its duration as physical problems — lancing a boil is done in minutes, but curing tuberculosis may take months or a year or sometimes more.

It seems to me that Mrs. R's letter really well speaks for itself. Also, she went at things the right way, by asking her family doctor in everyone who has a case of nerves — to refer her to a psychiatrist. There aren't, as I said, enough psychiatrists.

When your own physician feels you need psychiatric help in overcoming your anxiety or ing other emotional problem, then by all means try to get that help quickly.

Because of the comparative scarcity of psychiatrists, I think it need to be careful and not urge an indiscriminate rush. Yet Mrs. R's letter is evidence that many times a little help from a will do a great deal of good, and psychiatry is something we must consider in everyday life, not just when a problem has gotten completely out of hand and become a psychosis.

I've had at least two or three letters from readers who, after long bouts of "nerves," went to their doctors and received treatment for upset thyroid glands. Their improvement was startling.

This column has often stressed the importance of checking up on the thyroid. It is important. It is not, however ,the only cause of excess nervousness, and that is one more reason why you should undergo a thorough regular physician before asking for psychiatric help. You must find the cause of your trouble before you can expect treatment to do any good.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a red discharge which occurs every 28 days, alternates between my menstrual periods. Is this normal? My periods are not regular. — B.H."

Depending on your age, this might or might not be normal, but in either event it deserves investigation. A D. and C. (dilatation and curettage) may be necessary to determine if there is improper uterine formation in the uterus. Fibroids may be present. See your doctor.

"Dear Doctor: Even having several X-rays each time, they total up to only 1/10 the amount of exposure with modern X-ray equipment, so you should have no worries on that score. It is entirely to be expected that you would be told of the discovery that rheumatic heart, valve.

"Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation?" To make sure that you are getting the exclusive proper food, write to me in care of this newspaper for my pamphlet, "Vitamins — Alphabet Of Health," enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Post Office Found Him

West German Bulletin

A German-born U.S. soldier now stationed at Hanau, his native town, was recently presented an award by the Post Office Department of Canada.

In 1954, Wilfred Reisch, who had emigrated to Canada, helped police to catch a thief whom he had seen running out of a post office with a bag in his hand. After the successful chase was over Reisch gave the police his name and address. In the next three years he went to United States, became a soldier, and was shipped to Germany and stationed at Hanau, where his parents still live.

How the Canadian postal authorities found him to the U.S. and back to Germany is still a mystery. The postage man, who is nonetheless delighted with the silver cigaret case with the inscription of appreciation presented him recently at Hanau.

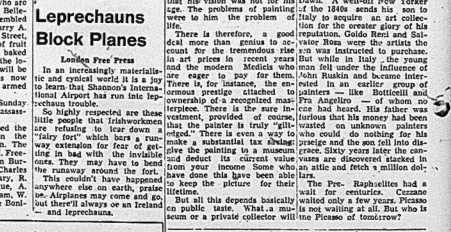
Leprechauns Block Planes

London Free Press

In an increasingly materialistic and cynical world it is a joy to learn that Shannon's International Airport has run into leprechaun trouble.

So highly respected are these little people that airport officials are refusing to tear down a "fairy fort" which bars a runway extension for fear of getting in bad with the invisible ones. They may have to move the runaway around the fort.

This couldn't have happened anywhere else on earth, we suppose. Airplanes may come and go, but there'll always be an Ireland — and leprechauns.



What Fixes Price of Art?

New York Herald Tribune

To pay for a picture hinges generally on the demand to see it. Value depends on demand. Thirty years ago, it was Gainsborough and Reynolds and Romney and Rembrandt survives as always, although virtually all of his best pictures have disappeared from the market. But, in a sense, a triumph for art is what would now sets the highest value on the master of modern art.

However, the admission of the genius of the painter who has produced something entirely a little more than fifty years ago is not the only determining significant. That genius has long been recognized. Moreover, Cezanne understood with Keith Vincent Smith Dawn." A well-off New Yorker of the 1840s could not afford to wasted on unknown painters who could do nothing for his prestige and the son fell into disgrace. Sixty years later the canvases of Cezanne crowded into an attic and fetch s million dollars.

The Pre- Raphaelites had a rich run for centuries. Cezanne waited only a few years. Picasso is not waiting at all. But who is the Picasso of tomorrow?

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

CHANGE OF HABITAT

Although the birds are as y e t unaware of it, now is the time when their next spring's nesting site may be decided for them, because autumn is the season when the most drastic changes are made on the land by man: trees are cut down, land burned over, bushes pruned, fields plowed. All this means a change, of habitat for birds; it is a matter of moving to a district that suits the needs of the particular species. Nature comes into this picture too, but her progress is very gradual: the abandoned pasture slowly becomes overgrown with weeds, bushes and seedlings follow, the next stage is bigger trees, and finally we have very large trees forming a canopy which shuts out the sun so that no other vegetation is possible.

This accounts for the fact that the bird life in any particular area is constantly changing. The meadowlark must move before the pasture has been allowed to turn into woodland, but the reduced vireo is glad to take over th territory once clumps of young trees and low bushes are growing there. When the trees become so large that they overshadow all else, the very gives up its woodland home to the ovenbird.

TIME ALTERS LIFE

It is interesting to note how time has altered bird life. Somewhat more than 100 years ago Audubon found only one chestnut-sided warbler. Now, this is one of our really abundant birds, because its preferred habitat is the brushy condition that follows abundant farmlands or the first growth after forests have been cut down. Almost the same thing may be said about the Tennessee warbler.

Burned over areas suit the mourning warbler, increasing the number of this species; the substitution of wire fences for the old log type with their knot holes is one cause of the decrease of bluebirds. Some species, however, seem to be able to overcome difficulties by changing their own ways of life, or, as in the case of a very few, adding new ways to old. The Nashville warbler is an excellent example of this last select group. It is loath to give up its home amidst low vegetation and young trees until forced out when the district has actually returned to forest.

The blackbird, the cowbird, a n d the meadowlark are among t h e birds that have benefited most by settlement of the country. But unless man makes a great effort to preserve the whooping crane, very soon it will vanish like the passenger pigeon.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Honoring St. Charles Borromeo

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Tuesday, Nov. 4 — Last week we were discussing Martin Luther and the Reformation that violent upheaval that rocked all western Christendom in the early part of the 16th century. Today, Nov. 4, the man Catholics honors the man who did more than any other one person to help the church weather this storm.

St. Charles Borromeo, nephew of Pope Pius IV, saw the need for reform perhaps as much as Luther did, but he believed in working within the church rather than attacking it publicly.

Charles was studying to be a priest but had advanced only as far as deacon's orders when his uncle called him to Rome, made him a Cardinal and appointed him Papal Secretary of State. He was only 22 at the time. Family connection must, of course, have had something to do with this rapid rise, but there can be no question about the young man's qualifications for his lofty position. He became the masterful leader in the spirit of the Counter Reformation.

The Council of Trent was the great deliberative body of the Counter Reformation and it was Charles Borromeo who held this Council together and kept it on the job many times when it was on the point of breaking up with its work unfinished.

It was not until 1563 that the young Cardinal, then 25, was ordained priest. Within two months after his ordination he was made Archbishop of Milan, but he had no opportunity to take charge of his diocese until 1566, when h i s uncle, the Pope, died.

Valuable as his contribution s a Secretary of State and as priest, as a bishop that brought out his saintliness. He set out to be a model bishop. Within one month he reorganized the spiritual life of his clergy. He tore down hard on the ignorance and corruption that beset the church in those times. Simony, named after Simon the theater, and all kinds of public entertainment. This did not make him popular with the clergy or with the civil authorities. There was even one attempt to assassinate him.

But the people loved him, for he was a great pastor, concerned for the humblest members of his flock. He exercised a direct personal ministry to the people of his diocese, traveling constantly even to the remotest villages. This was reform in its deepest sense, for the diocese had not had a bishop in residence at all for 80 years. If still bishops had been like St. Charles Borromeo, Luther would have had little objection.

Friday, Nov. 7 — The three-fold program — prayer, study, and action — of United Church Women reaches its annual dramatic climax today as 10 million American Protestant women gather in churches across the land for a service of rededication. This is World Community Day, and the women are pledged to do all they can to make this scattered world into a community.

Today they will centre their thoughts, prayers, and enemies around this 1958 theme: "Exchange: Goods, Ideas, People." Certainly it is such exchange that develops the understanding and relationships that ultimately break down unnatural barriers between diverse peoples and bring them a sense of the oneness of all mankind.

One happy practical result of World Day community comes from the offering that is received at the service. This year the offering will make it possible for the women to send a "Woman's Interest Officer" to the South Pacific Islands. This woman, skilled in adult education, will work with the women of these islands, many of whom are only now emerging from a primitive, almost Stone Age culture.

Specifically, United C h u r c h Women will pledge themselves today to do all they can to help in the exchange of goods through improved world trade and the exchange of ideas to bring about an enlightened awareness of the reasons for cultural differences.

World Community Day has been observed since 1945.

The Bible Today

In a report to the recent Lambeth Conference of Bishops of the Anglican Communion, Dr. N. J. Cockburn stated, "In the past the Bible Society has provided the Scriptures as the evangelistic instrument of the Christian Missions in the west, which have taken the Gospel to the ends of the earth during the last one hundred and fifty years."

These Missions have created all over the world the so-called younger churches. In the future these younger churches might themselves, as evangelizing bodies, be the main distributors of Scriptures. Nonetheless, viewed in terms of practical possibilities, they will necessarily require the continuance of the greatest historic Bible Societies, of which the British and Foreign Bible Society is the mother.

The British and Foreign Bible Society will continue the maintenance of translation work viewed with world rather than local perspective, and production of Scriptures perfected by a century-and-a-half of practical experience with which to maintain the work of evangelistic distribution.

Women's S.G. Hears Talk on Child's Ability

Grouping of children in the schools according to ability under the topic heading of "Natural Ability and Intelligence Tests" was the subject discussed at the Women's Study Guild last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. A. Buchanan. This topic is of interest to parents everywhere was introduced by Mrs. C. Powell, who defined natural ability and the supporting factors.

Natural ability or intelligence is composed of many traits such as habit, heredity and environment. All these factors are equally important but utilizing the study of these points was not made in the schools until the development of tests for school children by Dr. Binet starting in 1907.

In Belleville schools intelligence tests are used in part out the various levels of natural ability, starting at the kindergarten age. Mrs. Wanda Sine discussed the work actually being done and although special facilities are not yet available for extremely bright or children of a lower level of intelligence, every attempt is being made to advance the child according to his or her ability.

FIRST TESTS

The first tests are used to determine the child's readiness to learn to read, and this is based on an I.Q. level. Three groupings are made and each group progresses at its own rate. The tests are an invaluable guide for the teacher in judging the child's progress according to his natural ability.

A second set of tests, different from those used at the kindergarten level, is made while the child is in grade 3. This, then gives a more detailed analysis of the child's ability or natural intelligence. The program of intelligence tests is being expanded using Scientific Research Association Tests, which will be carried into Secondary schools.

One point stressed by Mrs. Sine was the advisability of all such tests being given by the same person, in order to have accurate results. A demonstration of the tests used some years ago completed this portion of the program.

FINANCIAL DIFFICULTY

Many of the brighter students are not going on to universities and conversely, many students lacking in ability or I.Q. are spending time at universities merely because the financial opportunity is there. This problem was discussed by the group under the leadership of Mrs. G. Maybee. It was agreed that the use of these various intelligence tests throughout the school years would forecast with quite a high degree of accuracy the success or failure of a student wishing to go on and take further education.

Mrs. A. Archibald led the devotional at the start of this meeting, combining a Bible reading with the messages that no matter what one's individual ability was, there was a place for each in the Christian world.

A spirited discussion continued with the serving of tea by Mrs. A. Archibald and Mrs. G. Wishart hostesses for the evening.

Successful Tea, Bazaar Held at Rossmore

A small, but pretty autumn tea and bazaar was held Wednesday afternoon in the Sunday School room of Rossmore United Church, under the auspices of the W.A.

Mrs. Charles Reddick and Mrs. Nelle Ajrea received at the door, while Mrs. Vera Clapp assisted by Mrs. Ellen Anderson, Mrs. Pearl Ruperi, Mrs. Cecilia Hoole, and Mrs. Laurel Cerow, convened the tea room.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Margaret Rooke from a damask covered table centred by autumn tinted chrysanthemums vases of similar flowers adorned the room.

The several booths, with their enticing articles, drew many patrons. The "Touch and Take" with its various wrapped parcels was well patronized, under the convenership of Mrs. Hilda Biddee, as were the homecooking booth in charge of Mrs. Wilma Reddick and the candy booth in charge of Mrs. Jessie Fraser. The fancy work and novelties were convened by Mrs. Florence Hamlitt, assisted by Mrs. Anne Hoosier, and the apron booth by Mrs. Grace Belnap.

The brisk turnover was most gratifying as were the receipts.

These Tips May Come in Handy If You Intend Buying New Car

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Now that those flashy '59s have caught your eye, you're probably asking yourself whether you ought to buy a new car now.

The final answer will undoubtedly rest with your pocket book but if (a) your car has 45,000 or more miles on it and or is at least three model years old, and (b) — more important — you're planning a trip this winter, it's well worth considering. Here's why:

Your car's present vintage and mileage may not count very heavily against you on your trade-in value, but another year and 10,000 miles probably will. Many dealers make a policy of wholesaling or selling at auction cars in this bracket, which means they get considerably less for them than by selling them retail on their own lots.

Many dealers are anxious to get off to a good start with their new models and are offering favorable deals now. Moreover, with a wide choice of 1959 models still comparatively scarce, your old car may be worth practically as much now as it was during the '58 model year.

While new cars may be harder for dealers to sell come winter, enough of them will be available so that your old job will take its inevitable dip in value by then. And by spring, when the new car market turns up again, it will be even tougher on you.

Since you can probably do as well as or better now than later, there is as well less the benefit of owning your new car for a full model year. It will be worth as much when you sell it as it would be if you bought it six or eight months later.

WINTER REPAIRS

If you're planning to hit the road, the winter is when you are most likely to get hit with the expensive repairs that usually befall cars approaching the three-year, half-a-hundred thousand mile mark. Many breakdowns are brought on by highway stresses.

Worn-out tires, automatic transmissions, brake linings, battery starter, generator, water pump, fuel pump and other auto components of mechanical middle age could add up to enough in replacement and repair costs every year to make worthwhile, if not entirely pay for, a new car.

At least, you may not pay to wait out another year's depreciation while you find out.

It has been pointed out that the longer you keep a car, the less it depreciates each year and hence the less your cost a year averages out when you do trade.

But repair bills detract from this apparently advantageous situation; and the replacement cost of a thoroughly worn-out car, since the dealer can't resell it for much — is likely to be staggering. You're sure to get something the day of reckoning.

How to get a car at the best price? In the past buyers could be, and were, misled by huge discrepancies which merely represented discounts from artificially inflated prices, and it was difficult for the buyer to determine what a fair price was. Those days are gone forever, for the dealer could afford to discount about 25 per cent, then tried to buy a car for the cash difference between the discount figure and the retail value of their old cars.

DETERMINING DISCOUNT

To find out what kind of discount you can get, ask for the dealer's best price without a trade-in. The retail value of your old car can be determined from a dealer ads in the paper. Then try to do business for that cash difference.

Unless your car is in tip-top shape, you'll rarely get a full retail allowance on it, and you can't really blame the dealer. He is in the business of buying cars wholesale and selling them retail for a profit, and if he is reliable he is bound to spend some money putting your old car in saleable shape.

The alternative is to sell your car privately for its full value and buy the new one at the discount price. This isn't as easy as it sounds. Most potential buyers have a trade-in to unload themselves, and many prefer a car that has been serviced and guaranteed by a reliable dealer. Some, however, set greater store by knowing who the previous owner was so they can size up the care the car got from him."

A couple of added tips:

Don't expect appreciable, if any, discounts on foreign cars. Import duties on these are so high that dealers would price themselves out of competition if they worked on too big a markup.

Don't be overly tempted by low-priced stripped-down models. These depreciate more steeply than well-equipped cars, largely because a bigger percentage of their price is in items not shipped with cars.

Ironically, you can't expect to get your money back on accessories; only part of their cost will be reflected in the car's eventual resale value. But the total percentage of depreciation will be less than on a stripped car and the car itself will be more saleable if it's equipped.

With all these tips, perhaps you can save enough to pay for that trip this winter.

H-S Aims Outlined at Recent Meeting

The first meeting of the year, of Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association was held on Wednesday evening in Prince Charles School. Mrs. W. Ironside was at the piano. Mr. W. A. Lowen, principal welcomed the Belleville parents and teachers to the meeting.

Mr. Lowen spoke briefly on the activities and aims of H.—S. pointing out that this year the accen, was on education; and the slogan "Nothing is too good for the child."

Mr. C. Rickards gave the secretary's report, and in the absence of Mr. G. Lee, he gave the treasurer's report.

AWARD DISCONTINUED

It was announced that the banner award system was being discontinued this year: that the open house meeting would be in December instead of January.

The new principals, Mr. L. McQuade of Queen Mary's and Mr. J. E. Bateman, of Prince Charles School, were introduced by Mr. Lowen. They in turn introduced the members of their staffs Mr. Bateman spoke a few words on the present teaching methods, and mentioned that this year 11 public schools in Ontario were introducing French into the classes.

Mrs. Wanda Sine, primary supervisor of Belleville, was introduced by Mrs. P. Till, Mrs. Sine explained the Unit system as used in the primary classes, under the following headings. The discipline or needs of introducing the system and how to become aware of them; how establish goals; carrying out of plans.

On behalf of these present, Mrs. A. Burley thanked Mrs. Sine. A question period followed.

Another question and answer period was directed to the principals.

It was announced that meetings, in the future, will be held the last Wednesday of each month.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by Mrs. L. Burfoot and her committee.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Garnered from here and there: It appears that in spite of new discoveries of oil and coal, the world's supply of these two commodities is dwindling fast enough to create concern in the minds of scientists. We are continually being told of the great potential source of energy to be found in atomic energy, but that is a long way off. Less heard of experiments are being conducted to discover sources of energy in the more readily available sources such as the direct solar radiation and the energy of the wind and waves, for industrial, domestic and agricultural purposes. Strange as it may seem, solar energy is not exactly a new idea. In 1804 a parabolold mirror was used in Paris to print a newspaper by means of solar energy alone. About 1870 the French scientist built a solar furnace using huge lenses mounted on a carriage. In 1904 to 1913, a 20-horsepower "sun engine" was used in Egypt to irrigate 1,000 acres. The late Experiments are proceeding all over the world in the hope that deserts like the Sahara, to turn them into productive acres. In Belleville recently we were advised to gaze into the heavens at a certain time to catch a glimpse of a sputnik. T & T looked but unsuccessfully. However, the batteries in these sputniks are being charged solely by solar energy. Can't you just hear a serious scientist saying wryly "a housewife should stick to her cooking!"

It is a natural reaction to think of the contribution being made by women in today's world wide tension and unrest. We think of child welfare, of nursing, of the humanitarian fields of endeavor. That is true and it is a tribute, but women are also working in wide fields, maybe more mundane fields. A Canadian, Vance A. Gray, was asked to advise the authorities in Israel on office management and organization. In her own words she writes, "in particular, I was to advise the government of Israel on the organization and equipment of its offices and to direct a training program for the supervisory personnel of the Israeli Civil Service." She left Ottawa in 1954 as an office management adviser under the United Nations Technical Assistance Administration. One comment she made bears repetition. The local word of greeting is 'Shalom', which in English is 'peace'. The word is repeated countless times every day by the people. I wish it in my heart for them."

Glancing through a New York paper this week, T & T's eye was caught by a good sized ad announcing the opening of a new show in the big city. We read through the ad and nowhere could be seen the word Canada or Canadian. It is a Canadian production from the Crest Theatre in Toronto, and the names of actors and directors are familiar to Canadians, whether they are theatre lovers or 'hi fans'. The original English production enjoyed a favorable reception in London.

A little bit of chauvinism crept into our thinking. Fortunately it was short lived. In New York last August, your reporter was talking with a publisher who admonished us for thinking false thoughts. He told us not to blame the Russians if we feel overwhelmed. He is a Canadian, so he wasn't speaking from prejudice or foreign pride. The gist of his comment was that it is nearly time we shed our inferiority complex. He produced examples to prove his contention. Why he asked does every fly-by-night aspirant in almost any field claim that he is the best exports some American he can't be successful. He said, again and again, don't blame the Americans. It is, in his opinion, about time for us to grow up and create success because we are Canadian and not because we copy somebody else. He thinks the Americans would have more respect for us if we had more faith in ourselves. He advises us to dare to be original instead of trying to humble ourselves out of contention or competition. We remember well, T & T was told a few years ago by a well-known editor of a Canadian woman's journal that Canadian magazines couldn't afford to be Canadian on account of American competition. T & T doesn't think that we can blame the Americans for our lack of faith and confidence in ourselves. We wonder why not a word was mentioned to identify this company as being Canadian. Was it intentional? Did the thought of being Canadian detract in some way from the value of the quality?

T & T doesn't believe for a moment that Canadians lack faith in themselves. It is just a handful of experts who, without original substance of their own, believe that following wherever the American trend leads is the way to success. We leave the thought with you for this week-end. We'll be glad to introduce the goods, like the Canadian National Ballet Company that is proudly winning acclaim as far south as Mexico.

Dr. Stobie Addresses W.G. on Cancer

The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild in Belleville met in the church with Mrs. Hugh McKay presiding.

Miss McIntosh read the Scripture.

The business meeting followed.

Mrs. Tounsley gave the treasurer's report and the bazaar in November was discussed.

The Lenten program had charge of the program.

Mrs. Darvall introduced Dr. George Stobie, Belleville surgeon. Dr. Stobie is the president of the Cancer Organization in Belleville. He spoke on Cancer and stated the Cancer Society is a new unit in Belleville, formed by doctors and laymen.

He gave the purposes of this society, which are three-fold: Primarily it is to educate for cancer signs, treatments and research; it is to organize women's service division for making of dressings, distribution of these to patients, to make calls and to do errands for these patients and to gather money for local use for Canadian Cancer Fund and for research.

Dr. Stobie followed a film on research called "Outlaw Within," and answered questions asked by the ladies.

Mrs. Reed thanked Dr. Stobie. Refreshments were served by the Welcome group.

...tories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"PRAISE YE THE LORD, THE ALMIGHTY, THE KING OF CREATION"

Praise ye the Lord, the Almighty,
the King of creation!
O my soul, praise Him, for He is thy health and salvation!
All ye who hear, Now to His temple draw near,
Join me in glad adoration!

Praise ye the Lord, who o'er all things so wondrously reigneth,
Shelters thee under His wings,
yea, so gently sustaineth!
Hast thou not seen How they desires e'er have been Granted in what He ordaineth?

Praise ye the Lord! O let all that is in me adore Him!
All that hath life and breath,
come now with praises before Him!
Let the Amen Sound from His people again:
Hallelujah, for aye we adore Him.

This hymn of praise was written over three centuries ago but it is still in wide use wherever Christians gather for worship. Its author was Joachim Neander, a German churchman and scholar, who was living at Dusseldorf at the time of its writing.

The hymn, turned out about 1675, was inspired by two Bible passages, Psalm 103 and Psalm 150. Written in German as were about 60 of Neander's other hymns, it was translated nearly two centuries later by Catherine Winkworth, a London-born scholar and two world-wide renown for her work with German hymns. Her translations made available to English-speaking Christians a host of precious songs including such hymn-prizes as "Light and Light, Enlighten Me" by Benjamin Schmolck, the Rev. Paul Gerhardt's "All My Heart This Night Rejoices", and the Rev. Martin Rinkart's "Now Thank We All Our God".

As a youth, Joachim Neander had little interest in the church and in religion. He was invested by the pastor of St. Martin's Church at Bremen, where he lived for most of his life, and later became associated with the school of Martin for a brief and troubled ministry. He was interested in literature and music, wrote some 60 hymns and many hymn tunes, and was known as "the first poet of the Reformed Church in Germany".

"Lobe den Herren", the tune for his hymn of praise, made its first appearance in the "Stralsund Gesangbuch" in 1665. Fifteen years later, it was selected by Neander himself as the tune to which his hymn should be sung.

A Lift for Living

Possess the Key of Knowledge

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

It requires no great courage for a speaker to stand before a microphone or in a pulpit and denounce sins in general. But it does take real courage to look individual persons in the face and tell them their specific faults. And it is doubly difficult to do this when you are sitting at table as fellow guests in the same house. Yet that is the situation in which Jesus spoke the words which follow. He had been invited to dine in the home of a Pharisee. After listening and watching for a time, Jesus turned and said to those at the table with Him, "Woe unto you, lawyers! For "ye have taken away the key of knowledge; ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hindered."

It is a bit hard for us in our day to realize the precise relationship between Jesus and the Pharisees and scribes. After 19 centuries of preaching, the word Pharisee has come to suggest a pious smirking hypocrite and the word scribe has come to connote a pettifogger haggling over dry details. But we must remember that in Jesus' day the scribes and Pharisees were the leading citizens of Palestine, looked up to as the style-setters of the community. To appreciate the occasion of our text, we should have to think of it as if a celebrated speaker came to one of our cities and a prominent citizen invited the leaders of the community to dine with him. Whereupon the guest of honor turned to the group and said, "Woe unto you leaders, for ye have taken away the key of knowledge."

Such would be the correspondingly contemporary situation. And yet it is still hard for our so-called "best people" to think of themselves as corresponding to the Pharisees, for the Pharisees were hypocrites who paraded their piety. They made long prayers in public. And that kind of pretentious piety is one thing we modern men pride ourselves in not displaying. We boast that we do not pretend to be better than we are. That is why some of us do not go to church. We say that at least we will be sincere. Since we are sinners, we seem to think it a virtue not to appear religious. Ah, yes, whatever we are, we will not be pious hypocrites. So we feel superior to the ancient Pharisee somewhat as the ancient Pharisee felt superior to the publican and we say, "I thank thee, Lord, I am not as the Pharisees, pious, pretentious hypocrites."

But wait a minute! In this boasting of being better than the Pharisees, we are manifesting the very sin which poisoned their spirit. That sin was pride. When Jesus said to the Pharisees and scribes, "Ye have taken away the key of knowledge," I believe he was condemning first of all their pride.

Yet still with us are pride of race, pride of class, pride of training — the same old sins which caused the Pharisees to row away the key to Christ's kingdom of truth and brotherhood. If we are to possess the key of knowledge, we must be humble enough to sit down before the facts with open mind, humble enough to acknowledge our sins, humble enough to be fair toward new ideas, however lowly their source, humble enough to desire the truth however it may affect our position, humble enough to wait to save our souls rather than to save our faces. And how is such humility to be attained? Well, it must be learned in our most intimate circles and in our daily lives. Saint Francis of Assisi had a very practical way of keeping himself humble. We are told that whenever anyone said anything in praise of him, he immediately sought out a fellow monk and asked him to point out his faults. Of course, if Saint Francis had been married he could have had this useful service delivered at home! And seriously, that is one useful service which the home renders us. Home is the place where honest love pulls us to our knees when we think too highly of ourselves and also lifts us up when we are down.

If we are to open the doors which close the passage between nations, we of the proud white race and strong nations like the United States and Canada must recover the key of knowledge which Christ said the Pharisees had thrown away.

Last summer when I saw how 30 million Japanese with their industry and ingenuity make a living in a land about the size of California, I felt that we of the west could learn something from the east.

A wise friend once said, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth after the proud have lost it."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mary S. — He said he'd be home to her.

Tom S. — I can't help feeling more for my own son.

Mary S. — I am 19 and have been married two years. I have two babies — one by my husband and the other born out of wedlock just before I met my husband.

I didn't hide anything about my past when I got married. My husband knew about the baby and said he would be a father to her. But now that we are married he seems to resent this child. He shows favoritism toward his own son and constantly blame me for spending time with my daughter.

Tom wants me to give my daughter out for adoption. But I hate to do that because I love the baby and was brought up by foster parents myself. I always felt that parents should bring up their own children, even if it's hard.

Tom S. — It's true that I said that I'd be a father to Mary's baby, but I couldn't tell then how I'd feel and she'd act. I can't help feeling more for my own son than for the girl. Mary watches me all the time and if she sees that I hold the boy for maybe one more second than the girl, she'll come down on me like a ton of bricks.

We have been having a lot of fights about this and the little girl is getting old enough to understand. It will be worse for her when she gets older.

I do have some affection for the little girl and I am just as concerned about her future as Mary is. What is the use of keeping her if we can't make her happy? Mary should make a sacrifice for her sake.

The Council: From both Mary's and Tom's statement, it gathers that Mary's real problem is with herself, rather than with her child. Tom claims affection and concern for this child. The mere fact that he was at one time willing to undertake the responsibility to bring her up indicates that his feelings are in the right place. The child must have grown on him during the period he has lived with her.

It is possible, however, that his sudden strong feelings toward his son took him by surprise. Possibly he would not have thought of measuring his feelings for one child against the other if Mary hadn't forced this on his attention. Later he may have become annoyed at having his feelings watched so closely by his wife and finally come to the conclusion that the little girl was a bit bothersome factor in their home life.

We'll hazard a guess that Mary identifies herself with her little daughter. Probably she sees herself as a stranger and unwanted in the foster home where she was brought up. In her pity for herself, she seeks reassurance of love for her little girl. She sees her as a half-unwanted child.

It is very unlikely that Mary or Tom could be happy if they parted with this child. If any adoption takes place Tom should adopt the little girl. This will be reassurance to Mary that he sincerely wants the child. As long as he shows her normal fatherly attention, Mary should try to avoid making comparisons. When she does this, she is only forcing the little girl to feel deprived of love.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

ONLY TWO EXPENSES FOR BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My husband has just been asked to be best man at the December wedding of a dear friend of his. He is very pleased about this, but has no idea what expense-responsibility it involves. Will you please tell us about this, please?

— Reader

There are only two financial responsibilities for a best man. (1) Your husband will be told by the groom what attire to wear at the wedding, and if he doesn't own this, he will rent it (customary today) and will be expected to pay the rental-charge. And (2) You and he give a wedding present to the bride-to-be.

MEDIUM-SIZE KNIVES AND FORKS vs. LARGE-SIZE

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I'm making out my list of silver, and I must think carefully about each kind. If I can have only one size of knives and forks, would you advise me to choose the medium-size (I believe they are called "luncheon-size"), or the larger-size?" — Bride-to-be

For your "basic" list I advise you to choose the medium-size knives and forks.

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Can you help me? I always follow your recipes and advice and hope you'll be able to help . . . Some time ago in Montreal I tried a new recipe for Mexican Chicken . . . It got lost when we moved . . . Zenn B.

Answer: I have two recipes from Mexico for cooking chicken but do not know which you want. One is called Chicken la Estancia and the other Chicken Saute Creole. I'll give them both because they are equally good.

CHICKEN LA ESTANCIA
(Serves 16).

This is also claimed by Italy. This is excellent when doubled to serve a crowd of 20. One whole 4½-to-5-lb. boiling fowl. I can consommé, 3 stalks celery diced, 1 large onion diced, 1 carrot diced, 1 small green pepper chopped, 1 large onion sliced, ½ clove garlic sliced, 1 tablespoon olive oil, 1 20-oz. tin corn or 2 cups raw corn cut from cobs, 1¼ cups tomatoes, 1 8-oz. can hot tomato sauce, paprika, pepper, oregano, 1 cup cornmeal, ½ cup each pitted black and green olives, ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese.

Place in hot butter until golden. Slice onion and add to pan and brown lightly adding more fat if needed. Sprinkle with flour and turn chicken and onions over. Add sliced tomatoes, chopped garlic and herbs, sliced pimentos or peppers and simmer covered 20 minutes, then add hot stock or water, season highly with salt and pepper and simmer gently 45 minutes. Lift pieces of chicken to hot platter, pour sauce over. Serve fluffy boiled rice with this. Let me know if either of these is what you are seeking.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS WAS BEFORE LAST NIGHT

This is Frank Orr, Cornwall sports editor, getting some of his excess hot air poundage off his husky shoulders. Here is what he wrote in yesterday's column. He heads it "Thursday's Thought."

"This is one of those lovely little weekends for the Chevies when the tough three game grind in three days starts.

"Friday night the team's in Belleville, Saturday in Whitby and then make the long trek home to play Belleville on Sunday.

"Belleville hasn't been going very well and in fact they haven't started behaving like a world championship contender in any form. The Macs have lost three of four games and the one Sunday in Hull when they picked up their victory saw them badly outplayed.

"So far they have been spending a large amount of time in the penalty box, something that is hardly proper for a Europe-bound team.

"However they have a great lineup of good hockey players. They had a good team last year and they have added some proven talent. But they have been in the penalty box a lot.

"I guess Menard, Benoit, Crawford and the rest haven't reformed. Even Gordie Bell still likes to raise a rumpus for he got into a scrap a few games back.

"So it looks like the afternoons at the arena when the Macs are here will again be filled with fun.

"The Cheviies this year have a couple of lads who like the rough stuff. Blaine Ernst and Marcel Goyette both are lit. Along with Gerry Servise, Don Labelle and Ted Szydlowski, they give the Chevies a good defence and one that won't run from Belleville.

"The Cheviies pick a bad night to go into Carrierville for the Macs have been losing, the wolves are barking a little and they will be out to get the critics off their backs. They will hardly roll out the welcome mat.

"Playing in Whitby is tough regardless of what humour the Dunnies are in. Small rink and Bob Attersley are about all the troubles any team wants.

"However the locals are eager to grab a road win and then come home for that game against Belleville and really go all out. The Macs are good but they can be beaten as the Canadiens proved the other evening.

"It is going to be a treat to get back in the Belleville press box and see if we can't stir George Carver up a little. The old fossil has been pretty quiet this year."

Here are his probably "Saturday Observations.":

The Cheviies did pick a bad night to come to Belleville. As if the night made any difference.

That Cornwall has one of the best goalies in the circuit. He proved it last night.

The Macs were good—and they were not to be beaten. That aftermath of the second frame three-goal splurge proved that. They learned a tough lesson the other night from the Hull-Ottawa crew.

This "old fossil" was battling a tough old virus and missed the first game of the season. The Macs won. It could be the "old fossil" is the jinx.

However we shall take that chance and go along with the Macs to Cornwall tomorrow where they hope to stick a two-in-a-row series of defeats on Bill Bingley and his merry men of the seaway city.

And so back to the drugs and pills and a clear noggin for tomorrow's tilt.

The Lambert-Rollins, Belleville's entry in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" hockey league, will hold its initial workout of the season at Memorial Arena Monday night at 6.30.

All spots are open on the club and it is hoped all junior age players will attend the practice.

The league will also hold a meeting Monday night at city hall here at eight o'clock to finalize plans for the forthcoming season. Trenton, Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston are expected entries while there is a possibility of another club from Prince Edward County.

Hawks Flutter Desperately To Snap Winless String

But Face Toughie Tonight Against Habs in Montreal; Blues, Leafs Play in Toronto

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The other teams in the National Hockey League realize Montreal Canadiens have the most potent power play in hockey. But they can't seem to do a thing about it.

Montreal, making an early start at running away from the other five teams, has played 11 games. In that span Canadiens scored 44 goals, 14 while the opposition had a man in the penalty box.

Doug Harvey hasn't seen much action this season because of an ankle injury but his place on the point of the power play has been capably filled by defenceman Tom Johnson, who scored twice against short-handed opposition.

Dickie Moore, Jean Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion scored three times in the power play and Maurice Richard added a pair. Harvey got one and in three games he played at the start of the season.

BRUINS BLANKED

Boston Bruins, in second place with 11 points, have had 36 chances to use their power play but haven't yet been able to cash in. They have 32 goals, second-best total in the league, and all scored then the teams were even in numbers.

Chicago Black Hawks, with the second-best power play, will be trying to snap a winless streak of six games tonight when they meet Canadiens in Montreal.

It will be the third meeting between the two clubs in 19 days. Hawks walloped 9-1 at Montreal Oct. 23 and general manager Tommy Ivan dropped a $100 fine on each player for indifferent play. The teams played to a 5-5 tie Tuesday at Chicago.

SLOAN A FACTOR

The addition of Tod Sloan, whom Hawks bought from Toronto Leafs last summer, seems to have made a difference to Hawks' power play. Of the eight goals scored by Chicago while enjoying a man advantage, Sloan got four and three of those were against Leafs in a home - and - home series early in the season.

Altogether, Chicago has had 41 chances to use its power play.

Harvey and defenceman Albert (Junior) Langlois, injured in a pre-season exhibition game, worked out with Canadiens Friday but coach Toe Blake list going to use them tonight against Hawks unless he has to.

At Boston the Bruins play host to Detroit in the televised Saturday afternoon game and New York Rangers are in Toronto tonight. Both Rangers and Leafs will be looking for their third wins of the season. Rangers have four ties.

Rangers are fourth with eight points, one more than fifth-place Hawks. Leafs are last with four points.

Sunday it's Toronto at Boston and Detroit at New York.

OTHER RECORDS

Rangers, who rely mainly on Camille Henry's accurate shooting, have scored six power-play goals in 22 chances. Henry and Dean Prentice each scored twice.

Leafs have also scored six power-play goals in 32 chances. Henry and Dean Prentice each scored twice.

Leafs have also scored six power - play goals but they had only three chances than Rangers. Ron Stewart has half the total Toronto output. Detroit, with five goals from 36 chances, have the fifth-best power-play in the league.

Macs Second-Period Splurge Defeats Chevies 3-1

Middle-Frame Eruption Good For Three Goals and Win; Cornwall Goalie Stands Out

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville McFarlands struck with lightning-swiftness near the end of the second period here last night to defeat the revamped Cornwall Chevies 3-1 and climb into a tie for second place in the OHA Eastern Senior "A" standing.

The McFarlands played more like the champions that they are before around 1,400 fans. They are tied with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens with four points, two less than Whitby and two more than Kingston and Cornwall.

Cornwall goalie Gerry Devaney played tremendous hockey as he stopped 35 of the 38 shots fired at him by the win-hungry McFarlands. But the Macs turned loose their best offensive strength during three minutes and five seconds of the middle heat, potting all their goals to wrap up the victory.

Cornwall Chevies' lone marker came late in the final period and was the direct result of a McFarland lapse while they had the man advantage. The visitors fought gamely to the final whistle but Gordie Bell, who had earlier earned an assist on a Mac goal, protected the lead with several superb saves.

Unlike Cornwall-Belleville encounters of past years, last night's fixture was hockey and nothing else from start to finish. Bodychecking was conspicuous by its absence as both clubs played it wide open. Belleville and a wide territorial edge in playing using a series of pretty passing plays to storm Devaney's citadel. Devaney, stopping 20 shots in the first period, and Bell, both turned in excellent games but on the other hand the attackers lacked finish on many other plays at both ends, shooting wastly or wide.

Referee Al Promaine doled out just six minor penalties with the Macs drawing four of these.

Barton Bradley was the night's only two-point man, scoring one goal and assisting on another. Lou Semke bagged his fourth goal of the young season to pull into a tie with Whitby's Sid Smith for the loop leadership. Playing only his fifth game, registered his initial marker to complete the Mac scoring. Single assists went to Gordie Bell, Johnny McLellan, Dave Jones, Floyd Crawford and "Wiener" Brown.

Reg Grigg triggered Cornwall's goal with Ray Laplante and Bob Bingley getting credit for assisting on the play.

Fine defensive work by Guy Henri, Gerry Servais, Marcel Laplante and Devaney held the Macs at bay when Cornwall was two men short via penalties early in the game. Brown hit the post and Devaney beat a couple other Mac attackers with Clark off for cross-checking and Labelle away for holding at 8:15 and 8:45. Minnie Menard broke in later in the period but had trouble controlling the puck and lost it at the goalmouth. Devaney robbed the Macs time and again.

Play was more even in the second until the Hildebrandters hit pay dirt beginning at 16:17. The line of Smrke, Jones and McLellan worked the disc around the Cornwall net, all taking a whack at it until Smrke finally battled it home. Ron Mulr sat out a tripping penalty without damage but upon his return the Macs took over.

Gordie Bell passed the puck to Floyd Crawford who in turn repeat it to Bradley in the centre ice zone. The centre ice veteran skirted up the right side and beat Devaney with a sizzling backhander to make it 2-0. Bell drew a big hand when his assist was announced.

Only 33 seconds later Hildebrand made it 3-0 with Brown and Bradley assisting, sinking the rubber from a scramble in front of the net.

Cornwall pressed early in the third chapter with Bell making key saves on Nobby Clark and Ron Muir while Johnny McLellan was serving a hooking penalty.

Henri was tagged for elbowing at 15:13 and while he was away McFarlands gave the puck away in their own zone, Grigg waiting in unmolested to beat Bell at point blank range.

Shortly after Devaney raced 30 feet out of his net to beat Bradley to a loose puck.

The same two clubs hook up again in Cornwall Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Dutchies Take Over Top Spot With 4-4 Tie With Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Belleville McFarlands moved into a second-place tie in the eastern section of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series with a 3-1 victory Friday night over Cornwall Chevies.

In the OHA-NOHA interlocking schedule, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen took over first place by virtue of a 4-4 overtime tie with the third - place Sudbury Wolves. The Dutchies now lead Chatham by a single point and the Wolves trail Chatham by the same margin.

At Belleville, the hometowners put on a three-goal push midway in the first and climbed into a tie for second with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens. Lou Smrke fired the first goal at 16 minutes of the second period, Bart Bradley got the next and playing coach Ike Hildebrand wound up the McFarland scoring.

Cornwall got on the score sheet in the third period when Reg Grigg scored.

At Sudbury, Joe Zorica gave the Wolves a two-goal lead but Butch Martin and Will Wylie tied it up. Jack McMaster and Bill Saunders scored Kitchener's other goals, and Jim Logan and Armand Lemieux did the honors for Sudbury.

Two Unbeaten Colleges Put Fate on Line

NEW YORK (AP) — Louisiana State, a clawing upstart that hasn't played in a bowl game since 1950, and Colorado, perennial bridesmaid of the Big Eight put their undefeated-untied records squarely on the line today against opponents that could make or break them for the season.

Of the two, Louisiana State ranked No. 1 in the national in the current Associated Press poll, had the better chance. The Bengals from the Bayou were rated less than a touchdown favorite over Mississippi, No. 6 in the country—and a team LSU hasn't beaten since 1950. It is a night contest at Baton Rouge, La.

Like LSU, Mississippi boasted a proud 6-0 record. Ole Miss won the Sugar Bowl game, last year, beating Texas, 39-7. The winner of this one probably will get the Sugar Bowl nomination on New Year's Day.

Colorado had a date with Oklahoma, and the Buffs, although one-touchdown underdogs, had at least a chance of upsetting the dope.

In addition to LSU, Mississippi and Colorado, only Rutgers among the major schools could produce an unbeaten-untied record going into the day's toil. The scarlet was a heavy choice over Delaware.

In the Big 10, Iowa-rated right behind LSU in the AP poll, went up against Michigan, a club it hasn't beaten since 1951.

The Big 10 also is supplying the nationally televised game which pitted Wisconsin, No. 9 in the country, against Michigan State.

In Friday night's games, Tulane's shut out Texas Tech, 27-0; Vanderbilt crushed Miami (Fla) 28-13 and New Mexico whipped Denver 21-15.

FILLEY RETIRED

TORONTO (CP) — Stole the Ring, Sterling favorite to win last June's Queen's Plate, will never race again. The speedy three-year-old filly is to be retired permanently and bred to a top sire. Her owner, Mrs Olive Armstrong said the horse is being retired "because we don't want to abuse her." She didn't explain what was ailing. the filly except that the horse has had a virus for three weeks and is 150 pounds underweight.

Bisons Win Eighth in 9 Over Rochester

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League were getting reruns from the farmhands assigned to them by New York Rangers.

The Bisons won their eighth in nine games Friday night, by a 4-2 margin over Rochester American. The Bisons now lead Springfield, Hershey and Providence by six points.

Springfield moved into the three-way tie for second by downing Providence Reds 6-5.

Second-period goals by defenceman Jack Bownass and Frank Mahovlich and a powerful clear lock at Rochester. Eddie Kachur and Dick Gamble gave the other Buffalo goals. Dick Bouchard and Cecil Hoekstra tallied for the Americans.

ROOKIE DECIDES IT

Rookie Dennis Olson scored the deciding goal late in the final period as the Indians moved up in the standings. They struck for four goals in the first nine minutes of the second period only to have the Reds come back with three in the first four minutes of the finish.

Ken Schinkel had two goals, and the others for Springfield were scored by Aldo Guidolin, Colin Kilburn and Bruce Carmichael. Dan Poloniati, Dave Mascotto and Camille Bedard had one each and Buddy Boone two for the Reds.

Kid Bassey Wins Over Carmela Costa

NEW YORK (AP) — Featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria dropped Sluffy Carmela Costa twice on the way to a unanimous decision Friday night in a ten-title 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Bassey weighed 127, Costa 126½.

Costa won the admiration of the crowd of about 2,500 by his game comeback after the two knockdowns in the third.

Bassey made the big effort to flatten his Brooklyn opponent in the seventh when he staggered him with a left hook. Despite heavy punishment, Costa rallied enough to win the round on one of the official cards.

Costa moved from side-to-side retreating most of the time, and occasionally beating Bassey to the punch with a quick left jab. However, Carmelo didn't have the punch to bother the compact African.

SURVIVES POUNDING

In the wild third round it seemed Costa was a sure knockout victim. Bassey landed a picture punch right to the chin with about 30 seconds to go. Costa went down in a heap but scrambled to his feet at seven as referee Berl gave him the automatic eight-count.

As Costa retreated, Bassey opened up with everything he had. He caught Costa against the ropes and blasted him with both hands as he sagged to a sitting position on the bottom strand. Berl started to count and had reached nine when the bell rang.

After his narrow escape in the seventh, Costa drew cheers from the crowd. He refused to go down and actually was outfighting the champ at the bell.

Season Rugged For BC Lions

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 1958 Western Interprovincial Football Union season has been rugged for British Columbia Lions.

The team established a WIFU record for the longest losing streak when they dropped their first 10 games.

Thorny coaching troubles during the season will not end when Lions end their season here tonight against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

If anything, pressure to begin post-season scouting of American colleges will create a greater sense of urgency in the Lions dens.

Club directors meet here Monday and the question of naming a head next season will probably take the spotlight.

Holding the top cards at the moment is Dan Edwards. A starry end with B.C. two years ago, he took over the club Sept. 2 when Lions fired Glen Crowe.

Lions were on a five-game losing streak. One month and five games later B.C. still sought its first win.

They got it Oct. 5, a 15-14 triumph over Calgary Stampeders. The streak was extended with victories over Winnipeg and Saskatchewan Roughriders during the Thanksgiving Weekend.

Some of the glitter was lost after two straight setbacks at the hands of Edmonton Eskimos and some critics cautioned against rehiring Edwards too quickly lest a better man be missed.

Prominently mentioning for the job are Frank (Pop) Ivy, former Edmonton coach and now mentor of Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League, and Wayne Robinson, the tough line coach with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Football writers here looked to tonight's game as the key to Edwards job. But Herb Capozzi, Lions general manager said Edwards job does not stand or fall on the result of the game.

"The directors will hire him only if they feel he is the best we can get."

TV Shows About Women Virtually Impossible to Sell

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why is television largely a man's world?

There can be no doubt that it is. Take a look at the girls who star in today's TV shows. A paltry number compared to the male stars.

Let's see — there are Dinah Shore, Loretta Young, Gale Storm, Ann Sothern, Donna Reed, Patti Page, Spring Byington. Of course, some are being filmed in Hollywood, only three can boast female stars.

How come? I asked Herb Gordon, big gun in the Sin-TV outfit.

"It's not that we're anti-women," said Gordon. "Far from it. The fact is that shows about women are virtually impossible to sell. Except for a few comedienes and singers, nearly all the TV stars are male.

NO ENCOURAGEMENT

"The advertising agencies just won't give any encouragement on a show centered around a woman, for shows for female stars.

"But in each case, we got no encouragement. So we stick to the men."

Is it because men have more facets of personality that can prove interesting from week to week?

"Possibly," Gordon said. "They again, you can do much more with a man. He can go anywhere, get in all kinds of violent situations. Women are more limited. And they are more subject to criticism. I've heard women and even children say they won't watch an actress because they don't like the clothes she wears or the way she does her hair.

"Mind you, we'd like to be pioneers, but we can't afford to."

SWEDE TOP CONTENDER

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson of Sweden was named the No. 1 heavyweight contender to champion Floyd Patterson by Boxing Holland, president of the world championship committee Friday. The committee's rankings listed Nino Valdes of Cuba as the No. 2 contender and Willie Pastrano as No. 3. Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., was rated No. 3 contender for Archie Moore's light heavyweight title.

Giants, Browns In Big Sunday Clash

NEW YORK (CP)—George Halas says the day of the unbeaten team in the National Football League has ended. Bert Bell nods affirmatively. But Paul Brown keeps winning football games.

As the NFL reaches its 1958 halfway point Sunday there is no indication that he is going to lose any.

Brown, whose Cleveland Browns have a 5-0 mark good for a two-game lead in the eastern conference, were the boastful sort he might tell Halas, head of Chicago Bears, and the NFL commissioner, this is the year of the three-stage rocket and besting the Browns is a three-stage proposition.

This Lee Howell's problem Sunday. The New York Giants coach must sign Jim Brown, Bobby Mitchell and Milt Plum.

If the Giants fail they'll have three losses with only six games to play and only a collapse by the Browns could keep them from winning the eastern title.

The other four eastern clubs already have lost three or more times, and only two of them can pick up wins as this week's action is strictly intra-conference.

Washington Redskins are 1-3-1 at Pittsburgh against the Steelers (1-4) and Philadelphia Eagles (1-4) are at Chicago against the Cardinals (3-2). The Steelers and Cards have lost twice to the Browns.

If Brown should succeed in putting together the first unbeaten regular season in the NFL since Halas' Bear teams of 1942 and 1943, he may be hard put to avoid being the next-season fate of these same Bear teams, both of which went under in the playoffs. For over-all in the western conference, the unbeaten Baltimore Colts, has matched the Browns' five victories.

Baltimore, entertaining Green Bay Sunday, is a 13-point favorite, while the Browns are a 10-point choice at home.

In other western games, the Bears are rated five points better than the Rams at Los Angeles and Detroit is expected to come out of San Francisco with a three point triumph.

Squelch Rumor Reay Through With Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Rumors that Billy Reay was ready for the red as coach of the last-place Toronto Maple Leafs were squelched Friday.

Stafford Smythe, chairman of the seven - man committee, that runs the National Hockey League club, laid the blame for the Leafs' poor showing — two victories in eight starts—on the managing.

"If anybody's job is in jeopardy, it's mine," said Smythe. "There's never been any thought of replacing the coach."

"We haven't given him the team or the instructions to work with and we're not going to make him a sacrifical goat for our mistakes."

The managerial omissions will be rectified immediately, he added.

It will be up to assistant general manager Punch Imlach "to lay down the rules, decide who and how many will play, who starts and who plays where."

TV TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

There are many "handymen" who can repair just about anything from a lawn mower to a drippy faucet — but they are wise to leave the family television set to the experts.

A TV set is a highly complicated piece of electronic equipment packed with 18 to 20 tubes, from 200 to 300 parts — including condensers, resistors, coils, transformers — and many yards of wire. Locating and diagnosing troubles in this maze and then repairing them quickly and expertly is a highly skilled profession. In fact, a fully qualified TV technician should be a graduate from a recognized Technical School and have at least 3 years of practical experience.

Still think you can fix that jittery TV picture yourself? If you have the above qualifications, go ahead — but if not, let the experts at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 388 Coleman St. do the job properly. Just phone WO 2-7000 in Trenton call EX 2-7000 for prompt service.

Plenty of Moose in N. S. But in Relatively Small Area

By IAN DONALDSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia probably will have no moose before next fall—whether to give hunters another crack at moose, protected by law since the 1930s.

Moose dwindled to a handful about 20 years ago, following decades of vigorous hunting by Nova Scotians and tourists. Slowly the herds built up, but their numbers dropped again a few years ago when illness plagued them.

Now there appear to be plenty of moose, but most of them are said to be concentrated in a relatively small area in the centre of the province.

Forests Minister Levy says the decision to reopen the moose season is a "perplexing" one because the animals have refused to spread out. "We had hoped they would leave the central area for other parts of the province," Mr. Levy said.

But they have shown no indication of leaving Colchester, Pictou and Guysborough counties, where food is plentiful. Although some have drifted into Halifax, Hants and Cumberland counties, their numbers are considered too few to permit hunting.

Under present conditions, Mr. Levy says the government has three choices: open Colchester, Pictou and part of Guysborough counties for resident hunters of those counties; open the three areas for everyone, or extend the protection for another season.

Mr. Levy says many hunters feel the season should be reopened, and extension of the closed period would probably bring protest. Limiting hunting to residents of specific areas would be difficult to control and probably wouldn't be the answer, and overhunting under a fully-open system could be damaging.

Deer, too, are puzzling the lands and forests department. Mr. Levy said. Last year the bag limit was dropped to one for the first time in many years. This year it was returned to two. Biologists say lack of food has led to a decline in deer herds, but Mr. Levy said many officials feel there is no scarcity.

"We'll be watching the deer situation very closely this year," he said.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — While you are sorely tempted to let fly at one in command, the repercussions would be such that you would lose much ground already attained. Smile wisely instead and keep own counsel, tend to labor diligently.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — There is much change going on about you today, and it behooves you to accept it rather than try to battle the tide. Different systems, adopted graciously, may prove to be more efficient in the long run. See that your credit is good.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be sure to listen to the wise ideas of those you know have a wide experience in your field of endeavor. Then you will be able to decide what is best for you and follow along those lines. Independence would be foolish right now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — See that you discharge any obligations to the letter right now, partic larly in connection with all associates. Don't endeavor to change policies at this stage of the game, or be argumentative. Co-operate and be courteous.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — By being too dynamic today, you could cause many irreparable damages to clothing, furnishings, etc. More deliberate action brings excellent results. P.M. is ideal for relaxation and doing some vital studying.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Don't be extravagant in picking up luxuries or going after pleasure today. Get into a happy frame of mind, thereby helping yourself as well as all those with whom you come in contact. P.M. is fine for taking health treatments.

If your child is born today — The little fighter born today is the type who believes early in life that by using the fists instead of a bright smile, much more can be attained. It is your duty to early teach that people respond to courtesy and sweetness much more readily and generously. However, this is a wonderful chart for any professions dealing with government or other agencies that require much troubleshooting. Also fine for sports.

CANADA REJECTS

protest. The new customs legislation, passed at the last session of parliament, empower the government to fix dumping duties on any product hurting Canadian industry and counting into Canada at a price considered not to include a "reasonable" profit.

The Canadian government argued that the GATT "fair-market" method applied only where goods were sold "in the ordinary course of trade." An exporter who tried to sell goods at a gross profit margin smaller than necessary to keep him in business was not selling goods "in the ordinary course of trade."

The action could not be applied without carbon approval in each case; it could be applied only where there is "no such sale or trade" in the Canadian industry; and any action taken would expire at the end of one year if not revoked sooner.

Carrie Smith's wife Mabel said when she heard the news of her husband's rescue: "I just leaned over my refrigerator and cried until I couldn't stop. Something told me he wouldn't leave me with all those children."

NEVER LOST HOPE

Married 16 years, the Smiths have four children, Smith, a former CNR worker, has been a miner four years. Mrs. Smith said she never gave up hope.

Douglas Jewker' mother sat in her living room and cried.

Her son Billy, 43, a still trapped. Douglas has a wife and one child.

A neighbor who sat beside the mother said: "her whole body is covered with rash from worrying."

"That No. 2 mine ain't safe. It's been too deep. That's what's causing all those accidents."

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Man Built Himself a Yacht To Travel Through Golden Years

By THOMAS COLLINS

Why don't you just forget your troubles, and go sailing off into retirement on a yacht?

It can be done. Ask J. W. McFarland. But you'd better hurry. Right now he's in Joliet, Ill., rounding out his career as district superintendent of the Service Pipe Line Company. By next May he'll be making trial-runs in Lake Michigan, or wending down the Des Plaines River toward the Mississippi, or meandering down the Mississippi toward the Gulf, or jitting on a front porch in Clearwater, Fla., with his yacht tied up at the dock.

He doesn't know, because next May he retires at 65. After that it's the mild blue yonder.

"I've been working on this project for about two years," Mr. McFarland said the other night at his home. "I'm not a boat man, and never played around with one except for a short period as a boy. But with retirement coming on I thought a boat might be an experience."

He says he checked around and found that the kind of boat he and his wife would cost him $10,000. "I could buy a house for that."

So he began reading all he could find on boats, started visiting boat shows, and decided to build his own. This he has n o w done for roughly half as much. The boat provides sleeping quarters for two people, a fine galley, and even Sonar, and has a length of 24 feet.

"I started out," he says, "by ordering a molded 'plywood hull ready-made, and 'plywood deck. Over the last two years I have done everything else in my spare time."

'Jest a Second"

"May I step outside and try it for whistles?"

He salvaged a motor from a burned automobile, equipped it with marine fittings, and with 110 horsepower — good for up to 80 m.p.h. He built in an oak keel, good for offshore waters of the Gulf. He made the bunks, partitions, storage cabinets, instrument panel, etc., out of plywood. He put in the Sonar for cruising off Florida's West Coast.

He built a strong deck over the engine, at the rear, and if it strikes his fancy in fish that's where he'll do it.

"I don't dread retirement," he says. "I look forward to it as an escape from the routine of having to get up every morning and go to work. I don't worry over what I'll do with leisure. I'll find something. I think I'll end up somewhere around Clearwater, on a house or apartment, with the boat parked out front."

Mr. McFarland says he was talking to a friend a few days ago about the hazards of retirement, and they came to the conclusion that retirement can be good or bad depending on view point.

"People who have no roots in the ground are better off at retirement. They have been living here and there, know how to get along in the world, they realize there are no ghosts in a boat down the Mississippi, or in a Clearwater house. It's the people who have always lived in the same place—as the psychologists tell you — who should stay, or where they are after retirement."

He has been with Service Pipe Line about 36 years, and every five to eight years has picked up and moved to a new assignment. He has been in Joliet (for the second time) for the last nine years.

You can build boats with auto engines, or you can catch butterflies with your wife's hat. T h e key to the Golden Years is to do something with something. Mr. McFarland has done that. He has created a bedroom-kitchen-sundeck combination that he can move from Lake Michigan to Florida at a cost of about $8 a day in gasoline. In the process he has created something that interests him.

He likewise and you will have a good retirement.

Ottawa University Attempts To Censor Students' Paper

OTTAWA (CP)—Three editorial board members of a University of Ottawa student publication have been warned by the university administration to have nothing further to do with the publication.

A spokesman for the National Federation of Canadian University Students suggested Thursday night that the action is a violation of student rights. A university spokesman disagreed.

The editors of the bilingual university's bi-monthly French language publication, La Rotonde, are Louis Cabana, 21, of Sherbrooke, Que., Pierre Tudet, 21 of St. Jerome, Que., and Roger Roy, 22, of Val d'Or, Que.

Bill Boss, director of public relations at the university, said the administration's action was taken as a result of inflammatory or misleading items in the Oct. 3 issue of the newspaper.

CAN'T FIRE EDITORS

The administration cannot dismiss the three editors who make up the editorial board because the publication is sponsored by the students themselves through their federation, which is independent of the administration. It can only advise the editors, although it could press its will be suspending or expelling them.

Mortimer Bistriski, national president of NFCUS, in a press conference the federation will extend its full moral support to the Ottawa University Student Federation.

The three editorial board members after the administration's warning offered their resignations to the university's Student Federation, but it refused to accept them.

FORMER EDITOR CRITICAL

Mr. Boss said one article objected to was misrepresented as an official report by Normand Lacharite on his job as La Rotonde editor last term. Actually, Mr. Boss said, it was only a letter.

He was the author last term of an article critical of strict administrative practices at the Roman Catholic Oblate Order that operates the university. His latest communication was in similar vein. Both he and Jean Davids, a fellow editor, were advised not to return to Ottawa University this year.

Mr. Lacharite now is a Laval University in Quebec City and Mr. David at McGill in Montreal. Mr. Boss said the "iron majority" of Ottawa University students "will agree that the rights have been in no way infringed by the prohibition placed upon three students whose aim appears to be to sow dissension."

Russia Willing To Have Nuclear Control Posts

Soviet Delegation Head Makes Offer to Women

GENEVA (Reuters) — The leader of the Soviet delegation to the three-power talks on banning nuclear tests has declared that Russia is willing to have control posts set up on her oil to enforce any ban, it was reported here today.

The Soviet promise was disclosed as delegates from the United States, Britain and Russia prepared to assemble for their second full-scale session on a possible test-ban agreement.

Mrs. Alice Bacon, a former British Labor member of Parliament, said Semen Tsarapkine, Russian delegation leader, made the statement to her when he received a group of women who urged an immediate suspension of tests.

Mrs. Ridealgh, the leader of the group which claims to represent hundreds of the world, said Tsarapkin added that the promise was "not a paper declaration."

United States Ambassador-designate to Canada, Livingston Merchant, Ormsby-Gore, chief British delegate, met early today to prepare for the talks, conferring privately while a dispute over the agenda loomed as the first major stumbling block to the talks.

REDS SEEK BAN NOW

Russia insisted on spotlight at the opening session Friday by submitting a draft treaty for immediate and permanent ban on nuclear tests. The United States and Britain, who feel a permanent ban can be imposed only until an inspection and control system has been set up, want a policing method to be the first item discussed.

The talks here are expected to last several weeks.

Meanwhile, Russia announced Saturday it had received approval from Washington for a conference of experts to study means of preventing surprise attacks to meet in Geneva Nov. 10.

Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Albania will join Russia at the conference, the official Soviet news agency Tass said. The West will be represented by the United States, Britain, Canada, France and Italy.

Plane Flies 45 Minutes Without Pilot

HARMONY, Minn. (AP) — "It flew so beautifully," said a student pilot who watched his radio-controlled airplane take off without him and circle gracefully for 45 minutes.

The plane came down right-side-up in a cornfield, flipped once, then bounced into an upright position again.

Planning a short pleasure cruise, Hal Haugerud had fastened the 83-horsepower Aeronca Chief up a slight grade Sunday on a farm where the Fillmore Flying Club maintains a landing strip. The 33-year-old insurance man gave the propeller a tug.

"But instead of idling like it should have," Haugerud explained, "it revved up to full throttle immediately and jumped ahead. I tried to get to the door but the plane moved past me. It took off almost immediately."

Haugerud doesn't know what caused the plane to take off by itself.

Communist Guns Pound Quemoy With Shells

TAIPEI (AP) — Communist guns opened up on the Quemoy islands today with the heaviest bombardment in seven weeks.

The Nationalist defence ministry said 12,322 projectiles hit the islands between noon and 5:36 p.m.

Peiping radio said it had given a "timely warning" to islanders of bombardment on the even dates of the month.

The Nationalists said they returned the fire. The shelling started after more than 36 hours of quiet. There was sporadic fire at dawn, and again at midday. Then in the afternoon came the heaviest shelling since Sept. 11 when the Nationalists said 58,000 rounds were fired.

Child's Body Found

POMPTON LAKES, N.J. (AP) — The body of seven-year-old Paul Grochowicz has been found in the Rampapo River, ending an 18 - day search involving thousands of persons.

William Horvey of New York found the body Sunday as he was walking along the river bank in drizzling rain.

Apparently the youngster fell in and was drowned not long after he told his mother he was going to bicycle to Tacoma, Wash., to see his grandmother, whom he greatly missed.

That was Oct. 16. His disappearance touched off a search in which police estimated at least 1,000 persons participated.

FIREMEN ACCEPT OFFER

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor firemen Saturday announced acceptance of a $400 wage increase over a two-year period offered by the city to settle their contract dispute. The proposed new contract calls for a $100 annual increase for all ranks retroactive to Jan. 1, another $100 retroactive to Saturday, and a further $200 annual increase effective July 1, 1959. A reduction in working hours to 60 from 56 was not granted.

PRIME MINISTER SEES ANCESTRAL HIGHLAND HOME

Will Renew Talks With Macmillan

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, satisfied that he has seen his ancestral Highland home, returns today to affairs of state and renewed talks with Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan.

The Canadian leader stood Sunday in the hamlet of Kildonan near Scotland's northern tip. He looked at a low, whitewashed cottage on a hillside two miles away and said: "That must be it."

A river and an impassable road kept him from visiting the house that may have been home to his great, great, great - grandfather, George Bannerman, who left Canada in 1813 during the brutal evictions of the Highland crofters.

FITS DESCRIPTION

The prime minister said his location fitted the traditional family stories told him by his 87-year-old mother Mrs. William T. Diefenbaker, now an invalid in Saskatoon.

Today he resumes he talks with Macmillan that were begun Friday.

One key topic is the future structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The talks also cover Commonwealth trade, Canada's views on international affairs, and Britain's problems in working out the proposed European free trade area.

The discussions here precede visits by Diefenbaker to Premier de Gaulle of France, Premier-Chancellor Adenauer Friday and Saturday, and Italian Prime Minister Fanfani Nov. 12. He also will meet Commonwealth leaders in Asia, Australia and New Zealand on his 26-day world tour.

FATHER'S FAMILY DUTCH

The prime minister's Kildonan visit Sunday included his week-end visit to Scotland. For years he has been attempting to track down the roots of his mother's family, the Bannermans. His

Democrats Expected to Make Sizeable Gains on Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1958 battle for control of Congress tapered off today with Democrats predicting a sizeable victory and Republicans hoping and working for a last-minute upset.

Some 48,000,000 Americans will decide at the polls Tuesday which side is right in the backwash of a campaign that focussed more on personalities than on any gripping national issues.

Mild weather—in the 30s and 40s—was the election day forecast for most of the country. And just about every political weathervane pointed to Democratic gains.

A state-by-state survey by The Associated Press showed Democrats favored to capture eight to 12 GOP seats in the Senate and five to 40 or more in the House of Representatives, with a good chance to gain a couple of governorships as well.

This is the consensus of political writers and analysts, politicians and other reporters long experienced in trends, responsible political professional and some polls and other soundings of popular sentiment.

A strong Democratic upsurge would transform the party's shaky control of Congress during the last two years into a commanding margin.

There are some bright spots in the Republican picture. Easily the political discovery of the year is Nelson Rockefeller, the glad-handing, 50-year-old multi-millionaire who rocketed from a political nowhere to become a serious challenger of New York's Democratic Governor Averell Harriman, another man of millions.

Dissension — maybe smoothed over now, maybe not—in the New York Democratic organization further hindered Harriman though Democratic Frank Hogan, whose nomination Harriman opposed, seemed to be leading Republican Kenneth B. Keating in the state's Senate race.

Cuban Rebels Seize Airliner In Flight, 17 Killed in Crash

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government today planned to demand special protection for Cuban airliners and passengers from the United States in the revolt of rebel seizure of a plane that crashed and killed 17 persons.

Three survivors said four Cuban rebels commandeered the big four-engine DC-4 airliner Saturday night on a flight from Miami to Varadero Beach, 90 miles east of Havana.

The wreckage was spotted Sunday in the shallow waters of the Bay of Nipe near Preston in rebel-dominated Oriente Province.

The Cubana Airline said Pilot Cantro rebels seized the plane to make headline for their movement on the eve of the Cuban national election a day. They crashed it when they forced the pilot to attempt a landing in darkness on an airstrip that was too small.

Those killed were the four gunmen, the four Cuban crew members, three other Cubans and six naturalized Americans born in Cuba. The three survivors were injured.

A spokesman for the rebels denied in Washington that Fidel Castro's movement had anything to do with the crash. He said individuals acting on their own were responsible.

The three survivors were Osvaldo Martinez, a newspaper photo engineer, a Cuban woman and a 16-year-old Cuban boy.

They said that just before reaching Varadero Beach, the four men drew guns, invaded Capt. Ruskin Medrano's cabin and ordered him to fly 400 miles farther to the airstrip at Preston.

The men threw off outer clothing revealing their rebel uniforms and told the captain, "This will be in all the newspapers of the world, for no one has ever tried to kidnap an airplane of such size and importance."

In the darkness, Medrano missed the airstrip by about two miles and plunged into the shallow bay.

QUEBEC LIBERALS VOTE TO EJECT MONTREAL MAYOR

Resolution Adopted At Stormy Session

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Liberal Federation no longer considers Senator Sarto Fournier, the mayor of Montreal, a Liberal.

A resolution to that effect was adopted Sunday night at the conclusion of the federation's annual convention here by a member of the Quebec Legislative Council walk out in protest.

Mr. Fournier was not present. Reached by telephone later, he declined to comment.

The resolution was adopted in its original form over strong protests and the copy of it was forwarded to the National Liberal Federation.

It said simply, "It is notorious that the Hon. Sarto Fournier does not support the policy of the provincial Liberal party" and therefore the federation "no longer considers (him) a Liberal."

FIGHT RESOLUTION

Hon. Phillippe Brais, the council member who walked out, was one of several who voted valiantly against any resolution censuring the senator. J. G. Ratelle, member of Parliament for Montreal Lafontaine, also opposed the resolution.

Numerous resolutions had been submitted to the federation delegates by the wild union group, joined them in protest over the operations of Premier Stanfield.

Fifteen men were found alive Wednesday and brought to the surface in the first of a series of rescue climbs in the 64½ days of hard digging in the black, hazardous passageways.

The town was electrified for the second time early Sunday when the last of seven more men were found alive. They were brought out of the pit shortly before 2 a.m. Five without food or water.

There was nothing Sunday to indicate more men were alive.

Harold Gordon, chief of rescue operations for the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation which operates the mine through the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, said Saturday night: "We've given up."

Then he left, exhausted, for a rest at his home in Glace Bay.

Mine manager George Calder Sunday night echoed the grim pronouncement. He said all bodies will be brought to the surface in the next few days.

The grief-stricken town went to church Sunday to pray for strength to face the future.

"Surely we are going to be. Have we any have faith," said Rev. Desmond McConnell of Wesley United Church.

"Life is a struggle . . . we must fight on." Rev. Thomas Richardson told his parishioners at the Roman Catholic Church of St. John the Baptist.

Tales of courage abounded Sunday night, however. Mr. Calder said the bravery of the trapped men was a big factor in their rescue. He also felt death was inevitable even as they prayed, sang and joked to keep themselves alive.

COULDN'T HAVE LASTED

"I thought we were going to die," said Douglas Jewkes, one of the seven to come out Saturday. He described how their eyes shielded against the sudden pitiful glare after days of darkness. "I couldn't have lasted another 12 hours."

Not far from where Jewkes was found Bryon Martin lay alone in a dark, little bigger than a coffin.

"Thank God I'm alive," he whispered through swollen lips.

He and the rest ate bark from pit props and raked coal for nourishment after running out of food and water four days before help came. Martin was in the worst condition of the seven.

Haggard Miners Dig Into Last Unexplored Area

Expect That Their Work Will Yield Only Bodies

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)—Haggard miners dug into the last unexplored depths at shattered No. 2 colliery today with little hope of finding anything but the bodies of their dead comrades. Rescue crews of seven dead stood at 20. Twenty-four others were presumed dead. Mine press spokesman Lawrence Doucette said rescue workers have "sighted a number of bodies but no set figures."

Rescue workers concentrated on two working areas at the 13-foot and 13,400 foot levels. They are satisfied they have found all the dead in other parts of the mine.

One hundred of the men caught in the deeps by the wild underground upheaval Oct. 23 reached the surface safely. Ten of them in two miracle rescues after they had been trapped for days in the flooded end of the mile-long slope sloping shaft of the continent's deepest coal mine.

PRAY FOR MORE

The 7,000 residents of Springhill Monday for the first time without a whiff of Nova Scotia coal in their province's worst disaster since the war.

Premier Stanfield ordered the mine closed after all Nova Scotia coal mines were shut down by a wildcat strike against the mayor. The Montreal Young Liberals Association called for his resignation on grounds that he "has become an accomplice of dictatorship and the scandals" of Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale government.

The mayor's complaint against the 49-year-old senator was that he failed at a city executive committee meeting last September to support the city's demand for an investigation into what Liberal leader Jean Lesage calls "the natural gas scandal."

VAIN REQUEST

Mr. Lesage, elected Quebec Liberal leader May 3, has tried vainly to have Premier Duplessis establish a royal commission to investigate the sale of Quebec Hydro's Montreal area gas distribution system to the privately - owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Rescued Miner Believes More Men Are Alive

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Bosman Maddison, one of the 12 men saved Thursday from the Cumberland mines, says he thinks more men are still alive in the pit.

After hearing of the rescue of seven more miners Saturday, Maddison said: "I wasn't sure about it. I felt there were more alive than us. I still heartily believe it in my heart.

"We heard seven men before we got out but it's hard to say how many more there were of trapped miners. It wasn't this group of seven, I know. We heard them tapping up the other way."

R. Wigglesworth U.S. Ambassador To Canada

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times described the appointment of Richard B. Wigglesworth as U.S. ambassador to Canada as "a final draught of fresh air for Sherman Adams."

The former assistant to the president, who resigned in the face of political storms that always been immensely fond of Canada, The Times corrected in a Washington dispatch.

He once mentioned in the Canadian Ambassador at Washington, the report continued, that he would "love to take the ambassadorship to Ottawa."

Wigglesworth, retiring as a Republican member of the House of Representatives for Massachusetts, succeeds Livingston T. Merchant.

A Letter to Belleville Citizens From Mayor Hyde

Fellow Citizens:

Last Friday the Belleville United Appeal was to have concluded its campaign for funds. However, the objectives of many of the organizations in the United Appeal was not even closely met — only forty per cent, of the amount required having been pledged.

Those of us who have made our contribution have contributed per capita to a greater extent than the campaign managers had expected, but there are too many who have not as yet made any contribution either large or small.

Other communities, such as Brantford with a goal of $166,000, have achieved or surpassed their objective. I feel that there is no reason why we in Belleville cannot do likewise even if the United Appeal campaign is new to us.

Our Belleville campaign has been extended one week. Let us all help to boost this appeal to the top. Belleville cannot afford to lose the services of the fine organizations involved. Let us continue to take great pride in our ability to meet the needs of our community.

Two Crowland Deaths Believed Murder, Suicide

CROWLAND, Ont. (CP)—Mike Fartycuk, 32, and his 30-year-old wife, Shirley, were found dead Sunday in the front room of their bungalow in this community near Welland, while their two children slept in another room.

Fartycuk, lying in a pool of blood, had been shot through the chest, police said, while his wife bore signs of having been strangled.

Provincial Police Chief C. W. Wright said it looked like a murder and suicide.

He said police had been called to the home twice during the day, once after a neighbor reported yelling. Once Fartycuk had telephoned himself saying "come and get my children. I'm going to do away with myself."

His two boys, one five, the other 18 months, slept in an adjoining bedroom.

When police went to the home the second time, they broke down the front door and found the two bodies. A shotgun lay beside Fartycuk.

Twenty-four of both ships were brought under control by the crews.

Niagara Deer Invades Stores

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE (CP) — A big deer, running loose in the village through plate glass windows started shoppers in two stores here Saturday.

A big deer first entered Lloyd Hall's grocery store, did about $600 damage and fled through a plate glass window. It wandered into a nearby Red and White groceteria where Angus Chamberlain was preparing parcels for his last-minute shoppers.

The deer strolled about, did some damage, and again fled by leaping through a plate glass window.

Then it ran out of town.

Fidelity Construction Co., Oshawa Given Contract for New School At $1,088,000

The Fidelity Construction Company of Oshawa has been awarded the tender for the construction of the proposed new high school to be built in the annexed area east of the city.

The award of the contract was made at a special meeting of the board held Friday night when tenders were opened. The Fidelity Construction Company tender, the lowest of seven received, was for $1,088,000.

The estimated date for completion of the structure was given by the successful bidder as being September, 1959 and, due to the urgency this was taken into consideration in awarding the tender.

All tenders received were very close with a spread of only $45,000 between the highest and lowest. This indicated to the board that value for the amount in question was being received.

Although somewhat above previous estimates, the amount of the tender for the new school works out at $13.20 per square foot as compared with the provincial average of $13.30 for schools of this type.

The board also stressed the fact that this price was for a complete job, including complete landscaping and all of the building, all necessary grading and landscaping, all paving and complete flashing of grounds.

Landscaping, paving and other incidentals were an additional cost to the board in connection with the construction of the Quinte Secondary School and its addition.

In awarding the contract, the board was also forced to take into consideration that costs during the past several years have been rising and that the contract price would be therefore higher than when the previous school was built. The original debenture issue for Quinte Secondary School was $716,000. Also from current funds approximately $35,000 was spent for construction of a playing field, landscaping and paving so that the cost of the new building compares favorably with the cost of the Quinte Secondary School which is of comparable size.

While a slightly cheaper type of construction might have been designed for the new school, the architect incorporated quality materials in the structure in order to keep maintenance costs to a minimum.

The board has estimated that the total costs of the entire building project, including building contract, furnishings, equipment, architect's fees and paving and landscaping is being $1,300,000 and the municipalities and bodies concerned will be requested to approve this figure and to issue debentures for that amount.

Special Programs Slated for Farm Union Week

The Ontario Farmers' Union in co-operation with four other Provincial Farm Unions, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia will embark on a special publicity drive the week of November 3-9 known as National Farm Union Week.

The prime function of National Farm Union Week is to acquaint urban, as well as rural people with the fact that there is a Farm Union which unites them the aims of Ontario Farmers' Union. The income of Urban and Rural people is related, they are interdependent, Farmers depend on Urban People to buy their farm products, Urban people depend on farmers to buy their merchandise. If agriculture is not prosperous farmers cannot buy cars, trucks, tractors, balers, forage harvesters, combines and other machines so necessary to operate a farm today. The level of prosperity also influences whether farm people get a new hat or makes do with the old one, whether she has a pressure system or carries water from the pump in the yard, whether she gets a new heating system or coaxes another year's service from the old kitchen stove. These things have a bearing on the pay cheque of the man in town.

Farm unions try to keep their membership and farming community in general informed on things which are currently happening in all fields which might affect Agriculture-through the medium of the Ontario Union Farmer, their official publication, along with radio, T. V. and the Press. Information booths are maintained at fall fairs, district field days and during March almost 3000 farmers visited the Ontario Farmers' Union Tent.

The Ontario Farmers' Union is organized in three levels, Local, County and Provincial. Locals, which are usually set up one to a township, hold regular monthly meeting and discuss various agriculture problems. Recommendations go from here to the county organization in the form of resolutions. Resolutions that pass country meetings are sent to head office for distribution to the other locals within the province. They then go before the provincial annual convention and if passed become Union Policy, which cannot be changed by directors. This leaves control of the organization in the hands of the members. Thus the term "grass roots."

The National Farm Union Week Campaign includes press and air advertising, placards and streamers in stores and feed mills, business people will wear special lapel buttons, envelope stickers will be used on all Farm Union mail. In addition to this and perhaps most important local members will conduct a farm to farm canvass for new memberships.

Wins $25 for Naming School

Belleville's third new high school to be constructed in the annexed area east of the city will be called the Moira Secondary School.

This was the name decided on Friday night by members of the Quinte Secondary School when they met at a special meeting to open boxes containing entries for the new building.

The name Moira Secondary School was chosen from 275 entries from students at the city's two high schools in a contest sponsored by the school board.

The honor of submitting the winning name went to Heather Ross, commercial student at Quinte Secondary School, who will receive an award of $25.

"It's the first time our family ever won anything," she commented today. "I made seven entries and one of them clicked."

Traffic Flows Over 401 Route To Brighton

TRENTON — The 401 Highway bridge which passes over the Wooler Road is nearly completed and will be officially opened in the near future, it was disclosed at the weekly meeting of council.

Although the news comes from an unofficial source a trip over the new strip of highway shows that work is nearly finished and that many cars and trucks are making use of final link in the 401 road running between Maryaville and Brighton.

Barricades and signs reading "Road Closed" appears to have little effect in keeping traffic off the highway as many motorists show a desire to miss the semi-congested traffic lines in Trenton with the town bridge open to only one-way traffic at the present time.

It has been reported that work on the 401 bridge over the Wooler Road is somewhat behind schedule as many difficulties were encountered in its construction.

The approaches to the overpass off the Wooler Road have only to be finished inches and the highway itself is completed all the way to Highway 30 where it will come to an end and traffic will go either south into Brighton and No. 2 Highway or north to No. 7 Highway.

It is not known officially what the Department of Highways plans in the way of ceremony for the opening of the roadway or the exact date it will take place.

Inspect Parks And Plan Work

TRENTON — The Trenton Parks Board met with members of the Champlain Heights Association yesterday afternoon to look at two as yet unnamed parks in the boundaries of the new housing development and to discuss future plans for these parks.

Although the Parks Board will do most of the work on parks next spring, members feel there is some work that should be completed this fall. The banks which form some of the sides of the "sunken" areas will be sodded to prevent further erosion. This will be done right away. In the lower park (off King Street) a water line will be installed to enable the citizens' group to build a small skating rink for use by the kiddies this winter.

The Parks Board also plans to haul in a considerable amount of top soil this fall, to have it on hand first thing next spring when both parks will be seeded to grass and finished off with trees and perhaps shrubbery.

The board also plans to erect some types of shelter to provide shade from the sun until such time as the trees are large enough to take over.

Members of the Parks Board at the meeting were Chairman Ted Parker, Miss Marion Baker and Bill Ireland. From the Champlain Heights Association were President Howard Aziz and chairman of its parks committee, Carl Weese.

Also in attendance were Bill Fairbairn, chairman of the Trenton Recreation Commission, and Jim Parkes, a member of the same commission.

Belleville OPP Hockeyists Whip Trenton Police

TRENTON — A team of puckstars from the Belleville Provincial Police detachment crowned the Trenton police force in an exhibition game in Trenton's Community Centre on Saturday night, 10-3.

The game was sponsored by the Trenton Police Association to raise funds for the benevolent fund and although they were not billed as a setting for rivalry between the goal posts financially they were very profitable.

The funds will be used to supply needy families with baskets of food and clothing at Christmas time.

The visiting OPP team had too much drive for the Trenton boys and only allowed them to take the lead by one goal in the second period. Other than that it was the OPP all the way. At the end of the first period it was Belleville 4 Trenton 1 who increased their load to 5-2 at the end of the second. They left the Trenton squad nowhere in the third and marked up three for themselves.

It was a toss-up who had the most fun, the policemen who were playing or the crowd that was here watching.

Between the periods the fans were entertained by figure skaters from Belleville and a group of three sojourettes.

Belleville — goal, G. Robertson; defence, D. Williamson, T. Schreider, J. Fullerton, R. Wood, R. Lewis, J. McBride. Coach and manager, Lorne Manager of the team was Don Thomas and Brian Fullerton looked after the sticks.

Trenton — goal, Fred Nokes; Sid Vallard, Larry Martin, Archie Eaddie, Tom Guy, George Loucks, D. Greenlaw, Roy Miller, Mark Holden, Jack Graham, Gary Davis and Carm Schwager. Coach and manager Trenton was Russ King.

Leroy Wannamaker was referee.

$400 Damages Reported in Car Collisions

TRENTON — Nearly $400 in damages was reported in car collisions over the weekend on Trenton streets, and one motorist was charged by the police that he had driven his car into a hole left by the gas pipeline contractor.

Donna Bunnett, 19, of R.R. 3 Belleville, damaged the car she was driving to the extent of an estimated $150 when she told police, she was unable to stop in time to avoid smashing into another vehicle operated by Charles Howard, 58, of 709 Sherbrooke Avenue, Toronto. Damage was to the right front end of the Buefish car and to the right front fender and door of the Howard car, which was estimated at $200.

It was reported that the Toronto car was proceeding south on the Dundas Street and making a left turn onto Wragge St., when the Belleville car, coming south on Dufferin ran into the right side of the car.

The mishap occurred at 5.50 p.m. on Saturday and was investigated by Constable Bruce Westfall.

On Saturday at 11 a.m., Arthur Jones of 387 John St., Belleville, reported to Trenton police that his car had been damaged while parked on Dundas Street. Damage was estimated at $100.

Marty Halloran New President Of Hockey Club

TRENTON — Marty Halloran was named president of the new Ontario Hockey Association entry Trenton when the Trenton Intermediate "A" hockey executive formed at a meeting last Thursday in the board room of the Community Centre.

Others elected to the executive are: Bob Gardiner, honorary president; Paul Tripp, secretary; Ken Culbert, treasurer; James D. McBurney, solicitor; James Bob Sager, assistant manager; Lyle C. Carr, trainer and Cal York, coach.

Committee members will be Joseph Gould, Cecil Garrett, Barney McColl, Frank Lynch, and Gord Christensen.

Equipment has arrived which will be issued the signed players. Mr. McDonald and Coach York are expected to ink certificates to players who have seen action in Port Hope-Cobourg game, and hope to sign up a few newcomers who will reside here.

The team will be known as the "Flyers" and will wear the same design as the National Canadiens. There will be no less than four RCAF boys in action with the team when they open the season in Napanee on Monday night. Two players here will be on Wednesday night of this week when the Bowmanville-Orono Combines will be the visitors.

Short Causes Fire in Auto

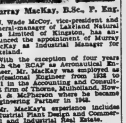
TRENTON — Fire seriously damaged a car parked in front of Graham's Garage on Dundas Street East last night. It was reported to have started under the dashboard.

The Trenton Fire Department received the call about 8 p.m. and quickly had the blaze out after disconnecting the ground cable on the car's battery.

The car was a 1953 model and was owned by the garage. A soldier who was standing across from the firm's new location on Dundas Street East noticed the car filling with smoke and called the Trenton Police Department. The police called the fire department and Engineer Elmer Stacey answered the call.

It was reported that a wire in the car's electrical system had shorted out a rubber hose which runs to the heater had caught fire.

Besides filling the car with smoke and doing considerable damage to the upholstery, the fire burned many of the wires under the dash and the heat and smoke blistered the paint on the dashboard.



The extent of the damage was not available, but the car was insured.

No one had been damaged when it was hit by another car while parked outside the Canada Legion hall in the centre of town last night before.

He said $50 damage was done to the left rear fender. He also gave police the name of a witness to the accident and the licence number of the car which was believed to have hit his.

Cpl. Whitley, Trentos insurance agent, reported to police yesterday that he drove his car into a hole left on Byron St. by the contractors for the Lakeland Gas Company and had damaged the muffler and tires of the vehicle. The amount of the damage was not estimated.

HAGGARD MINERS

found Saturday but was gaining strength in hospital.

The other men saved were in good shape except for Wilfred Hunter who was flown by navy helicopter to Halifax for treatment of an injury to his paralyzed left leg.

100 FEET TO GO

The seven were found on the 13,000-foot level where 39 miners were found alive Wednesday. Rescuers continued their round-the-clock drive through the rock-chocked tunnels. They had less than 100 feet of the tunnel to explore.

For the survivors' families the rejoicing was reflected in emotional outbursts.

Mrs. Carrie Smith said: "I just leaned over my refrigerator and cried until I couldn't stop."

Herbert Pepperdine's bed-ridden mother sobbed: "This is the best medicine I've ever had."

Mrs. Gorley Kemp, whose husband was the first of the miners to reach the surface, said: "You don't always get a second chance."

And Margaret Michniak, another wife, was overjoyed. "I don't want him to go back."

ALL BUT FORGOTTEN

For the survivors, miners the days and nights of terror in the death-filled pits were all but forgotten. Maurice Ruddick, the singing miner, joked when he first saw the rescuers.

"Give me a drink and I'll sing you a song."

Ruddick, whose unflagging spirits helped sustain his comrades through the ordeal, planned to write a song about it Sunday.

Pepperdine said he thought several times that rescuers had given up their search.

"We were getting pretty disgusted when suddenly they came through and we just hollered and cheered."

He said he and Frank Hunter tried several times to break through the rock with an axe and saw, but each time the debris stopped them.

"We could hear men digging around us," Pepperdine said. "But sometimes it was as long as eight hours when we couldn't hear them . . . I thought at times that they'd given us up."

THIRD ACCIDENT

Hunter, whose twin brother was saved from the pit Thursday, survived his third mine accident. He was injured in a mine blast in 1956 explosion in the town's No. 4 colliery. In 1953 his back was broken in a fall of coal.

AT LITTLE EXTRA COST

Hon. Michael Starr, Federal Minister of Labor, says that he hopes the Federal Government's offer to pay half the municipal payroll costs for special winter projects may never have to be repeated.

Everybody can join him in the hope, but few will join him in the expectation, if indeed he really anticipates that the future will never see a recurrence of the present unemployment program.

Mr. Starr says that the present federal offer "is not being set up to provide any permanent pattern of federal aid," that is that the government will do in future years will depend on what happens."

Nobody can quarrel with that stand; it is just common sense.

But unless conditions change in some manner which cannot at present be foreseen, we should expect future governments to take similar action under similar circumstances. We should expect it because the federal offer to pay half the payrolls makes eminent good sense.

The program is not really a costly one. In one sense, it does involve any additional expend ture for the federal government, while providing municipalities with needed services at greatly reduced costs.

The money which the federal government will pay it will be approximately the same amount which would otherwise have had to been paid out as unemployment insurance benefits, supposing that all the workers employed on these special projects were qualified for such benefits. We would expect that, when all the figures are averaged, wages paid on these projects will be approximately double the amount of insurance benefits. The government's share will thus equal these benefits. True, there is a special fund into which unemployment insurance benefits come, but this fund has had a heavy drain on it and if it ever ran dry one can be almost certain that the government would find it necessary to continue payments out of general funds. So, in effect, the program will cost the government nothing that it might have had to pay in any event.

This does not mean that the program is valueless. Quite the contrary. It reveals a happy change from the mentality which prevailed during the thirties, when thousands and thousands of dollars were paid out in relief without anybody, least of all the people receiving it, reaping any real benefits. The present program, besides providing the unemployed with the dignity of work, will also give communities many of the things they urgently need.

WILGRESS ANSWERS MONTGOMERY

We are not sufficiently well informed to know whether Field Marshal Montgomery's criticisms of the organizational setup of NATO are justified.

It follows, therefore, that we are not qualified to judge whether the answer to this criticism by Dana Wilgress, retiring Canadian ambassador to NATO, is factual and adequate.

On principle, though, we like the tone of the reply by Mr. Wilgress.

"What Monty forgets is that NATO was not formed to wage war but to prevent it," Mr. Wilgress said.

Mr. Montgomery, of course, correct in his interpretation of the purpose of NATO.

Whether he is equally correct in his contention that Montgomery lost sight of this fact we do not know.

We do think, though, that on many occasions criticisms or organizations are the result of the critic losing sight of the real purpose of the organization and regarding its achievements from the viewpoint of the critic's own special field of interest.

The remarks by Mr. Wilgress remind us once again of the accuracy of a shrewd observation by a great French statesman, Georges Clemenceau, who said that war is too serious a business to be entrusted to generals. That applies, even more forcibly, to peace.

Twelve teen-agers at Port Perry knew what to do when they heard town police chief Archie Menzies call for help. They moved in and helped him subdue three men who had leaped on him on the main street of the village. Chief Menzies credits them with saving him from a bad beating, perhaps worse. Port Perry boys, says Chief Menzies, "don't cause much trouble." They have earned praise and they have set an example to weigh against the notoriety that teen-agers in some other places have been bringing to their towns.— (Toronto Telegram.)

ABILITY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

And stand where other men have stood,
I will not wail and sadly sigh;
At heart I still can be as good,
Because I cannot reach the goal That other men have journeyed to,
With malice I'll not charge my soul;
Because I cannot climb as high I lack the power to be as true.

What though the road that leads to fame
It is not given me to find,
No great man is there you can name
But what I, too, can be as kind.

What though I lack the strength and skill
This earthly greatness to attain,
I can be honest, and I will;
No prodigy glory can man gain.

Inconsistent With Charter

New York Times

The United Nations cannot and should not "attempt a direct approach to the peoples of the world with the available medium of mass communication." This is the view of the committee of six "experts" who have just completed their assignment in time for the General Assembly on U. N.'s Office of Public Information.

The public need not care as to how U. N. organizes its vast task of "interpreting" the U.N. through press, radio, television, books, pamphlets, and information centres to those concerned as to its activities. But the public ought to care about the question raised in this ill-advised report; namely, whether the decisions taken by U. N.'s principal organs are to be disseminated by "those governmental agencies and public institutions that are concerned with information" or by "persons and organizations connected with the media of mass information" or by various bodies "with general and special interests, political, social, economic and educational questions," by "persons and institutions concerned with education" — or mainly by U.N. itself.

This is what the question comes down to. The team of "experts" proposes that its duty within its limitations. What it has recommended, however, would overwhelmingly subject U. N.'s messages to the world. How, for instance, would the Assembly's condemnation of Russian atrocities in Hungary fit into this picture? What significances would survive if no U. N. decisions were conveyed to Russia or Red China without the cooperation of the Moscow or Peiping government — which is what this committee's blandishments amount to?

United Nations is professedly an (impartial) international organization of nations for the welfare of all its members. When it "interprets" itself, should it be heard, no matter whose ears are offended? Secretary General Hammarskjold has criticized the present report in measured dignified terms. The committee's two hundred U. N. correspondents have rejected it as diplomatically bland. It is inconsistent with the spirit of the Charter, it is exactly that. It is inconsistent with the trust the free nations in the Assembly will give it the quieting it deserves.

Seek Russian Automatons

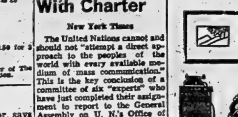
Montreal Gazette

The reason why Canada built the CF-100 and developed what was in effect a new aircraft, the CF-105, is a simple one: nobody else, except the Russians, builds it for us. The Russians do not because nobody else, except the Russians, has an Arctic frontier like Canada's.

A remarkable, and unexpected, illustration of these principles was provided last Saturday at St. John's, when Frank Benum, superintendent of the Dominion Aviation Forecast Service of the Department of Transport, was explaining the operations of his department to the guidance of Canadian aircraft owners and pilots (CAOPA).

His department, said Benum has to cope with an enormously complex problem of weather information on the one hand, and a chronic, almost a permanent shortage of qualified personnel on the other.

In the populated areas of Canada, a certain amount of automation is possible and desirable.



In the Arctic, a source of vital weather information, automation is even more necessary. The difficulty of getting personnel to man lonely outposts, the expense of providing shelter and supplies, are enormously expensive. But what is required for the Far North is a machine that will include its own power supply and be able to do its job and transmit its findings for six months at a time without human assistance.

The DOT has found, said Benum, that there are such machines. The Russians build them for the Russian Arctic. The DOT, said Benum, is negotiating for purchase of Soviet Arctic machines.

The situation was the same with regard to aircraft. The reason that the Canadian Government decided to manufacture the CF-100 and the CF-105, w s is the other country but Russia had the same regional problems to overcome.

The situation is now being reconsidered. But the reasons that led to the building of these specialized aircraft by Canada are vividly illustrated by the present problem of getting weather equipment for use in the Canadian Arctic.

A gallant chaplain. Information has now been received of the gallant conduct recently won the Military Cross for the Rev. J. P. Nicholson, a chaplain of the 116th, who was curate at St. Mark's Roman Catholic church, Prescott, before enlistment. Advancing with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, Chaplain Nicholson, who was armed only with a walking stick, walked almost to a German dugout. A German officer appeared and said to him in German that he was under if their lives were spared. This, of course, was agreed to and a total of 4 officers and forty-three men came out of the dugout. At this stage the German senior officer said to Capt. Nicholson, "You are unarmed", being a chaplain Father Nicholson carried no arms. He replied by placing his hand to his hip and saying, "I am armed." The ethical moment the M.O. arrived and as he was armed, either with a revolver or sword, he disarm the 47 Germans. Two Canadian runners also came, they were armed and the slender escort conducted the prisoners to the collecting depot. A week later Father Nicholson was gassed, but he is now again on duty.

(Note 1958) Eventually Father Nicholson became the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, V.G., and was pastor of St. Michael's Church here for many years.

In the past this fine Presbyterian Church was dedicated in this city and it stood where the present handsome edifice known as St. Andrew's Church now stands. Its pulpit is still well remembered by some Belleville residents. November 3rd marked the 77th anniversary of the dedication of the old church in which was known also as St. Andrew's. The anniversary was observed by the installation of the "Kirk" in a fitting manner.

Turkeys Gain In Popularity

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

One of the submissions of the Ontario Government to the royal commission on price spreads of farm products was that within the next 20 years or so a recent trend toward the use of turkey fowl as a table delicacy is expected to develop among consumers.

This is particularly noticeable, already in regard to turkeys. Time was when these birds that ravished around in the barnyard though they owned the place were considered only for thanksgiving or Christmas markets. But in the post-war years, and particularly in the past two years with the domestic market developed to handle those from the United States kept from coming in, turkey breeders have developed a business that is designed for all year around.

Agricultural experts find initial hesitation to adopt time and money - saving business techniques, possibly because they see anything like turkey production too complicated and specialized. Nevertheless, Turkey farmers have quickly turned to mechanized methods, to controlled-environment incubation and accounting efficiency in the cost-per-pound of their products. Birds are kept fresh for the purchaser by being frozen so as to be stored at below zero immediately they are killed and plucked, and stored at central locker plants.

One of the reasons for the popularity of turkey on a continual, rather than a seasonal basis, undoubtedly is the advertising campaigns put on by the turkey producers themselves, to the consumer. With other cuts of meat subject to limited increased in the price various seasons, the turkey, because of its year around availability above, has remained considerably lower in price, all things considered, than being brought about a better quality in turkey meat. Turkey producers as a whole figure1 being used increasingly by the consumer as attractive to the eye. Breeders are also turning to developing smaller birds — more suitable for and on the sale of the traditionally large bird. It is an increasingly competitive, with the market under pressure as fall production is to be expected. Yet production has not yet reached its peak and, according to date, haven't been able to keep up with the demand for years.

Seeks Letter Of Marque

Cleveland Plain Dealer

We presume it must be 150 years or so since Congress has granted a letter of marque, authorizing a citizen to carry on a private war against an enemy of this country. At all events it is far out of line, some of our readers will think, for certain to occur.

However, the Constitution still says, in Article I Section 8, that among the powers of Congress is that of granting letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water.

Relying on this authority, a New Yorker has appointed himself government intelligence agent, Kyle H. Munsch, has petitioned Congress to grant him a letter of marque and reprisal so that he can do something about the Americans who are being held prisoner in East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Cuba and Communist China.

Munsch's petition is worthy of attention to be granted, and neither do we. Letters of marque went out of style a long time ago and they are particularly obsolete in this nuclear age. Nevertheless, the mere fact that an application for a letter of marque has been made calls attention to the ineffectiveness of a government which cannot protect its own citizens from fifteen kidnappers and blackmailers.

ADJUSTMENT

Within the mind of an intelligent person there is always an adjusting goal. Human powers within are constantly being smoothed into efficient shape, while the entire personality keeps enriching itself.

A machine needs constant attention and a renewal of worn parts. Human beings do not differ. It needs cons ant repair and an adjustment o its many faculties. It has to be kept in order, watch it will run down and stop. So many people forget to put their brains in order, so they stop functioning. Every one of us needs a constant careful readjustment, physically and mentally.

Adjustments are essential equipment. Even our, friendships need to be tuned and readjusted at last repair. We need to adjust ourselves to various changes and circumstances, sometimes all at once, to fit ourselves to the times.

We are influenced every day of our lives. Beauty creeps in. Nature keeps whispering to us of mysteries and miracles to us. How wonderful is man How great is the universe, we say, and we really know next to nothing. But we are reaching out hand to add a Moon to our exploits. As though the Moon were another more discoveries or companionate Moons!

As we reach the Moon, and don't like the look of it, what then? They would then call the Earth fickle and unbalanced We have an earth that needs all the improving we can find to do.

We are the ones who need a radical adjustment, not the glorious solar system. We are the imperfect ones. Let us map out adjustments for ourselves right here and now This is God's world, created for each one of us,

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

YOU CAN'T REDUCE AND STILL "EAT ALL YOU WANT"

Mrs. M.S., at 36, writes she's tried taking drugs to keep her weight down because "I have a ravenous appetite and seem to eat all day long to the point of discomfort. I don't have any physical weakness under it and feel my appetite with these capsules. Can this drug be any permanent damage to my heart? I noticed that my heart beats faster. I feel wonderful after losing weight, but depressed and unhappy when I'm gaining."

I won't say I've never prescribed for reducing - but I certainly recommend them, and I can't say that I've ever known of a case in which the patient really achieved proper weight and kept it with the use of drugs.

Still, sometimes you come to your wit's end, and the patient's insistence (and when he or she urgently needs to reduce) may make the best of a bad situation and resort to drugs. But it is no better than any other stop-gap.

In passing, let me say I hope you all saw the government announcements last summer concerning the $100,000,000-a-year "reducing" gimmicks. The government made loose talk to the effect that the implied promises are deceptive, and that you don't reduce merely by "eating all you want," or reduce by taking pills or anything else except to eat, or by machines.

You reduce by wont you don't eat and that's the end.

Now as to the "reducing" drugs, I haven't found any real heart damage, but they will cause an overly-rapid heart beat, make you nervous and irritable, keep you awake, cause pain, and just your body else under a strain that cannot be dismissed casually.

As I have just confessed to you, in desperation I have at times sanctioned the use of reducing drugs" but only when nothing else did any good, and only when I could keep an eye on the patient to stop the drugs whenever they began putting to much strain on the system.

Why do people eat too much? Frequently they do it because it means family upbringing. Mother used to cook up-and-serve another used to feed starving girls, lots of starches, lots of nucious desserts - and all that means nervousness.

Or people get in the habit of eating, not because of hunger, but to satisfy some nervousness, or frustration, or boredom. Result: Obesity!

Weight reducing drugs set up apparently by suppressing the appetite center in the mid-brain. They also work by raising body metabolism - that is, the "up-" average pitch. The patient becomes more active, more keyed up in things, less likely to sit down and nibble. At best it is a temporary measure, and not to long-term use.

Only the patient can be achieved if you will bestir your interest in things. Note that worry and fear built over physical weight losing weight and feels unhappy when she's gaining.

My strong suspicion is that the

Quinte Credit Unions Crown Miss Sheila Park as Queen

As a fitting climax to International Credit Union Day celebrations 27 credit unions comprising the Quinte and District Credit Union Chapter recently crowned a new beauty queen. She is Miss Sheila Park of Belleville.

Chapter president O. E. Waggett presented her with the winner's sash and crown and bestowed the kiss which is the privilege of presidents. Twenty year old Sheila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Park, Berwick, Ontario. Born in Almonte, Ont., she attended no less than six public schools in various parts of Ontario, received her high school education in Mallorytown and attended business school in Brockville. She was employed by the Taxation Division of the Department of National Revenue in Ottawa before transferring to Belleville, where she is similarly employed in the local Taxation Office.

She is an avid sports lover and bowls in both the Saturday night mixed and Quinte mixed leagues.

Weighing 111 pounds with reddish gold hair, hazel eyes and a charming smile Sheila makes a fitting queen. Before becoming the chapter finalist she was chosen Miss Income Tax Credit Union in her own local credit union.

Sheila is now eligible to enter the Ontario finals where she will vie with over 20 other Chapter Queens across the province for the title of Miss Ontario Credit Union.

The Quinte Chapter extends from Kingston to Port Hope and services 27 credit unions of the Quinte area, with a combined membership of several thousand.

The chapter is a type of mutual assistance organization and will be conducting a Weekend Credit Union School in November for the officers and committees of the various credit unions.

Coniston Mother Lost Three of Five Sons in War

OTTAWA — A Coniston mother who lost three of her five serving sons during the second world war will represent Canadian motherhood on November 11.She is Mrs. Helena Forrestell, a 53-year old widow, whose five sons all served in the RCAF.

Mrs. Forrestell will place one of the four official wreaths along with the Governor General, a governmental representative and a member of the Canadian Legion. She was recently selected by the Legion to attend the Ottawa ceremony and lay the wreath on behalf of the Motherhood of Canada.

Two of her sons were killed on operations with the RCAF. Flight Sergeant Daniel Forrestell, wireless air-gunner, was reported missing in April, 1943, and has no known grave. Flying Officer Robert Forrestell, a pilot, went down over France in August, 1944. In March of that year, Sergeant pilot Thomas Forrestell was killed in a flying accident in Canada. Two other brothers, James and Francis, also served in the RCAF.

Mr. Forrestell died in 1956. Mrs. Forrestell had nine boys and two girls. One of the girls is serving as a missionary in Africa; another, Mrs. Bert Hewitt son, resides in Brockville. Three sons live in Coniston, near Sudbury.

A fourth son Micheal is in Lethbridge and Patrick lives in Tottenham, Ont.. A sixth son, Ambrose, died when he was 12.

Mrs. Forrestell is the fourth silver cross mother from outside the Ottawa area to attend the national Remembrance ceremony. Last year a Truro mother, Mrs. Z. MacFarlane, made the trip to Ottawa. Prior to that Mrs. A.J.. Reynolds of Catham, Ont., was the silver cross representative. In 1955, Mrs. John Lebeldus of Vibank, Sask., was the first mother to be selected as a result of the Legion's new policy of getting truly representative mothers to lay the wreath. All of the above women lost three sons.

Former Boys' Home Inmate Searching Records in City

A silver-haired, bespectacled Englishman now living in the United States, who had lived in Belleville for a short time as a child, arrived in this city Thursday night on a special mission.

He is trying to trace some record of his birth — the exact date and birthplace.

Mr. James Campbell, of Wampville, N.Y. (midway between Syracuse and Utica) was among one of the original groups of homeless boys from the British Isles who were shipped out to Canada to be placed in foster homes. The rehabilitation centre for this area was the Marchmont Home, 193 West Moira Street, where he recalls living for a short time upon arrival in Canada. The home now owned by William A. Irish estate has since been turned into an apartment building and is known as the Marchmont Irish Apartments.

On Friday, Mr. Campbell, accompanied by his wife, dropped into the Chamber of Commerce office, Campbell Street, to enlist the aid of Mr. R. G. "Bob" Hamilton, local O.. of C.. secretary-manager.

In an interview with the Ontario Intelligencer, Mr. Campbell said he believes he was shipped out from a Manchester home sometime during the 1900's, but he was too young to remember much about it.

"I remember vaguely being at home in Manchester, but can recall little of the crossing by boat", he stated. "The first place I recollect after my arrival in Canada is the Marchmont Home."

He related he lived in the home for a short time, then was placed in several foster homes, one just outside Kingston and another in the vicinity of Harwood, near Rice Lake.

"I was first placed with an elderly couple in Kingston, who sent me to work on a farm run by their two sons," he said. The Marchmont Home found out about it, and since I was just a little tot and, this was against the rules, they brought me back. I was then sent to live on a farm three miles from Harwood, Ont."

Mr. Campbell said he lived there for three years but left because of ill treatment, and went "on his own."

"I've been on my own ever since," he remarked.

He said he then travelled extensively and spent some time in western Canada, principally in Manitoba.

SEEKS RECORD OF BIRTH

An employee of the Oneida Limited (the largest silverware manufacturing company in North America) for the past 42 years, Mr. Campbell explained he is trying to find a record of his birth to prove his eligibility for social security and a pension next fall.

He said he believes he was born in 1894, thus making him 64 years of age, but the firm's records show two dates — 1894 and 1896. If the latter date is correct he will have to work an additional two years before he is eligible for retirement benefits.

He said he is taking time off work to look into this matter and "am going through with it until I find out where I am."

"I have all the time in the world," he stated in explaining the firm is also checking into the puzzle in an effort to get its records straightened out.

"They called in a Federal man to check the records," he said. He also explained he can trace his birth record he will be eligible for a veteran's pension besides retirement benefits.

IN POOR HEALTH

Another important reason for Mr. Campbell's desire to "get this thing straightened out" is his ill health.

"He has been in poor health for a number of years and has undergone several major operations, and it's a shame if he has to work a couple of more years if it's not really necessary," Mrs. Campbell remarked.

In an effort to help Mr. Campbell recall his short stay in Belleville as a child, Mr. Hamilton took the couple on a visit to the former Marchmont Home. After surveying the exterior of the building and the back yard, Mr. Campbell reported "no recognition."

Next step in the "birth record search," Mr. Campbell said, will be to write letters to the Barnardo Homes, a well-known rehabilitation centre in London, England, and the Records Office in Somerset House, London, England, in hopes they have some record of Mr. Campbell's birth there.

If any local "old timers" have any information concerning the early days of the Marchmont Home that may be of some help to Mr. Campbell, they should contact Mr. R. G. Hamilton, at the Chamber of Commerce office, Campbell Street. Any information will be passed on to Mr. Campbell, who will be residing in the city for a few days.

Firecracker Ignites Gas, Rocks Houses

LONDON (AP) — Kenneth Whittington, 9, popped a penny firecracker through a hole in a street lamp.

The bang ignited an underground gas leak. A four-foot hole was blasted in the sidewalk. Heavy covers cracked and drain covers blown high into the air. Some 200 children were marched to safety from a school.

Kenneth ran home and climbed into bed.

White Cane Club Enjoys Hallowe'en

Some 16 members of the Belleville White Cane Club enjoyed a hallowe'en Party during their regular meeting Thursday evening at the YMCA.

The members, decked out in hats and masks, enjoyed table bowling, thanks to the generosity of the Y's Men Club who donated the game to the club. Prize winners were Mrs. C. Aikins and Mr. John Downer. Mr. Harry St. Onge was the winner of the draw prize.

A short business meeting was held, and "Happy Birthday" was sung to Mr. Tod Rowe, who will recently celebrated his birthday.

Transportation for the members was provided by Mr. C. Bonnetta, of the Lions Club.

Delicious refreshments were served by the Kinettes, and thanks were expressed by Pat Baverstock.

Canada Treats Its Debutantes With Humanity

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Canada treats its debutantes with more humanity than Britain, says Sybil Power-Kent, who has observed both countries' treatment of high society.

Debutantes are girls who are presented at the royal court, as Miss Power - Kent was when George V was king. In Toronto debutantes are presented to the Lieutenant-governor at a ball organized by the Toronto Garrison of Artillery.

This year, the ball will be held Nov. 7 and 30 girls will be introduced to the Hon. J. Keller Mackay. Miss Power-Kent is teaching the girls to curtsey.

CREDENTIALS CHECKED

"When I was presented at court I had to be sponsored by my mother who had herself been presented as a girl. My credentials were checked by the Lord Chamberlain and the whole operation, with dances, parties and dresses, cost about $3,000."

In Canada girls are recommended to a debutantes committee. No chocking is done and the events are reduced to three teas and the ball.

The actual presentation ceremony is also more humane, says Miss Power-Kent.

In England, presentation at court is a forerunner to costly "coming-out" dances and parties at which girls meet eligible young men-about-town.

TOO BUSY

"Here, girls are so busy with university courses and coming-out dances would be so expensive," she said, "most of them settle for wiener roasts or skating parties."

The Artillery Ball raised several thousand dollars each year for the Artillery Welfare Fund. The debutantes committee is composed of officers' wives.

Debutantes this year include Gail Lowrey, North Bay; Gail Whitaker, Caledonia, Ont.; Mary Warren, Hamilton; Anne Mahon, Hamilton; Barbara Cooper, Burlington, and Katherine Heming, Brantford, Ont.

BALCANQUEL — McLAUGHLIN

The choir boys of Christ Church, with Mr. John Croyden Withers, organist, formed a musical background for the marriage of Patricia Ann McLaughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid McLaughlin, of Belleville, to James Dale Balcanquel of Corbyville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Balcanquel, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, rector of the church performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had chosen a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over net and taffeta with full length sleeves fitted to a point. The molded neckline featured a scalloped sabrina neckline with inset of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her shoulder-length, scalloped silk illusion veil was held by a matching tiara of seed pearls and iridescents. She carried a cluster of pink rose buds on a white prayer book.

The matron of honor, Mrs. James D. McLaughlin, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a sheath dress of champagne imported Italian lace over matching taffeta with shell pink accessories and matching feather hat.

Miss Nancy Osborne and Miss Carol Spafford of Belleville, bridesmaids, were gowned alike in waltz-length, cornflower blue nylon over taffeta, embossed in white, with Sabrina necklines. They wore small white hats and shoes. All attendants carried identic bouquets of blue and white 'mums centred with pink roses.

Mr. Bruce Irvine, of Montreal, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. James D. McLaughlin, of Belleville, brother of the bride and Mr. George Beer, of R.R. 6, Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parish hall where Mrs. W. McLaughlin and Mrs. A. Balcanquel, respective mothers of the bride and bridegroom received.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario and the States, the bride wore a wool sheath in royal blue with shell grey fur jacket, with matching accessories in royal blue and a corsage of deep pink roses.

The young couple will reside at R.R. 1, Corbyville.

Guests were present from Wellandi; Toronto; Montreal; Kingston; Port Hope; Nagaree and Picton.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was presented with a hi-fi combination radio and record player by the employees of Hugh Murray Limited, where she is employed. Two showers were given in her honor; one at the home of Miss Nancy Spafford and the other was given by Mrs. Robert Sands.

Upon their return the happy couple were recipients of various pieces of furniture presented by the community in which they now reside.

Annette Second Dionne Quint To Have Baby

MONTREAL (CP)—A boy was born Sunday to the first Dionne quintuplet to marry. Mrs. Annette Allard became the second of the famed sisters to have a baby.

"She was not only very well, she was smiling," said her husband, Germain Allard, after the birth.

Annette's son weighed eight pounds, one ounce, close to the total of 10 pounds, 14 ounces that the Dionne quintuplets weighed at birth. Her sister Cecile's son, born six weeks earlier, weighed seven pounds four ounces.

Annette and Cecile, who was married a month after her sister, had told friends they were hoping to be the first of the quints to become a mother.

Annette's husband, a 24-year-old finance company official, said his wife entered hospital at 11 p.m. Saturday night and the baby was born about 8 a.m. Sunday.

Her first words to him were, "Gerry, we've got a very nice boy." He and Annette had discussed naming the baby Francois if it were a boy, but nothing definite has yet been announced.

Annette is the quoted as saying during her pregnancy that she had started taking exercising classes so as to bear her child by natural birth "like Cecile."

Hospital plans for Annette's baby have not been completed.

Mr. Allard and Annette were married in Montreal in October 1957. The wedding was to have been small and intimate but reporters and photographers gatecrashed the church.

A month later Cecile married Philippe Langlois, now 27, a CBC television technician, in a dignified, formal wedding at Corbeil, Ont., the quintuplets' birthplace.

Marie became the third of the four surviving sisters to marry when she wed Florian Houle, 25, a provincial government employee in Montreal, in a quick, secret ceremony Aug. 11.

Yvonne and Emilie, registered nurses remain the only unmarried quints.

Emilie, fruliest of the five, died Aug. 6, 1954, during an epileptic seizure.

The four girls became financially independent when they reached their 21st birthday May 28, 1955, and split a trust fund of $1,000,000.

Grand International Auxiliary Tea, Bazaar Most Successful

A most successful afternoon tea and bazaar was sponsored on Friday afternoon by the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Front Street, which was gayly decorated in the Hallowe'en motif.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. J. Avery, president of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. P. Kerr, whose warm, welcoming smiles were most cordial, as were those of Mrs. J. Payne and Mrs. E.N. Pigden, the tea room hostesses as they escorted the guests to the dainty little tea tables with their outwork cloths, centred by tiny, smiling pumpkin faces holding little yellow candles and bronze 'mums.

The large tea table was appointed with a white linen cloth, and centred by an eye-catching arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums mingled with sprays of glistening British Columbia huckleberry, and flanked by black candles in wrought iron candle holders.

PRESIDING

Those presiding at the tea service included Mrs. C. Clapper and Mrs. G. Frechette, Mrs. R. Orne and Mrs. A. Clarke, and Mrs. J. Fisher and Mrs. L. Gray; while those serving were Mesdames E. Batchelor; C. Fisher; J. Gallagher; W. Hammett; A. Jordan; L. Goodman; R. Jones; F. Parrott, and W. Gray, jr.

Replenishing tables: Mrs. C. Henley and Mrs. W. Spring; in charge of the tea pots, Mrs. M. Boyd and Mrs. H. Stairs, and replenishing the plates, Mrs. S. Maxwell; Mrs. P. Welch; Mrs. A. Bignoise; Mrs. A. Hall, and Mrs. N. Cathers.

In charge of tickets at the door were Mrs. W. Morgan; Mrs. T. Crosier, and Mrs. W. Taylor.

The booths were prettily arranged with autumn and hallowe'en decorations. Mrs. L. Gray, Mrs. A. Clarke, Mrs. R. Turner, and Mrs. J. McCormick, who had charge of the aprons did a fine business with the colorful display at their booth. There were aprons of nearly every variety, some in all-over style, while the most were in the popular half styles, made from colorful prints, ginghams, organdies and variously adorned with frills and braids.

FANCY WORK

The fancy work, convened by Mrs. R. Brown, and Mrs. N. Robb was nicely displayed with dollies, pillow slips, plain and embroidered, towels tray cloths, and many others.

The children's wear was well patronized with its baby sets in fine knitting; little bacques and bonnets, mitts and booties; nighties, and socks, all in pastel shades and in white, pink, and blue. Mrs. W. Callaghan, and Mrs. W. Graham were overseers here.

The home cooking, as usual with this auxiliary, was most attractive with a variety of little cup cakes, pies, and rolls, as well as tarts and other good things. Mrs. E. Jerome, Mrs. J. Cunningham, and Mrs. J. E. Kerr were kept busy wrapping and making change.

The candy booth, in charge of Mrs. A. Vanstone, Mrs. M. Quirt sold a quantity of apple creams, fudge, and other toothsome titbits, while Mrs. Wiggle, Hammett and Mrs. A. Buck had charge of the candy draw. Mrs. LUCKY TICKET HOLDERS

Those winning the various draws went to Jean Nolan, C. Payne, of Toronto; R. Richardson, of Sarnia; the door prize, an all-white Christmas cake, to Mrs. B. Batchelor; the angel cake to Mrs. Cathers; the dressed doll to Jeanine Nolan, and the table centre to Mrs. J. E. Kerr.

The bazaar was under the convenership of Mrs. Percy Kerr and Mrs. E. N. Pigden, to whom a "Well done" is tendered for a most gratifying result, and also to those behind the scenes whose assistance contributed greatly to the success of the afternoon.

Answer to Gertie

by Mary Moore

A request from Gertie made me hungry. She wants "tasty cabbage rolls . . . mine are always so flat-tasting . . . also good recipe for banana bread and how to cook mushrooms." She made me want them all right now and it is only 2 o'clock!

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Chicken Livers and Lambs' Kidneys en Rice with Curry Sauce; Broccoli; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers; Lemon Cream Cake; Coffee.

Don't they sound like dishes you want to taste too? Here is the chicken recipe brought from Europe to us by the Ukrainians.

CABBAGE ROLLS
(in Ukrainian "Holoobkah")

One large head cabbage, 2 cups cold raw rice and boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 large onion chopped, ¼ cup butter or bacon dripplings, 1 to 1½ cups cooked or raw ground beef, salt and pepper, 1½ cups tomato juice, ½ cup sour cream. With sharp knife remove cabbage core. In deep pot pour boiling water into hollow, to cover cabbage. Let stand until leaves are pliable. Separate leaves and drain. Add washed rice to boiling water and salt, bring to boiling, covered. Turn off heat until it absorbs water. Saute onion in fat until limp. Add meat, partially cooked rice, salt and pepper. Line bottom of large baking dish with biggest cabbage leaves. Place spoonful of rice-meat mixture on each cabbage leaf, roll up, folding sides in snugly. Arrange in layers, sprinkling each with salt. Mix tomato juice and sour cream and pour over; cover with a few leaves. Put on lid and bake at 250 deg. 3 hours or until soft and tender but not mushy. Carefully lift to hot platter and garnish with crisp chopped bacon. If desired pass sour cream. Serves 6 to 8 generously.

BANANA BREAD
(Baking Powder)

One and ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, 2-3 cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup mashed ripe bananas. Sift together flour, baking powder and soda and salt. Cream shortening until light; then cream sugar into it until fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add flour mixture alternately with mashed banana, beating until smooth. Turn into paper-lined greased loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. 1 hour. A delicious and common addition is ½ cup chopped nuts or 1 cup chopped dates. Best when 24 hours old.

TO COOK MUSHROOMS:

Scrub with soft brush in running water. Drain. To saute slice into preheated frying pan with 4 tablespoons butter (to 1 lb.) Add salt, pepper, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon lemon juice; cover. Allow to cook over medium heat 10 minutes, stirring twice. Turn off heat and let stand 5 minutes. To cream prepare as above then add 4 tablespoons flour, stirring, then 2 cups milk, stirring until thick. Season with celery salt and serve on toast points. For a de Luxe version of creamed use ½ butter, and 1 cup heavy cream and 1 cup chicken broth instead of milk. Season with 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Nothing "flat-tasting" about these!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rosemary S. — They don't like his looks.

Mrs. F. S. — Why doesn't she stick to our own kind?

Rosemary S. — I am 19 years old and I've been going out with a young man a year older for the past several months. He is not very good-looking, but he's an excellent dancer and we've had good times together.

The problem is that my parents just "don't like his looks" and have asked me not to see him. They have never before acted about anyone I've gone out with. I think that they object to him because I picked him up on a bus, but I don't think there is any harm in that as long as he is courteous.

It is true that on our first date he was a little aggressive and hard to handle, but he quickly got over that when I let him know how I felt about that kind of thing. He is well-mannered, but not very sociable and he won't double date.

Mrs. F. S. — We can't understand why Rosemary should take up with a shifty-eyed character like this. Nobody knows anything about him. He never mentions his family or where he lives and he can't seem to look anyone straight in the face.

There are dozens of nice young men in our neighborhood who belong to the young people's organization of our church. Rosemary takes gone out with a few of them, but hasn't kept up a friendship with any of them. Why shouldn't she stick to young men she knows something about?

It's true we don't like the idea of this man's being a pick-up, but we aren't so very narrow-minded. Sometimes a girl meets one of her own kind in a casual way. This fellow just isn't our kind. He doesn't like any of Rosemary's friends, either.

The Council — A lot of territory may be covered in those loose expressions "I don't like his looks" or "he's not our kind." Sometimes the terms are an expression of the speakers own fears and prejudices, but we doubt whether that is true in this case. By Rosemary's admission, her parents have never before acted this way. And there are some fairly strong indications the young man is, at best, a person with difficulties. A pick-up is not the most desirable way for boy to meet girl, but it can be satisfactory if both are later able to fit well into one another's family setting and get along with one another's friends. In that case, it means that the boy and girl have similar backgrounds and ideals and except for any accident of geography might very well have long been friends.

Occasionally an individual with a strong character and warm, out-going nature will walk into a completely new setting and make himself perfectly welcome because he is so at home with himself and the world at large, but Rosemary's friend seems to actually fear contact with her family and friends. It doesn't seem to us that such a relationship can grow into anything happy for either party.

The question is why does Rosemary seek a relationship that isolates her from her family and friends? Probably she is not at peace with herself and her own background and enjoys few happy, successful relationships within this group. This is a problem she should make a strong effort to solve for Individual manage to find happiness in isolation from the group that has nurtured them.

Counselling Service Director Completely Blind Since Two

TORONTO (CP)—When women go to the Young Women's Christian Association here for help they sometimes get a shock before they get assistance.

The reason is that they may be referred to Betty Macmillan, director of counselling services for the Y in Toronto, who has been completely blind since she was two.

"People are sometimes shy when they realize I am blind but if they really have problems, they are so wrapped up in them that they soon forget about me," she said.

Miss Macmillan says she chose social work because she likes people, and this was one job not completely ruled out by her blindness.

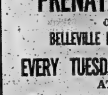
VARIED PROBLEMS

Women who are dissatisfied with their jobs, girls who want advice about what to study or what type of work to do, people who can't get along with their families and girls with emotional problems come to her department at the YWCA for help.

Miss Macmillan went to the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford for her public and high school education, and then to Master University, Hamilton, where she obtained a bachelor of arts degree.

"I took lecture notes in Braille, and other members of my class read set books to me," she said. "I typed examinations and essay assignments."

Then she spent two years at the University of Toronto's School of Social Work where her course included practical work with the YWCA.



On leaving university in 1952 she joined the YWCA counselling staff, and was appointed director in March last year.

She says: "It is a handicap to be blind but in social work it is not insuperable; I might be able to understand a person better if I knew how the dressed but I can tell a lot from voice expression."

PLANS FOR THEIR WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are making plans to celebrate our Wedding Anniversary. Will you please answer some questions for me?

(1) I am to wear a blue lace dress. What kind of flowers should I wear?

(2) My husband and our two sons are to wear dark blue suits. What kind of boutonnieres should they wear?

(3) I have ordered the Anniversary Cake. Should I also have a tray of cookies, or have several silverware, and put just these on the table when the coffee is served?

(4) Should my husband and I greet our guests at the door?

(1) You might wear one or two white orchids of medium-size, or a corsage fashioned of yellow rosebuds combined with small white flowers, stephanotis, for example or lilies-of-the-valley. Of course the wise thing for you to do is to consult with your florist and have him suggest the flowers and design that would be most "becoming" to you, most harmonious to your costume.

(2) White carnation boutonniers would probably be most appropriate. If your corsage has small white flowers, your husband may wear a few of these as his boutonniere, as he doubtless did, as bridegroom!

(3) You may have one or several trays of cookies, if you wish.

(4), It is best that you assign someone else, a relative or an intimate friend of your family, to stand at the door to welcome your guests and direct them where to leave their wraps . . . you and your husband should stand together (you at his right), in a convenient place in the living room, to greet your guests there.

Women Urged To Use Vote In Elections

SUDBURY (CP)—Women were urged Friday to take greater advantage of the opportunities won when they were first enfranchised.

Mrs. H. Lee of Sudbury told the opening session of a convention of Women's Institutes that women are constantly being praised for advances made by women almost two generations ago.

"We have had the vote for a good long 40 years," she said as conference chairman. "We have had equal educational opportunities with men for much longer than that. Yet out of the 265 members in the House of Commons at Ottawa, only two are women."

The two-day meeting is of the Women's Institutes of the combined districts of Algoma, Sudbury, Manitoulin and St. Joseph Island.

Guest speakers at the conference include Mrs. James Haggerty of Napanee, president of the Federation of Women's Institutes of Ontario.

RAWDON

Memorial Windows Dedicated

RAWDON — A large number of visitors from other points attended the morning service at Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church on Sunday morning when two memorial windows were dedicated. These were made possible by a legacy left by the late George F. Young, whose death occurred January 20th, 1953.

The window on the west of the chancel is a picture of Jesus with a child in His arms. The inscription reads: "In loving memory of Frank Young, his beloved wife Margaret, and their son, George."

The special tribute to the Young family was read by Mrs. Elwood Johnson, of Springbrook, and she unveiled the window.

The window on the east of the chancel is a representation of Holman Hunt's picture "The Light of the World."

This was erected as a tribute to the pioneers of Mount Pleasant congregation who erected the church in 1871. Mr. Rose Hoard unveiled this window.

The balance of the legacy of $2,000 is being applied on an electric organ which will be dedicated on Remembrance Sunday.

The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., gave a message on the theme, "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock." He also paid a special tribute to all the pioneers of the "Hubble Hill district" who settled this district, built schools, homes and the church.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Moore, Darlene Janette, was baptized.

The choir rendered, "O God of Love."

Printed programs were used, and the church was decorated with chrysanthemums.

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves grated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleasantness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is particularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffein, theophylline or theobromine which can rob you of sleep, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing letdown. Postum does not contain tannin to give you indigestion, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and acts like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, or hot milk, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 1¢ a cup. A product of General Foods, Limited.

Blues Roll Over Mustangs While Redmen Shade Gaels

Defending champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs suffered their worst defeat in history Saturday as the visiting University of Toronto Blues rolled over them 45-6 to win the senior Intercollegiate football title.

The Blues were paced by the running of Pete Joyce and the accurate passing of Bryan Aston as they captured the title for the first time since 1954.

Meanwhile McGill University Redmen took over third place behind the Mustangs with a 16-13 victory over Queen's University Golden Gaels.

Each team has one more game to play.

Cena Chorostecki turned a blocked Western kick into the first Toronto touchdown, as tackings rarely threatened after that.

Joyce scored two Varsity touchdowns with the others going to Chorostecki, Tim Reid, Larry Cosgrove and Walt Adams. Adams kicked four converts and Reid one. A conceded safety touch by Western credited to Mike Clarkson and three singles kicked by Dick Risk wound up the scoring.

In the game at Montreal McGill Redmen blocked a pair of convert attempts and counted a last-second safety touch in the final quarter.

McGill turned two fumbles into touchdowns and Charlie McLaughlin converted both.

The touchdowns were scored by fullback Wally Butchak on a two-yard line kick and Gordie Merritt.

CAUGHT IN END ZONE

With one second left centre Leo Kozyk brought down quarter Cal Connor of the Gaels in the end zone for a safety touch.

Connor and halfback Terry Porter counted the two touchdowns for Queen's. Connor scored on a 16-yard run and passed to Porter for the other.

Queen's Jocko Thompson kicked from McGill's 45-yard line for the single in the first quarter.

ROSEWALL WINNER

MADRID (AP)—Ken Rosewall won a two-day pro tennis tournament by beating Tony Trabert 6-3, 2-6, 10-8 in the final Sunday night. Pancho Gonzalez defeated Pancho Segura 6-4, 6-4. Rosewall won a silver cup and 100,000 pesetas ($2,000).

UNOFFICIALLY BARRED

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—The South African government is "definitely not" in favor of sports competition between white and colored persons although there is no specific law prohibiting it, they have announced. An interior ministry statement, issued at the ball-yearly meeting of the Football Association of Southern Africa added the policy was to take every step to ensure observance of what it called South Africa's traditional way of life.

Willie Marshall Proves Asset To Rochester

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Marshall may not like Rochester, but Rochester likes Willie.

Despite threats that he wouldn't report to Rochester Americans from the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, Willie turned up at the United States city Sunday night, three hours before the Americans tangled with Cleveland Barons.

The 26-year-old centre, who can't catch on in the big time hockey world in the AHL, scored one goal and assisted on two others as the Americans won 6-5.

Willie had said he wouldn't go to the minors unless it was with Hershey Bears, who he performed last year before Leafs bought his contract. He was a top AHL scorer last season with 48 goals and 58 assists.

Then tried to send him down a couple of week ago. But Marshall went north on a hunting trip near his home at Kirkland Lake. Leafs gave him another chance to make their team and decided again to ship him out. Rochester said he'd play for Americans or not at all.

OTHER RESULTS

In other games Sunday Buffalo Bisons continued their scoring drive by beating Providence Reds 5-1, and Springfield Indians beat Hershey 4-2. The Bisons moved Springfield 8-4 and Hershey overpowered the Barons 5-2 Saturday.

The Bisons, off to the fastest start of any AHL team in years, have won 10 of their 11 games. They have an eight-point lead over Hershey and Springfield, tied for second.

Cec Hoekstra scored twice for the Americans. Murray Balfour, Claude Laboucane and Gary Aldcorn got singles. Don Hoope, Bob Robertson and Jimmy Moore scored for Cleveland.

Bill Sweeney led the Bisons' Sunday with two goals. Bruce Cline, Dick Gamble and Billy Dea got the others. Cal Gardiner scored the Providence goal.

WINNER BY SCHINKEL

A goal by Kenny Schinkel late in the third period gave Springfield the win over Hershey. Colin Kilburn, Jimmy Anderson and Frank Sullivan counted the other goals. Jack Price and Jack McIntyre were the Hershey marksmen.

Bob Solinger, Les Duff with two, John McIntyre and Arnie Sullivan scored for Hershey Saturday. Ed McQueen and Bob Barlow netted for Cleveland.

Dick Gamble and Bill Dineen each counted twice for the Bisons Saturday, Eddie Kachur, Orland Kurtenbach, Red Bowman and Sweeney added singles.

Schinkel had two goals for Springfield while Jimy Anderson, Kilburn, Bruce Carmichael and Harry Pickiney added one each.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Brampton owned McGlow Express driven by Harold McKinley won the 10th race, a mile C trot for a purse of $800 Sunday night, paying $18.40, $5.70 and $3.80.

Meadow Express finished in 2:11 3-5 to beat out Clever Edna from Ottawa driven by Omer Knight. On the exacta, the two paid $102.20.

The sixth, a mile B pace, was won by Hollyrood Richard from Orono, Ont.

BATAVIA (CP)—Two Canadian - owned horses which had dominated the Batavia Downs Autumn Gold series met in the final Saturday night.

Champ Volo of Montreal Maplewood Stables won its third race in the series in which he appeared six times, and having been in the first two races, Howard Rosecroft, with three wins, couldn't meet the pace and closed in third.

Miche chased Champ Volo to the wire, losing by three-quarters. The swift 2:02.3 clocking was equal to Highland Laird's time set Sept. 20. Miche is the property of John R. Langford of Chatham and Howard Rosecroft is owned by Bud Gilmore of Hamburg, N.Y., and Sheridan Hevington of Lucan, Ont.

SIGN AVATUS STONE

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Colts have increased their roster to the 36-player National Football League limit by signing former Ottawa Rough Rider Avatus Stone, it was announced Saturday.

Stone had been cut earlier this week re-leased Dick Horan after his punting failed to live up to expectation.

It's nice to be some of the people some of the time . . . Take Frinalamm's cuppla guys we know who will be getting trips overseas for gratis . . . One is Marv Edwards, who went to Oslo with the Dunlops and is slated for the Russian trip with Kelowna . . . He also made the trip to the west with the Macs last year. Then there is George S. Dudley, Midland lawyer and secretary manager of the CAHA who will take in both Russian and Prague trips, expenses paid. Besides Mr. Dudley is due for election as the boss-man of the International Ice Hockey Federation come some time in the future . . . . Gordie Bell probably set a league record the other night when he racked up an assist against the Cornwall Chevies . . . . It's a wonder Gordie hasn't more for he has the habit—a good one—of clearing the puck out beyond the blueline whenever he gets a little exasperated. He occasionally got the odd helper when he was playing in the American League . . . . It's too bad his mates let us enough to allow the Cornwall score since Gordie would have had a double bonor, the shutout and assist.

There's a blood-thirsty feud going on between the Kilchener Dutchmen and the Windsor Bulldogs. The slogan seems to be "carve 'em and leave 'em," with no holds barred. Quoth Dutchmen manager Ernie Gonnan the other day, "The Bulldogs are out to carve up the opposition as usual, and did a fine job on Bill Wylie and Ken Laufman both of whom left in stitches, literally, not figuratively." . . . Cornwall Chevies claim an "affiliation" with the Toronto Marlboro junior "A" club. Say they can get players when they need 'em . . . . Junior "B" players note: That first practice is scheduled for tonight at 6.30. Don't be late or you'll have all been "mugged" in their new "Canada" sweaters. Team pictures are scheduled for the immediate future. Seems European teams and pows are always looking for pix of the Allan Cuppers . . . . Chevies report they have sent Ted Szydlowski to North Bay Trappers on loan, h-mmm.

Carlings Breweries have donated through their popular representative, Harold "Speed" Weller, a beautiful trophy as an annual challenge item to the Major "A" Bowling League. The trophy stands about 15 inches in height and boasts a silver colonnade with a bowler in action surmounting it. It is a thing of beauty and the major "A" Leaguers are certain to be duly appreciative. It is another fine gesture on the part of Carlings who have always demonstrated their tangible interest in the furtherance of clean, wholesome sport. Mimeographed will be presented to the members of the winning team each year by the Carlings company . . . This before yesterday's game, the Jones-Senke-McLellan line is the top point-getting trio for the Macs. Davy has 2-5, Lou 4-4, and Johnny 0-5 for a total of 18 points . . . Quinte SS and the BCIVS' meet this afternoon for the Quinte COSSA senior grid title.

Gordie Howe, who is having trouble scoring so far this season, cracks, "They keep moving the net." . . . Hard-tying Minnie Menard of the Macs, wishes they would, at times. . . . . When Sugar Ray Robinson is invited out to dinner he says "no" to everything but black coffee and three lumps of his opponents . . . . BCI junior gridders have clinched the Quinte COSSA junior title and now await the playoffs.

Bloody Unbowed Bruins Nudging First-Place Habs

But Wins Over Leafs, Wings Injure Two More Players; Hawks Defeat Canadiens 4-2

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An odor of antiseptic and arnica wafting into the nostrils of the Montreal Canadiens must be making the kitchens of the National Hockey League downright nervous.

The arena is coming from the bandages of the Boston Bruins, the lurching cripples of the NHL, who won two games during the weekend to extend their upheaval string to five and move within a point of the first-place Habs.

But it cost them.

Already without the services of Doug Mohns and Bronco Horvath, both out with broken jaws, they lost Leo Labine and Norm Johnson in Saturday's encounter with Detroit Red Wings. Johnson suffered a charley-horse and Labine a bruised side.

WEEKEND RESULTS

The weekend action went this way:

Saturday, Boston played host to Detroit, and won 3-1, the visiting Chicago Black Hawks knocked off Montreal 4-2, Toronto Maple Leafs eked out a 4-3 win at home over New York Rangers.

Sunday, Boston and Toronto into their series and blanked Detroit 4-0, while Chicago edged Rangers 2-1 in New York.

The only goal scored against Boston's Don Simmons in two games came on a Norm Ullman shot Saturday. The Bruins' goals against Detroit came from Johnny Bucyk, Jim Morrison and Jerry Toppazzini.

Ed Litzenberger scored his 100th NHL goal in Montreal Saturday and it came in handy as Chicago snapped a six-game winless streak. Jacques Plante, Montreal's wandering goalie, was beaten for Litzenberger's goal.

Eric Nesterenko, Earl Balfour and Ted Sloan made it 4-0 for the Hawks before Montreal came back with goals by Jean Guy Talbot and Dickie Moore.

PLANTE GOOFS

The crowd booed at Plante when he went to the corner for the puck and tried to shoot it to the far side of the rink behind the goal. He goofed and hit the cage. Balfour popped the puck in.

In Toronto Saturday, Tim Horton's first goal of the season, with less than four minutes left, gave the Leafs their win over Rangers. Billy Harris, Bobby Pulford and Ron Stewart also scored for Leafs. Andy Hebenton, Andy Bathgate and Jim Bartlett scored for New York.

Gordie Howe, a Ranger nemesis, ignited Detroit Sunday by scoring his fourth goal of the season—all against New York—in the first period. Hooker Charlie Burns made it 2-0 and New York defenceman Lou Fontinato averted a shutout.

In Boston Sunday the Bruins struck twice within 39 seconds in the second period. Toppazzini and Real Chevrefils did the snipping. Toronto's Johnny Bower was hot in a losing cause, making 36 saves, many of them spectacular.

Montreal tops the standings with 16 points. Boston has 15, Detroit 12, Chicago 10, New York 9 and Toronto six.

Champ Brown Meets Busso On Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown and his apprentice of challengers keep the wheels turning in the boxing business this week.

Brown, one of the busiest of all lilleskolders, takes on Johnny Busso of New York in a non-championship match Wednesday at Malmi Beach, Fla.

Kenny Lane, Nov. 1 challenger from Muskegon, Mich., who was beaten by Brown in a title fight at Houston, July 23, gets back into action Friday at Syracuse, N.Y., when he tackles Houari Godih of Algeria and Paris.

Tommy Tibbs, a busy little Bostonian, goes up to Hall'ax, N.S., Monday night to box the local pride, Richie (Kid) Howard. Saturday, the ubiquitous Mexican featherweight, moved up to the lightweight division Thursday by Los Angeles to take on Armand Savoie, the Montreal scrapper who once fought Jimmy Carter for the title.

Also Saturday, the German light heavyweight who is ranked Nov. 4 among Archie Moore's challengers will operate Hesmund in his native land Saturday night in Munich against Conny Boxberger.

Jose Torres, the hottest attraction at New York's St. Nicholas Arena, Jan. 5, faces Lee Sanford on the like Monday when he defends for his eighth straight against Burke Emery, of Sherbrooke, Que.

Single goals decided the outcome of two Quebec Hockey League games Sunday as Montreal's pace-setting Habitants extended their lead and Chicoutimi Sagueneens moved closer to emerging from the cellar.

Alouettes Bury Argo Hopes Ottawa Verdicts Tiger Cats

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The panic season in the Big Four football union has ended.

The Eastern Final staged in Toronto Saturday where Montreal Alouettes whipped Argonauts 38-20 to take the three-team playoffs with a resounding 4-0 victory. Ottawa Rough Riders made sure of Toronto's last-place finish with a 21-7 decision over Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Ottawa.

With one game remaining in the 14-game schedule, Riders and Alouettes will meet in a sudden-death semi - final Wednesday, Nov. 12. The winner takes on Ti-cats in a two-game total-point final series Nov. 15 and 22 to decide the East's representative in the Grey Cup final at Vancouver a week later.

FLOP BEFORE 36,813

The Toronto flop drew 36,813, the largest in the history of Eastern Canada professional football except for the Grey Cup final, watched Argonauts fumble, stumble and generally put up feeble resistance against the blazing-hot Als. It was the club's farewell appearance at Varsity Stadium after making the north - central Toronto field home for more than 50 years.

Next year Argonauts will play home games at the lakefront exhibition stadium.

Argonauts started the panic season a month ago with a 37-0 victory over Ottawa. They followed with two lopsided victories over the Riders for four victories in 6 games, a record that isn't likely to make anybody jump with glee.

But up to Saturday only the Tiger-Cats had secured a playoff spot. Argonauts were in last place, two points behind Riders and Ti-cats. Both Riders and the Als with two games remaining in the schedule.

GAMBLERS' CAUGHT

Toronto fans became het up because Argonauts' chances, the team had to take the season's end doubleheader from the Als to finish in—and the gamblers caught the enthusiasm to such an extent that they made Toronto 2-to-1 favorites for Saturday's match.

It was the overlay of the season.

The Al's Sam Etcheverry, backed up by a solid defence, did everything but chase Argonauts under the stands. They piled up a 28-0 half-time lead and Toronto spectators left in droves.

Those frustrating months of August and September when Argos, by their own admission, managed to lose eight of nine games.

The panic was on when Ronnie Knox, the poem-writing quarterback on loan from Chicago Bears, directed Argos to the first of their three-straight victories. He was the gamer but Saturday it appeared he didn't have a friend in the park, even among his teammates, as the Montreal defensive team roamed the Toronto backfield.

ARGOS INEPT

He clicked on 14 of 25 passes but many were desperation throws as the ink barged in to dump him or force him to hurry his tosses. The Als took advantage of every Argonaut miscue—and there were plenty.

They scored five touchdowns, three on passes from Etcheverry. He caught Red O'Quinn with two and Bill Bewley with the other. Pat Abbruzzi and Etcheverry scored touchdowns on ground plays, Bewley added five converts, two field goals and a single and Etcheverry added two singles.

Montreal turned two pass interceptions, a wild lateral and a blocked kick into touchdowns. A Knox fumble recovered by Jim Miller paved the way for one of Bewley's placements.

With five minutes remaining in the game and Montreal playing 10 Canadian, Dave Mann swept around the Montreal left side for a touchdown, scored by Vic Kristopaitis.

JACKSON LEADS RIDERS

Fourteen thousand fans at Ottawa watched Canadian quarterback Russ Jackson set up two touchdowns for the Ottawa irish. He passed to Mack Yoder for one touchdown and lateralled to Bobby Judd for a 15-yard end run for the other. Yoder also kicked a converted and a single.

Quarter Bernie Faloney tossed a touchdown pass to Paul Dekker for Ticats' touchdown. Don Sutherland and Cam Fraser booted single points.

The schedule winds up Saturday with Toronto at Montreal and Ottawa at Hamilton.

Cornwall Avenges 3-1 Defeat With 4-0 Shutout

Scored Twice in 1st Period And Never Looked Backward in Lacklustre Senior Game

Time was when "travel-weary" was a good alibi for defeat, but it seems the Cornwall Chevies thrive on bus hops.

Albeit they dropped a 3-1 decision here Friday night and a 6-0 mauling in Whitby Saturday, they had enough "git" left to trounce a lackadaisical, well-rested Macs squad 4-0 at home Sunday.

The Macs splurged enough hockey for five minutes in the second period to throw a scare into the Chevies but that was all. They could not beat Gerry Devanney in the hometown net in the 31 shots they fired at him while four of the 33 they heaved at Bell hit paydirt.

The rest of the way the Macs did little if anything that resembled a championship club.

The McFarlands were assessed eight of the fourteen penalties, all minors but none of the Cornwall goals was scored with the Chevies holding manpower advantages. One was issued in when both teams were a man short.

The Chevies rapped home two goals in the first period and gave McFarlands put on an offensive effort in the second, outshooting the Cheviis 8-8 but they couldn't dent the Devaney armor. The frame was scoreless and the Chevies went on to wrap up the victory with two more counters in the final frame.

The Macs appeared unable to get untracked and their passing plays were not clicking. They failed to capitalize on any of the Cheviis penalties and when they did get through there was the Devaney roadblock.

Davy Jones and Minnie Menard, the latter with the Cheviis, Goyette were sentenced early in the first period but no damage was done as was the case when McLellan got heaved.

Cornwall's Ron Muir scored the first goal of the game and his first of the night at 17.34 when both squads at full strength when he took Guy Hebert's pass to beat Bell.

A half minute later Nobby Clarke smashed home the puck on a gangling play.

McKay got the gate fifty seconds after the second period and sent the Macs put on the pressure. Nothing happened except Devaney's brilliancy when Crawford was heaved and the Cheviis raced to the attack.

Dewsbury and Ernst cut their squads offensive power with rubbers when Crawford and Cornwall's Denis Menard went off for shoving. There was no scoring in the period although the Macs had a slight edge in the play.

Gerald Servias sank another clincher for the Cheviis' victory after a minute of play in the third period beating Bell on a second effort with Henri and Ron Muir.

McLellan and Brown were assessed two of the period three penalties with Clarke drawing the odd one for the Cheviis.

Ron Muir scored his second goal of the night with less than six minutes to go again taking Henris pass for the payoff shot.

Muir with two and Henri were the Cornwall stars although Nobby Clarke and Gerald Servias were credited with goals.

Giants Win Over Browns; Colts Unbeaten

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants handed Cleveland Browns their first defeat of the National Football League season Sunday on a tough New York defense and a final-quarter touchdown by former Montreal Alouette Alex Webster.

The win consolidated the Giants second-place standing and strengthened their bid for the eastern division championship. Cleveland now has five wins and one loss, New York four wins and two losses.

Webster caught two touchdown passes and the Giants' quarterback Chuck Conerly pitched three and set up all the team scoring. Cleveland had a 17-7 lead at the half but New York came back in the final for a 31-27 victory.

The victory play came at 2:50 in the final quarter before a crowd of 78,404, the largest in five years. Webster caught a Conerly 19-yard pass and shook off Ken Konz and Bobby Freeman in going the last five yards.

Baltimore Colts remained the only undefeated team in the NFL in a rain-drenched home game before 51,330 fans they walloped Green Bay Packers 56-0. For Baltimore, the western conference winners, the eastern conference champs.

In other games Pittsburgh Steelers scored a 24-15 triumph over Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles had a 31-21 tie with Chicago Cardinals. On the west coast, San Francisco 49ers defeated Detroit Lions 24-21 and Los Angeles Rams trounced Chicago Bears 41 - 25 before 100,670, a second largest NFL crowd in history.

Farmers Too Abuse the Outdoors

For lo these many years the city slicker has been blamed for a multitude of crimes in the out-doors. Damage to fences, property, livestock and crops has been credited to the metropolitan dweller. Most of the time the blame has been placed where it belongs, but there are always two sides to any question. Little has been done about investigating the outdoor doings of the farmers themselves.

Our house is located on a six-acre plot of ground in the township, outside the city limits. One acre of this land is given over to house and lawn. The other five acres grow wild, just as nature intended, and this area is maintained as a wildlife sanctuary of sorts.

In the fall of 1957, during the upland game season, we were young man with a shotgun walk across our lawn. He and his little spaniel hunted through our hedge and the acre of brush land beyond it. Then they moved onto the golf course which adjoins the lawn.

I put on my hat and hat and walked over to the sixth fairway just in time to see this fellow shoot a rabbit as it ran across number six green. If you play golf, you know that green construction and maintainance is an expensive piece of business. That charge of shot ripped a fairly large swath across the surface of the green.

"NUTHIN' BUT GRASS"

The golf course and pointed to the I explained to the young man that hunting was not allowed on the golf course and pointed to the trespass signs. Then I indicated the damage to the green. "Shucks," he replied, "that ain't nuthin' but grass."

His parting remarks were to the effect that he was going straight home and post his entire farm. Moreover, he expressed his most fervent wish that he could catch one of "you guys" (meaning all city-dwelling hunters, I suppose) putting so much as one foot on his land. He departed in a state of high indignon.

Being fairly well fed-up with complaints about damage done by city-bred hunters, an outdoor columnist in Wisconsin went afield with a photographer on the opening day of the upland gunning season. He didn't do much hunting. Instead, he made photographic record of twelve flagrant and make and former game laws with outright violations — the sort that is tremmy and curse all city folks.

The violations being photographically documented, a careful check was then made. It showed that nine of the twelve violations had been committed by other farmers.

And that isn't all. Subsequent interrogation brought to light neighborhood and elsewhere in his district revealed a good many cases of farmers posting their own land and then taking parties of their own friends to neighbors' posted lands and hunting without permission.

It might be a good idea for farmers who make the most noise about the illegal actions of farmers' sportsmen relations to check over their own homes-farmer relations. Their complaints no doubt will reach more sympathetic ears if they first put their own house in order.

More and more each year the State-managed hunts and wildlife areas are coming into prominence about the idea; we have had these things for years. But recently we are hearing more and more about them.

It wasn't so very long ago that when the opening day of the upland game season or the duck season arrived, a fellow could take his gun — and his dog, if he had one — and go out almost any place in the country. There he could find enough game to keep him happily occupied for the day and, with any luck, could bring home a satisfactory game bag.

Now there are so many hunters abroad that finding game in satisfactory quantities has come to be a tough chore indeed. Not a great deal more game is killed today than was killed 30 or 30 years ago, but the number of hunters in the field has the great outdoors so completely stirred-up and disturbed that game is increasingly hard to find after the open season is one day old.

In the duck marshes, more and more of the good shooting is being privately leased and closed to the shooting public. For a man to find really good duck shooting today by just going out and looking for it is practically impossible. In every hand he is confronted by "Trespass Signs Forbidden", signs of moderate meaty can't go out and lease a private duck marsh for himself.

Thus, managed duck and goose hunts, such as are conducted on Wisconsin's famed Horicon Marsh, are growing more and more popular. Here the State sets up blinds at proper intervals. Applications are sent in by the hunting public's applicants are assured of at least one day of good duck or goose shooting.

By the same token, managed upland game bird-covered grounds serve the same purpose. Here land is acres are specially stocked beforehand, and hunters must register and conform to the game rules. Even with this regimentation, the fellows who sign up have reasonably good shooting and a pleasant day in the outdoors.

Two American College Teams Left Unbeaten

NEW YORK (AP)—The walls came tumbling down on Colorado and Mississippi Saturday and the results left just two major U.S. college football teams unbeaten and untied.

Colorado fell before Oklahoma 25-7 and Louisiana State, No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, toppled Mississippi 14-0.

Oklahoma's victory virtually assured the Sooners their 12th straight conference title and their trip to the Orange Bowl. Louisiana State now has the inside track on the southeastern conference championship and the host's spot in the Sugar Bowl.

The results left Louisiana State and Rutgers as the only major undefeated-untied in the country. Rutgers coasted to its sixth straight victory, a 47-20 verdict over Delaware.

Eight games produced two stunning upsets. Arkansas, which hadn't been able to win a game, throttled Texas A and M 27-6 and Tulsa jolted Houston 25-20.

The bowl picture began to clear a little as a result of Saturday's games.

Not only is Oklahoma practically in, but Iowa all but wrapped up the big 10 championship and the resulting trip to the Rose Bowl with a 37-14 victory over Michigan.

The Hawkeyes, who hadn't defeated Michigan since 1924, are ranked No. 2 in the current Associated Press poll and now show a 4-0 league record. This was coach Forest Evashevski's first victory over Michigan in six times.

Defending big 15 champion Ohio State—not eligible for the Rose Bowl—dropped a 21-0 decision to Northwestern in a major upset. Wisconsin and Purdue, which still have an outside chance of winning the title, won their games. Wisconsin, a setback Michigan State 9-7 and Purdue halted Illinois 31-6.

Oregon State grabbed the inside track in the race for the Pacific Coast conference representative in the Rose Bowl with a 14-6 verdict over California, which had been the nation's No. 1 team.

Army, ranked third in the AP poll, blasted weak Colgate, 59-6, while Auburn, last year's national champion and currently ranked No. 4, edged Florida 6-0 in one of its traditional low scoring games. The Tigers thus remained undefeated, although tied.

Pitt, which had high hopes of winning the eastern championship, was jolted by Syracuse 16-13.

In the southwest conference, which produces the home team in the Cotton Bowl, things remained in chaotic condition. Texas Christian moved into a first place tie with idle Rice by virtue of a 22-0 victory over Baylor.

Cornell regained in first place in the Ivy League with a 25-0 triumph over Columbia.

North Carolina beat Tennessee 27-7, while the latter heels now are prime bowl timber.

At the Belle
AT THE BELLE
"Sierra Baron", Action Drama in Color, and "Untamed Safari", Exciting African Adventure.

"Sierra Baron", Twentieth Century — Fox's De Luxe Color and CinemaScope film dramatization of Thomas Wakefield Blackburn's novel of the California land wars of the last century, offers an unusual and realistic insight into a fabulous era but highly colorful part of American history. Starring Brian Keith, Rick Jason, Rita Gam, Mala Powers and Steve Brodie, the film, A. Skouras production opens today at the Belle Theatre.

"Diamond Safari", Exciting African wild doctors, a man-eating lion-gone berserk, throbbing native drums and dances furnish an exciting background for "Diamond Safari", a story of diamond smuggling opening as the second exciting Feature attraction today at the Belle Theatre. Kevin McCarthy stars as Harry Jordan, special investigator for a diamond smuggling ring, the Twentieth Century — Fox release.

McCarthy starts a trail of adventure which takes him into the lowest quarters of Johannesburg, the diamond mines of South Africa, and jungles of Rhodesia when he agrees to help a native woman clear her husband of a charge of murder. Filmed against authentic South African locales, "Diamond Safari" takes in the capital, the throbbing exotic dances of the Kosa tribes, a treacherous lion hunt in the heart of the jungle, and the witchcraft and wizardry of native spell binders. Scenes actually filmed in one of the largest diamond mines on the Gold Coast show how the precious stones are obtained and add authenticity to the picture.

AT THE PARK — Pira Louise and Lowell Brown, co-starred with James Craig and Audrey Totter in Richard Einfeld's production, "Ghost Diver", examine their underwater findings in the adventure drama now playing at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing. Filmed in Regalscope, the production was written and directed by Richard Einfeld and Merrill Wolfe for Twentieth Century-Fox release. On the same program in Technicolor and CinemaScope "Farewell to Arms", starring Rock Hudson and Jennifer Jones.

"That's it, boss. Accuracy first —THEN distance!"

TEAM WALKS OFF

The championship was awarded to Montreal Canadiens, who were ahead 1-0 when Hungaria's captain Arpad Kiralyi pulled out his squad, claiming spectators were throwing stones.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Tuesday, November 4

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A. M. is apt to find you dissatisfied with ideas and seeming lack of co-operation from higher ups. But by lunchtime, all this is dispelled and there is definite assistance coming from regular associates and also outsiders. Bigwigs, etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — An argument brewing between two individuals vital to your life can make you feel quite unhappy now. Steer clear of it. Later in the day, a most powerful friend agrees with your ideas, if you are poised. P. M. make close ties happy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It seems impossible to reconcile your outside with your inside duties, but if you schedule time more wisely, greater efficiency can be achieved. Adopting modern systems will also increase abundance. Get thought to dieting, treatments, etc.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Spend the earliest part of the day getting financial affairs in best order...under own practical affairs. Afternoon has things clarify concerning how to deal with other individuals more harmoniously. Have a good time and increase abundance.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A close tie gives you a pretty rough time in early A. M., but this soon blows over and all will be peace and harmony under own roof. Make plans for repairs and embellishment of establishment and this pays off big dividends.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Don't allow that private worry to ruin your sense of well-being. "Roll, Pagiacci" and dispel that gloom. Then sensibly seek the advice of best personal advisor you know and follow it. Look into causes and you can change the effects.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Don't listen to some pal who is flushed with some temporary victory or you can be led far afield now. Later in the day more practical results can be reached after the cooling-off period.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be certain A.M. is not to disturb any individual having real power over your affairs. Later part of day will then be fine for you since you can think very clearly and operate in most efficient fashion.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) In A.M. you are very desirous of breaking away from some promise, situation that displeases you. Get advice from a real authority and remain poised; thus you get fine results.

Capricorn ((Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) —Personal advisor who believes you to be more affluent than you are could lead you far astray in A.M. During latter part of day, correct analysis will be made and you get suggestions that...will bring your goals very close to you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Suggestions made by a hard-headed business person and those of an authority are at decided variance. Relax quietly and after careful analysis, you can reach happiest solution to your problems, and all will be smooth sailing.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —The labor you are faced with need not be monotonous since there are many interesting facets connected with it, once you eliminate the ledia. After lunch, everything falls into place and you come a great deal of leeway by positive thinking.

If your child is born today . . . The star child born today will be the type who early in life must learn the greatest lessons by first learning at her finger tips. In a way, this is good because the intellect will be very sharp at maturity and there is much cleverness in the chart. If you are sure to provide a combined education, covering thoroughly the practical and the religious, there is much success denoted here.

Pope Requests Money Be Used For Charity

BERGAMP, Italy (AP) — In Bergamo province, where he was born, Pope John XXIII is worth almost his weight in gold.

No sooner had Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli been elected pope last Tuesday than officials in the province started collecting money to buy him a crown.

They hoped to collect about 10,000,000 lire ($16,000). But spokesman said, they have five times that amount. At the price of gold a goes, that would buy about 7 pounds of the precious metal.

The new pope weighs 200 pounds.

Pope John is reported to have sent word he would prefer the money be used for charity.

DURHAM NATIVE

TORONTO (CP) — Frederick Grange Trull, 98, a life governor of the British and Foreign Bible Society, died here Friday. A member of a Durham, Ont., United Empire Loyalist family and power engineer with Ontario Hydro, he lived in Oshawa for some years before moving here in 1914.

father's people went to Canada from Holland around 1815.

Throughout the weekend he met many Remembrance, and received a welter of suggestions from people anxious to help him on his sentimental quest.

He was told that local traditionconnects the name Bowden with a Hugh Bannerman, who lived there until about 30 years ago. Mr. Diefenbaker recognized the name but did not know the relationship.

He found Bannerman graves in the Edmonton church-yard.

APPRAISES BOOK

LONDON (AP) — Earl Attlee Sunday summed up Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's memoirs as "a fair book" by a chap who puts his foot in it from time to time." He termed Labor prime minister wrote in the London Sunday Observer. "If it is not always accurate and not always modest it is very full of zing and sincere, as his author always is."

Monty's Brush With McNaughton Over Visit Not Forgotten By Canadian Wartime C.O.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A brush he had with General A. G. L. McNaughton in Sicily in 1943 has never been forgotten by Monty — a fact Canada Army men can confer, in the opinion of Field Marshal Montgomery.

In his memoirs published today (Collins), Montgomery recalls difficulties he encountered he had to make early in the Sicilian campaign when McNaughton visited Malta with a party of staff officers, wanted to visit the Canadian divisions under Mr. Montgomery's Eighth Army.

"The First Canadian Division had not been in action before and officers and men were just beginning to find their feet," he recalls, the divisional commander, very young and inexperienced; it was the first time he had commanded a division in battle. Moreover, I knew that he was determined the Canadians must be left alone and he was not willing to have General Simonds bothered with visitors when he was engaged against first-rate German troops.

"However, to make sure I went to see Simonds and asked him if he would like McNaughton to come to Sicily. His reply was immediate — 'For God's sake, keep him away.' On the first I sent a message to Malta asking that the visit be postponed."

Montgomery says that after the Sicilian campaign ended McNaughton did visit Sicily at his Taormina headquarters.

He added: "I have not seen him since those days, although I have paid many visits to Canada since the war ended. It seemed to me that he had never forgiven me for not letting him go to Sicily in July 1943."

Montgomery is critical of the planning for and conduct of the Sicilian campaign but has nothing but praise for the soldiers who, he writes, "were magnificent."

"They had done no fighting before, but they were very well trained and they knew the basics of the battlefield which count for so much and are not always learned. When I drew them into reserve to prepare for the invasion of the mainland, they had begun to become one of the Eighth Army's veteran divisions."

Taking an over-all look at the campaign that began July 10, 1943, Montgomery finds "it had an unsatisfactory ending in that most of the German troops on the island got away across the Straits of Messina to Italy. And to this day we had complete air and naval supremacy.

"This was to cause us great trouble later on when we our-selves went into Italy."

His chief criticisms of the campaign are the lack of a unified plan and lack of co-ordination among the different services.

"Time was vital if we were to exploit success in Italy before the winter set in," he writes. "It took some five weeks to complete the capture of Sicily and the Eighth Army suffered 12,000 casualties. With close coordination of the land, air and fleet this effort we would, in my view, have gained control of the island more quickly, and with fewer casualties."

WELLINGTON

Lakeside OES Holds Annual Tea, Bazaar

WELLINGTON — The Masonic hall, West Street, was the scene of great activity on Saturday evening, it being Lakeside Chapter, O.E.S., annual tea and bazaar. The hours were from six to 10.30 p.m. and many guests and members were there.

Mrs. Ida McFaul and Mr. Thos. Fillingham received the fees at the door, for which prizes were given.

Mrs. Amos Hicks, Worthy Matron, assisted by Mrs. Stuman Down, Associate Matron, welcomed the many guests from the village, Bloomfield, Picton, Quinte, Trenton, Brighton and Belleville.

The various booths were arranged on one side of the hall. There were many plain and fancy aprons, potholders, pillowslips, knitted articles, fancy candles, all exhibited to catch the eye and purse.

The food table was well patronized and offered cakes, tarts, cookies, pies, bread, jams, pickles and eggs.

The sweetest table was most popular and the demand exceeded the supply.

There were many lovely parcels bought at the "Parcel Post" booth and children were kept busy mailing at the "Flin Flon."

Mr. Amos MacDonald donated a cute little puppy on which tickets were sold and the lucky one to win it was Barry McAllister.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The tea table was most attractive and admired by all. Covered with a white linen table cloth it was centred with a beautiful arrangement of bronze and yellow mums (a gift from Mrs. Lockyer) and flanked on either side by glowing yellow candles in silver candelabras.

Tea was poured by many past officers of the Eastern Star. The quartet tables were covered with luncheon cloths with the five star point colored flowers in the centre of each.

Members of the chapter convened the various booths, served tea, helped in the kitchen and sold tickets.

Share-the-wealth bingo was played and everyone had lots of fun. The members wish to thank everyone who helped to make this event so successful.

The door prizes were presented to Arthur Archard, Mrs. Don Thurston, Picton; Mrs. Jack Thomas, Mr. MacGuire, Trenton.

Draws on the hampers and two baskets of groceries were won by Doug Thompson, Picton; Mrs. Mae Benway and Mrs. William Gassira.

GETS REMAND

KITCHENER (CP) — Frank Martin, 51, of Galt, charged with murder in the June 20 fatal beating of Mrs. Helen Rahman, 44, was remanded in custody to Nov. 19 when he appeared in court Wednesday. Mrs. Rahman, a neighbor, was found bludgeoned in a garage adjoining her country store, 11½ miles south of Hespeler.

Bare-Face Miners Do Terrific Job in Springhill Rescue

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)— "Those bare-face boys are doing a wonderful job. I go to bed at night and I think of them and I can't sleep."

That's what 57-year-old Andy Stevenson, a veteran of Springhill's mines of grief, said as he sat on a restaurant stool here, and thought about of the things that have been keeping him awake.

"Those men have got guts and they got love. . love for their buddies."

Andy missed by one shift the bump which shattered Cumberland No. 3 colliery nine days ago. His stomach pains have kept him from the search for the men trapped in the underground upheaval.

Andy wasn't crying as he sipped noodle soup, but he nearly bawled.

"I know all those men. . I worked with them every two weeks. I know right where they all are."

His nephew Bill Stevenson, was the first injured man brought to the surface after the accident. His own uncle for whom he was named, was one of the 125 miners killed here in an explosion in 1891.

Andy still carries a picture of his uncle, dressed in mining gear and carrying the same scant equipment the bare - facers are using 70 years later.

The "bare - faced" miners, so named because they wear no type of breathing apparatus, use picks and mauls to clear debris from blocked underground passages. Three times a day, fresh crews of them men return to a place of work so grim they won't talk about it.

They claw through rock and coal and fallen timbers to free the body of a man they fashioned with, drank with and argued with in the washouse on Saturday night. One of them said a reporter should go into the death-filled mine so he could tell the world the story.

"I can tell you it's just awful."

The bare-facers and draegermen each have their own special tasks to perform.

The draegermen, wearing oxygen masks and carrying equipment weighing 30 pounds, work in areas where there is gas or danger of gas. Their object is to punch a small opening through the debris to allow air to circulate to drive out the gas. Often they crawl on their bellies through tunnels barely three feet square.

Once the gas is cleared, bare-faced miners can join them in expanding the passages to the area where there is a slim chance men may still be alive.

Both bare-facers and draegermen live with uncertainty about what the mine will do to them.

Maybe it will growl and shake and kill.

Maybe its battered walls will ooze the gas that knocks a man over with one breath and kills him with another.

Shift after shift, the blackened bare-facers come out.

Things are about the same, they say. It's pretty slow.

A few will admit it's so grim they can't sleep or eat.

On Wednesday it became all worthwhile. The bare-facers made a hole into an open area.

Twelve of their pals were carried through the hole alive after being entombed for six days.

"They were alive and nothing else seemed to matter," said bare-facer Earl Wood.

Their work in the current Springhill disaster was being successful beyond anything they imagined.

CATHOLIC SUPREME PONTIFF CROWNED

Chinese Reds Say Poison Gas Used By Nationalists

Charge Denied, Believe Reds May Plan Use

TAIPEI (AP) — Communist China today accused the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy of firing poison gas at the Chinese mainland.

The Nationalists denied it. Reds forces were using gas and in high gear. Communists started by using the propaganda groundwork to use poison gas themselves.

The Communists claimed the gas attack occurred during Mao Tse-tung's bloodiest shelling day during which the Reds pounded Quemoy and its smaller neighbors with 39,161 shells in 18 hours. The firing subsided to a mutter on Sunday and Monday area was reported quiet today—an even-numbered day of the month on which the Communists are pledged not to attack Nationalist areas.

RETALIATION THREAT

Peiping Radio claimed 14 Communist troops were "affected" by the alleged gas attack and said: "Should the Kuomintang troops dare to continue to use poison gas against our troops they will surely receive punitive action."

Hsiao-chien Hsi, Red-ai, chief Nationalist defence ministry spokesman, declared, "this claim is absolutely unfounded."

"We have no such inhumane weapons in hand and the Communists have not given us such weapons," he said. "We have no intention to use such weapons in any further stage of the struggle of our people."

But he added that "we'll take other measures" if the Communists resort to using poison gas."

He said the Peiping warning is considered "a deliberate fabrication that the enemy may be preparing the way for adopting such inhumane weapons."

On his counter-warning, Liu declared he abhorred it. But he obviously meant measures other than shelling, such as serial bombing on the Communist mainland barracks. The United States has proposed any such bombing, fearing it would widen the offshore war.

Liu also said the use of poison gas was discussed during the Chiang-Dulles talks, but that this was condemned by world opinion, has not been used in warfare since the First World War. It is regarded as an inefficient weapon which a change of wind would bump against its user.

U.S. ISSUES DENIAL

The U.S. Defence defence command's chief, Vice-Admiral Roland N. Smoot, said in a statement that the Chinese charge was absolutely untrue.

Smoot said he not furnished the Chinese Nationalists with poison gas shells" or said, "This is obviously a typical propaganda fabrication."

The Chinese Communists frequently raised the poison-gas charge in the past. They have also accused the UN allies in Korea of resorting to germ warfare. Both charges were strongly denied.

Only 16 Missing As Tired Crews Continue Search

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Rescue-tired rescue crews continued to dig and scrape through the death-filled No. 2 mine today looking for 36 men trapped since Oct. 23.

Fifty-eight miners are known dead and 105 of 176 trapped in the upheaval have been rescued. Four those still trapped, there was no hope of survival.

Rescue work was going ahead at the 15,000 and 15,400-foot levels. At times it was slowed by recurring falls of rock. In some places the diggers sifted into the narrow tunnels as fast as the men could dig it out.

The body of John Jackson was brought to the pithead of No. 2 colliery today. Jackson had left 16 men unaccounted for.

SEVEN FUNERALS TODAY

The town expected to bury 81 dead. Seven funerals were held Monday and seven more were scheduled today.

At the Rogers lumbered through the streets in an almost steady procession, the two vehicles that returned 39 men from the dead never all but forgotten.

Two days after the Oct. 23 bump officials announced there was only a remote hope any would be freed from their tombs. On Wednesday, 9½ days later, 12 men were found alive.

And Saturday morning seven more men were saved, one Bryon Martin, buried alone in a space the size of a coffin.

COST OF LIVING INDEX CLIMBS TO RECORD HIGH

Third Month in Row Prices Have Climbed

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose to a new high during September, pushing the consumer price index up two-thirds of a point to a record 126 on Oct. 1 from 125.6 on Sept. 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

It was the third consecutive monthly rise in the retail prices barometer based on 1949 prices equalling 100. Similar increases showed in all branches of consumer spending during September.

Prices rose for best-most important foods, fruits and vegetables, rents, coal and electricity, furniture, doctors and dentists' fees. These offset declines for pork, eggs, coffee, most domestic fruits and vegetables.

The over-all price index high of 126 on Oct. 1 compared with 125.6 a month ago. Wholesale prices during October showed only slight changes. The index for 30 industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, edged ahead to 229.8 in the week ended Oct. 24 from 229.4 in the week ended Oct. 17.

However, the Canadian farm products index, also based on 1935-39 prices, declined to 311.2 from 312.5.

There was scope inducement, amid the current, for still price rise, the bureau commented, for losing ground on purchasing power. The average weekly earnings in manufacturing industries dropped to $66.98 on Aug. 1 from $67.47 on July 1. Taking price rises into account, the Aug. 1 wage, translated into 1949 dollars, dropped to $53.30 from $54.11 in July.

200,000 Witness Religious Rites In Great Square

Crowd Thunders Wildly, Shouting 'Viva il Papa'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today was crowned the 262nd supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

Some 200,000 Italians and foreign visitors in the great square of St. Peter's thundered a mighty ovation as the successor to Pope Pius XII was crowned before them. A threat of rain was in the air and an occasional sprinkle fell.

Nicola Cardinal Canali, president of the College of Cardinals, placed the bejewelled tiara — set of jewel-encrusted gold on the farmer's son from a little hilltop Italian village after more than four hours of glittering religious rites inside the vast basilica.

The coronation took place on the same central balcony overlooking the square on which Pope John made his first appearance a week ago today after his election.

FAMILY PRESENT

All the ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church was mustered for the coronation rites. But there was humility, too, in the presence of the pontiff's family. Three sister and many brothers, nieces, nephews and nieces were present, dressed in their Sunday best. They watched in awe, weeping with emotion, as their kinsman, the former Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli, went through the coronation ceremony.

The act of coronation came at 1 p.m. 17 a.m. EST). A few minutes later the ceremony began.

Through it all the 76-year-old former patriarch of Venice remained serene, often smiling benignly. His voice throughout was strong and his greetings to the Catholic hierarchy of the world remained clear and resonant.

ADJUST CROWN—HIMSELF

The crowd began to roar as 84-year-old Cardinal Canali took the crown in his hands and moved to place it on the pontiff's head. The pontiff adjusted the crown himself and turned to face the crowd.

The Pope rose slowly and chanted his "urbi et orbi"—the traditional blessing of the pontiff to the city of Rome and the world. The crowd remained silent throughout his recitation, which in a firm, loud voice.

For the first time in history millions of West Europeans witnessed the coronation of a pope through the agency of television. The Vatican radio also broadcast the long ceremony.

Pope accepted a plenary indulgence not only to all those present but also to those listening to the radio or watching television. The Pope slowly made the sign of the cross in several directions at the end, and after the Papal Choir chanted "Amen," the crowd wildly, shouting "Viva il Papa"—long live the Pope—over and over.

50,000 IN BASILICA

More than 50,000 persons had filled the vast reaches of St. Peter's Basilica for the solemn pontifical mass and coronation ceremony.

Democrats Shoot for Record Senate Gain in Today's Vote

WASHINGTON (CP) — Americans voted today to determine the congressional lineup in the final two years of President Eisenhower's second term, and coincidentally for key state governorships that may determine his successor.

All stake were 437 of the 435 seats in the United States House of Representatives, where the tenure is two years, and one-third of the Senate's 96-seat line-up. In the state contests 32 governorships were up for renewal.

There mid-term elections make or break the party whose standardbearer occupies the White House. While the president is not at stake, the hopes of future candidates for the highest American office usually ride on the "off-year" results.

The presidential term is four years, with voting for that office every leap year. Senators serve six-year terms, and one-third of their number face the voters each two years. All congressmen from the lower house defend their seats every two years.

Three of the 435 representative seats were determined earlier this year in the traditional bellwether elections in Maine.

In September the traditionally Republican state elected a Democratic governor and U.S. senator along with two Democratic congressmen and one Republican for the lower house.

The newest state, Alaska, enters the federal lists later this month when two senators, one congressman and a governor will be elected for No. 49 on Nov. 25.

In advance of today's voting the Democrats controlled 49 seats in the Senate to 47 for President Eisenhower's alsorents. The opposition party also had a major-

Cubans Elect Batista's Choice In Light Voting

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Former premier Andres Rivero Aguero was elected president in a fair manner to succeed his political sponsor, President Fulgencio Batista, who completes his six-year term Feb. 24.

A light turnout and bloodshed marked the balloting Monday.

Hundreds of thousands of 2,870,000 eligible voters—perhaps as many as 60 per cent — stayed away from the polls.

Rivero Aguero's Castro had called for a boycott. With eight candidates splitting the anti-Batista campaigning, Castro threatened death to all other candidates and to persons who dared cast the voted.

Judge Rejects Move to Quash Fraud Charges

TORONTO (CP)—A justice of the Ontario Supreme Court has rejected a bid to quash, on a legal technicality, four charges of fraud against former officials of Acadia Leasing Company.

Defence counsel Joseph Sedgwick asked that the charges be made void because the formation of the grand jury that indicted his client, Montreal millionaire Joseph Beaudry, did not initial the names of witnesses as required by law.

Mr. Justice C. T. Walsh turned down the motion.

It was reported that if the case goes to trial more than 400 witnesses may be called to testify on six counts of fraud. Beaudry, former Acadia president, and Clifford H. Butler, Acadia's former business manager.

The charges against them resulted from a four-month investigation by the Ontario securities commission after Acadia shares dropped to $1 from $10 on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Spromghill Mulatto Willing to Go To Georgia Even if Segregated

ATLANTA, Ga. (CP)—A mulatto survivor of the Springhill, N.S. mine disaster is willing to go along with his mates in accepting a holiday as the guests of the government of Georgia, even if segregation is involved for himself and his wife.

"State law in Georgia says a Negro family must be provided housing and the law would apply to Maurice Ruddick, his wife and 13 children," Ruddick, 46, says he's willing to follow the local rules. "It wouldn't be the first time he and his family had ever had to live apart, even in their home."

His decision means that a number of Canadian officials probably will accept the governor's offer.

But the oddity of the affair, which has the governor of Georgia, Marvin Griffin, offered a vacation to the survivors of the underground accident, was that they apparently is no housing available for Negroes in the Georgia area the governor suggested as a vacation spot.

Griffin was in Canada on a hunting trip when he made the offer to the survivors of the first

COSTLIEST STRIKE IN YEARS ENDS AT STELCO PLANT

Strikers to Vote On Contract Wed.

TORONTO (CP) — Union and management today were drafting a contract for 8,077 workers at Hamilton's Steel Company of Canada plant, spelling an end to one of Canada's costliest strikes of the year.

Labor Minister Daley announced an agreement late Monday on the 8th day of the walkout by members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC).

He said only that company and union officials "have agreed to prepare a memorandum of settlement" and that strikers would vote on it in a mass meeting Wednesday at 9 a.m.

The agreement was expected to provide for a 25-cent hourly wage increase, effective on the three-year contract retroactive to Aug. 1. There was no indication of what fringe benefits might be added.

COSTLY STRIKE

The strike at Canada's largest steel plant—where wages usually set a pattern for Canadian industry—has cost an estimated $50,000,000 in lost production and about $9,000,000 in lost wages, or more than $1,000 per worker.

A union spokesman said the 8,077 strikers and their families lost wages because "there are thousands of Canadians who will

PCs Cooling Toward Generals Who Criticize Defence Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — There has been a noticeable cooling by the Progressive Conservatives toward two former Canadian army generals who have been critical of defence policy since 1955.

When LL-Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of the general staff, and Maj-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former army adjutant-general, retired from the army three years ago they began to rap the government sharply for its defence decisions, or lack of them.

The Conservatives were in opposition then, of course, and they seized on the generals' arguments with some zest, using them as a springboard for a demand for establishment of a Commons defence committee to air the charges.

The Conservatives didn't attempt to make the two generals their heroes. Gen. Simonds' suggested suggestion for some system of national selective service precluded that.

Nor did the Conservatives support the generals' specific criticisms. However, they did maintain that Gen. Simonds' talents were being wasted and asked why he had not been promoted to chairman of the chiefs of staff committee instead of being retired.

Hon. George Drew, then opposition leader, and Hon. George Pearkes, now defence minister, argued that no one could know whether the generals' charges were true unless they were investigated by a Commons committee.

This was in 1956 after Gen. Simonds had contended in a magazine article that the chiefs of staff committee had been "relegated to the armed forces were denied an opportunity in place their views before the defence minister and that the Canada - United States joint board on defence acted as a barrier between the Canadian and American chiefs of staff.

Gen. Macklin held that the air defence system was no better than the Maginot Wall of China.

Hon. Ralph Campney, then Liberal defence minister, denied the charges.

The government changed last year. But the two generals didn't. They kept on attacking defence policy.

When the Commons estimates committee examined defence spending earlier this year, the CCF tried to have generals Simonds and Macklin called as witnesses.

The Conservatives and Liberals combined to defeat this move. The former now were in office and the latter just receding out.

"The generals now have delivered their message," Liberals say.

Gen. Simonds said in a speech at Montreal Monday that Canada's defence policy needs searching re - examination. He urged establishment of a system capable of destroying intercontinental Ballistic Missiles.

Two years ago, Gen. Macklin charged that Canada has become a military satellite of the U.S. and said the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile will be no more effective than manned interceptors.

Though not available for comment on Gen. Simonds' speech, Mr. Pearkes last week said Gen. Macklin was talking "nonsense."

The wheel has come almost full circle.

'Fortress of America' Defence Plan Militarily Impractical Says Simonds

MONTREAL (CP) — LL-Gen. Guy Simonds says a defence policy based on the concept of a "fortress of North America" is militarily impractical.

The former chief of general staff of the Canadian Army made the statement Monday in an address to a Canadian Club luncheon.

He urged a "searching re-examination" of all points of Canada's defence policy and expressed the belief that projected defence expenditures outlined in the federal budget are more than this country can afford.

"I don't believe there is any sense in expending large sums of money on a defence which cannot be effective in any event," he said.

Canada, he added, is caught in a squeeze between American isolationist thinking and her own defence requirements.

"But it would be ridiculous for anyone to suggest that we do not co-operate with the United States. It is there they are charged with the task of leading the Western world in the face of the Communist challenge."

If Canada is to have an effective defence policy, political circles and military planners must lose no time in studying how to use the intercontinental ballistic missile.

The combination of radar detection lines and interceptor fighters had a reasonable chance of offering defence in the period of the atomic bomb. But it had lost its validity the day the hydrogen bomb became a reality.

General Simonds retired from his army post in 1956 after a dispute with the government.

He has since entered private business.

Only 16 Missing As Tired Crews Continue Search

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Rescue-tired rescue crews continued to dig and scrape through the death-filled No. 2 mine today looking for 36 men trapped since Oct. 23.

FIFTY-eight miners are known dead and 105 of 176 trapped in the upheaval have been rescued. Four those still trapped, there was no hope of survival.

Rescue work was going ahead at the 15,000 and 15,400-foot levels. At times it was slowed by recurring falls of rock. In some places the diggers sifted into the narrow tunnels as fast as the men could dig it out.

The body of John Jackson was brought to the pithead of No. 2 colliery today. Jackson had left 16 men unaccounted for.

SEVEN FUNERALS TODAY

The town expected to bury 81 dead. Seven funerals were held Monday and seven more were scheduled today.

At the Rogers lumbered through the streets in an almost steady procession, the two vehicles that returned 39 men from the dead never all but forgotten.

Two days after the Oct. 23 bump officials announced there was only a remote hope any would be freed from their tombs. On Wednesday, 9½ days later, 12 men were found alive.

And Saturday morning seven more men were saved, one Bryon Martin, buried alone in a space the size of a coffin.

COUNCIL WILL TAKE ADVANTAGE OF GOVERNMENT OFFER

City council will give consideration to a winter works program which would take advantage of the Federal government offer of 50 per cent of labor costs for certain municipal projects.

Projects eligible for the federal assistance are construction and maintenance of roads, and work on parks and water and sewage systems. The federal assistance would be from December 1st to April 30.

20 VAPOR LUMINAIRES WILL BE PLACED AT STRATEGIC POINTS

An additional twenty 400-watt mercury vapor lights (street lights) will be placed at strategic points in various parts of the city.

Authorization for the lights was given last night at city council. Six of the lights will be placed at points on the West Hill and the balance on the east East Hill district. The lights are similar to those installed years ago at the most important intersections in the residential area.

The estimated monthly increase in street lighting costs as result of the new lights will be $644.

CITY HALL TOWER MAY BE LIGHTED

Belleville's 85-year-old city hall clock tower may be floodlighted after dark appearance and to provide an attractive landmark.

The idea has been suggested by city council following completion of sandblasting of the brick and other restorational work but has been temporarily shelved pending a report on possible costs by City Manager Drury Denyes.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS AT INTERSECTION TO BE CONSIDERED

The matter of traffic lights at the North Front Street-College street intersection will be taken under consideration by the traffic committee next year.

Alderman Robert Templer at city council last night said there had been several requests for traffic lights at this point. However, any immediate action would require an agreement between the city and Thurlow township.

After January the area would be entirely within the city and assurance was given the matter would then be given consideration.

Is Decorated 13 Years After War Service

Robert E. Perry, secretary of the Belleville Unit No. 84 Royal Canadian Legion, has just received notification that he has been awarded the U.S. Commendation, over thirteen years after his bravery was seen.

One of the decorations is the Bronze Star Medal, eighth in order of importance on the list of U.S. decorations. The notification states that this was awarded "for exemplary conduct in ground combat against the armed enemies during U.S. Ardennes-Alsace campaign." The other decoration is the Combat Infantry Badge.

Mr. Perry, who has been a resident of Belleville for the past six years, served in the Canadian army before transferring to the U.S. army.

Rotary Members Enjoy Feats Of Legerdemain

"The Charlie Chaplin of Magic" entertained the members and guests at the weekly Rotary Club dinner meeting held in the Hotel Quinte yesterday noon. Gordon Foley, a sixteen-year-old sleight of hand artist from Hamilton, who now attends the Ontario School for the Deaf, delighted those present with his feats of legerdemain in which he has taken professional training. Attired in a costume a la Chaplin of the silent pictures, Mr. Foley was assisted in some of his repertoire by a few selected members who still, apparently, are not quite sure what exactly happened. Mr. Joe Demeza introduced the guest performer.

Stan Davis, back from his Caribbean holiday, presented the club president, Jack Vanover, with the club banner of the San Juan Rotary Club in Puerto Rico.

The guest for the meeting was introduced by Art Francis. The club welcomed a former president and member John Deacon back to the club for the meeting. James Maxwell MacLean was awarded with a birthday cake. Bill Morrison reported that the club's history committee was interested in obtaining any old Rotary bulletins or rosters.

It was announced that the annual turkey dinner, which was not held last year, was being held on Thursday, November 13. Jack Vanover was chairman of the meeting.

Health Dept. Accommodation Awaits Report of Manager

Council decision on action to be taken toward providing additional accommodation for public health department will be delayed at least another week pending a report by City Manager Drury Denyes.

Council was told last night that Mr. Denyes would bring in cost estimates, both for renovating part of the market space at city hall, and also for restoration costs for the concrete building on the Bridge St. municipal parking lot.

A week ago council turned down a motion to proceed with renovations at the parking lot building, costing an estimated $15,000, and asked the city manager to bring in cost estimates for both this building and for renovations at city hall.

However, at last night's regular meeting Alderman Dr. James Forrester in council reported to the board of health, stressed the urgency of the question and called for re-instruction in the matter.

Alderman Ralph Graham noted it had been the pending report of the city manager, which had resulted in the problem, being laid over at the committee meeting. He suggested the urgency of the matter was not so immediate that it could not wait another week.

Aldermen C. D. Tice, Effie McCabe and Frank Grandaise held that the matter was urgent, stressing that more space was urgently needed by the health department. At the same time they did not feel that the Operation Facelift, which netted the Hospital Auxiliary $6,000 per year, should be moved to the basement, as suggested.

CLAIMS MATTER URGENT

Alderman Dora Mossan said he did not approve of moving the Opportunity Shop from the parking lot to provide space for the health department but asked if "we can't up to some place to get a dollar wherever it could."

He said expansion of the health department into the market building would be economical as all facilities such as janitor and switchboard were already available.

Alderman Forrester claimed the matter of accommodation for the health department was "very urgent and suggested the building on the parking lot was where the department should go.

He quoted Medical Officer of Health, Dr. McColl Metcalfe as saying the building would be adequate and would fill the needs of the department.

"We have a good health board and staff but I submit if the morale of the staff can be maintained unless the matter of additional space is solved."

"This situation is amusing," said Alderman Don Whalen. "We have requested the city manager to bring in a report on the cost of renovations for both accommodations. The matter of additional space for the health department has been discussed in council for two years and now efforts are being made to push the matter through for the sake of one week."

The amendment to lay the matter over, pending the city manager's report was carried by one vote.

Provincial Police On Manhunt Along Highway

An excited report from a Sidney township resident of a woman or girl calling for help from a parked auto, sent Provincial Police on a manhunt along 401 Highway shortly before noon today.

The report was that the woman was seen waving from a car parked along the 3rd concession, north of 401 Highway.

A licence number was given to police, but on checking it out the O.P.P. found the number to have been wrong as the car was licensed in Toronto and has that 20 hour later.

Yes Vote Would Extend Franchise To All Over 21

A referendum aimed at extending the municipal vote to all persons over 21 years who are British subjects and who have lived for a year in the city, will be placed before the electors at the next municipal election.

The motion calling for the referendum was carried almost unanimously at city council last night.

Alderman Les Digby, sponsor of the motion, said that under present amendments to the election act, municipalities could now extend the vote to all over 21 who were British subjects and who qualified under the one-year residence rule.

The extension of the franchise would not give such people the right to vote for school board or for public utilities commission or to vote on money matters.

However, it would give the right to vote for council members to many people who now entitled to municipal franchise. These would include parents living with their children, adult children living with parents and also roomers and boarders.

Alderman Dr. James Forrester said he had no objection to the question being placed before the people but said he had not yet made up his mind how he would vote at that time.

Only Alderman William Argue opposed the motion.

Response Makes Possible Hiring Another Teacher

Officials of the Quinte School for Retarded Children extend their appreciation today for generous contributions by Belleville and Trenton residents Saturday when a total of $1600.91 was collected in their Tag Day. It was the first appeal for funds by the school.

With one class already in operation, plans are now underway to open a second class early in the new year. Behalf response on Saturday's tag day has made it possible to secure a teacher for this class. All funds collected are used for school operation purposes. Auxiliary help and miscellaneous expenses are strictly voluntary.

Mr. Tom Powell, Association president today expressed his appreciation on behalf of the organization for the wonderful support received from the Belleville-Trenton residents, and also to all workers who made the tag day a success.

Chief Scout Presents Certificate

Travelling Alone

Mrs. Mary Burke, above, 85-year-old mother of Mrs. S. Mc-Cleary, 7 Dundas avenue will arrive by boat in Montreal, on Friday from Ireland. She will land, to spend the winter in Trenton with her daughter and son-in-law. Mrs. Burke is making the trip from Bradford, Yorkshire, all alone and is sailing on the Empress of France which docks in Montreal this Friday. It is the third trip the elderly lady has made across the ocean in recent years. The first was in 1949, the second in 1955, when she was celebrating her 80th year. Her daughter had left England 12 years ago this week when her husband came to Canada to work at the Downs-Coulter Woollen Mills.

Council Members Approve Hiring Another Fireman

TRENTON — Town Council last night approved the hiring of another permanent fireman, to fill the vacancy left when Cecil Ellis was promoted to head the department. The council met in the Board Room of the municipal building.

Members also approved the sending of a cheque for $1,000 to the wife of the late-fire chief Clarence Carey. Both matters were tabled before the councillors by Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee.

In addressing the council, Mr. Worrall stated the additional man for the permanent force of the fire department was needed to enable the chief to go by truck on the east side of the river and man it around the clock. The fire department has been operating a man short since the death of Fire Chief Orser and felt the approval should be granted by the council.

On the granting of $1,000 to Mrs. Orser, Councillor Worrall said the Compensation Board will be coming because the official report from the provincial coroner listed the cause of death as a heart attack. Mr. Worrall said that because the chief had died while on duty in a fire, and because of the many ways he had helped the town in the past, he would recommend that the Town of Trenton send the sum of $1,000 to Mrs. Orser. All councillors agreed.

Mr. Worrall also read a letter from the new chief of the fire department, Cecil Ellis, which thanked the council members for their confidence in him and for giving him a chance to handle the job. His letter stated that his ambition will be to make the Trenton Fire Department one that the town will be proud of.

Councillor Worrall also asked the council to approve giving a banquet to the members of the RCAF fire department to show the town's appreciation for the help they have given in the past fires. He also read a letter from the RCAF department stating it will be only too willing to help the town in fighting fires in the future when and if the need arises.

On a question from one of the council members, Councillor Worrall said A/Lieut. Carson Lewis will be in command of the department when Chief Ellis is away on courses, etc. He also told the council that the pension plan for the town fire-fighters is being studied further and that any plan adopted will be in the best interest of the firemen.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — A letter from the Department of Municipal Affairs was read at the council meeting last night stating that approval had been given to the raising in the annual levy of councillors. This will give the councillors sitting in next year's council $1,000 each for services. It had been previously mentioned that the mayor would also get an increase of some $500 per year but this was not mentioned in the letter read to the council last night.

The town solicitor, R. S. Campbell, reported in a letter to council that there was no record of any lane in the area of Wragge and McGill Streets. It had been the desire of some local citizens to buy this land, way if the town was not going to improve it. However, the matter had been turned over to the town solicitor for his investigation at the last council meeting.

A letter from the LaFrance Company told the council its representative had made a survey of the town sheds, concerning fire extinguishers, and had found that only one was in the building. The letter gave recommendations for what was needed for proper fire protection there and also pointed out that each piece of town machinery should also have a fire extinguisher on it. Councillor Joe Gould, chairman of the Public Works Department, said he felt the whole matter should be turned over to the committee for investigation and recommendations made at the next meeting of council. Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee, agreed with Councillor that in a few days a fire truck, fully equipped, will be stationed permanently at the town sheds along with a fire-fighting crew and the matter be turned over to the committee for further study.

A letter from Chief Constable Jack Taylor asked the council to confirm his action in suspending taxi licenses No. 1 which was owned by a local taxi driver who has been found guilty of drunk driving on a charge received by the town council. A resolution was passed confirming the Chief's action and the suspension of the licence.

A letter of thanks was received from the Trenton Memorial Hospital Board concerning the grant for $3,000 from the town. Further letters of thanks were received from E. Klingspon who has a small business on the corner of Herman and Dundas St. In his letter he praised the work of the town in having a new sidewalk built along the street and the work of the contractor for the Lakeland Gas Company in levelling off the boulevard between the sidewalk and the curb. He said in his letter that it was felt that in the spring when the grass grows it will look good. He also said in the letter that the many inconveniences at the time the work was being done will be more than worth it.

A request from the Quinte Disabled Persons Committee to purchase some additional lots in the Elizabeth-Ramsay Streets district, was turned over to the committee for further investigation and recommendation to the next meeting of council. It was felt the town would have to do considerable work in the area in devising the land so water lines there and that it should be given further study at committee level.

Two by-laws were given first, second and final readings last night at the council meeting. The first provided for exemption from taxation for ten years to the new Canadian Legion hall. This would not include taxes for schools and local improvement purposes. It was noted that the Municipal Act provides for this, stating that such exemption can be made for a period of ten years to this type of building erected and used by men who have served in the armed forces. The second by-law gave authority for the town to purchase a lot on Lloyd Street from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hagerty for the sum of $300.

Councillors Ray Fox and Yago Lange were missing from last night's council meeting due to illness in the family. All other members were present and interested visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Atkinson, chairman of the Public Utilities commission; Miss Marion Baker, secretary of the Trenton Parks Board, and Miss Lorna Baker, town clerk - treasurer O. W. Larry, Town Engineer, Eric Alexander and town Solicitor Rod Campbell were also at the meeting. Council adjourned at 8.07 p.m. and adjourned at 10.27 p.m. Accounts totalling nearly $160,000 were passed for payment.

Town Clerk O. W. Larry, accompanied by Town Engineer Eric Alderson and the manager of the Trenton Public Utilities, J. Page, left this morning for Toronto where they will meet with authorities on the ways to charge electric rates to the users and ways of charging these rates on a monthly basis on the same bill as issued for water and light.

Drop in Wheat Shipments Leads To Decline of Domestic Exports

OTTAWA (CP) — A substantial drop in wheat shipments in the third quarter of 1958 led to a sizeable decline in Canada's total domestic exports from the corresponding period in 1957, the dominion bureau of statistics reported today.

But for the first nine months of the year exports decreased by only a marginal one per cent over the 1957 period.

In the third quarter, a 19-per-cent decrease in wheat exports more than offset greater shipments of uranium, aircraft and parts and autos.

For the nine months, the overall volume of domestic exports increased slightly while prices of the value of shipments to $3,547,000,000 from $3,569,800,000. The corresponding 1957 period.

In the first nine months of this year the proportion of Canadian exports to the U.K. rose slightly to 15.4 per cent. Commonwealth countries took six per cent.

The U.S. took 56.7 per cent of Canada's exports, Europe 12.4, Latin America 7.2 and other countries 3.3, all down from last year.

Imports for the year still ahead of wheat at the top of the export list.

Bear Steaks for Cassidy Family

It will be bear steaks for the Cassidy family of Belleville and 3rd concession of Sidney township, following yesterday's hunting expedition to the hunter's district when Clifford Cassidy shot a 450-pound black bear.

Mr. Cassidy with two companions, Larry and Allan Measgher, also of Belleville, had said they could do to carry the bear's carcass out of the bush.

"I was sitting at a runway watching for deer when I heard the noise in the bush," related Mr. Cassidy to the Ontario Intelligencer. "I first thought it was a deer.

He saw the bear first at a distance of nearly 300 yards and, taking careful aim downed it with the first shot from his high powered rifle. The first shot didn't kill the bear, however, and he made towards the hunter who pumped eight more bullets into the animal.

The three-man party misted getting a deer on their first day but are going back for another attempt. Mr. Cassidy is shown with his black bear trophy.

"GREATER LOYALTY"

The other day we said editorially that Prof. Carl Freiderich von Weizsacker, West German nuclear physicist, was opposed to his country acquiring nuclear weapons but that this stand implied no disloyalty to his own country but sprung from "a greater loyalty, to mankind as a whole."

This raises a point perhaps worthy of more consideration. In a democratic country is a man being a traitor to his country if his actions and opinions are in the interests of mankind, if these interests conflict with those expressed by his country? And, if these interests conflict, should any action be taken against this man, and who should sit in judgment, his countrymen or mankind? In the past his contemporary countrymen have usually found the "free thinker" guilty of treason but through the process of time mankind has found him blest.

Remember how we welcomed the Hungarian refugees and "freedom fighters?" This is an admission on our part that we approve of those who revolt against established authority when their objectives are roughly akin to what we consider the ultimate goals or values for mankind. But do we approve only because we do not particularly cater to the regime involved?

Or do we approve because it is a genuine belief, that of a person's right to differ, which we adhere to? If it is because of the latter, which we believe to be the only valid and logical reason, then we should be prepared to grant the same amenities to those within our borders who might hold differing opinions from our local majority or government views as to what is the ultimate objective for our nation as we grant to those from without our borders. One provision though, those holding differing views should conduct themselves within the confines of the accepted moral and civil codes of the country.

We feel that a person can remain loyal to his country whilst espousing a higher loyalty to mankind because actually his support is on the behalf of all men of whom his countrymen are but one localized group. We feel that the future will see more and more of this type of person emerging from the individuals within our national society as the proposition of a world, rather than a local or national, community is espoused.

We should be prepared to recognize and accept those who seek this point the way even though we may feel their sense of direction to be wrong. We do not have to clutch at their theories - - time will tell.

MANNERS, BLUE JEANS, AND MANKIND

"I firmly believe that conventions are made only to be broken - - except the codes of manners and of honesty, between friends, without which any unconventionality becomes merely a coarse and sordid caricature of decent living." (C. P. Snow - - Death Under Sail.)

We often wonder when people seek to be different - - to be unconventional and individualistic - - as some of us do, (whether or not we admit this to ourselves is not too vital), if they realize that there is more to being different than just being eccentric or hard to get along with. Eccentricity or refusal to accept common habits and beliefs are but so much garbage if the individual concerned does not realize that he is but one more human being decending on or living with countless other human beings. The pedant is of no more value to mankind than the delinquent.

Sophistication and education are but clothing, like black leather jackets and blue jeans. It is how an individual appreciates these things within his make-up that is true worth as a man. Maturity is not something that is readily acquired, like a new hat. It is a certain mellowing and seasoning process which brings up the full flavor of a person's character.

The sooner we realize that harmony not discord is natural in the universe and stop clutching for the passive straws of fads and fetishes, the sooner we achieve that distinction which we sought initially.

Jobs are getting fancier all the time. Repairmen are now called maintenance craftsmen, clerks are administrative staff, and children are communications expeditors. Strangely enough, though, the boss is still just plain boss. (Well Street Journal.)

A SAD AWAKENING
By EDGAR A. GUEST

In courtship one is apt to say
At lot of things he does not mean;
At least that seems to be the way
In all the courtships I have seen.
Men vow they hold
It bliss unsold
To fly away with maidens fair;
And with the one
On whom they've gone
They'd happy be most anywhere.
To listen to her merry chatter
No greater joy they could be wishing;
But it becomes a different matter
When they're induced to take her fishing.

All maidens fair to whom are told
These pretty things, believe them true;
And romance, as in days of old
Still thrills them as it used to do;
Their honeyed words,
Like songs of birds,
Their souls to great emotion move,
And satisfy,
Until they try
At last their lovers' vows to prove;
And then they find to their dismay,
How vain and futile was their wishing;
A woman's only in the way,
And such a crank when he's out fishing.

Docks of Port of London

BBC London Letter

The Port of London is one of the most extensive harbours in the world, with 36 miles of deep water quays, hundreds of acres of sheds and warehouses, and an annual traffic of 86 million tons of goods and 50,000 ships. A person broadcast recently by the BBC gave a vivid picture of the responsibilities of the vast organization behind the Docks — the Port of London authority, a public body set up by the Government. London's give great groups of docks and to control 69 miles of the River Thames from Tilbury to Teddington Lock to the sea.

Each group of docks has special character. London Docks, the smallest, oldest, and one of the most interesting, lies in the shadow of Tower Bridge. It handles principally goods from Europe and the Mediterranean — but its main function is that of discharging of goods of all kinds that come up river from the larger docks either for use in the City or London proper. Ders for long periods of storage, wines, rubber, tobacco, and dried fruits, figure and spices, ivory tusks from Africa, opium and sandalwood from the East are some of the commodities mentioned. Many of these goods are kept in the ancient warehouses which have special storage facilities and a permanent staff. London Docks is one of the main points of entrance for British wines and spirits. They are kept underground in bonded vaults, which hold over nine million gallons of wine in casks. In the vault where the Port of London authority has stored the BC producer commentator saw casks that "were quite fifty" but this, the pasis tant Dock Superintendent explained, is not very large. Wine stored 60 degrees is ideal for this purpose, he said, and we can find that the gas, whilst giving reasonable illumination to recognize the labels, does not affect preserve the temperature round about 60 degrees. The whole responsibility of the vault ensures that the temperature does not change by more than a few degrees throughout the summer and winter. On the other hand, the warehouses are the part of London Authority's job. Sometimes goods have to be moved from the warehouses to the wool that has arrived from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Down river at the Royal group of docks — Victoria, Albert and King George V — everything is on a larger scale. It is the largest area of impounded dock water in the world, with 11 miles of quays, and can accommodate 170 ships. Over dozen going liners at a time — in fact on special occasions there have been as many as sixty. Liners and freighters from every corner of the world are here discharging the necessary foodstuffs to Britain. Here, too, is the largest cold storage accommodation in the Port of London. Here are stored the Canterbury lamb from New Zealand; butter, cheese and eggs and other foodstuffs from Australia New Zealand and South America, bananas from the West Indies, and fruit from South Africa. Out from these docks go the products of British factories, for shipment to many cases of motor cars. The Dockmaster, Captain Morrison, who is responsible for organising the movement of shipping in these docks, said that an average of 3,000 ships a year and 65,00 barges, lighters and craft of all sorts is receiving and distributing cargo at the ships in the docks. Ships are pulled into the entrances, beside semicellaneous tugs, often assisted by the Port of London Authority tugs installed millions of pounds worth of new equipment to speed up the loading and unloading of ships: cranes, conveyor belts and the whole sections of dock has increased the speed of loading from the quay to the ship by 50%.

The Port of London Authority controls the entrance to the River Thames for which it is responsible into three sections, each under the charge of a Dock Master, whose duty it is to ensure, by means of radio telephone, that traffic moves safely. All shipping on the river is bound to obey his instructions. Under the jurisdiction of the Oxford and Cambridge Universities, under the Port of London Authority, is the wool that has arrived from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Sign Language Has Hazards

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Travel organizations and government officials are studying the possibility of promoting an international sign language for visitors to foreign lands could use the language to make their wants known. In emergencies, it might save lives.

Sign languages undoubtedly are a long before speech, and so-called American Indians have a well-developed sign language which is understood by all the tribes. National Geographical Society says. Italians, Mexicans and other Latin-Americans in particular have a large sign vocabularies. The profoundly deaf everywhere normally converse with their hands conveying delicate shades of thought. Umpires, referees, radio directors, barers at tobacco auctions, traffic policemen and people in many other jobs use sign language.

New York's sheriff's office has started their flists to mean that no more than 40 signs are required. Learning their 40-sign vocabulary, they can express such informations as "Come here," "walk halfway down" (right flat on hip and moving across the left hand touching the elbow).

To end confusion, Stephen Stromberg, president of the American Tourist Association in Washington, D.C., has suggested a global sign language consisting of 72 signs. His "dictionary" is a booklet of simple drawings showing the gestures with their translations into nine major languages. The languages can be learned in a few hours.

Indeed, makeshift sign languages, appear whenever people without a common language get together. Russian and American soldiers used signs when they met at the Elbe during the second World War and tourists almost automatically fall back on gestures when they meet language difficulties.

But lack of uniformity results in embarrassment. An Englishman in a Swedish hotel wanted to have his shirt washed. Misinterpreting his signs, the hotel maid sent him to the washroom to plain she had been insulted.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

An elderly policeman among my social acquaintances is convinced that fallout from atomic test explosions is the explanation of all these narrow-shouldered, bushy-haired, insecurity-looking young "Under twenties," as he calls them, to distinguish them from teen-agers.

"You'll see dozens of them," he says, "in the course of coming down town, around the cheap movies, in their leather jackets and sideburns, with their elf-shoulders deliberately hunched up so as to look as unmanly as possible, they're a phenomenon. In all my experience I've had to arrest the roughest sections of the city, but I never before saw a generation of swordies that deliberately tried to look unmale, unmasculine. Yet they're not sissy, these best gentration. They're just unmasculine I believe it is the first indication of the effect of fallout. They've got to stop it."

So it being his day off, I took my old constabulary chum for a brief jaunt in the car, stopped at two or three high schools and one public park. And we got out and stood on the sidelines while the ruby crews tried out and practiced.

"Withered?" I asked.

Too many people want to be something other than themselves. Why? Having a free scope in life is to face each day in an atmosphere of wonder. There is variety and direction in games that interest our eyes cast. The world is alive with color, with the undersigned set on the unlearned. Our creative great gift was that of initiative.

Ideas in miniature forever float in the air. Our greatest privilege is to be one's self. There are plus and minus, the undersigned mind, endless possibilities. Digging within the human mind is of far greater importance than digging in the earth for gold, important as this may be.

Be yourself. Construct your own dreams, and be the master of your fate. Be independent and true. Think out your own salvation. No one knows you as perfectly as you do yourself. What mistakes y o u make by being y o u are your own. You are constantly learning. Look ahead. Be brave. Be yourself. Envy no one.

As yourself you make all the progress you are destined to make. No one can put a meter on your mind to regulate its possibilities. If you are a person of ideas, work them out. Pay no attention to those who laugh at courage or doubt courage you and your look ahead. Be yourself. Be yourself. Have the privilege! Only in a free world can all live like human beings should. There are no padlocks upon your lips, nor upon y o u r thoughts. Your life is your own, to have, to hold, and to give away.

Be yourself. That is what other people expect of you. Fit in — if no more than an individual effort! You are an unique. Honor that fact. Keep bettering yourself!

TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY BANGS HEAD AGAINST CRIB

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My young son, two years old, has developed a habit of banging his head, rather violently, we think, against the headboard of his crib. Can this be the cause of any serious defect, an actual concussion or the cumulative effects of many bouts of "head-bumping"? — Mrs. M.D."

Quite a few youngsters go through such a phase and until they stop of their own volition, Nature protects the child very efficiently. First, the skull; second, the brain itself pretty much "loose" inside, so even rather severe jarring is not transmitted to it. A hard blow is required to cause either concussion or other damage, and long before such a stage is reached, the child will stop just because it hurts his scalp. That's nature's automatic protection.

Mrs. D. — Brooklyn: I am very nervous and often take a barbiturate to induce sleep. Will they be less habit-forming if I change from one kind to another? What is the origin of the tranquilizing drugs? Are they habit-forming? — A.M."

There are chemical variations of barbiturates that produce sleep, making them act for longer or shorter periods. The tranquilizers are barbiturates, and changing from one brand to another is just begging the problem. The barbiturate addiction is well-established and decidedly is something to avoid.

Tranquilizing drugs: They have a place in medicine and are drugs. Reports vary on the addiction potential, but evidently depends on the personality of the user. An unstable personality can become dependent on almost anything that helps that person get relief from reality.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our son has migraine headaches quite often. Is there any relief for them? He has sick headache every time he gets them and usually has to go to bed all day. He has tried all the appirins available, and no relief. — Mrs. W."

Migraines are more common in women, but plenty of men have them, too. For a real migraine, and your son's attacks are typical, aspirin alone is expected to help much.

Ergotamine tartrate, usually in combination with other drugs, is highly successful — but it is imperative that the victim learn when to use it in order to prevent attacks. You'll find a booklet of pages in migraines in my booklet, "How To Tame Headache." This booklet is available by sending 20 cents coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.)

Strength for The Day

THAT BASIC MATTER

"Rooted and grounded in love," his expression is from the third chapter of Paul's epistle to the Ephesians. Paul prays that the people who had been led to Christian faith through his efforts may be rooted and grounded in love so that they may be strong to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and height and depth, and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye may be filled with all the fullness of God."

It is no hard for us to get this simple concept into our minds that religion is God's plan for establishing and cultivating the life of love in our hearts. We assume that being religious means being faithful to some branch of the church. Or believing the Bible from beginning to end. Or accepting all the creeds and confessions. Or just being kind to one's neighbors and trying to follow the Golden Rule.

All these things are involved in religion but are not religion itself. Religion is the means by which we God attempts to establish and cultivate in our hearts the controlling life of love. This may make us gentle or turn us into fierce warriors. This may give us peace or lead us to persecution. But the important thing is whether everything that happens to us is rooted and grounded in love.

When we live the life of love, we are conscious of stability and magnificence of God — "the breadth and length and height and depth."

Council Members Want River Bed Cleaned Up

A suggestion that with extremely low water conditions prevailing now might be a good time to clean up the bed of the Moira River, was heard at city council last night.

The suggestion was made by Alderman Ralph Graham who said that it was too much to expect that the low water conditions would last forever. With the river bed bare except where a small current is flowing, an accumulation of old tires and other debris is visible.

The river condition was brought to attention of council a week ago by way of a letter from local resident George Devyst.

Oshawa Youths To Face Charges Result of Fracas

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Ontario Provincial Police said, yesterday, after conferring with Crown Attorney Harry R. Deyman in Cobourg, that all 38 youths who caused a disturbance in Hastings on Friday evening will be charged with unlawful assembly. Police said the youths, all from the Oshawa area, arrived at a Hastings service station on Friday night armed with bicycle chains and clubs and attacked two service station operators. Apparently no one was injured in the fracas and the youths fled when a group of close to 100 Hastings residents arrived on the scene.

The five cars carrying the hoodlums were stopped at a police roadblock north of Cobourg on Highway 45.

On October 24 four Oshawa youths got into an argument and attacked the two service station attendants but were beaten off and fled in their cars. The four returned with 23 other youths on October 31st, apparently for revenge. They will likely be summoned to appear in magistrate's court in Cobourg in two weeks.

Polling Booths In Basements Bring Protest

Exceptions to basement rooms in schools being used as polling booths during municipal elections was taken by Alderman Douglas Mercer at city council last night.

Ald. Mercer said that such booths should be without steps up or down for the convenience of the public, particularly elderly folks who have difficulty in negotiating steps.

He said he had received several complaints of the voting accommodation provided at the schools where voting stalls had been so dark that marking of ballots was difficult.

DEMOCRATS

ky in the House, 295 to 200, including a handful of vacant seats.

Under the U.S. electoral system which separates the presidency—the executive branch—from the legislative branch — House and Senate—a president can hold office without support in the two houses of Congress, unlike a British or Canadian prime minister who must control Parliament through his party seats.

This separation of powers resulted in many of the issues for the 1958 contests. The Republican campaigned for a chance to put their legislation through the House and Senate—impossible under the present Democratic majority — while the Democrats called for a resounding vote of non-confidence against the Republican White House administration.

Most of the state governorship contests swung on local issues. But in New York, the widely publicized "battle of the millionaires" pitted Democrat Governor Averell Harriman against Rockefeller, a victory for Rockefeller would put him in strong contention in 1960 to win the presidential nomination over Vice-President Richard Nixon.

And Harriman would be in a strong party position should he retain the governorship, since Adlai Stevenson, twice defeated for the presidency, is unlikely to get the Democratic nomination again.

Michigan's Governor G. Mennen Williams, aiming for his sixth straight term, was confident of victory and a possible chance at the Democratic presidential slot two years from now.

He was favored to beat Republican Paul D. Bagwell in a state contest fought largely on the issues of unemployment under the Republican administration, particularly in the automobile industry centred in Detroit.

Five o'clock traffic Monday along North Front St. and College St. was delayed by an accident involving the truck and sedan shown above. Damage was estimated at about $300. Traffic was handled efficiently by both city and provincial police despite the obstruction formed by the two vehicles in the intersection.

Traffic Tied up By Accident At Intersection

Rush hour traffic around five o'clock was brought to a near standstill yesterday at the corner of North Front and College streets due to the collision between a truck and an automobile. The Hertz Rent-a-Truck, leased by Quinte Hoofing of Belleville, was proceeding south on North Front street driven by Mr. James Smith of Flinton, when its passage was obstructed by another vehicle owned and driven by Mr. Reiner Bowman of 22 Orchard Drive, Belleville. The Bowman vehicle was proceeding in an easterly direction along College Street and was apparently struck by the Hertz vehicle after entering the intersection.

Damage to the vehicles consisted of several crumpled fenders and the amount involved was estimated at around $300. Broken headlamp lenses formed a temporary hazard for passing cars for about a half hour. The traffic jam was furthered by an influx of students and vehicles from the Quinte Secondary School where a football game had been concluded just prior to the accident. Traffic was directed by city police until the OPP officer arrived inasmuch as this intersection is considered to be outside the city limits. The investigating officer was OPP Constable Morris of the Belleville detachment.

This is the second accident at the North Front-Street streets intersection within four days. Local residents expressed the opinion that traffic lights were necessary to safely handle the increasing flow of traffic in that area.

Mayor Will Support Move Of Trainmen to Keep Crews For Fast Freights in City

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde will make representation to Regional railway officials at Toronto and to Federal Transport Minister George Hees on behalf of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in support of their move to retain the contemplated removal of the manifest freight terminal from Belleville to Mimico.

Authorization for the mayor to go to Ottawa and to Toronto was given by city council at their regular meeting last night following the reading of a letter from the Railroad Trainmen.

Intention of the C.N.R. is to move the manifest freight terminal from Belleville to Mimico which would mean that 28 trainmen and conductors working these trains would have to either move to Toronto or "deadhead" to Mimico before and after runs if they wished to keep their jobs.

Railroad Brotherhood officials claim this is but the "thin edge of the wedge" which could ultimately see the entire terminal operations at Belleville moved from the city. This would result in the loss of a payroll of approximately five million dollars a year.

At the same time as the council meeting local railway brotherhood members met at Club Canara to discuss various ways and means of stopping the contemplated move on the part of the CNR. The meeting was a long one and was concluded after one o'clock this morning.

OFFICIALS ATTEND

Attending the meeting were General Chairman, T. D. McLaughlin of Palmerston, W. A. Latham, vice chairman of Brockville and F. A. O'Grady, general secretary of Ottawa. C. R. Ashman, local chairman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said this morning that—nothing came out of the meeting which the Brotherhood would care to make public at this time.

"It was a lively meeting and saw lengthy discussions on various ways and means to stop the move on the part of the CNR," he said.

City council was unanimous in its concern over the possibility of losing the railway terminal which has been in the city since 1909.

"We all agree that the city does not wish to see the railway make this step," noted Mayor Hyde, "but on the other hand if it is necessary we cannot stand in the way of progress. I would like to know why the various alternatives suggested by the Brotherhood are not acceptable to the railway."

Spending by Consumer May Hit 121 Billion Dollar Mark

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian consumer spending may reach a record $21,000,000,000 in 1959, providing perhaps the strongest prop for a gradually expanding economy, federal authorities estimate.

Spending of these dimensions would compare with the $19,768,-000,000 poured out by consumers in 1957 and the anticipated $20,-000,000,000 for 1958.

For at least another year the consumer would be king, the economists predict, for while he would continue to show willingness to buy, there still may be many surpluses in consumer products, tending to impose restraints on price rises.

This anticipated heavier consumer spending would be another indication that Canada is slowly emerging from what appears to be the worst recession since the 1930s.

Winter unemployment is expected to be heavy but business investment for 1959 is a puzzle, with some federal economists anticipating continued weakness.

Buying of industrial machinery and equipment may be down along with commercial construction and perhaps housing, for there is a question in federal quarters of whether Canada would be able to sustain another year of the peak 153,000 housing starts estimated for 1958.

There is a feeling the government would have to loosen up on its mortgage lending, providing Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loans for large-scale construction if the over-all building effort is to be sustained.

With the United States recovering from its slump, Canadian exports are forecast to rise, and imports are declining. Canada, therefore, may have a shrinking deficit in trade.

West Will Ask Reds to Join In Military Inspection Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western allies will ask Russia to join in developing a vast military inspection system capable of blocking a surprise nuclear attack by any great power for perhaps 10 years.

Any system worked out now would have to be overhauled after a decade, it was explained, to take into account new weapons likely to be developed during that period.

U.S. officials hope the Russians will at least agree to explore the scientific possibilities of such a system. But it would mean an end to much secrecy in the Soviet Union, and officials are not optimistic.

TECHNICAL TALKS

The first round of talks opening Monday in Geneva is designed to be highly technical — to see whether Communists and Western experts can agree on the requirements of a workable inspection arrangement.

If the meeting makes progress, officials indicated, the United States is prepared to provide the Russians with some now-secret information about radar and probably other devices that could be used in detecting military mobilization moves, missile and aircraft flights and the like.

POLITICAL QUESTIONS

The technical meeting may be followed—again depending on its success—by the political negotiations. The powers then would be confronted with specific questions of the location and area of inspection zones to begin putting the proposed system into operation.

The Russians have said that they intend to raise the question of zones at the conference beginning next week. Allied experts here will not agree to deal with such matters at this time, informants here said. Instead, the first round of talks at Geneva may be a wrangle over what should be talked about.

Pre-Natal Plan By Health Dept. Opens Tuesday

Belleville parents or parents-to-be are offered a carefully prepared pre-natal program planned by the Health Department, under the direction of Dr. McColl Metcalfe. All prospective mothers and fathers are invited to attend the series of light pre-natal classes which are being held every Tuesday evening from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. at the YMCA. Mothers wishing to attend are requested to discuss this first with their family doctor as his permission is required to attend.

Preparation for parenthood involves the co-operation of all members of the health team as obstetricians, pediatricians, family physicians, and nurses. Health education during pregnancy as at any other time is intended to supplement the physician's medical supervision and instruction and to meet the varying needs of the individual in terms of which it is planned.

Although classes are available for all, individual home visits to expectant mothers have been found necessary, and the Belleville Health Department provides for these visits as well. The purpose of nursing supervision during the pre-natal period is to interpret the importance of medical supervision, complement the doctor's instructions, to allay the anxiety of expectant mothers (and fathers, if necessary), and to teach healthful living habits.

Parking Area Behind Stores To be Paved Within Week

Assurance that, weather permitting, paving operations on the off-street parking area between Front Street and the Moira River would be completed in little more than a week, was given city council last night by parking committee chairman Alderman Ralph Graham.

Ald. Graham noted that grading operations on the area had commenced Monday with the program to see an inch cover-ing of crushed stone and then paving with asphalt. He expected paving operations would be underway possibly before Friday.

Purchase agreements for all the property in question had now been completed in principle, said Robert Hamilton, the Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, who was assisting with parking pledges, which had been volunteered to assist in development of the parking area. A total of $37,000 had been pledged by merchants, this money to be paid back by the city out of parking meter revenue.

Ald. Graham said the surface-treatment had not been let and that prices were being asked from at least four firms doing this type of work. Cost estimate for the paving was about $15,000, which was possibly high.

Ald. Graham apologized for the inconvenience caused merchants through temporary loss of parking accommodation but said the public works officials had felt it would be more advantageous to do the entire area at one time rather than do the work in stages.

Start Class For Retarded District Children

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Film Council was held recently with the Public Library.

During the business session, it was reported that a new Kodascope projector has been purchased. Mr. S. Rise was thanked for repairing the Movie Mite projector. The annual Film Festival will be held on November 16, 19 and 20th. The program for this is now being prepared.

Mr. H. A. Hall introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. Harold Powell, president of the Quinte District Association for Mentally Retarded Children. Mr. Powell told the meeting that out of 100 children born in Canada, three will be mentally retarded and that while auxiliary classes are provided under the public school system for the education of children whose I. Q. is 75 to 85, no provision has been made until recently for the education of children whose I. Q. is 50 and below. This fall a class was started by the Association for the children of the district in one of the local schools—The association hopes to have a building of its own in the near future.

The film, "Tuesday's Child", was shown. The film brought out how a group such as the local association is formed by a group of parents of mentally retarded children and other interested parties banding together and making the public aware of the problem of the retarded child.

Tea was served at the adjournment of the meeting.

After the showing of the film, Mr. Hall, teacher of the class that was present to answer the many interested questions of those present.

Ontario English C.T.A. Meets At Academy

A meeting of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association, District 4, was held recently in St. Michael's Academy.

Sister Mary Domitella introduced the newly elected presidents, Mr. Joseph Trenton, who in his address, expressed the hope that each member of his district would keep posted on the current happenings of the association and work with ever-increasing zeal toward its success.

The president reported on a recent meeting attended in Toronto, commented on the knowledge gained from various panel discussions.

Sister Mary Lenore, a past president of O.T.F., gave a talk on the history of the O.E.C.T.A., tracing its growth and development during the 14 years of its existence, emphasizing the many benefits derived therefrom.

Sister Mary Domitella pointed out the responsibility assumed by delegates who are sent to Toronto as representatives of the district, and warned such against attending with "closed minds."

Sister Mary Trimbach, Belleville penitent, outlined the association's plan regarding events for the coming year and stressed the need for more frequent meetings of a keen interest on the part of all members, as was demonstrated by the large attendance at the meeting.

Sister Mary Evelyn, in thanking Mr. O'Neill for the successful meeting, voiced the appreciation of all present.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — You may have the belief that "people don't" over have much in common. Maybe all they have to do is meet to find out," 23-year-old Sally Belfrage spent five months in Russia last year, exploring Moscow and talking to a variety of people from intellectuals and members to jazz-crazy teen-agers.

Now she has written a book, A Room in Moscow, which gives a picture of what day-to-day living is like in Moscow. Its theme is that "a Muscovite has enough to do simply dealing with nature, regardless of anything else."

"Anything else" includes untold hardships — the intolerably acute housing problems, the bureaucracy and inefficiency, the lack of color and small luxuries that people in the Western world take for granted.

In her probings of Russian thoughts, hopes and fears, Miss Belfrage discovered "duty, look for the same escapes and stimulations as anyone else."

ASPIRING EGGHEADS

"The book reading public is enormous. Every Russian wants to be an egghead."

From taxi drivers and waitresses waiting for customers, to people in bus queues and those standing in line except as an elevator ride—reading is popular with everyone.

Miss Belfrage, who is tall, blonde and pretty, began her Russian adventure with a trip to the Moscow youth festival last year. With enough clothes to last three weeks and minus a topcoat, she decided to brave a Russian winter. She could find a room and a job—to gather material for her book. She managed to find both and a topcoat was sent to her two months later from Rise Castle.

She worked with a publishing house, with English translations, and, as they only took a few hours of her day, had time to do a little investigating.

In an interview in London she talked about her book and that it has been serialized by a national newspaper and received by a British book society, she is having doubts about it.

"I think I've probably shown too high a proportion of people who are doing things. And since I was mostly in Moscow, and there are regular republics, things must be very different outside the capital."

HOW TO STOP EXCHANGE OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Now is the time of year when, like so many other people, I face the problem of how to discontinue sending Christmas presents to certain people. I've just started to make up my Christmas list, and on it are quite a few people to whom I've been sending presents and whom I haven't even seen for several years. Many of them have moved so far away that the chances are I'll probably never see them again. Also there are several people here with who m I have no special urge to keep up the custom of giving gifts. This year has been a difficult one financially for me, due to an illness I had and an illness in my family, and I just must cut down my Christmas list. What do you suggest, Mrs. Beeckman, is a proper procedure in this circumstance so problematic to so many people?

— Perplexed Reader

This is indeed a "puzzlement," as the late Fred Allen said. "The King and I," an ever-recurring puzzle, comes to mind at us. And most of us dodge the solution to the problem by just letting the matter drift, and making a present for a year or two and so let nature take its casual course. Many people feel that no explanation need be made if we continue to send Christmas cards with friendly words of greeting and with added messages of good wishes a nd news items.

On the other hand there is the "let's face it" procedure, t h e straightforward, simple and perhaps more thoughtful one. You write a letter explaining your thought and intention. This letter should, of course, be written so far in advance of Christmas that the friend will make similar plans. In this letter explain in most gracious words that this Christmas, because of heavy financial responsibilities during the year, you must limit your Christmas giving, but that you most sincerely hope that there will always be an exchange of Christmas cards and the occasional news about each other. It will doubtless make it easier for you to write these letters if you keep in mind that the friends to whom you are writing probably a r e deeply relieved that you a r e straightforwardly taking the initiative they have not been brave enough to take!

SHOULD SHE WAIT TO OPEN HER WEDDING PRESENTS WITH HER FIANCE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married next month, and would like to have you answer two questions for me.

(1) Where should the wedding presents be sent, and should they be addressed to my maiden name, or should they be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs." with my future started name?

(2) Should I open them as they arrive, or should I wait until my fiance and I can open them together? — M.

(1) Your wedding presents, sent before the wedding, should be addressed to your maiden name and to your home address. It' s only when presents sent after the wedding that are addressed to "Mr. a n d Mrs. John Marriedname."

(2) Your wedding presents if are opened as they arrive, but it will make you and your fiance happier, there is no reason why you shouldn't wait and open them together.

BRIDE-TO-BE SIGNS ONLY HER NAME TO HER THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I sign the thank-you cards for my wedding presents, should I sign my fiance's name and mine: for example, "Marie and David"? — Bride-to-be

No. You should sign only your name to the notes of thanks you write for your wedding presents. But of course in the notes you express your fiance's appreciation and enthusiasm for the gift. (And if by "thank-you cards" you mean the printed thank-you cards, please don't stoop to send these impersonal bits of printed paper to thank for such kind and generous personal gestures from your relatives and friends.)

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. F. R. — Our 15-year-old plays with the hula hoop.

Stella R. — I'm not an old woman yet.

Mrs. F. R. — I am very worried about my 15-year-old daughter, Stella, who is very childish for her age. She is quite smart in school and her teachers have no complaints about her behavior, but she is just impossible at home.

For example, she got hold of her younger sister's hula hoop and she plays with it by the hour. She can do more twirls with it than any of the youngsters in the neighborhood and every day puts on a performance in the back yard with everyone watching.

When children play with this thing I see nothing wrong or ill when a well-developed 15-year-old exhibits herself in t h i s way, it is embarrassing. I have tried to explain that this is a child's toy and that she is outgrowing it, but of herself, but I haven't been able to stop her.

Stella R. — I am picked on so much at home. It is just terrible. My parents think nothing of it when my kid sister does these things, but when I do everything is forbidden. My kid sister can chew gum, wear lipstick and run around wherever and whenever she likes and make with the hula hoop but I can't. It's not fair, it's a different story.

I may be 15, but that isn't exactly being an old woman yet. Girls in their 30's have danced with the hula hoop on TV, so what's so terrible about my doing it in the back yard?

My parents keep telling me to act like a grown-up, but how can I act like a baby. They set up a howl if I wear a little more makeup than usual and they make me come home from parties and dates earlier than anyone else. I am the laughing stock of all my friends.

The Council — Stella does appear to be rather childish, but in this she is showing one o f the natural phases of her adolescence. Like most adolescents she looks forward eagerly to the entitlement and privileges of being grown up, but she also has some fears about that stage and would like to keep her own maturity.

When Stella indulges in her hula hoop performances, s h e probably is accomplishing t w o things in her own mind — insisting that she is still a child, and seizing an opportunity for some exhibitionism for her maturing body. She is probably vaguely aware that there is a difference between her intimate performance of the neighborhood and a smooth-perfected performance on TV, but her impulses are so strong she prefers to shut this difference in her own mind.

Stella must be aware of t h e reasons why her parents outlaw bubble gum and sweaters and jeans for her, but allow her t h i s sister to enjoy these things. The fact that she makes an issue of it may mean that she wants a little more open discussion of these matters. Just as Stella is torn between the desire to deny and assert her childhood, she must strain advancance or embarrassment on the part of the parents leaves in an angry, bewildered mood. She will look for other means of expressing the same conflict.

Mrs. F. R. ought to help Stella find a feminine ideal. Books and teen-age magazines are very helpful in creating an image to which young girls can aspire. When Stella has a clear-cut standard to work toward, it will be much easier to gently guide her in the right direction.

Teen-age Girls In Korea Are Real Problem

VANCOUVER (CP) — The rehabilitation of women and girls in Korea requires care and understanding, says Viola Williams.

Miss Williams left her native England in 1953 to start Women's Institutes in Malaya, and then went to Korea to run farms and orphanages for teen-age girls.

"Aside from the fact that most women in Malayan Institutes couldn't read or write, the program followed the same lines as in Britain and Canada," she said.

Teen-age girls in Korea are a real problem, Miss Williams says.

"Prostitution is rife, and so is venereal disease.

"Some 50 are housed in buildings leased from the Australian Presbyterian Mission for from one to two years and given training.

"We fed and clothed them and taught them weaving, domestic work and home craft. If we couldn't arrange marriages for them we found jobs and watched that they were not exploited and were safe in digs.

"There is an excellent Korean house mother now in charge who stresses Korean preservation and home-making."

Miss Williams plans to travel across Canada to visit YWC organizations that contributed to her work in Korea.

Changes Brighten Boys' Ivy Styles

Little boys have found the styling they want in Ivy, and they're staying with it. Ivy's seen more popular this fall than in past seasons.

Some changes have been made. After several years of strict Ivy tailoring, this neat look is branching into brighter colors and variations in style.

Belting shows along with the classic dark stripes, gray flannels and conservative tweeds are the new bold stripes, bright-colored tweeds and a wide variety of prints.

New touches have been added with the introduction of fur and fur - trimmed outerwear, print shirts and the liberal use of bright red.

Outerwear makes news in a choice of several lengths and styles. Popular are the classic suburban coat, the surcoat, mid-length jacket and the toggle coat.

POCKET INTEREST

Style emphasis in Ivy model slacks, this fall, is placed on pocket flaps, both square and rounded, with fancy facings.

European Trip Can Be Cheap If Well Outlined

MONTREAL (CP) — Travel in Europe can be cheap as well as pleasant if you get well organized in advance, report two 21-year-old Montreal stenographers. A month's vacation they obtained in England was a big help.

Lillian Hall and Kathleen Gowing, who live in the Montreal suburbs of Verdun and Cote St. Luc respectively, had 4½ months touring E u r o p e recently and spent little more than $1,000 each, including ship passage.

"We could have done it on much less if we'd wanted to but we bought hundreds of souvenirs," Miss Hall said. The girls, both members of the Canadian Youth Hostels Association, began planning their trip about eight months ahead. To raise extra money they worked Saturdays in a department store.

MANY COUNTRIES

In England they bought a motor scooter for which they had written ahead, and after the trip sold it back to the company so that it cost them only $130 plus gas and oil for a trip through England, Scotland, France, Spain, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and Belgium.

The girls covered more than 10,000 miles and spent an average of $1.75 a day for food, rooms and gas.

Youth hostelling is very popular in Europe, Miss Hall said, lodgings are generally cheap. They cooked their own food on a heater they took with them. Europeans were extremely friendly, especially after hearing they were from Canada, and often invited them to spend weekends at their homes.

In Switzerland, the girls got the surprise of their trip when Jean, a Girl Guide captain, struck up a friendship with an elderly woman who wore a Guide uniform and discovered she was Lady Baden-Powell, founder and chief world guide.

The casual meeting in Switzerland led to an invitation to Lady Baden-Powell's home in Hampton Court, England, and the girls dropped in there on their way back through England — after both girls agreed that youth hostelling is the cheapest way to travel, but that it was great to be home.

Cabbages Are King-Sized

by Mary Moore

Complaints about the high cost of greens are not valid with cabbage selling a dime a dozen.

We drove to a suburban outdoor market for a Friday evening jaunt and loaded the car with apples, squasher, cabbages, celery, cider, a huge fresh ham and a bush-sized bunch of parsley.

TUESDAY

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Cabbage Rolls (see Monday); Fried Baked Pawnbillings; Tomatoes Stewed with Onion; Moulded Beet Salad with Celery; Canned Plums; Banana Bread (see Monday); Coffee.

I think I was intended to be the mother of a score for I nearly love to provide but when I had this small harvest in my kitchen I had to start inviting folks to come in and help me eat it.

It is the cabbage salads that I have made for them that I want you to adopt as your own. Remember to serve greens every day and use economical cabbage for your salad bases.

COLE SLAW WITH CREAM DRESSING:

One medium head of cabbage, 1 cup sour cream, 3 tablespoons honey, 1 teaspoon salt, lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, dash of pepper. Cut cabbage into as fine shreds as possible. Refrigerate while you make the dressing. Mix the sour cream, honey, vinegar (or lemon juice), salt, celery salt and pepper in bowl. Pour this dressing over cabbage just as you are ready to serve, and toss the cabbage well to make sure the dressing is well mixed in. Serves 6.

Above dressing goes very well on a cabbage and pineapple chunk salad.

EMEN'S SLAW:

Using your three-shredder-set, shred a cream on the finest; shred enough cabbage to fill 3 cups on the medium shredder; and ½ cup unpeeled cucumber on the coarsest. Add generous shakes of garlic and celery salt; if you have some dill weed or fresh dill to crumble, add a small amount of that too.

Just before serving toss with mayonnaise (see below for garlic French dressing.

MAYONNAISE:

One egg, 1 teaspoon each salt, sugar, dry mustard, few grains cayenne, 4 teaspoons each vinegar and lemon juice, 1½ cups cold salad oil, paprika and parsley. Break egg into bowl, add salt, sugar, mustard and a dash of pepper and paprika, and cayenne. Add 1 teaspoon of each vinegar and beat well with beater, then add cold oil to 1 tablespoon at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition until 1-2 cup is added and the dressing is thick. Add the remaining oil in larger quantities now and just the lemon juice and vinegar.

CABBAGE, APPLE AND RAISIN SALAD:

Shred 1 small cabbage very fine, Core 3 red apples and dice without peeling, dropping at once into ½ cup French dressing to keep from discoloring. To this add 1 cup seedless raisins an the cabbage Toss with fork till thoroughly mixed, and serve immediately.

Believes Dieppe Raid Lessons Could Have Been Learned Without so Many Casualties —Montgomery

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Field Marshal Montgomery believes that the information and experience of the 1942 Dieppe raid could have been obtained "without losing so many, magnificent Canadian soldiers."

In his memoirs published today (Collins), the British army field commander said his own feeling about the raid, in which there were 907, dead in a Canadian casualty toll of 3,300, is that there were far too many authorities with a hand in it.

"There was no one single operational commander who was solely responsible for the operation from start to finish, a task force commander in fact.

BIG CONTRIBUTION

"Without doubt the lessons learnt there were an important contribution to the eventual landing in Normandy on the 6th June 1944. But the price was be any indefined and prisoners. I believe we could have got the information and experience we needed without losing so many magnificent Canadian soldiers."

Montgomery, as commander of the Southeastern Army in 1942, was in when staff planning for Dieppe began in 1941 was made responsible for the army side of the planning. The raid was planned for July and troops were embarked on ships but poor weather cancelled the operation.

"All the troops had been fully informed of the objective of the raid and of the details connected with it," Montgomery writes. "It was reasonable to expect that the raid would be the common subject of conversation in billets and pubs in the south of England. About nearly 5,000 Canadian soldiers were involved as well as considerable numbers of sailors and airmen.

"Once all this force was 'unsealed' and dispersed, I considered the operation was cancelled and I turned my attention to other matters."

REVIVED PLAN

Combined operations headquarters thought otherwise, Montgomery says, and approval for the raid was given by the British chiefs of staff at the end of July.

"When I heard of this I was very upset; I considered that it would be impossible to maintain secrecy. Accordingly I wrote to General (Sir Bernard) Paget, C-in-C home forces, telling him of my anxiety, and recommending that the raid on Dieppe should be considered cancelled 'for all time.'

"If it was considered desirable to raid the continent, then the objective should not be Dieppe. This advice was disregarded. On the 19th of August I left England to take command of the Eighth Army in the desert."

CHANGES MADE

The raid was carried out Aug. 19 with certain modifications introduced into the revived plan.

"The most important were—first, the elimination of the airborne troops and their replacement by commando units; secondly, the elimination of any preliminary bombing of the defences from the air. I should not myself have agreed to either of these changes.

"Commando units, if they were necessary, should have been an addition to, and not a replacement of, the parachutists; the demoralization of the enemy defence by preliminary bombing was essential (as was done in Normandy in 1944) just before the troops touched down on the beaches."

Amaryllis Provides Winter Color

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

I saw a big healthful of strap-like leaves and lily-like blooms in Cobourg in September. The owner called it an autumn lily. She said it often bloomed three times in one year. Many people had sold her it was an amaryllis. Each summer the plant is placed out in the shrubbery on the east side of the house in semi-shade. During the winter it is in a warm sunporch. It is fed regularly with liquid fertilizer when buds form and has not been repotted in three years. It had an abundance of foliage and several spikes of bloom with seven flowers on each.

This was not amaryllis hippeastrum, the one which is common to our Canadian homes. It was another member of the amaryllis family of which there are several with various characteristics.

The handsome big amaryllis and the hybrids we can now buy bloom but once a year but they are so large and lasting that they are great favorites. They may be white, salmon pink, rose, scarlet through to deepest red and many are streaked with white. The bulbs may be had in sizes 24 to ten years if given proper care. Buy the largest size bulbs for the best bloom. Bulbs may measure up to 12 inches around and produce bloom 10 to 10 inches across.

You may order the bulbs now and plant any time up until February. They make interesting gifts for the plant lover.

The bulbs will bloom about two months after planting. Pick a pot two inches larger than the bulb. Place several pieces of broken pot in the bottom of the pot and cover with soil mixed with a large quantity of humus. Leaf mold is best. Never use bulb fiber to plant amaryllis, it contains no nourishment. Only about half of the bulb should be covered with soil and the top part should be well above the top of the pot. Fill in with soil and pack firmly.

KEEP WARM

Set the pot in a pan of tepid water until the surface of the soil is damp. Place pot in warm place and keep soil only slightly moist until leaf and flower bud appears. Give plenty of water and more into good light when they appear. It will grow very rapidly from then on if conditions are right.

When blooms are finished keep the plant growing in good light and sink pot in semi-shade when weather is warm. Keep growing through summer and bring in doors in early fall. Gradually withhold water until bulb is dry. Allow to rest in cool place until January or February. Then bring to light and warmth and feed with liquid manure or fertilizer.

If you wish to increase your amaryllis hippeastrum you can take a bulb in spring and cut it in several sections. Each one must have a part of the basal ring. Quarter, or cut in eighths from top to bottom. Plant in sand and peat moss and place where the bottom heat of 60 degrees can be maintained. Keep moist and shaded. New bulblets will form in a few weeks.

Catalogues which list amaryllis and other fall planted bulbs may be had from Garden Guild Toronto, and Growers Exchange Farmington, 1, Mich. This one lists Amaryllis from India and Japan.

Your Car Needs Much Protection During Winter

By EUGENE MEMOE

When you're changing over from tropicals to weeds, remember that your car is going to be exposed to frigid temperatures, too.

Radiator protection is usually at the top of every motorist's list — and this poses no problem as long as there isn't any cooling system leakage. But that's only the beginning. To get through the winter, your car battery must be healthy and strong enough to withstand low temperatures. Your shoulder a greater load. Engine oil must be light enough to circulate freely and resist congealing. Chassis lubricant and transmission, rear axle, wheel bearings, etc., grease must be right for the season, too — otherwise your car can't be expected to run at its best. Special fuel additives may also be needed to fight water in the gas and prevent fuel freeze-ups.

From M.S.: "My car has a power steering, but for the past few days it has become much more difficult to steer. I phoned the dealer yesterday and he said it might be 'oil-whip' that caused that mean!"

(A) Hard steering can occur if there is not enough hydraulic oil in the power system — or if the oil is too heavy for present weather temperatures.

G. J. asks: "Have you ever heard of poor gas mileage caused by evaporation. Has this happen according to a booklet I read — and the weather doesn't seem to be unusually hot, either.

(A) This might happen, for example, if a rusted or rotted tail pipe were directing hot exhaust gases against the fuel tank.

F.B. writes: "Although I've had the entire fuel and ignition systems of my '56 auto examined by an expert, the engine will often backfire when I start it in the morning or after a short journey, but at least twice a week (A) Under the circumstances, a sticking valve condition would seem to be a strong suspect.

From D. Q.: "I wanted to put some Prestone in the master cylinder, and in trying to get the filler cap off I cracked it. Is it supposed to come off readily?

(A) When theres a gasket under the cap, it is usually easy to remove unless it has been badly overtightened.

Linguistics Professor Trying To Help 10,000 Eskimos Develop a Common Tongue

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STUDIES ESKIMO LANGUAGE PROBLEM

Dr. Gilles-Lefebvre, a young linguistics professor at the University of Montreal, is trying to help develop a common tongue for Canada's 10,000 Eskimos. Working at the request of the Department of Northern Affairs, he concentrates on spelling as the basic step; leaving grammar and dictionary work to the missionaries and other experts in the field. (CP Photo) 1958. (University of Montreal).

MONTREAL (CP) — A young linguistics professor at the University of Montreal has the task of dismantling the Eskimos' tower of Babel.

Canada's 10,000 Eskimos speak 26 different dialects, and Dr. Gilles Lefebvre, a 34-year-old biddist of the department of northern affairs, is trying to help them develop a common tongue.

He concentrates on spelling as the basic step, leaving grammar and dictionary work to missionaries and other experts in the field.

WORKS AS LINGUIST

"I'm working as a linguist, trained in linguistics and phonetics, on unification of the spelling system," says Dr. Lefebvre.

Investigation is still going on, but in the meantime he has submitted a spelling system which he believes could be suitable for all Eskimo dialects, a basis on which a standard translation of expression could be built.

Dr. Lefebvre, 30, who pursued his studies at the Sorbonne in Paris, stepped straight from the mission-ary kit into his assignment.

He spent the summer of 1956 on the Belcher Islands in Hudson Bay studying the dialect of the Eskimos there. His partner, Father Calvez, was a missionary on the islands and grave fears were held for a time for his safety.

On his return to Ottawa he was asked to investigate a standard system of spelling, grammar and language that would conform as closely as possible to the Latinized standard used in Greenland.

HOW ONE LANGUAGE

Greenland spelling was standardized in 1872. Dr. Lefebvre explains, and since then Greenland dialects have evolved into one language, which Eskimos prefer to be called Greenlanders, now have a radio station, a newspaper, a school, national spirit.

"Eskimos do have been a community of speech between Greenland Eskimos of Labrador, Greenland and the Eastern Arctic in distant time — six or seven centuries ago," he says. They have since been evolving respectively in regard to their own sound systems.

Standardized spelling would help Eskimos, now working with the white man and using his money economy, to enter more into modern living. The range of broadcasts announced by missionaries, now limited by dialects, could be increased. Canadian Eskimos could develop their own literature.

Dr. Lefebvre says there are two main branches of the Eskimo language in North America.

The Yupik, "south of Yukon" language spoken in Alaska, is heterogeneous and not greatly unified dialects. It would not be adaptable to the proposed standard.

INUPIK GENERAL

But all Canadian Eskimos belong to one language, a homogeneous group of dialects. Taught in all schools the three main groups of dialects within itself—eastern, central and western.

The good news is that eastern Canadian Eskimos, like their forebears, "are simplified consonant clusters; where western Eskimos might pronounce a word as four syllables, easterners might simply say "ila."

"We are attempting to adapt the sound structure of all dialects to our spelling system," Dr. Lefebvre says. "We are not scrambling all the dialects and forcing them into a straight jacket. That wouldn't help the Eskimos."

He suggests as a parallel in English the differences in speech among Cockneys, north countrymen and BBC announcers. The written language is the same for all.

SPELLING SYSTEMS

Some Eskimos at present are taught to write using spelling systems worked out by local missionaries. Others are taught a syllabic system using circles, triangles and hooks for symbols.

Local systems could complicate things, says Dr. Lefebvre.

"If we don't rush not only to unify spelling but to find a standard grammar — the missionaries are doing this—the dialects will break up into languages."

He says co-operation of the missionaries—who teach the Eskimos—is essential, he believes they are ready to support it, but there are some justifiable objections. One is that it would complicate things for Eskimos already taught by the existing local systems.

Studies made by the missionaries were a source for the spelling system now under consideration by the government, Dr. Lefebvre says.

They also sent in tape recordings of the spoken language and written phonetic reports in response to a questionnaire Dr. Lefebvre mailed across the north.

However the system is based on the description of an eastern Hudson Bay dialect studied earlier by one of the linguists who collaborated is working out the new system. He was Raymond Gagne, head of the English department at Mountain Sanatorium in Hamilton.

Dr. Gagne taught the new system to one of the patients, Johnny Iqaluq, who now lives at Frobisher Bay in Baffin Island and who may be destined to be looked on as father of his language.

If everybody connected with the Eskimos co-operates, Dr. Lefebvre says, Eskimos could have a united written language within 10 years or 25 at most.

"In the broken language there are more difficulties."

If you follow the spoor of men who get there this winter—you'll find it's because they have NEW CUSTOM SUBURBANITE winter tires by Goodyear.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Two of the "slow-starters" in the Eastern League clash here tonight when what was vaunted as a "powerhouse" by the right honorable Maxie Jackson, in other words, the Kingston Merchants, are the guests of the McFarlands.

The Macs have a double duty to perform. First is to wipe out the ignominy of that initial defeat handed them by the peaky crusse from Roddesville, secondly to prove they have not lost entirely the sight of their scoring eyes.

They didn't look too good against that "leg-weary" crew of Chevies from Cornwall, Sunday afternoon, and it's a safe bet they'll be out to redeem themselves against, of all guys, the Brabin-Gagnon bevy from east o' here.

The Merchants haven't been doing so briskly for the home town crowd either. They won but one of their first four starts, and that one against our side. However, any and all Kingston clubs appear to be "busy" when they tangle with a Belleville crew—and tonight should not be any different. It is to be hoped though, the Macs are higher. The game gets under way at 8.30.

Bobby Attersley of the Whitby Dunlops, may miss Bus Gagnon, on his scoring forays, but Sidney Smith is filling in very nicely, thank you. A look at the top ten of the Eastern League released today revealed the Blairtown sniper topping the loop scoring, with 13 points and Smitty with 12. Attersley is the top goal-getter with eight and is tied with Guy Henri of Cornwall with mosquesides, at seven. Smitty has seven goals and six assists for 13 points.

Henri is in third spot with two and seven for nine points with the Macs' Davy Jones in fourth place with two and five. 'Lou Semke of the Macs, is in sixth spot with four and two. The Belleville Dunlops, who have potted 32 goals in five games, have placed six of their snipers in the top 12. Cornwall and Belleville each has two, with Hull-Ottawa three.

Long John Henderson tops the league goalies with ten goals against in five games for a GA mark of 2.00. He has one shutout.

Netminder Jacques Caron, part of a three-player trade involving Toronto Marlboros, Guelph Biltmores and Toronto St. Michael's, is property of the OHA Junior "A" League, will not play for Guelph as announced last week.

Caron is expected to dress with Peterborough Petes, where he played last season because of a two-year agreement between Marlboros and Petes. Peterborough had indicated it would use the goalie this year, but when the trade to Guelph was announced decided to retain Caron.

"We were trying to help Guelph and the league," Marlboro president Harold Ballard said. "Apparently Peterborough doesn't care about the strength of other teams in the league."

Ron Howell, who plays with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League, will join his brother Harry in the hockey wars, New York Rangers announced.

A spokesman said Ron, a winger, will sign with the National Hockey League club at the end of the football season and will likely go to Buffalo of the American League.

Eastern Senior A League Scoring Statistics

Bobby Attersley and team-mate Sid Smith of the Whitby Dunlops, lead the Eastern Ontario senior hockey league pointsgetters after the opening week of play. Attersley leads both divisions with eight goals and seven assists, while Smith has racked up seven and six. Four other Dunnies are in the top dozen.

Belleville Maxs, Hull and Cornwall each has two snipers in the top lists. Cornwall's Guy Henri has 2-7-9 mark while the Macs' Davy Jones has a 2-5-7 record for third and fourth spots.

Long John Henderson tops the league goalies with 10 goals against in five games for a GA mark of 2.00. He has one shutout.

Five Canadiens Still In Top Flight Of NHL Scorers

Boston Bruins Stir up Most Excitement in Tightening Up National League Race

MONTREAL (CP) — Boston Bruins stirred up most of the excitement last week in tightening up the National Hockey League race but shared their scoring unevenly generously that no Bruins' moved up among the point-getting leaders.

Only Eddie Litzenberger, lanky Chicago Black Hawks winger horned his way into the solid phalanx of five Montreal Canadiens who topped the list a week ago.

Canadiens did a little shuffling within their own ranks. Jean Beliveau scored one goal and picked up four assists to become co-leader with Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion. Each has 13 points on six goals and nine assists. The Boomer reached up three goals and one assist in his team's three games.

ROCKET DROPS TO THIRD

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who missed leadership at 11 points with Geoffrion a week ago, was blanked in the scoring but counted two assists and dropped into a three-way tie for third place with 12 points.

Bracketed with him are brother Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard, who potted two goals, and Claude Provost, who scored once and assisted on three other goals.

Dickie Moore, veteran winger, with two goals and one assist, dropped back a notch. Tied with him at 11 points are Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers and Bobby Hull of Chicago.

Bathgate matched Moore's productivity for the week while Hull, with two goals and two assists, bounced up from a 13th-place tie with Litz.

BRUINS FAIL TO MOVE

Jerry Toppazzini, who has been the Bruins' leading point scorer, bagged three goals and one assist but found himself still in ninth place with his 10 points. Norm Johnson of Boston didn't get a point and dropped far down the list. He has eight assists but has yet to score a goal.

Toppazzini, who has run his goal count to nine and leads the league in shots on goal department, two more than Maurice Richard, Dickie Moore and Chicago's Ted Lindsay, is bracketed with 10 points in the individual standing with Gordie Howe of Detroit, Vic Stasiuk of Boston and Red Sullivan of New York.

Litzenberger has taken over leadership in assist production, however, from Dick Richard's 11.

Howe and Sloan each scored twice and added an assist last week. Stasiuk and Sullivan went scoreless but picked up three assists each.

BRUINS BIG GAINERS

On the week's play, the Bruins were the big gainers as the league. They grabbed seven of a possible eight points on three wefts and a tie and found their total producers of second place, one point behind Montreal.

Canadiens played .500 hockey—a win, a loss and a tie—still leading the league by a point. Detroit, playing a game less than Boston, Chicago and Montreal, and are three points back of the Bruins.

New York Rangers, salvaging only a tie in four starts, dropped another point to tie for second place into fifth slot, one point behind Chicago. The Black Hawks' record was 1-0-3. Toronto Maple Leafs had one win and two losses and remained in the cellar.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—The favored Lanson Farms entry of Culpeper and Fleet Path finished first and second respectively Monday in the Metropolitan Belle Grier purse at New Woodbine.

My Kingdom, which held the lead momentarily at the head of the homestretch, finished third.

The Canadian Jockey Club has scheduled only 25-minute intervals between races during the final 16 days of the Canadian racing season.

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Tudor Era, five-year-old owned by Mrs. Herbert Hertf, was selected Monday as the second United States representative in the $100,000 International race on Nov. 12.

The English - bred horse and Jockey Willie Shoemaker will ride as the home team in the 1¼ mile race on grass.

The appearance of turf writers chose Tudor Era on the basis of his victory Saturday in the $20,000-added Turf Cup at Laurel.

Tudor Era has won six races and nearly $90,000 this year.

Competing against the U.S. pair in the seventh International will be Ireland's Ballymoss and Tharp, Germany's Orsini, Argentina's Revoque, Australia's Sailors Guide and Russia's Garnir and Zayrel.

Eddie Arcaro was engaged to ride Tharp. It will be Arcaro's fifth appearance in the International. He scored the first U.S. victory on C. V. Whitney's Flaneman in 1954.

Ballymoss Will Be Starter in $100,000 Race

LONDON (CP) — The Anglo-Irish Bloodstock Agency has completed arrangements for the transport of its most valuable cargo in years—the four-year £250,000 (*700,000) Ballymoss to the United States.

The four-year-old chestnut colt, undisputed champion of Europe, leaves London by air Wednesday night in a specially chartered airfreighter for New York and Washington, D.C.

On Nov. 15 Ballymoss will take part in the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel Park—the last race of his fabulous career.

"I'm not worried about the long journey from Tipperary to Laurel," Irish trainer Vincent O'Brien said. "Ballymoss is a born traveller."

TOP TRAINER

O'Brien, Ballymoss' trainer, should know. He's one of the top trainers on his side of the Atlantic—perhaps even the greatest.

O'Brien shot into the headlines with brilliant successes as a trainer of steeplechasers. He won the Grand National, the toughest steeplechase of them all, three times in a row—in 1953, 1954 and 1955.

It was in 1955 that O'Brien bought Ballymoss as a yearling for Argentine owner John Mc-Shain of Philadelphia. Price: £4,725 ($13,214).

Ballymoss has won a total of £76,510 ($214,508) in prizes — a record for Britain. The four-year-old by Hyperion out of Doubly Kind is insured for £250,000 ($700,000).

Dick Hyde of Senators Wins Sophomore Title in American

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Hyde's brilliant efforts as a relief pitcher for the last place Washington Senators have resulted in the 30-year-old righthander being voted the American League sophomore of 1958.

The balloting of members of the Baseball Writers Association of America in the Associated Press poll gave that Hyde drew 46 of the 96 votes.

Norm Sieburn of New York Yankees was third with 11 followed by Russ Nixon of Cleveland 10, Jim Landis of Chicago 8, and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore 1.

SAVED 19—WON 10

Hyde won 10 games and saved 19 others as a reliever. Pressing his most effective pitches from an unusually low position, Hyde compiled an earned run 2.79 season average. This was the lowest American League mark among pitchers with a minimum of 10 decisions.

The first submarine specialist since Eldon Auker of Detroit, Hyde last year appeared in 57 games, walked 36 batters and struck out 47. In 1957, his rookie season, Dick finished with a 6-4 won-lost record.

Sieburn, 25, batted .300 in 134 games. In 1956, his first year with the Yanks, he hit .304 in 54 games.

Kubek, the circuit's rookie-of-the-year in 1957, slumped from a .297 batting mark to .262. However, he played a strong game at shortstop during the Yankee pennant drive.

Mixon wound up with .301 in 113 games from the Indians. He took over most of the heavy duty at the team's catcher after Jim Hegan was sold to Philadelphia in the mid-July freshman season. Russ batted .281.

American-Led Rowing Rebels Back in Fold

By JOHN FARROW

OXFORD, England (AP) — American-led rowing rebels at Oxford University rejoined the official fold Monday, ending the biggest row in a century of rowing at the university.

Ronald Howard, president of the Oxford crew and responsible for forming the eight to take on Cambridge University in March, announced:

"The oarsmen who formed what has been called a 'pirate crew' in train independently have now abandoned their plans and offered me their services."

PREDICTS WIN

New Yorker Reed Rubin, the six-foot, four-inch, 200-pound former Yale oarsman, who led the rebels, commented: "I can say this. Oxford will beat Cambridge next year."

That's all Rubin would say about the controversy that rocked British rowing to its foundations.

Rubin started trouble by disagreeing openly with Oxford University's rowing techniques and training methods.

Twelve days ago the rebels, including some of the best rowers at Oxford, announced they had formed a new boat club to be paid for by friends of Oxford rowing.

Rubin argued the official crew had too much time on the water and that much of it was wasted.

ALL FORGOTTEN

It was left to Howard to make the only public statement. Monday he said:

"I have not yet decided whether they will be required to row in trial eights, but in any case action will not be held against them. They will be considered for their positions on merit."

Will there be any change in the officials? Howard said:

"We shall have one coach, Jimmy Caplin—H. R. A. Edwards." Howards said. "And we shall row in the way he wishes."

Tickets on Sale For Semi-Final Game in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Tickets for a Big Four semi-final football game Wednesday between Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders go on sale to subscribers today—despite a possibility the game may be played in Ottawa.

If Alouettes beat Toronto Argonauts Thursday in their second-place game and Ottawa loses to Hamilton Tiger-Cats Wednesday in their season finale in second if they lose and Ottawa also loses in a game with Toronto Thursday.

But if Alouettes lose and Ottawa wins Thursday, Als drop to third and the game goes to Ottawa.

General manager Gorman Kennedy of Alouettes says the early sale was necessary because of the mail-out by distribution of the 20,486 season subscriber tickets.

"If we waited until Monday, we possibly couldn't handle all those tickets in a couple of days. If we finish in third place, we'll refund the money."

Willy Nilly or No, Folks Like Professional Football

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — If pro football is willy nilly, George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins mused aloud today, then pro must like willy nilly football.

Marshall, a pro pioneer and owner of the Redskins, was commenting on a remark by Admiral Jim Hamilton, athletic director at Pitt.

Admiral Hamilton said during the weekend that the pros "play in a wild game, throwing the ball willy nilly all over the place, with little purpose."

Marshal would not let such an aspersion pass unchallenged.

First he said he wasn't sure what kind of football his Redskins have been playing this season but if it's willy nilly, "then there has been too much willy and not enough willy."

LOST TWO

Washington has lost four of six contests to date.

Then the chief Redskin had a word for Hamilton, who was a star player and later coach and athletic director at Navy before taking the Pitt job.

"Although the admiral has seen a lot of professional football, I still don't think he is qualified to comment," Marshall said.

"After all, professional football has no taxpayers to support it, with the exception of the citizens who do so voluntarily. Obviously they like the type of game the National League plays.

NFL commissioner Bert Bell points to the season's high of 291,000 or so who paid to see the six pro games Sunday, and says "the fans are getting a lot for their money because we give the public interesting, wide open, clean football."

The Packers, who leave Canada Nov. 6 for a nine-game European exhibition series in Sweden and Moscow, showed little spark.

About 1,200 fans saw Packers take period leads of 2-2 and 4-3 before adding three unanswered goals in the last period.

Centre Gerry Goyer, defenceman Andy McCallum and left winger Russ Kowalenko each scored twice for Kelowna, with right winger Moe Young getting the other.

Kearns Suggests Carpentier, Dempsey or Rocky Marciano To Referee Moore-Durelle Go

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack Kearns, veteran fight manager who will be bringing Archie Moore to Montreal in a few weeks, proposed late Jown Monday his table about the coming light-heavyweight world title bout and a few other things.

Champion Archie will put his title on the line in Montreal Forum Dec. 10 against Yvon Durelle, Canada's tough pride and joy from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., who holds the British Empire title.

First, Kearns wants a "neutral referee" and he did title some of the most colorful pages of boxing's history to come up with names—Jack Dempsey, Georges Carpentier and Rocky Marciano.

PRACTICALLY LOCAL BOY

"Title is a world championship fight and Archie will be meeting practically a local boy," said Kearns.

"I'm going to meet with the Montreal Athletic Commission and suggest a neutral referee. I know when we signed Dempsey I'll be told: 'What the devil are you talking about? You force manager Kearney.'

"So then I'll suggest Carpentier and if they can't get the great Frenchman then I'll settle for Marciano."

As if that kind of talk wasn't impressive enough, Kearns switched to money—$150,000 of it.

"I'm telling promoter Eddie Quinn that he should match the winner of the Moore-Durelle fight with ingemar Johansson of Sweden," Kearns said.

"Johansson is the hottest thing right now as the contender for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson. But neither Johansson nor any other heavyweight is getting anywhere now in trying to get a fight with Patterson.

DURELLE GETS READY

Meanwhile in Moncton Durelle, Jack Gallagher announced prepared to hit the road today and do two or three rounds of glove work daily for the Dec. 10 fight.

"The training tempo will greatly be stepped up," Chris Dunphan, his manager.

"Yvon will work up to four or five miles a day and between six and eight rounds of sparring a week during the five-weeks training period.

"The main thing is for Yvon to be in condition and strong," said Shaban. "Yvon knows what to do with his hands."

"We're going to work on a plan for Moore," "I'm not saying what it is, but Yvon will have to change his style a little for Moore. Moore won't find him easy. Archie knows very well that the longer the fight goes the better Yvon's chances are," he said.

Durelle looks in pretty good shape. He weighs about 181, seven pounds above the limit.

Rough Riders Get Day Off For Victory

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders are back on a five-day week after Saturday's 14-8 win over league - leading Hamilton Tigercats.

With Riders, a Saturday failure always is followed by a Monday practice. And the squad previously had three successive six-day weeks.

"The boys really need the rest," said Frank Clair, the Big Four club's coach, alone in his office mulling over strategy for next Saturday's contest in Hamilton.

He said there will be no lineup changes this weekend. Canadian Russ Jackson going all the way offensively again at quarterback.

Corner linebacker Bill Sowalski is the only doubtful starter, still nursing a two-week-old knee injury.

With a playoff spot pinched, the coach will play everyone this weekend.

"No one will be going 60 minutes. We have to save our strength for next Wednesday."

That's when Riders meet Montreal Alouettes in a sudden-death semi-final.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Punch Herbert, a four-year-old bay horse, won the featured $1,400 B pace at Richelieu Park, covering the mile in 2:04 1-5 with Barney Hughes driving Monday night.

The horse paid $7.40, $3.70, $2.60 across the board.

Quick Way took place money of $3.10 and $2.60 while Mighty Special showed and paid $2.60.

QUEBEC BOXER STOPPED

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Torres of Puerto Rico, unbeaten middlemain of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, stopped Burke Emery of Sherbrooke, Que., in 2:07 of the fifth round at St. Nick's Monday night. Referee Harry Ebbets halted the one-sided bout with Torres ahead, but taking a stiff battering. Torres weighed 164 and Emery 159½.

Two Europeans Top Challengers For Heavy Title

MILWAUKEE (AP)—For the first time in modern ring history the National Boxing Association has designated two Europeans as its heavyweight challengers.

Sweden's Ingemar Johansson was listed as No. 1 for Floyd Patterson's crown, Brian London of England was ranked No. 2.

Johansson recently scored one - round knockout of Eddie Machen, Redding, Calif., now dropped to No. 5. London defeated another leading American contender, Willie Pastrano, in a fight that was stopped because of the latter's cut eyes.

COOPER VOTED FOR MONTH

Henry Cooper, English heavyweight who recently decisioned Mike Fahey of Chandler, Ariz., No. 4 on the current list, was named the October boxer of the month by NBA ratings committee.

Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., held his position as No. 3 contender for the British Empire light heavyweight crown. He was the only Canadian listed.

Bill Bewley Tops Scorers in Big Four Race

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Bewley, Canadian - born halfback with Montreal Alouettes who played catches passes and kicks converts and field goals, has hopped into the Big Four Football Union scoring race lead.

The 29-year-old native of Montreal jumped into the No. 1 position from sixth place Saturday when he scored 16 points as Montreal Alouettes pushed Toronto Argonauts out of the playoff picture with a 44-7 triumph.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show Bewley with 60 points on two touchdowns, 26 converts, six field goals and four singles with one game remaining in the 16-game schedule. He took over the lead from Argonauts' Dick Shatto, import from the University of Kentucky who was held scoreless in Saturday's game. Shatto has 54 points.

Two Argonaut players hold down the next two places. Vic Stasiuk, formerly of the University of Dayton, is third with 53 points, four more than Dave Mann, first-year import from Chicago Cards who scored Toronto's only touchdown against the Als.

Tim Reid, halfback with the champion University of Toronto Blues, leads the senior intercollegiate race with 49 points, seven up on teammate Peter Joyce. Jerry Comacher, Jr., of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs is in third place with 36 points.

LOWE TOPS BLENHEIM

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Lowe Vocational Rough Riders Monday defeated Blenheim Collegiate 62 in the first game of a two-game total-points semi-final series for the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association soccer championship. Rudy Graz scored four Lowe goals while Merel Sarra got the other two. Second game of the series is scheduled for Blenheim Wednesday, the winner meeting Sarnia in the final.

Petes Move Into Second Place Of Junior Race

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Peterborough Petes defeated Barrie Flyers 6-3 Monday night to record their third win of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season and shades Barrie in second place behind St. Catharines Teepees.

Both teams played clean, fast hockey. Goaltender Jacques Caron, playing his first game for Petes this season, starred with a shutout.

Peterborough hadn't planned to use Caron but exercised their right to retain him when it was learned he was headed for Guelph. The Biltmores claimed him on a deal with Toronto Marboros. The OHA ruled in the Petes favor during discussions.

Peterborough went ahead in the second period on a goal by Hugh McGonigal. Tom Thurby notted the second in the 19th minute of the final period.

Charlie Burns of Dunlops One of Leading Candidates For the NHL Rookie Award

By REN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—There is only one player among the 108 in the National Hockey League who was born in the United States.

There is only one in the pro circuit who wears a helmet.

And they are one and the same guy—Charlie Burns of the Detroit Red Wings.

Burns, 22 and a 5-11½, 177-pounder, is one of the leading candidates for the NHL's rookie-of-the-year award.

American-born skaters in ice hockey's big league are almost as rare as left-handed shortstops in baseball.

So how come Burns advanced to the top? There were extenuating circumstances.

RAISED IN TORONTO

"I was born in Detroit," he explained, "but my mother died when I was six months old and my aunt and uncle adopted me and took me to Toronto.

"Of course, I learned to skate at an early age. When I was 15 I was signed by a junior team, Toronto Marlboros. In one practice session I was knocked into the boards and fell on my head. I suffered a double fracture of the skull.

"They put a steel plate in my head and after I recovered they told me it would be safer to wear a helmet. It certainly makes me feel more secure."

WHITBY PLAYER

Burns, who was a member of the Whitby team which represented Canada last year in the senior amateur championships in Oslo, Norway, didn't expect to make the grade with the Red Wings.

"They invited me to training camp in Detroit," he said. "I knew that I could match most of the players as far as skating ability was concerned. But I thought that maybe they'd think I was too green. Everyone has given me a lot of help."

Burns is playing centre on a line with veterans Nick Mickoski and Johnny Wilson. Charley has three goals. One was the winner in Sunday night's game against New York Rangers.

Quebec Aces May Form First All-Negro Line

QUEBEC (CP) — A decision whether Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League will form the first all-Negro line in professional hockey is to be taken today.

Coach Phil Renaud said a decision will be taken after practice whether John Ostendorp, a 20 - year - old Negro right winger who played hockey last year with the Junior Edmonton Oil Kings, will remain in the QHL.

A player can work five games with a pro club and still retain his amateur status. At present Ostendorp is playing on a line with speedy Bill O'Dee and Stan Maxwell, both Negroes and both accomplished performers in the QHL.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Olympic planners came up Monday with a thrill-packed 11-day schedule for the 1960 Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Spectators at the Feb. 18-28 spectacle will have a choice of 15 skiing and ski jumping events, eight speed skating races, three figure skating competitions and at least 28 hockey games.

More than 1,000 athletes from 33 nations are expected to compete.

Two Olympic firsts are scheduled. They are the biathlon, a 20-kilometre event combining skiing and shooting, and women's speed skating.

NEW WINTER TIRE WITH DYNAMIC TRACTION for today's high-powered cars

Last winter Goodyear engineers went far into Canada's northern mining country. They went to find snow deep enough and conditions rugged enough to prove conclusively that the new Suburbanite tread with dynamic traction is the greatest winter tire ever developed.

These tests proved beyond doubt that the new Suburbanite provides dynamic traction—the engineers' term for extra grip under power. This means you get up to 51% more traction in snow, and up to 17% better traction in mud. The All-new Suburbanite's exclusive dynamic traction delivers the power thrust demanded by the high-powered engines in modern cars.

Just step on the gas in hub-deep snow . . . hit the brakes on a hard packed surface . . . climb hills and corner with confidence. Snowedin parking lots and steep driveways cease to be a problem. Besides all this extra performance in snow, the new Suburbanite runs quieter than ever on dry roads—promises long wear in any driving conditions.

LOWEST PRICES EVER!

It costs less than you think to own a pair of dynamic traction Suburbanites. See your Goodyear dealer soon. There's one near you.

Eastern Junior 'B' Hockey League Will Operate With Five Entries

The Ontario Hockey Association's Eastern Junior "B" league will be comprised of five teams for the 1958 - 59 season, it was learned at a meeting here last night.

Returning from last season will be the group champions of Peterborough, Trenton, Belleville and Kingston. The loop's newest entry is Picton. The Picton team will be of junior "C" classification and must yet obtain the approval of the OHA before entering the junior "B" grouping. Barring unforeseen circumstances, this will be a formality only.

A good turnout attended the meeting at radio station CJBQ with all five entries having two or more representatives present.

Jack Devine, appointed member of the OHA, chaired the meeting in the absence of Lorne Cook, OHA president, who was in Napanee for the opening game of the Intermediate "A" league. Jack Devine was named convener for the junior "B" league. Max Jackson, convener last year, had earlier turned down the position because of business reasons. All in attendance voiced satisfaction with the fine way in which the Kingston sportscaster conducted the last season's play.

The Picton club has no team name as yet but the other entries will be known as Trenton Lafferty "B"s, Belleville Lambert - Hastings, Kingston Johnson Motors and Peterborough Lafon's.

The opening league game will be played on Friday, November 14 with Peterborough playing host to Kingston. Belleville's first home game will be on November 18 with Peterborough here. A complete schedule will be released later this week.

24-GAME SCHEDULE

The clubs will play a 24-game schedule with the top four clubs participating in the group play-offs. The team finishing first will have its choice of opponents. All playoff series will be semi-final and final, will be best-of-seven affairs.

Peterborough announced that MHL star "Red" Sullivan has donated a trophy to go to the league champions. Sullivan's home is in Peterborough.

Two OHA referees will handle all games, rather than the one referee, two linesmen system as now used by the Senior "A" league.

Josh Nichols, representing Kingston, offered a suggestion which met approval with the other representatives. An effort will be made to have Hull - Ottawa Canadiens Junior "A" club play an exhibition game against the eastern junior "B" all-star

German Team Favored in Show At New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The national horse show German eight-day run in Madison Square Garden today and after a change Gen. Humberto Mariles' slick Mexicans won't be in their accustomed spot as favorites in the international jumping.

Mexico lost its favored position mostly because the inimitable Gen. Mariles won't ride. He is bothered by an ear infection which disturbs his sense of balance and he is trusting his difficulties to his two offspring, Humberto, Jr., 17, and Vivy, 16, along with the experienced Luis Arroyo. Humberto Viviani.

The West German team is figured to make off with the majority of the 14 international events, although the U.S. also is strong.

More Child-Like Programs Badly Needed on Television

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The most overworked word in the whole television vocabulary this season is adult—no matter as many ways to say.

As defined in a dictionary, it means fully developed in character and powers. As handled about tv in television, it means absolutely nothing at all.

Every western now advertises itself as adult, of course, and so does every adventure and domestic situation comedy.

One of the rare occasions this season when the management legitimately hung out the "for adults only" sign was when Omnibus offered its excellent examination of capital punishment. If any kids were watching on boot-legged sets in basement playrooms they might have acquired some exciting notions of how to exterminate local enemies.

Alistaire Cooke's gentle admonition against capital punishment was pretty potent stuff for youngsters must have raised this question in many parental minds: When is it a good idea to invite the kids to watch the set?

The widespread usage of the word adult on television has set me to wondering if it isn't time some programs sincerely tried to be child-like and openly advertised themselves as such.

The best single program that has yet graced the home screen was an utterly child-like program Peter Pan.

Two fine children's tales have been adapted for television so far this season: Little Women and Swiss Family Robinson. As television shows, both were failures.

They failed to be top-grade entertainment for a variety of reasons. But one flaw they shared in common was an obvious refusal to be totally child-like and so to appeal to the child that resides in everyone of all ages.

If somebody will produce a few fine children's tales in this sponsor I'm sure we'll all adore it.

Stan Mikita Top Scorer In Junior 'A'

TORONTO (CP) — Forward Stan Mikita of the first-place St. Catharines Teepees is leading the scoring race in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league with 12 points on five goals and seven assists.

Unofficial statistics, released Monday, show Bill Connelly of Peterborough Petes is runner-up with 11 points. He has six goals—all scored in one game—and five assists.

Tied for third place with 10 points are Bob Corupe and Chico Maki, both with Teepees.

Dennis Dejordy, brilliant netminder for St. Catharines, has the goaltenders' department with the goaltenders' department with 18 goals in seven games.

Norman Jacques of second place Barrie Flyers has allowed 30 goals for a 2.86 average and second spot.

Affectionate Welcome Given Red Skelton in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — News and comment on the Hollywood scene:

Busy man, Mel Ferrer. After hard day's work directing Greer Garson on a Friday, he hopped a plane for New York and spent the weekend acting up in tatters of The World, the Flesh and the Devil. Then he hopped on other plane, returned here to resume directing Greer Garson on Monday.

Ferrer filmed a fight with Harry Belafonte in a deserted New York for The World, etc. It was originally made on the MGM back lot, but the studio decided it looked too phoney.

That's the picture that concerns three survivors of an atomic holocaust. . . . .

AUSTRALIA INVASION

There will be a small - scale Hollywood invasion of Australia with On the Beach and Summer of the 17th Doll shooting there soon and the Deborah Kerr-Dary Cooper film The Sundowners slated for next summer. . . . .

Audrey Hepburn is visiting Greer Garsons and hopes to rest until next summer. After this she'll do Green Mansions, Audrey serves it.

Hollywood gave an affectionate welcome to Red Skelton in his concert show. The Clown Prince Baton, co-starring Dave Rose and his orchestra. Red works hard, and the result is an hour of steady laughter. If he ever wanted to give up TV, he could doubtless find work for years with this show. . . . .

Jean Simmons establishes herself in the top ranks of dramatic actresses with House of the Dark. It's a beautifully shaded performance that will make her a strong Oscar contender. . . . .

Party Girl is a curious throwback to the type of picture MGM used to make with Clark Gable and Norma Shearer. It's a prosperous segment of the Chicago '30s with Robert Taylor as the underworld lawyer, Cyd Charisse as the pretty pawn and Lee J. Cobb in the Capone role. . . . .

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—In A. M. you will be somewhat nervous over what you must do in the outside world as well as pressing duties in home or office. Simply schedule your hours properly and all works out well. Tonight is fine for following advice of good partner.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—A fellow worker is upset and today tries to take his or her ire out on you and possibly make things difficult for you. Pay no heed, but be wary and clever. P. M. see that surroundings are sparkling clean and all necessary health treatments.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21)—Here is a day when your artistic genius is vying with practical duties your most perform. Get the latter out of the way first, then indulge in creative expressions. P. M. head off a possible argument by being most charming self!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21)—If you insist on being right in every instance today, you can certainly have many a headache in dealing with others. Co-operate instead. Also, be most ethical in all that you do and say, which will dissolve all friction. Smile.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Impress other persons with your true altruism, an easy thing for the blessed "I serve" Virgo. It is a must that you be generous, too. The results will be wonderful, both in friendships gained, good will and love of fellowman.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—You have excellent big ideas and ambitions, but it is necessary today that you get down to practical financial matters of immediate concern. Then it will be possible to make real progress in the former.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Make it a point to note the actions and purposes of others today, for too much preoccupation with self and own affairs could be detrimental, particularly with regard to a high executive. Be most ethical in important matters and deals.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—A day when you can easily waste time feeling sorry for yourself, which would be most unfortunate. Count your blessings and do for other persons instead and this can be a most happy and worthwhile day for you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Take care you do not make serious errors today, since everyone seems to be giving advice that is not right for you. Determine not to be pugnacious or quarrelsome. Give an ear to all, but make decisions tomorrow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Some rather unpleasant affairs crop up today that you would do well to study carefully. And take care to ignore those persons you know are unfriendly and a bad influence in your life. Say very little. Assist those who are in need.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Here is a day when everything seems to be going wrong. But this is an excellent challenge to your intellect and resourcefulness in the face of emergency. Keep your mind focused on the highest precepts. Steer clear of irate executive.

If your child is born today in the type who feels that he or she has to fight for everything desired instead of using the kind, sweet approach in dealing with fellow humans. The chart however is then fine for say professions dealing with the military, or troubleshooting of any kind, once you have taught your progeny how to handle others properly. Stress religion, philanthropy and hard logic.

DURHAM NATIVE

TORONTO (CP) — Frederick Grange Trull, 94, a life governor of the British and Foreign Bible Society, died here Friday. A member of a Durham, Ont., United Empire Loyalist family and power engineer with Ontario Hydro, he lived in Ontario for 50 years before moving here in 1914.

COSTLIEST STRIKE

make wage increases now who never would have made them."

The strike could mean lost customers for Stelco. It also promises an increase in steel prices. company officials warned even before it began that wage increases would mean price increases.

As for its impact on the economy, union and management probably still disagree. The union's position is that the higher wages and resulting price increases would make it harder for Canadian firms to compete in world markets, worsening the recession. The union has claimed that higher wages mean more buying power, easing the recession.

LONGER THAN IN 1946

If the strike lasts Wednesday it will have lasted six days longer than the 80-day walkout of 1946 a record battle for unionization that resulted in street fights in Hamilton.

There'll be no immediate effect on cash registers in Hamilton. It will be a week to 10 days before Stelco's blast furnaces back into operation and men at the mines and ore auction lines would resume working later.

The strike began Aug. 12 with workers demanding a 32-cent package hourly increase, in line with benefits won in the two-year contract that expired March 31.

Two members of a three-man conciliation board had recommended against wage increases. The minority report called for a 5-cent increase in a two-year contract, 15 cents in one year.

MINISTER INTERVENES

Labor Minister Daley intervened twice without success. His third bid for a settlement came Oct. 21, two days after union men at Algoma Steel Corporation in Sault Ste. Marie agreed to a three-year contract providing three-cent-an-hour wage increases including 24 cents and fringe benefits worth an additional three cents.

Basic rate at Algoma had been $1.71½ an hour, compared with $1.73½ at Stelco, but Algoma workers had a bigger increment between job classes—40 cents an hour compared to 5½ cents—which in effect provided an even larger advantage of four cents.

Thus Stelco workers would have to win two cents more than Algoma workers to make the same wages and a settlement on a union spokesman said.

"You don't think we'd settle for less, do you?"

It indicated a settlement for 36 cents—anything more was considered unlikely in view of the prolonged strike and hard bargaining.

OFF $60,000 FROM SAFE

TORONTO (CP)—Safecrackers escaped with more than $60,000 from the safe of an office located in a north-central Toronto apartment building, police said Monday. The loot included $40,000 in cheques.

Social Register Wins Extension Of Injunction

WINNIPEG (CP) — Continuation of a court order restraining the Winnipeg Tribune from publishing names of persons listed in the Social Register was ordered in Winnipeg by court of Queen's Bench by Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank.

A temporary injunction forbidding the newspaper to publish the names was granted by chambers Friday by Mr. Justice Paul Dewar.

The Social Register sought the order and sued the newspaper for unstated damages after the newspaper published the names of half the 1,100 Manitobans listed in the book. The newspaper said it planned to publish the remainder.

200,000 WITNESS

lous rites that preceded the outdoor ceremonies.

Representatives of heads of state from all parts of the world mingled with church dignitaries in the audience to see the tiara placed on the head of the new pontiff.

Canada was represented by Paul Leger, new permanent envoy to NATO and brother of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal. He was accompanied by the Canadian ambassador to the Holy See, Marquis.

St. Peter's was resplendent with red damask walls blazing with 350,000 electric light bulbs and flickering candles. The vast basilica included prelates of the church, representatives of foreign governments, papal nobles in simple priests, nuns and Romans, some of whom had stood in the rain for hours for admittance to the basilica.

Pope Pius XII bearers carried Pope John to the ceremonies in the basilica climaxing his election as spiritual leader of the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics. Forty-eight of the ancient 54 cardinals were present to exchange the ceremonial greetings and to render him homage. Jose Maria Caro Rodriguez, Archbishop of Santiago, Chile, attended the ceremony but did not take part in the procession because of his 92 years.

The Pope's face was solemn as he blessed the crowd on the way to the basilica for the mass. Swiss guards in medieval uniforms and silver helmets led the procession. Behind them came heads of the ancient Roman Catholic orders and nobles of the papal court.

Many representatives were in brilliant full dress. Women were in black veils and some carried fans and rosaries.

The status of St. Peter was dressed in ancient white liturgical crown and jewels taken from the Vatican treasury for the occasion.

South, Southeast Asia Needs More Economic Aid

SEATTLE (AP) — Progress is being made in South and Southeast Asia but more needs to be done quickly to help bolster newly independent governments faced with staggering economic and political problems.

This was the concensus of Colombo Plan economic experts Monday as they began the third week of a month-long, closed-door inquiry into the economic ills of 650,000,000 Asians.

The report of these experts will be turned over next week to a ministerial meeting of the Colombo Plan consultative committee.

The Colombo Plan, a novel organization without headquarters or staff, was formed around the idea of more advanced Commonwealth nations such as Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand helping the new independent countries of India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Burma.

ENLARGE SCOPE

The concept was enlarged to include the United States and Japan, which are outside the area, and the Philippines, Thailand, Malaya, Cambodia, Laos, Viet Nam, Indonesia, Nepal, Singapore, North Borneo and Sarawak.

In the opinion of key delegation leaders and observers from such organizations as the World Bank, the area covered by these nations will continue to need assistance for another three decades before normal, although progress toward industrial development has been made during the last five years.

These sources said "more needs to be done quickly. The past year was a bad one."

The U.S. recession is being blamed for some of the economic headaches. The recession caused tumble in the prices of rubber and tin which sorely hit such countries as Malaya and Indonesia.

Bad weather during the monsoon season also affected India, Pakistan, Indonesia and the Philippines. The rice crop was far below normal.

The winners were as follows: ladies, Mrs. Lou Rivers (donated by Mrs. Clayton Young); gentlemen, Melvin Rogers (donated by Ed Dwyer); door prize, Dominic Stolis (donated by Mrs. Patrick O'Hearn).

RAIN HAMPERS TAG DAY

The Safety Patrol tag day was not as successful as last year, due, no doubt, to the inclement weather last Saturday which hampered the young taggers in their solicitation.

About $50 was realized, which will buy some needed equipment such as new bells and perhaps one or two rubber buoys for school crossings. The purchase of additional equipment will be delayed until further funds are available.

FOXBORO

United Church Marks 104th Anniversary

FOXBORO — Baskets of chrysanthemums and ferns decorated the chancel in Foxboro United Church for its recent 104th anniversary. The Rev. R.F. Darby, minister of the church, was in charge of both morning and evening services.

The Rev. James C. Eastcott, B.A., B.D., of Tabernacle United Church, Bellleville, was guest minister.

For the morning service Mr. Eastcott chose as his text "The Open Channel," based on the 35th chapter of Isaiah.

The junior choir sang two numbers, "My Soul Longeth," and "Marvellous Grace," with Mrs. W. Rombough, Miss Marie Jamieson, Miss Shirley Fisher and Miss Marie Hollinger taking the solo parts.

In the evening Mr. Eastcott's message was on "Dynamic Minorities," with Genesis chapter 18 for his text.

A men's choir of 21 voices rendered two selections at this service, "Throw Out the Life-line," and "The Church in the Wildwood." Mrs. E. Spencer, church organist, and Mr. F. Beckstead, Chesterville presided at the piano and organ for both services.

The music was under the direction of Mr. S. C. Day. Capacity audiences joined with the congregation on this anniversary occasion.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — The Junior Auxiliary with its leader, Mrs. R. Blower of St. Andrew's Church, held a Hallowe'en party on Tuesday evening in the town hall. Each member had invited a little friend and about seven o'clock in walked 28 weird looking children.

Games were played, including a peanut hunt for which little Miss Faith Lou Hicks received the prize.

Judging of the costumes was capably done by Mrs. G. Spriggings and Mrs. G. Upton. The children were formed in groups and were given prizes for each group.

Penny Lavender received the grand prize for being the best dressed of all. In group 1 Lynda Spriggings came first; Cathy Wright, second; Anne Spriggings third. Group 2, Susan Callow first; Sandra Campbell second; Connie McQuaid third. Group 3, Nancy Channel first; Betty Herrington second; Grace Hislip third. Group 4, Pauline Burtt first; Cathy Alyea second; Lynda Channel third.

After the judging the lights were all turned off and Mrs. Blower then read a ghost story by the lights of the jack-o-lanterns. Refreshments were served by the ladies, including taffy apples made and donated by Mrs. J. B. Lavender. This ended a happy evening.

The Couples' Club of the United Church met on Monday evening in the United Church Sunday school rooms. Everyone came in costume and a merry time was spent with appropriate Hallowe'en games, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Cronk, Mr. and Mrs. A. Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parks.

Prizes for the best costume were presented Kenneth Lane and Mrs. Lewis Wight, Mrs. Arnold Foster and Mr. Eugene Snider.

The devotional period was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lever.

All enjoyed a lunch of doughnuts and sweet cider.

The club has planned to have a crokinole party on November 14 at 8 p.m. in the Sunday School rooms. Every one will be welcome.

How you can provide

LIFE INSURANCE WITH SAVINGS FOR EACH MEMBER OF THE FAMILY

through a "program of security," tailored to your needs by a London Life representative

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF HOW SUCH A PLAN CAN BE DESIGNED FOR A TYPICAL CANADIAN FAMILY:

For the father: Life Insurance to assure an income for wife and children, in case his life should be cut short—an income sufficient to keep the home intact, to pay the bills for food, clothing, education, and other essentials. To meet this all-important need, many Canadian family men have purchased the London Life's low-cost "Jubilee" Whole Life plan, which provides for savings as well as protection. Provision may also be made for income in case of total disability.

For the mother: Life insurance of her own, to provide further protection to the family, and containing savings features. The insurance may be paid up while she is still in middle age, but the protection may continue through her lifetime, if desired. It may also be provided that her premiums will not be payable if her husband becomes disabled or dies.

For the children: Insurance for each son or daughter—at the low premium rates available at their present ages. This insurance can build up funds through the years, so that when the policies are eventually turned over to the children, a backlog of savings will have already accumulated. It can be provided that premiums will not be payable in the event of the father's disablement or death.

London Life men are trained to help you select the plans which will best meet the needs of the individual members of the family. Moreover, it is part of their job to keep your program adapted to changes in your situation . . . Today is a good day to talk to a London Life representative.

900 Springhill Bodies Miners Look to Future

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP) — Search for nine bodies in the crushed No. 2 coal mine continued slowly and painfully today.

Belly - crawling work crews clawing through rock and debris in cramped tunnels are the only miners working since a gigantic underground upheaval Oct. 23 trapped 174 men.

One trapped man have been saved. The death toll of 74 is the worst in Canadian mining history since the 1870s when 88 men died in a Stellarton, N.S., pit.

The mangled bodies of seven miners left are concentrated about the fa-

Sir Rey Dobson, chairman of V. Roe of Canada Limited, said last week he didn't think the Springhill mine would re-open.

Avro is the parent company of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation which controls the Springhill coalfield.

STUDY FUTURE

A Springhill trade board committee was formed Tuesday to study the possibility of keeping the town's only industry alive.

In Ottawa, Revenue Minister Nowlan, Nova Scotia's federal government representative, was due to report to the cabinet today on the Springhill disaster. A federal contribution to the Springhill Relief Fund may be announced after the meeting but no definite or definite action is expected to be taken.

Informants said that until Dosco and the Nova Scotia government decide whether to reopen mine the federal government

Meanwhile the town is buying its dead. A solemn, steady procession of hearses goes slowly through the hilly streets each day. Seven funerals were held Tuesday.

The 19 miners rescued last week after long days and nights entombed 12,000 feet underground were visited by their home or rescuing in hospital.

The Canadian Red Cross reported in Halifax that its expenditures for disaster relief at Springhill total $20,000. Officials said the money had been spent chiefly for new clothing for miners working in the depths of the wrecked No. 2 pit.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller's election as governor by more than 500,000 votes rocketed him today as a possible dark horse Republican presidential nomination.

The multi-millionaire's overwhelming victory over wealthy Democratic Governor Averell Harriman stood out particularly because of its contrast with Republican gubernatorial losses in other states.

It also appeared to knock out whatever chance Harriman may have had for the Democratic presidential nomination two years hence. Harriman had sought the nod in 1952 and 1956.

REPUBLICAN SENATOR

The campaign spearheaded by Rockefeller also led to election of Republican Representative Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester as U.S. Senator.

Keating, regarded as an underdog throughout the campaign, defeated Democrat Irving M. Ives in vacating for reasons for ing results.

Returns from 11,510 of 11,522 election districts gave:

Keating 2,847,756; Hogan 2,711,973.

Returns from 11,507 districts gave:

Keating 2,847,756; Hogan 2,711,973.

ROCK NOT INTERESTED

Rockefeller has insisted—and repeatedly refused—that he is not interested in 1960 possibilities and that he has no other intention than to serve his four-year term as governor.

But his supporters have been talking of him as a possibility since. It first became apparent that he might win the state election.

Rockefeller told an early-morning press conference he intends to lead the Republican party in New York state and he expects to head the state delegation to the next Republican national convention.

Rockefeller, 50, genial, liberal-minded member of the famed oil fortune family, was regarded in traditionally Republican upstate New York and cut sharply into

LONGEST TRIAL IN HISTORY NOW IN FINAL STAGE

Await 57 Verdicts In BC Bribery Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—The final decision in Canada's longest criminal trial is in the hands of the jury and a one-time provincial cabinet minister and others accused of bribery may learn their fate today.

The Assize Court jury of nine men and three women is the same one which Saturday convicted Wm. Robert E. Sommers, one-time minister of lands and forests, of conspiracy. It also convicted a timber executive from whom he is said to have taken large sums in office.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson completed his charge Tuesday in the bribery phase of the 78-day trial and asked the jury for a total of 57 verdicts in the cases involving eight accused, including Sommers.

The jury deliberated almost two hours then asked to be taken to their hotel.

VERDICT TODAY

Most officials expect a decision today.

Mr. Justice Wilson asked the jurors to find each man guilty or innocent of seven accused facsimile charges of bribe. The alleged givers of bribes and on seven counts against Sommers as the taker of bribes. The Crown charges $15,000 changed hands.

The others involved are timber executive Wilson Gray, who faces 10 counts; Gray's firm, Pacific Coast Services and timber engineer Charles D. Schultz and his company of the same name, who face nine counts each; B.C. Forest Products, six; John Gray—a Pacific official and Vancouver Lumber Sales, a Pacific subsidiary, three.

The jury deliberated more than 30 hours to reach its verdicts Saturday when it found Sommers, Mr. Gray and his Pacific and Evergreen firms guilty of conspiracy but could reach no agreement on John Gray or Schultz and his firm. It acquitted B.C. Forest Products.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sun says Stefan Sebastian Sorokin, 56-year-old spiritual leader of British Columbia's Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, is living a life of luxury in Uruguay.

The agreement is to run to Dec. 31, 1961. It provides for a 20-cent hourly wage increase spread over three years, four weeks' vacation after 25 years and improved group insurance.

A five-cent increase is included from date of signing, an additional 10 cents on Aug. 1, 1959, and a further 10 cents on Aug. 1, 1960.

Aircraft Firms Want Ottawa To Draft Long-Range Plans

QUEBEC (CP)—Canadian aircraft manufacturers want the federal government to help them map out long-range plans for the future—a move they feel is necessary if they are to hold their skilled personnel and justify their heavy investments in the industry.

Their feelings, sharpened by the recent government decision to buy the American Bomarc ground-to-air missile, were shown at a business conference Tuesday during the annual convention of the Air Industries and Transport Association.

The Bomarc decision, delegates felt, is a sign the CF-105 Arrow fell interceptor program, is to be scrapped.

During the conference, associate

Diefenbaker, de Gaulle Talk About Proposals for NATO

PARIS (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived in Paris today for a two-day visit within 80 minutes of landing at Orly airport began the first meeting with Premier de Gaulle.

In three hours of talks over lunch at the Hotel Matignon, de Gaulle's official residence, the Canadian leader was expected to discuss the French premier's recent proposals for closer political consultation among NATO allies, especially France, Britain and the United States.

The Canadian view, it is understood, is that there should be a strengthening of the means of consultation so long as rights of all NATO allies are maintained. Canada feels there should be no "directorate" within NATO.

The Canadian leader also sought first-hand information on de Gaulle's views on the situation in North Africa and the Middle East, and the possibility of an American cease-fire and negotiations with rebel leaders. It is unlikely, however, that Diefenbaker will present any proposals of his own in the field.

Later today Diefenbaker was to meet with Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary-general, and General Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander.

His one-day stay here at the start of a week-long European tour, was to close with a private dinner for some 24 persons at the home of Canadian Ambassador tion President R. W. Ryan of Canadian Pacific Airlines, Vancouver, announced that the board of directors of the association has adopted a resolution calling on the government to formulate a long-range plan for Canada's aircraft manufacturers and help them get a better share of the production of components for North America's defence.

The resolution grew out of meetings of the association's industry section, headed by Joseph Storley of Avro Aircraft Limited, Toronto.

Mr. Storley told the press conference the association sent a brief to the government last December but it had been unproductive. Now the problem is more acute.

THOR MISSILE BURSTS APART AFTER LAUNCHING

Destroyed by Range Safety Officers

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Thor intermediate-range missile—the heart of most rocket Pioneer—blew apart with a brilliant flash shortly after launching early today.

It was the fifth straight time that a ballistic weapon had exploded in recent months. Shattered splinters of the missile plunged into the Atlantic just off the cape.

The U.S. Air Force announced a malfunction occurred about 30 seconds after launching and that the missile was destroyed by the range safety officer.

The 65-foot rocket blasted aloft at 3:53 a.m. It began to veer left and right almost immediately.

After about 25 seconds, still pouring out a thin trail of flame, the Thor suddenly veered sharply left. At that point, the range safety officer sent the destruction button and the missile burst apart.

Flaming debris rained into the water. A huge black cloud hung against the sky.

Missile men hoped the launching would give them a preview of their plans for a Thor moon rocket shot which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says will take place late this week.

The first moonlet tower less than 500 yards away stood a mid-range Thor that is believed to be moon rocket No. 2.

Today's Thor was aimed at an impact area 1,500 miles across the Atlantic. Just range, Near the nose of the missile was a brilliant 17,000,000 candlepower — to aid special ballistic cameras along the range to pinpoint the missile's location with extreme accuracy.

Eisenhower Says Voters Favored More Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the electorate obviously voted for more spending in casting the Democratic greater control of Congress in Tuesday's elections.

At his press conference, Eisenhower called any trend toward bigger federal spending a danger sign.

He pledged that his Republican administration will fight any such trend against it during his last two years in office.

Asked if, against the background of sweeping Democratic election triumphs, Eisenhower emphatically replied soon as all when asked whether he expects to have additional trouble during the next two years in dealing with Congress.

He said he is confident that Democrats as well as Republicans are motivated by what is good for the country.

Two or three times, Eisenhower refused to be drawn into any discussion of Democratic opinion regarding any effect the vote may have on Republican prospects for the 1960 presidential nomination.

Results Show Influence Of Eisenhower Ebbing

WASHINGTON (CP) — Named familiar to many Canadians figured in the United States mid-term elections with the prominent family name of Rockefeller throwing some light on a generally gloomy Republican picture.

Nelson Rockefeller himself was little known to Canadians before the current campaign, but as the new governor of New York state and successor to Averell Harriman he will undoubtedly have much to do with his neighboring authorities in Ontario, particularly in the joint St. Lawrence and Niagara power projects.

Another state governor just across the border from Ontario will be Michigan's G. Mennen Williams, re-elected for a record sixth straight term.

EYES ON 1960 VOTE

Williams' less-than-expected victory margin, however, may dim his chances of national prominence in the 1960 presidential contest nomination of Rockefeller, on the other hand, represents the hopes of many

Sun Shines Brightly on Springhill But Town Still Buries Its Dead

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The sun shone brightly on Springhill Tuesday.

From the top of the hill you could watch clouds make shadow patterns on fields and woods beyond the town.

Children trudged down the hill carrying school lunches.

The air was still. Voices carried clearly. Rope swinged up from everywhere.

But there was no peace. It was the first day Springhill still buried her dead.

On the green lawns of the cemetery halfway down the hill, gravediggers worked in relays. Fresh mounds of earth scarred the far slope.

A police car led a funeral cortege down the hill. There were two hearses. The Embree brothers, they said. Eleven funerals Monday, seven Tuesday.

On the other side of the hill, out of sight of the cemetery, traffic jammed up. People stood around in little groups on the corners, talking.

A man walked up to Miners' Memorial and read the names—the 74 dead, the 19 in a coalmine explosion; 39 killed in an explosion in 1956.

A man with greying hair and, a flushed face asked another man: "Were you down when it happen?"

Then crown, flags flew at half-staff. Beyond the post office empty cellars yawned — burned oil in a conflagration last December.

The smoke rose straight from the chimneys — smoke of coal brought here from Sydney, Springhill, a town that lived on coal, had none of her own.

Her last coal mine was a wrecked tomb for her men.

GETS INFORMATION REGARDING BIRTH

Mr. James Campbell, of Wampsville, N.Y., who made a special visit to Belleville last week in search of some records of his birth, left the city over the weekend in happy mood, thanks to the kind efforts of a local resident.

Mr. R. G. "Bob" Hamilton, secretary-manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, reports the English born Oneida Ltd. employee, a one time resident of the former Marchmont Hotel, 193 West Moira St., as a child, received the information he was seeking from a local retired school teacher, Miss Nellie F. Berry, 183 Ann Street.

Mission accomplished, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left the city for their home in Wampsville, N.Y. over the weekend.

Mr. Hamilton however has since been swamped with telephone calls from interested local "old timers" eager to be of assistance to Mr. Campbell.

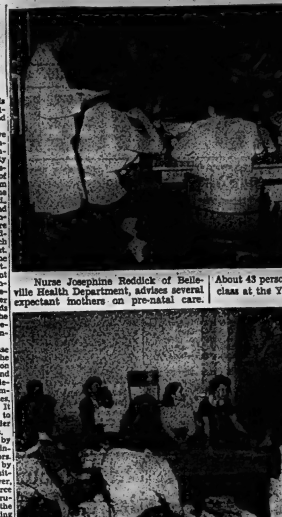
Industrial Development Programs Subject of Talk To Kiwanis Club, Guests

Yesterday noon, at their weekly dinner meeting, the members of the Kiwanis, together with a large number of guests heard Mr. John J. Dywan of the Trade and Industry Branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development speak on industrial development programs and the possibility of municipal level. Mr. Dywan, a graduate of Queen's University in commerce and political science, was introduced by Bill Wills.

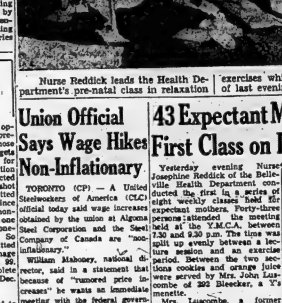
The speaker commented on the role of his department in strengthening industrial development in Ontario by servicing existing industries with help to locate new plants or branches in Ontario; by seeking out foreign industries who are exporting to Canada and interesting them in establishing plants in Ontario; by attempting to create arrangements whereby Ontario manufacturers can, under license or on a royalty basis, produce items of a type currently being imported to Canada, and by assisting municipalities in organizing and developing industrial development programs.



He observed that many communities are now competing strongly to attract new industry and that to have an effective local industrial commission it must be realized that the work of such a commission is a long-term project and should be organized so that it will have continuity. It is best not to have an elected official handling such a project because of this long-term requirement.

Speaking on what factors affect a firm's choice for an industrial site, Mr. Dywan listed as pertinent fixed, variable and non-recurring costs, location of markets and the firm's competitors, transportation facilities, the location of sources of materials and component parts, and availability of labor, water, fuel and power.

Understanding a prospective firm's requirements better enables local industrial commission to "sell" its community to that firm and not to be disappointed if, for lack of one of these requirements, the firm decides against locating in the commission's area. Local municipal government relations and the attractiveness and community spirit of a locality are other vital factors to be considered by the company which wishes to build a new plant. The human factor as well as the business factor is quite important. The Queen's graduate went on to urge that a full time industrial commissioner in area municipalities be employed in order to quickly follow up all leads for possible new firms. The commission itself should represent across-section of the community.



With the anticipated increase in Canada's population in the next two decades, eight million more persons are expected, and the accompanying rise in demand for consumer goods, commented Mr. Dywan, the manufacturing industry will be expanding. It is up to the municipality to acquire new industry in order to keep up with this progress.

The speaker was thanked by Gerry Wishart. Newt McFee introduced a few new members. The rest were introduced by Mayor Gerald Hyde, for which duty alderman Jack Hoover, for the Chamber of Commerce representatives, and Jack Truideau, for the members of the Belleville and District Planning Board. A dog-sled was led by Bill Brown, a member of Trenton Kiwanis Club. The meeting was presided over by Charles Lusk.

Belleville Man Gets Cow Moose In Apsley Area

First moose of the season shot by Belleville hunters was seen in the city yesterday as it was being taken to a local butcher's barn for dressing.

The cow moose was shot by Edward Herby a member of Hazen Hoyle's party on the Apsley district. The animal weighed about 1,200 pounds.

Mr. Herby said he was getting the moose out of the woods," stating Mr. Hoyle is to be stopped in the city briefly before going back to his hunting camp.

One of the first local men to shoot a deer was Clifford Belch, Canniffton Road—Hunting in the Bass Lake district of North Hastings as member of a six-man party, Mr. Belch shot his deer yesterday and is bringing it in tonight to put it in the locker.

High School Activities

The BCIVS Rifle Range opened last week. For the present, firing practice is for those competition targets last year. Team members for the Department of Education Competitions will be selected from the cadets who have shown targets of 95 or more and qualified to claim Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Rifle Association.

Each target is worth one dollar and establishes a possible total Saturday's take the five. So far Don Wilson has submitted a 99, Bill Smith 98 as stopped a 98 and Wilson has submitted a 97, and a 98 and 99. The new team must complete its first competition before Dec. 1.

Plans have been completed to take the Agriculture classes of Wallace Wright to the Fair in Toronto on Friday, November 21. Fair Fair supplies tickets to organized school groups, and classes from all of Ontario wishing in convenient travelling distance attend any days except Saturday and Sunday.

Examination schedules for the week of November 17 have been posted at BCIVS.

The cadet program for the year is well underway. The signalling instructors, Mr. Bradley and Mr. Field, report a heavy turnout of boys for the signalling course. Mr. McLeslie started the First Aid course on Wednesday. The first BCIVS Cadet parade of the BCIVS Cadet Corps was held on Wednesday morning for all cadets in grades 9 and 10.

Remembrance Day, November 11, is a school holiday. Students are being asked to attend the Service of Remembrance to be held on this day at the Belleville Cenotaph. A special service will be held at BCIVS on November 10 at 3.15 p.m. The order of service is one that is suggested by the Ministry of Education.

Students in the school will be asked to make a donation toward the purchase of poppies and a wreath to be placed at the Cenotaph. Every student in the school will be given a poppy to wear on Monday and Tuesday.

Union Official Says Wage Hikes Non-Inflationary

TORONTO (CP) — A United Steelworkers of America (CLC) official today said wage increases obtained by the union at Algoma Steel Corporation and the Steel Company of Canada are "non-inflationary."

William Mahoney, national director, said in a statement that the "rumored price increases" he wants as immediate meeting with the federal government officials to discuss a possible inquiry into steel price policies.

Algoma Steel recently notified customers it was raising its price $4 a ton.

Pending hearings, requested earlier this year, and been postponed until after the Government's settlement at the suggestion of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Mahoney said "The settlement of Stelco, like the previous settlement at Algoma, is non-inflationary and any attempt by the Steel Corporation to increase prices using these wage increases as an excuse will be completely unjustified."

He said "the new wage packages at Algoma and Stelco provides for an average improvement of nine cents an hour, a year and two weeks. This will be less than 3.4-per-cent increase in the average cost per employee hour."

"Government figures show that productivity in our basic iron and steel industry has increased by better than eight per cent per year over the last 10 years."

43 Expectant Mothers Attend First Class on Pre-natal Care

Yesterday evening Nurse Josephine Reddick of the Belleville Health Department conducted the first in a series of eight weekly classes held Expectant mothers. Forty-three persons attended the meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. between 7.30 and 9.30 p.m. The time was split up evenly between a lecture session and an exercise period. Between the two sessions cookies and orange juice were served by Mrs. John Luscombe and Mrs. Bleecker, a YWCA member.

Mrs. Luscombe, a former graduate of the pre-natal class course, described it as covering "anything and everything you want thoroughly" on all phases of pre-natal and baby care.

The lecture is given out on the many phases of pre-natal preparation covering everything from relaxation exercises to selection of baby clothes and equipment. The group is taken on a tour of the Belleville General Hospital's maternity ward, delivery room and labor room near the end of the course. This is to familiarize the prospective mothers with hospital setup and method of procedure. On the last evening's class of the series the husbands are invited to attend.

The pre-natal classes are but one of many functions which Belleville's Health Department perform for the members of the community. There are also well baby clinics, adult and child immunization clinics, and other public health services under the supervision of Dr. McColl Metcalfe.

COMPUTER CAN'T GO WRONG

Canadian Engineer Murray Lount, right, discusses the workings of a computer with George Sekely in Toronto as they apply the computer's capacity to designing modern buildings. It is the first time in Canada that the lightning-fast machine has been used in building designs and Lount and his associates say that it can reduce the time taken in design, save structural materials by as much as 10 per cent and do a more accurate job than an army of trained engineers and technicians. The machine, says Lount, is infallible.

Traffic Committee Frowns on Free Parking for Officials

TRENTON — Council's suggestion its members and other specific town employees be granted a card entitling them to free parking at parking meters when on town business was given a polite heave-ho by the traffic committee.

Councillor Jim MacDonald, reporting for the committee to the town council Monday night, said the traffic committee felt this type of thing could go too far and get out of hand. He said the committee had set rules to follow and to issue these permits would go against the purpose of the parking meter. He said the meter was to control parking in a way that motorists could not park their cars and leave them there all day, stopping others from using the parking spaces in the main business area.

He said because of this and other reasons the committee would like to ask the council to reconsider their request.

The committee also suggested that the council consider the possible advantage of having a postal box placed on a street in town so that motorists could drive up beside it, deposit their mail and drive on without getting out of their car.

Murphy Street, or some other one-way street, was suggested as a possible suitable place, as it would not interfere with traffic coming in the opposite direction as it may on a two-way street.

Mr. MacDonald said the matter was brought up at the last meeting of the Traffic Committee and they felt it was an idea worth recommending because the present method of stopping in front of the post office on Dundas Street West, getting out to post the letters at the box there, was hindering the free-flow of moving traffic and they busy main street of town.

The council decided it would be best to wait the opinion of postal authorities in the matter and perhaps they had some worthwhile suggestions towards the best area to place such a box.

Plan to Install Division, King Traffic Lights

TRENTON — A set of traffic lights will soon take over for the stop-and-go-mitts now on the corner of Division and King St., it was decided at the meeting of the town council held in the Municipal Building Monday night.

The recommendation was made by Councillor Jim MacDonald, chairman of the Trenton Traffic Committee.

Councillor MacDonald told the meeting the present system at the corner is very un satisfactory and tends to cause more confusion, rather than helping matters in using this corner.

The "flashing stop lights" had been installed at the corner after Division Street had been chosen as one of the main arteries to the 401 due to the closing of the town bridge to heavy traffic.

Mr. MacDonald said there was enough money in the committee's funds to cover the costs of installing the lights and suggested they go in as soon as possible.

The committee also recommended that Professor Edwards be employed to continue his survey of the traffic situation in Trenton and the council here also will seek to carry on with this work.

Street Cars Halted

TORONTO (CP) — Hundreds of street car passengers were late for work today when a mobile crane tore down 160 feet of overhead wires of the Toronto Transit Commission at downtown Queen and Yonge streets. Traffic was disrupted for about 75 minutes.

Police cordoned off the area because some of the wires carried high voltages.

New Equipment Will Be Placed In Playground

TRENTON — Members of the Queen Elizabeth School Home and School Club unanimously decided to go ahead with the installation of new playground equipment at the school during the Club's monthly meeting held last week.

Mrs. C. E. Bull, president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Aziz, secretary, read the minutes of the last executive meeting, and Mr. W. Bligh, treasurer, gave his report.

Thomas Bedford, school principal, then introduced the members of the new executive, who were elected to office at the previous meeting of the club.

The room count was taken, and the plaques given each month for the highest average number of parents attending the meeting went to Miss Whitehouse's room.

Mrs. Bull read a letter from Mrs. Quinte Canoe Association, which has been formed for the organization of educational facilities for retarded children in the area. Monitors were needed, and Mrs. Bull, in accompany the 11 retarded children who would be travelling to Belleville daily to school. Any mothers who would like to volunteer for this work, and spend a day or at least one morning per month, should contact her as soon as possible.

After a short discussion, during which the purchase of new swings and teeter-totters in the playground were considered from all angles, including that of cost, members voted their unanimous approval. Also approved during subsequent voting was the erection of a fence for the use of the students' use, and the provision of additional equipment for the school kitchen.

Miss Julia Rowe then showed color slides of her recent trip to the United States, and told her interested audience of the many adventures which she and her companions had had on their prolonged bus trip, pointing out taken them through many states —through the west coast of Canada and the Rocky Mountains.

The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Rose, the luncheon convener and her helpers.

Town Streets To Be Repaired Before Snow Flies

TRENTON — Councillor Charles Hilton, recalling the condition of the town streets last winter, suggested the council instruct the town engineer's department take a map and go over all the streets in town and mark on the map what is needed to bring them into tip-top shape for winter.

Councillor Hilton made the recommendation at the last meeting of the town council (the council later approved the idea) and felt that they should also have a meeting with the officials of the Lakeland Gas Company to make sure their part of this road work is done before "the snow flies."

Mr. Hilton said the contractor for the gas company has done fine job and is still doing a good job but he felt there may be places unknown to council or engineer which need to be fixed up.

Councillor Hilton brought the subject up after Councillor Joe Gould had given his report as chairman of the Public Works department. Mr. Gould said the committee has applied to the Department of Highways to have the main route of Highway 33 known as Yellow Avenue Division St.,rather than its present course along Front St. He said that Division St. will be easier to widen than Front St. and would not be quite so busy for heavy traffic.

Councillor Gould said they plan to install more street lights along Hay St. and down to the area of the community Centre. It was suggested that perhaps the lights from Front St. and Elgin St. could be used for this after they had been replaced by the new ones which will be installed soon.

This will keep the costs down.

It was also decided the Public Utilities Commission be asked to install a light over the town's traffic lights as the ladder from the Fire Truck is the easiest method of getting up to the lights. Mr. Gould said the Fire crews will be piping the open ditch between Dixon Drive and Cottrell park.

FALLS OFF BRIDGE

Yesterday Russ Roy, working for the Central Bridge on the repair work of the town bridge, fell into the Trent River. Two of his fellow workers jumped in after him and brought him to shore. It was reported Mr. Roy was holding a steel beam in place when it slipped, hit him on the head and knocked him into the icy waters below. The three men were taken to the hospital by Weaver Ambulance for treatment.

It was the first accident reported since the repair work on the bridge started.

SMALL FIRE

A small fire in the rubbish at Hinde and Dauch Paper Mill called the Trenton Fire Department out yesterday evening about 5.50 p.m. Lieut. Gerald Lewis took the call. The fire was only minor and was soon put out and the remaining garbage soaked, to prevent it breaking out again.

Democrats Oust Six Republican State Governors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats, displaying amazing strength in traditional Republican strongholds in Tuesday's elections, ousted six Republican governors as they captured definite control of 31 of 48 state houses.

But in scattered reversals of their nationwide tide, the Democrats lost the big one—New York —and surrendered their grip on three other governorships.

Democrats, however, took the other major prize, California—to register a tentative net gain of two over their pre-election total of 29 governors, counting those overs.

For the Republicans it was a net loss of two from their previous total of 19.

With four races still incomplete, Democrats led in three and Republicans in one.

In New York's "battle of the millionaires," Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller displayed spectacular voter appeal in his first bid for public office by derailing Democratic Governor Averell Harriman's bid for a second term.

California voters abandoned their traditional voting habits in unprecedented numbers to elect Attorney - General Edmund G. Brown as the state's second Democratic governor of the 20th century.

BROWN'S MARGIN HUGE

Brown raced ahead from the outset to trounce U.S. Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland with indications his final victory margin would exceed 1,000,000 votes.

Democrats smashed through to victory in the once-mighty Republican strongholds of Wisconsin and South Dakota, recaptured governorships in Maryland and Nevada and ousted a Republican incumbent in Ohio.

For their part, Republicans managed mild upsets in Oregon and Arizona and coasted to an expected victory in tiny Rhode Island.

Sinatra Denies Car Ran Down Photographer

NEW YORK (AP)—A newspaper photographer charged that Sinatra's chauffeur-driven limousine ran him down early Tuesday while he was trying to take a picture.

Sinatra, in reply, said nothing of the kind happened. He said he merely refused to be photographed by Journal - American photographer Meivin Finkelstein and then was driven away.

Police looked into the matter to see if any charges needed to be filed. They talked to Sinatra and also to Finkelstein. The photographer said he didn't hear anything Sinatra may have said to the chauffeur as the windows of the limousine were closed.

The Journal-American printed an account of the incident outside the Sarwyn, an east side supper club, in which they quoted Sinatra as exhorting the chauffeur to run Finkelstein down.

Finkelstein told police his right knee was injured.

In an aura of misunderstanding also, according to the Journal-American, when a reporter asked Sinatra:

"Frank, what are your plans?"

"When will you . . . stop calling me Frank?" Sinatra was quoted as replying. "I am Mr. Sinatra."

OBJECTION!

Recently leather-jacketed boys' and jean-age girls clad in jeans staged a pitched battle in Arnprior, virtually on the doorstep of the Ottawa Journal. This led the Journal to declare: "The strongest argument in some form of national compulsory training that we have heard or seen in a long time was what happened at Arnprior a few days ago."

With this conclusion we differ.

"In too many centres of Canada, with Ottawa no exception, there is today too much of this youthful 'bowdyism," the Journal says.

With that we agree.

"Would it not be a remedy, a possible solution, if such young men had the benefit of a year or two of national compulsory training, were given the benefit of physical, mental and moral discipline such training must mean, and must assume responsibility?" the Journal asks.

Of course it would benefit these young men, and this country, if they received the discipline they require to turn them into useful, law-abiding citizens. But is the price it is suggested we pay for this desirable result not too high?

If national compulsory training were instituted, not only these young men who need such training, but also "the thousands of young people who are as normal and decent as any to be found in any country" would be covered by the scheme.

Is it fair to require the normal and decent young people to give up invaluable months, or years, when they might be completing their formal education or getting established in their life work, just because a minority are not normal and are far from decent?

We can hear some advocates of national compulsory military training protesting that the safety of the country demands such a scheme.

That contention, though, puts the whole question on a different plane. If it is necessary, for the nation's safety, that the youth of the country be compelled to train for its defence, then they will have to make the sacrifice. I should think, though, that the armed services would be very pleased if some method could be discovered for screening out the hoodlums and relieving them of the necessity of attempting to discipline and teach responsibility to those who have demonstrated that they have no knowledge of the meaning of these words.

To advocate a national compulsory training for the sake of the safety of the nation is one thing, to urge it as a remedy for hoodlumism on the part of a minority is another.

If training is advocated for the latter reason, then, we suggest, it ought to be limited to those whose actions have proven they are in need of such a course and the innocent should not be punished with the guilty.

EVERYTHING IS HEAVY TODAY

Everything is awful heavy today, isn't it?"

The speaker was cheerful of mien, which added understandable, because the weight was in him and not on him: makes one feel awful important to buckle at the knees of a couple of seven-year-olds when one is only five and a half.

But the seven-year-olds, cradling the baby sage in their arms, were as cheery as he. "Yep," they agreed, with twin grins, as they staggered along the sidewalk. When one is seven, carrying a heavy weight can make one feel as important as being a heavy weight made one, back in those distant days when one was five and a half.

For all of them, days when everything was heavy were still fun.

This will pass.

In a dozen years, they will laugh at the suggestion that there are days when things are heavier.

And in a dozen more, they will be right back where they started, accepting once more the fact that there are, indeed, days when everything is awfully heavy, but this time finding no fun in the fact.

CRAMPED QUARTERS

OTHERS' SUCCESSES
By EDGAR A. QUEST

Can you go to another who wins
In the fight
And give him a hand shake
that's true?
Do you find yourself feeling a sense of delight
In the good work another may do?
Or, deep in your heart are there envy and hate
When you see someone getting ahead?
Do you sneer at his luck and rail
at your fate?
If you do, all your courage has fled.

If you cannot say to a brother:
"I'm glad
You have conquered," and give him your hand,
Your life must be gloomy and woefully sad;
You're building your mansion on sand.

Did you secretly gloat when another had failed?
Did you sneer at the efforts he made?
Did it inwardly please you to see him assailed?
Did you chuckle to see him
outplayed?

If you can be selfish as this,
Though he fails in the thick and the heat of the fray,
It is the part you have chosen to play.
If you can be selfish as this,
Your failure is greater than his.

U.S. Interest in China

Monitor Editorial

Many serious issues perplexed the next Administration of the United States with China. The list is by no means complete.

Sir Winston Churchill was recalled by his Commonwealth colleagues to the extraordinary significance of China in American minds, even as a "great power," and of growing importance. When Premier Chou En-lai, outstanding interpreter, appeared recently in London, the Times editorials were headed: "End of a Pacific Friendship".

The theme of the article is the real impediment that the United States made in China over 100 years ago, which ended in an investment of capital, large as that was. It was investment of aid, of missionary enterprise, of medical assistance, of education. The Chinese have been the only country outside the United States on which American ideals of free government have been America's adopted child, to be nurtured in American liberalism.

As far back as 1859 the first American Minister to China was near Foochow. By the 1920's there were 13,000 schools, and 13 universities, all run with American aid. This was apart from the large number of Chinese students who were welcomed to and educated in the United States.

The missionary effort became tremendous. It was supported by congregations in every state of the Union. It was not a government effort, but an effort of Americans as people.

All this interest in China was not an attempt to make China as American colony. It was, to a high degree, disinterested. The United States lends every effort to help China along the path to a modern and liberal democracy. What the United States hoped was to have an ally, in a China free from the influence of Communism, which might take root and find an independent and friendly growth.

In more recent years, of course considerations of defence grew in importance. The United States, as a land on two oceans, wished to have security in the Pacific. The question of that security would be the vast land mass of China, where help and healing the United States had done so much through so many years.

The loss of China to the Communist bandits has been a blow that strikes deep at American emotions. It is not only that an ancient enemy raises its head in the Pacific, menacing Formosa, and Japan, which American opinion sets a high strategic value. The blow is far deeper than that. It is the blow that the friend of 100 years now scoffs and ridicules him who has sacrificed her so much of the best of her own civilized ideals. It is only natural for the people in the United States to feel these days that China's enmity was unrepresentative, as unChinese, as the work of a small conspiracy. The old China that has come to be represented, in symbol, by Chiang Kai-shek in China is. He holds not only the remnant of the old China, but that China to which American aid was so generously given—and the Communists flouted.

There is a special tragedy in being rejected by an adopted child, to whom so much was so graciously given. It is inevitable such an experience has aroused, must be matched with reactions in the policies that result from those emotions may not be always approved.

Have Mermaid Tails in Stock

BBC London Letter

"You want a stuffed black cat, an owl, or maybe a dead rat for tea meet? Right, we'll send them along tomorrow". Orders like these are typically received by telephone in a long room on the fifth floor of a new building off London's Leicester Square, said Gordon Woolford, broadcasting in a talk on the program "Small Talk." It all began ten years ago when the manager and a stage designer, both women, decided to start a business which, at first, supplied only "props" — for hire or sale. Today properties and how is from all parts of Britain and from overseas, and despite the amazing assortment in their stocks for sale, scarcely a day goes by without the firm receiving a request for manufacture something new.

"Recently it was mermaids' tails," said Mr. Gordon Woolford, "and rubber noses for Australia and New Zealand. Last Christmas an order came from Belgium for a cardboard cow. Only rarely is an order refused. One that was came from a circus. It was for an inflatable cake. A reasonable request, it seemed, until someone asked what was to take them size; and it turned out that it had to be large enough to accommodate three chorus girls."

A tricky problem arose when the script of a play required peas to be shelled on the stage when peas were out of season. "The difficulty was fully solved by making pods from canvas, filled with dried peas and sewn round the sides with a rubber solution. After each performance, one of the cast has the unenviable chore of putting the shelled peas back into the canvas pods in time for the next performer again for the next day."

It is awkward, too, when the same props are ordered simultaneously by theatrical companies situated on the same country. But the women assistant who has been in the firm for seven years welcomes any challenge," said Woolford. "Stunned for once poddle that would meet at once, she hurried to Resenda Park, knocked her friendly sorcerer on the boat attendant — and a paddle was temporarily listed as missing."

Mother Sows Require Love

Ottawa Journal

The human heart of overflowing kindness encompasses little things generously towards animals than other human beings. In the homely, nervous pigs of the Wye College, Kent, England, research establishment.

It was suggested by some mother in human form that sows should be placed in a farrowing house on the grass below a gangway along which the pigman would walk. Those sows would be more considered that sties. They explained that sows in open pens would be exercised and, in the present scattered pens, the pigman could get inside, talk to them and give attention.

The scientists said sows came to look forward to their visits and felt at ease with the human visitor. It was important, when the sows farrowed, that they would continue to have this sense of security, otherwise they might lie down, deep, cosy litter but in bare wooden batteries in which the sows farrowed there was no such door. The humans had established that a sow which had given an egg would forget it had laid and so sometimes managed another.

Liability or Asset

Hamilton Spectator

"It may be the necessary symptoms of growing pains in a democratically-ruled country that the immigrant is treated as a liability or asset, depending almost entirely on whether there are labor surpluses or job vacancies. In times of unemployment the worker naturally becomes nervous about his job. It is only when he is sure of himself that he is ready to take the broader view of immigration.

"Why," he said, "it's all part of the process of mass production. At the time you speak of, when all cars were simple, only a few people had motor cars, electric refrigerators, or any other of the three-car-ranch-type bungalows. Mass production insists that everybody have everything. So the entertainment industry, also interested in the masses, is careful not to offend the public by suggesting that everyone sing alike. Therefore, they are careful not to present any real singers. Our top singers try to sing like you. You know? Holler and yell."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 5th., 1938

Canadian National Railways' locomotive engineer Michael W. Kelly has retired after 37 years of efficient service. He stepped from his cab at 2.15 a.m. on November 1, as was greeted by many of his fellow employees and escorted to his home on Bleecker Avenue where a party was arranged for him. It was a happy occasion for his family and his fellow employees present. Mr. Kelly will continue to make his home in Belleville on "Engineers' Avenue" as he called Bleecker Avenue. An amusing incident occurred when Mr. Kelly stepped from his cab and approached the friends waiting to greet him. Someone thoughtfully placed a joke on them and the greeting party was astonished and disappointed to see some mistake as the man approaching them was not engineer Kelly — he had a long black moustache. However, all on hand soon found that it must be pulled off the moustache and smiles, for which it had been guessing for a time. The stunt caused great amusement.

fleeting public misgiving about Republican leadership at home and abroad, the high cost of living and "corruption, or at least that some ethical standards were not fulfilled."

This last was one of the few references in the campaign and its aftermath to the resignation of Eisenhower's aide, Sherman Adams. Adams' name was linked with that of Boston Industrialist Bernard Goldfine in investigations of government favors sought by the latter.

Generally, the campaign officially was fought on local and domestic issues, as is usually the case in these off-year elections when one-third of the 96 Senate seats and all 435 seats in the House come up for re-election.

Eisenhower had no election-night comment. He spent the evening in the White House watching returns on television and yukked early. But long before midnight the pattern had been set in most of the country as more and more Democratic victories were chalked up as the poll closings moved westward with the time zones.

Shortly after midnight the Democrats had won more seats than the 32 they had held in the previous House of Representatives — and no Republican was leading in the race for the 34 seats still in doubt. The Republicans had lost seats in the last House.

The picture was the same in the upper house, where the Democrats got a working majority early in the evening and well before midnight held more than the 49 seats of their narrow 49-to-47 margin in the previous Senate.

Thirty-three of the 98 Senate seats were at stake this year, and two more will be decided Nov. 25 when the new state of Alaska holds its first congression election.

In the 32 state governorships up for voting this time the Democratic trend was generally repeated, with the major exception of New York.

One small indication of the tide was the victory in sternly Republican Vermont of the first Democratic governor sent to Washington from that state in 106 years.

As long - party dispute was planned in large measure for the Republican defeat in California which saw the eclipse of Senator William F. Knowland, one of the 1952 presidential aspirants.

Attorney - General Edmund (Pat) Brown defeated Knowland for the state governorship by more than 1,000,000 votes to become California's second Democratic governor of the century. He handed Knowland his first defeat in 25 years of political campaigning.

Knowland and the outgoing Republican governor, Goodwin Knight, who "lost to Democrat Clair Engle for the U.S. Senate seat up for election in California, had stylished candidacies.

LABOR REFERENDA

Labor was a voting issue in six states where "right to work" referenda were on the ballots, and also in Michigan, where Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams campaigned on the Republicans' operation record in the automobile industry's centre.

Michigan won a record sixth conservative term, and Senator Charles Potter, Michigan Republican who was a leading advocate for the St. Lawrence seaway, lost to Wielding Lieutenant-Governor Philip Hart for the Senate seat.

The "right to work proposals, so labelled by their supporters because they would make illegal compulsory union membership in order to hold jobs under labor contracts, were turned down by the voters in five of the six states voting Tuesday on the issue.

Heavily industrialized Ohio swamped the measure and the proposal was deemed handily in California, Washington and Colorado. Idaho voters turned it down by a narrow margin and only Kansas approved the ban on union shops.

Labor union spokesmen said they campaigned against the measure in Ohio particularly, to avoid the spread of the principle into the industrial midwestern states, where only Indiana now has such a law. Besides Kansas, 17 other states, mostly in the south, have approved such legislation.

GOLDWATER RETURNS

Personality factors were prominent in the Democratic victories. Republican stalwart John W. Bricker lost his U.S. Senate seat in a Democratic landslide in Ohio, but his fellow old - guard right-winger, Senator Barry Goldwater, rode roughshod over his Democratic opponent in Arizona in a reversal of the national trend. Goldwaters ultra - conservative position, however, would indicate little chance for his success in the 1960 nominations despite his local Republican victory. He had even denounced the political device has travelled on the earth's surface.

Grading operations on the riverside parking lot at the rear of Front Street stores was virtually completed this morning with only cleaning up operations to be done prior to covering with crushed stone and asphalt. The area which is being developed as an off-street parking lot by the city parking committee will park between 125 and 130 cars. After paving is completed traffic lines will be painted and meters installed. Closed while paving operations are in progress, the area is expected to be again opened next week. date, outgoing Governor Harold Handley, lost out to a Democrat, THOMAS M. KING, JR.

McCarthy's successor, Democrat William Proxmire, who was named by the Democratic state administration in Wisconsin to fill out the Republican's unexpired term after McCarthy's death last year won out in his first vote test. By contrast with McCarthy, Proxmire had been singled out in the Republican campaign as a "radical."

Along with Harriman, California's Senator William F. Knowland was another presidential aspirant to lose out and eliminate his chances in the 1960 nomination. Still in the running for the Democrats are Massachusetts' youthful Senator John F. Kennedy and Senator Stuart Symington, former air force secretary from Missouri. Both won substantial confidence votes.

Other election personalities:

Michael Disalle, former U.S. price administrator who won the Ohio governorship for the Democrats.

Jasper McLevy, persistent socialist contender who lost once again for Connecticut's governorship.

Orval Faubus of Little Rock fame, returned as Democratic governor of Arkansas.

William H. Meyer, a political unknown who became the first Democrat sent by Vermont to the U.S. House of Representatives since 1852.

Delegation Gets Good Reception By Minister

PICTON—"We feel that good progress was made and that there will be co-operation on the part of the government," stated Prince Edward County Warden Howard Gyde. He was reporting on a weekend visit by a delegation from Prince Edward and Hastings County to Ottawa where they interviewed the Minister of Public Works, Hon. Howard Green. The matter under discussion was the proposed causeway linking Prince Edward to Hastings at Deseronto. There has been a difference of opinion between Provincial and Federal authorities concerning the necessary length of a swingspan of a crossing.

Members from Prince Edward were Warden Gyde, Reeve Calvin Hughes, chairman of roads; Reeve Leland Dorsee, Reeve D. O. Reynolds of the road committee and the county engineer, R. B. Allison.

From Hastings were Warden Lloyd Price, M.P.P., Reeve James Kinlan, chairman of roads. The group was accompanied by C. A. Milligan, M.P., and Lee Grills, M.P.

Though no announcement has been made, survey work at the proposed crossing is now underway. A tug and drill boat have been on the scene for several days and various points where there might be a crossing are being explored.

In an industrial midwestern states, where only Indiana now has such a law. Besides Kansas, 17 other states, mostly in the south, have approved such legislation.

STELCO WORKERS

Employees on the payroll from July 1 to the start of the strike are to be paid a $24 settlement in lieu of retroactivity in the new contract.

Beginning next year, those with 25 years' service will get four weeks' vacation with pay, to cost the company about six-tenths cents an hour.

Improvements in the group insurance program, effective Jan. 1, are expected to cost about 1 2-10 cents an hour.

H.-J. Clawson, company representative, and union negotiator Larry Sefton said substantial changes were made in other clauses of the new contract.

Agreement on a settlement was announced by Labor Minister Daley on Monday, 9th day of the walkout.

Stelco is Canada's largest steel producer and the strike is estimated to have cost $50,000,000 in lost production and about $5,000,000 in lost wages.

Company officials said it will take a week before blast furnaces are back in operation and months before production reaches pre-strike levels.

The Stelco agreement is in line with an Oct. 13 settlement at the Algoma Steel Corporation in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where a three-year contract was signed providing a 24-cent increase. However, Algoma workers had a four-cent advantage in job classification increments although the base rate of $1.71½ cents was two cents lower than Stelco. The additional two cents in the Stelco contract allows a standard wage in both plants.

Council Wants More Action Against Rats

PICTON — W are not satisfied with the efforts being made to control rats in the town of Sidney and we expect something to be done about it immediately, town council decided Monday night and ordered the clerk to inform a rat control concern in that district the firm is paid on a monthly basis.

Councillor Randolph Clapp referred to many complaints of rats as big as cats entering homes in the vicinity of the marsh. Women were afraid to hang out clothes due to the pests being in the vicinity. Others kept doors locked. It looks as if they are thriving on the poison fed them, he commented.

The Property committee was authorized to investigate a more effective method of rat control.

According to a report of assessor Eugene Kearney, the town assessment for 1958 is $3,313,750.00. Of this all but $460,415, is public school assessment. The 1957 assessment was $3,312,000. The increase is due to a plan being followed to re-assess all municipalities in Prince Edward County on the same basis. The town's population was given as 4,986.

U.S. Farm Belt Aids Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Politically important farm belt states contributed heavily to Democratic successes in Tuesday's elections.

This put Ezra Taft Benson, President Eisenhower's secretary of agriculture, in perhaps the shakiest position he has occupied in a political career marked by controversy.

Republicans lost vital Senate and House seats in such big agricultural states as Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan. Further, they failed in efforts to recapture a governorship in traditionally Republican Kansas and Iowa.

Request Scenic Aspect Of Highway No. 33 Be Kept

PICTON — A request that the scenic aspect of highway 33 (Picton to Kingston) be kept in mind when any future changes are planned, was embodied in a motion passed at a meeting of Quinte Historic Sites and Parkways Association held in Picton.

Prof. A. R. M. Lower, Kingston, who presided, referred to the importance of preserving historic sites and the importance of promoting highway 33 as a scenic drive and parkway.

"Such heritages from the past could disappear, and we could turn from the past without realizing what we have lost. We hope to make people conscious of such a heritage as a valuable reminder of the path we should follow in the future. We should remain deeply conscious of the great natural beauties and history of this focal point of pioneer settlement from which Ontario extended and grew", said Dr. Lower, head of the History Department of Queen's University.

The meeting expressed the hope that highway 33 in Prince Edward County would not become under the jurisdiction of the St. Lawrence Parkway Authority. The meeting was told that Lennox and Frontenac have township zones under the jurisdiction of this Authority.

There was considerable discussion advocating that a name be given highway 33 to appear on road maps and other publicity. Names suggested were Quinte Trail, Loyalist Highway, the Old Bath Road. A committee will consider this further.

Prof. Lower was elected to plan by the St. Lawrence Commission to develop the Canadian village at Morrisburg. In Kingston there is Old Fort Henry and at Cobourg, the UEL Memorial Park, nothing in between, said Prof. Lower. Association hopes to acquire Fairfield House, two miles east of Millbrook, built in 1844 and to have it become a museum with the province paying maintenance cost.

The Association passed a motion strongly endorsing the acquisition and preservation of the historic Allan McPherson house in Napanee, and appointed Prof. Lower and Prof. G. F. G. Stanley of Kingston as representatives to support in person the project before the Napanee Valley Conservation Authority.

Gerald Boyce of Belleville declared the proposal to demolish the court house in that city. A motion by Dr. L. F. Grant and Dr. Gerald Allison stated the Society regrets to hear of the contemplated destruction of Hastings County court house and its replacement by a building less characteristic of the history of the county, and desires to express its opinion that the present building be preserved.

Discussing highway 33, the group expressed that there is no desire to see it widened or turned into a speedway; in fact the reverse is true, and it was emphasized that building of an industrial type, or of a speedway destroys the beauty of this route should be restricted. In particular, it was stated that land between the highway and Lake Ontario, where it is government-owned, should be preserved as parkland.

Representatives from Kingston, Belleville, Picton and surrounding districts were represented. Among those taking part in discussion were Judge Gerald Smith, Napanee; John I. Ellis, Prof. S. D. Lash, Kingston, Norris Whitney, MPP, Wellington; Blakely, Jack Rogers of Picton, Lt. Col. W. A. Davern, Wellington.

Election of officers for a two-year term saw Prof. Lower re-elected chairman; Judge Gerald Smith, vice - chairman; Mrs. R. C. Sinclair, secretary - treasurer; John Ellis, public relations; Dr. S. D. Lash, representative for Frontenac; Gerald Boyce for Hastings; Mrs. Percy Hutchison for Lennox and Jack Rogers for Prince Edward.

STELCO STRIKE ENDS WITH RAISE FOR WORKERS

Picket lines are no more at Hamilton's Stelco plant where for 8,500 employees have been on strike for 85 days. Agreement was reached which gave the strikers the majority of their demands and which could result in a rise in the price of Stelco products. Terms of the agreement are said to include a 26-cent-an-hour wage boost plus two cents in fringe benefits. Picketers leaving their beats were happy at the settlement which has yet to be ratified by membership approval.

LADIES' GUILD

SHANNONVILLE— On Thursday, October 30, the Shannonville Ladies' Guild held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Lee McKenzie in Shannonville.

Mrs. Fitzgerald opened the meeting and Mrs. Whittle led the devotional period. Psalm 49 was read responsively and the prayer given for relatives and friends.

Fifteen members and one guest were present.

The business meeting followed and Mrs. Page offered her home in Belleville for the next meeting on November 13.

An auction sale of "White Elephant" followed. Later, the hostess served refreshments.

WEDDINGS

ARMSTRONG — ELLIOTT

Blue and white "Commercial" chrysanthemums formed a lovely background in Wellington United Church, for a recent very pretty afternoon wedding when the Reverend Alfred Poulter, pastor of the church, united in marriage Donna Jean Elliott of Wellington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Elliott, to Robert Cherry Armstrong, of Cherry Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong.

Mrs. Lee McNeill, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss June Hirson, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and the "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her full-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle with alternating panels of the same in the full skirt. The fitted bodice featured a front panel, and like the front skirt panel was embroidered with iridescent sequits.

She wore a lace and tulle pillbox headdress prolled with sequins, and finger-tip veil and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of pink garnets, white stephanotis, and trailing ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbara Elliott, of Belleville, sister of the bride, and Miss Neil Halloran and Miss Mac Greer, both of Wellington, were gowned alike in midnight blue panne glaire, featuring molded bodices, with "V" shaped necklines in front and back and sweeping waist-length skirts. They wore headdress of blue and white Pinocchio poms and carried white, lace panels with blue and white Pinocchio poms.

The little flower girl, Miss Randa Elliott, niece of the bride, wore a white pangalaire frock with three-tiered skirt and wide sash. She carried a basket of blue and white Pinocchio poms with blue streamers and wore a matching bandeau.

Mr. Carl Armstrong, of Picton R.R.1, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Mac Greer of Wellington, and Karl Moore of Milford, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, wearing a sapphire blue lace length gown fitted with taffeta, with matching jaglet, black accessories and corsage of mauve orchids received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in a blue grey ensemble with pink accessories and corsage of deep pink garnets.

For the bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask and centred by the traditional wedding cake resting on a silver basket, flanked by silver candelabra with white tapers. Those serving were Misses Eunice Wamsmith, Beverley Alyea, Lois Armstrong, Clarabelle McFaul, Carol Marvin and Doreen Knox.

For the wedding trip through southern Ontario the bride chose a three piece all wool ensemble in blue, with black accessories, and corsage of mauve orchids surrounded with stephanotis and white leaves. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside at West Lake.

Guests were present from Wellington, Hastings, Belleville and Toronto.

WILLIAMS — CHARD

FRANKFORD — A quiet wedding took place on Friday evening, October 31st, at 8 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, when Rev. A. Carson united in marriage Frances Colleen Chard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chard, and William Arthur Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of Trenton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in floor length gown of decorated white nylon, with white accessories and corsage of mauve orchids.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Lillian Williams, wore a street length gown of pink nylon with white accessories and corsage of white orchids.

The groomsman was Mr. Leonard Reid of Trenton.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was attended by the bridal party and families of the bride and groom.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to Ottawa, with the bride wearing a navy blue dress with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

They will reside in Frankford.

St. George's Guild Tea, Bazaar Pleasingly Successful

Yesterday afternoon St. George's Guild opened a fine tea and bazaar which proved most successful. The mission auditorium was prettily adorned for the occasion with vases of chrysanthemums and yellow baby chrysanthemums which showed to advantage against the dark green of the window drapes.

Welcoming the guests was Mrs. Quirt, who, with Mrs. Bonnell attractive with its long tea table covered with a snow-white, linen damask cloth and centred with a pretty arrangement of autumn leaves in shades of gold and bronze in a yellow bowl. Tall bronze and yellow candles in crystal holders, and the ornate silver tea services added a delightful touch.

Those who presided at the cup which cheers but not inebriates were Mrs. Everett Smith, wife of the assistant rector of Christ Church and Mrs. F. Neeby, Mrs. E. Hickey, and Mrs. R. Godden.

SERVING

Those who served included:- Mrs. D. Donnolly, convener, assisted by Mrs. J. Askey, Mrs. W. Coleman, Mrs. M. Quirt and Mrs. W. Sears, while assisted in making tea were Mrs. G. Button, Mrs. A. Briens, and replenishing the hot emptied plates of good things, were Mrs. F. Markin, Mrs. W. McLeod, and Mrs. C. Jenkinson.

The little guest tables were white covered, and centred by little green striped gourds neatly on a fragrant sprays of cedar, making an unusual and novel setting.

The homecooking booth, with its backdrop of green curtains sparkled with its tempting display of angel cakes, chocolate layer cakes with soft chocolate icing; apple and cherry pies; white - topped chocolate cup cakes; baked sweet apples always a delight; ginger muffins; coffee buns; various types of cookies; oatmeal and date cookies; date and nut loaves; canned vegetables for babies; beets, and tempting containers of potato salad. Mrs. T. Collings, assisted by Mrs. I. Turnure, Mrs. T. Garrow, and Mrs. J. Allen were in charge of these.

The candy table was a drawing card with its cups of mixed fudges, maple creams, nougat taffy, convened by Mrs. H. Sharp, assisted by Miss A. Doctor, Mrs. H. Armstrong and Mrs. S. Ferguson. Vases of marigolds, and bronze and yellow mums added a glowing and colorful note.

LOVELY FANCY WORK

The fancy work table, as were the others, prettily decorated with autumn leaves, with a bowl and bronze, typical of the autumn season, was filled with many lovely articles of handwork, knitted baby sets in pale blue, pink and white; knitted booties and socks; mitts; lovely little dressed dolls in knitted suits, in pink, blue, yellow, green, white, which found ready customers; embroidered pillow slips; initialled guest towels, lace-edged; and Christmas stockings waiting to be filled with little gifts; fifty-by-fifty-towels; little doll bride, all in white with flowing veil; aprons of all kinds in mauve and green, fashioned in half and all-over styles from prints, chambrays, ginghams, and organdies, and last but not least, little crib quilts pink and white, the white squares embroidered with animal faces, and a multi-covered patchwork quilt brought out the highlights of this splendid booth. Convening this were Mrs. B. Clegg, assisted by Mrs. Pepper.

VEGETABLES, FLOWERS

A vegetable and flower booth was in charge of Mrs. W. Collyer, assisted by Mrs. G. Bear and Mrs. W. Parry and had for sale some fine heads of white cabbage; baskets of golden carrots; bunches of crisp celery and bunches of sage and savory which will soon be making their appearance into the Christmas turkey. There were bunches of pretty cornflowers, or everlastings, in pleasing shades on nice to brighten some corner when the snow filters down; a flowering begonia, a pink sultana plant and several African violets.

A fine bazaar and attractive tea baking commendation to the conveners and many assistants.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Plans Future Events

On Monday evening 13 members of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church met in the parish hall for the monthly business meeting.

The president, Mrs. A. Bonsant, conducted the devotional service with Mrs. Williams presiding at the piano and Bible reading by Mrs. W. Lancaster.

Special prayers for those in bereavement, for the sick, for missionary" work and prayer partners were taken by four members.

A thank-you note was read from Mrs. J. Spencer for a card of sympathy she received at the time of her father's death, also one from Mrs. G. Wright for the remembrance at the time of her wedding.

The Extra-Cent-a-Day money as well as "Living Message" subscriptions are to be sent in this month.

It was decided the members would attend a Corporate Communion service on St. Andrew's Sunday, November 30, at 8 a.m. and it is planned to have the Afternoon Branch and Evening Branch attend the evening service that Sunday when slides will be shown on the study book, "He Cares."

Arrangements were finalized for the tea and bazaar this month and also for a rummage sale.

The closing meeting will take the form of a potluck supper, followed by entertaining numbers provided by members divided into groups.

A letter was read from the church wardens acknowledging the assistance the branch has always generously given and submitting a list of projects to be undertaken.

The president closed the meeting and conducted a question and answer contest on the W.A. and its work.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. Z. Luttrell and Mrs. C. Ling.

Going shopping?

Bazaars to the right of us; Bazaars to the left of us! Wonderful places to pick up Christmas presents, to buy the odd jar of fancy homemade pickles or jam. The presents might include spoons, fancy work, dolls, knitted or crocheted baby things, house slippers — we could not possibly list them all.

If you are lucky you might pick up some delicious light or dark fruit cake, or even some homemade mincemeat.

It will soon be time for checking on trimmings for the tree and the tree lights, for revising Christmas card list and even addressing those same cards. But we must not rush along too fast. We must make our day to day urchases just the same.

There is evidently no drop in meat prices in sight; pork, it is predicted may go up in price. The cheapest buy is still the young chicken two and a half to three and a half pounds for frying or roasting. Egg prices are fluctuating but most stable on a little lower level soon.

Isn't it cheering and bracing to drive through our countryside and see the hampers of red and yellow apples and go to cider set out at the farmers' wayside stands? It brings the fruitfulness of the land to reality.

For something new this week, we have a tray-mat of heavy ribbed polythene. To be specific, it is a mat that looks like a tray, but with no handles. The designer may have had many things in mind, for its uses could be varied. For the puppy in the family, it would be the ideal spot for his feeding dish since the plate cannot be nudged off the mat.

For winter footwear the raised edge catches the drips prevailing outside on floors and carpets. The tray may have many other uses, such as holding baby accessories or flower pots. The plastic mat can be easily washed with soap and water and folded out of sight when not in use.

Here's news for the bicycle set and incidentally this would make a fine Christmas present, too. The familiar handle bar basket is being made of polythene in colors to match any bike.

It has a closed in bottom, so things can't drop out, and is large enough to carry books and lunches, too. This plastic basket doesn't rattle and won't scratch the bike.

When new or different articles come to our attention T & T will pass them along for Christmas shopping.

"It is a small world."

How many times during a lifetime do we make this familiar remark which we suppose is a cliche. However, cliche or truism, it matters not, they are very often real and true and then they are accidents in life well worth recalling. Down street last week your reporter met Mrs. Fred Lee, a neighbor and friend, who had just the day before returned from England where she and her husband had spent two weeks visiting his people in Nottingham.

The world became smaller when it became round and it became smaller and smaller until both feet on the ground or at least on a ship's deck. Today it becomes smaller thousands of feet up and over the mid-Atlantic.

Flying high up there a little girl in the seat in front of Mrs. Lee's became ill from sickness. Mrs. Lee overheard the mother being solicitous and comforting. The mother said: "Never mind dear, I'll take you to see Dr. Brown when we get back and you will be all right."

Mrs. Lee couldn't resist the temptation. Leaning forward she asked, "you wouldn't be from Belleville by any chance and mean Dr. Potter on Charles Street?" The answer was an affirmative to both questions. High over the Atlantic the world became small in the cabin of an air liner and two Belleville families who didn't know each other met for the first time. Mrs. F. L. Benson was flying to England with her husband and daughter to visit friends in Sheffield.

Belleville grows larger as our world grows smaller.

Wife Preserves

If you're running on a tight budget, here's money in your own wife! Have her preserve your winter shoe repairs. Good cement can freshen many a sad heel in places you can give shoes, too.

GOOD MANNERS

PLANS FOR SECOND MARRIAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I, a conservative middle-aged widow, assistant, is making the plans for her second marriage. The wedding will be very small, only the immediate families and a few intimate friends. Is to be invited. How about writing informal notes of invitation to the wedding, and then sending formal announcements later?

2. The bride has no relative to make the announcement. In this case how should the formal announcement be worded? — M.

1. This is a proper procedure, the customary procedure. The bride-to-be may invite close relatives and intimate friends personally or by telephone, or by notes to those who live at a distance. Then the formal announcements should be all ready . . . engraved, addressed, stamped . . . so that they may be mailed as soon as possible after the ceremony has been performed.

2. The mature bride and bridegroom usually issue their own marriage announcement. Is it like this:

Mrs. Arthur Williams and
Mr. George Alan Clark announce their marriage on Tuesday, the eighth of December
Nineteen hundred and fifty-eight
Darien, Ontario

BOY-BABY MAY WEAR CHRISTENING DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to have my first baby in December. Last December my aunt went on a European trip and brought me from France a beautiful long christening dress w i t h full long christening sleeves. Material is really lovely, but it does look very girl-baby-ish. Now I'm wondering if it is permissible for a boy-baby to wear a christening dress. Is it?

— Mother-to-be

Yes, Mis-ter . . . a boy may wear a christening dress.

HUSBANDS NAME SHOULD BE INCLUDED ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is in the service, and since last month, has been stationed in Europe. He and I have always sent our Christmas cards together, signing them "Christmas greetings and dearest love, from Jonathan and Mar-ta garet. This next Christmas should I sign the cards with my name only, omitting his name? This I wouldnt like to do, but dont know what is correct. — M.

This I wouldnt like to have you do either. This year Id like to have you make your Christmas cards even more significant by not only including your husbands name, but writing a news-bulletin, news to keep relatives and friends informed about him. For example: "Christmas greetings and dearest love from Margaret to here, and from Jonathan in service in Europe. Of course Jonathan will want me to send a l l greetings and love to you two and to young Polly and Jimmy. Jonathan is now stationed at —, writes that hes very well. His address (Here: a hint) is . . . where he'd be thrilled to hear from you, telling him news of you and the family.

CLUB NOW TO SERVE COFFEE AS WELL AS TEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our club meetings are practically always followed by a club tea, and up to the present time we have conservatively served only tea. Now were decided to serve coffee also, as an alternative to tea. At the tea should we have a hostess serve the tea at one table and the coffee at another table? — House Committee

Customarily the tea service is set up at one end of a large tea table, and the coffee service is set at the other end. This is, I think, better procedure, since it at once shows the guests that both beverages are being offered. However, if it is more convenient to have the two tables, this certainly would be proper.

Approximately 500 Children Aid UNICEF

UNICEF — to improve the health and welfare of the world's children and the mothers who bear them.

On October 31st, the UNICEF sprites of Belleville received wonderful co-operation from householders in their campaign to collect pennies for their less fortunate brothers and sisters in other lands, thus sharing their Hallowe'en fun.

Belleville is truly becoming a UNICEF city. About 500 children took part in the UNICEF Hallowe'en program this year, supporting the 75 little pioneers who began the program last year.

The real enjoyment the children have in sharing their fun with others less fortunate is wonderful to see.

On Friday morning next the name of one child will be drawn at a little ceremony at each of the three schools associated with the program, Sir Winston Churchill, Queen Elizabeth and King George. These three names will be sent to Toronto together with many others across Canada, and placed in a giant pumpkin for the final draw.

The lucky draw will be made in the December issue, and sometime in the weeks following the lucky goblin will be known to present the UNICEF Hallowe'en cheque, representing the gifts of the children of Canada, to the honorable Sidney Smith, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, and honorary chairman of the committee for UNICEF.

Sincere thanks to everyone, children, parents and teachers who chose to share this Hallowe'en and send $300 from Belleville to the children of the world who so desperately need this help.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Leon F. — He ought to go for one visit.

George G. — He messed things up.

Leon F. — My wife and I are trying to help out a best friend who has become estranged from his parents.

George did not get married until he was 35 because he was dominated by his parents. My wife and I kept urging him to marry and introducing him to different girls, but it just didn't take. Suddenly George just upped and found himself a girl and got married within a matter of weeks.

It happens that the girl is of different faith and his parents are in an uproar. I have tried to talk to the parents and calm them down to no avail. They refuse to see George unless he goes without his wife. George says he won't go without her. I have tried to convince him that he ought to go for just one visit to kind of smooth things over. If they don't come around after that, he wouldn't blame him for staying off them.

George G. — My parents have let me know via Leon that they want and expect my marriage to break up and they intend to do everything to further his end.

If this is the attitude they are going to take, I'm certainly not going to give in to any of their demands. They'll try to walk all over me as they have in the past. They always wanted to plan my wife for me. They couldn't understand that this is not thing a man must do for himself.

I feel that if I stand my ground now, my parents will be forced to come around. I am the only son and they won't be able to stand the separation. My sisters are also trying to prevail on my parents to accept the marriage.

Leon has messed things up a bit by trying to make it look as though I'm begging for their approval. All I'm asking is that they make an effort at setting up a semblance of normal relations.

The Council — Leon has placed himself in an unfortunate position in this affair. We suspect that he will get the reverse of gratitude from everyone concerned. Anyone who tries to serve as an intermediary between close friends or relatives is almost certain to complicate things further and finally to wind up as a kind of scapegoat.

George's parents may be domineering, yet there is little excuse for a man of 35 to be as completely browbeaten as George is. George revealed his terror of his parents when he desperately plunged into a marriage before giving himself a reasonable length of time to know his intended.

George should not blame his parents, but his own cowardice before them for the attitude they now take. He owes his parents a certain amount of moral responsibility and should have informed them of his impending marriage and given them an opportunity to meet his fiance before the marriage. If they had refused this opportunity he would now be on firm ground. As it is, he feels guilty at having "run out" on them and tries to make amends through a go-between. Naturally his parents get the idea that he is so unsure of himself that the marriage has little chance of success.

George needs to square with himself before he can square with his parents. He must convince himself that he had a right to marry. Then, he will be unafraid to tackle his parents to try to win their acceptance — by himself.

My brother has gone just a little daft over chiffon pies and went overboard completely when he tasted this little number at Auntie's 30th birthday party.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON DELIGHT:

(Serves 12 to 14) Twelve lady fingers, 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatine, 1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar, 1 teaspoon each salt and nutmeg, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 cup evaporated milk, 3 eggs, separated, 3 cups cooked pumpkin, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup granulated sugar. Split lady fingers; cut off one end and place around sides of an 8-in. spring form pan, or bowl. Mix together gelatine, brown sugar, salt and spices in top of double boiler. Stir in evaporated milk and egg yolks; mix well. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatine dissolves and mixture is heated through, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add pumpkin and chill until mixture mounds when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites till foamy; add cream of tartar and then slowly add the ¼ cup granulated sugar until mixture is very stiff and sugar is all dissolved. Fold gelatine mixture into egg whites. Turn into prepared, lady-finger lined form or bowl and chill till firm. At serving time, unmould and serve with or without whipped cream garnish.

This next offering calls for 3 eggs and serves 8.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

One-half cup granulated sugar or ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed, ¼ cup of cornstarch, ½ teaspoon of salt, ½ to 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ cup cold milk, 1¼ cups cooked or canned pumpkin, about 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spices (for dark filling) or ½ teaspoon ginger for yellow filling, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 cup hot milk, 2 tablespoons butter, softened, 1 teaspoon plain gelatine combined with 2 tablespoon cold water; whites of 3 large eggs, ½ cup granulated sugar; Combine 1st quantity of sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add slightly beaten egg yolks that have been combined with cold milk, pumpkin, spices and salt. Add to pumpkin, mix to a smooth paste and add spices which have been combined with 2 tablespoons boiling water to form a paste. Mix till smooth. Add hot milk slowly. Cook, stirring constantly till it comes to a boil and cook for 5 minutes. Add butter and mix well. Add thickened gelatine. Let cool slightly. Beat egg whites, adding the sugar until consistency of marshmallow. Add pumpkin while still fairly hot, a spoonful at a time and fold in gently. Work quickly but do not overwork. Cool slightly and then pour into a baked pie shell. When cooled refrigerate until set. Top if desired then decorate with whipped cream.

Mother's Helper

IF THE DOCTOR has prescribed any regular medication for your child, do you sometimes forget? Just to prove you gave that last dose? It's a good idea to attach a strip of paper to the bottle or box and record the time when you give the liquid or capsule. This is especially helpful if you have two different things to give.

The wonderful jersey dress — what would we do without it? Nat Kaplan offers a new approach to this paragon, the fabric diagonally ribbed and seamed to suggest a slim but unrestricted shape in paler colors. The rolled collar sets the criss-cross pattern of seaming detail that softly sketches the silhouette, beginning and ending with a brush of fringe high on the bodice and low on the skirt. It's a good selection for the resort scene, as well as general wear.

Belleville Presbyterial WMS Rally Meets in Shannonville

Beautiful autumn weather contributed to the success of the autumn rally of Belleville East Section of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church held at Shannonville on October 29th.

Mrs. Jack Williams, sectional vice president, presided for both morning and afternoon sessions. Morning worship period was conducted by Mrs. Charles Bates, Mrs. J. English, Mrs. M. Bailey and Mrs. R. Badgley of Melrose Auxiliary.

The meditation on the Scripture Story of "The Good Samaritan", was given by Mrs. Bailey. The priest would surely be expected to help anyone in need but he passed by. The Levite, also, would be expected to help because he was an officer in the church, but he too passed by. The Samaritan, a man of another race, would not be expected to offer any assistance, nor would the Jew have been willing to accept his help if he had had any choice in the matter. However, because he pitied the wounded man the Samaritan ministered unto him, put him upon his beast and took him where he could be properly cared for. "We — as members of Christ's Church have the responsibility of showing God's love to any one in need — even as this parable shows it."

Mrs. Charles Wood, president of Shannonville Auxiliary extended a cordial welcome to everyone present.

PRESBYTERIAL OFFERINGS

Mrs. Clarence Holmes introduced the Presbyterial Officers and invited the ladies to discuss any problems or questions during the noon hour. Miss Vera Boyd, on furlough from India, was welcomed by Mrs. Holmes and introduced to the ladies.

"If we are concerned we will try to understand other people. If we understand them, we will become interested. From this concern for others stems the community friendship, citizenship and supply program of the WMS. Why have a Mission Band? To educate our children in people outside our community and our country and train them to be the members and leaders of our auxiliaries of tomorrow. The lack of leadership for junior groups is the concern of the auxiliary, and junior leaders should be given every encouragement in their work."

SUPPLY WORK IMPORTANT

Mrs. Neelands stressed the importance of supply work, saying that faith without works is dead, thus the supply work shows interest, concern and love for those who have need of practical help. The importance of the secretarial letters was also emphasized and it was recommended these be kept handy for reference and also passed on to the new officers who may be elected.

Mrs. D. Baxter spoke on "Citizenship". Mrs. N. McKibbon who was unable to be present. This department includes temperance, social welfare, world peace and racial brotherhood. If the Christian religion is to be made real to the world it must be a religion of action and works.

Mrs. Bell said "Community Friendship" covers a large variety of work. It embraces concern for underprivileged, unemployed, the handicapped, the homecomers and the shut-ins, and the many problems each one has. The greater the understanding of the true meaning of missionary work the greater the commitment to be concerned with all of the problems of all of God's people."

Mrs. Percy McMullen, literature secretary, gave a fine book review introducing the various study packets for all age groups in the W.M.S. family. The books for this bookshelf were also displayed. She announced the "Reading Award" policy would be discontinued after the year. Every Auxiliary should have a literature secretary and she should be allowed a few minutes at every meeting to keep the WMS up to date on the new books.

Mrs. R. G. Coulter, Presbyterial treasurer, and Mrs. H. M. Davies, Presbyterial Christian stewardship secretary, in a question and answer discussion explained that stewardship is Christianity in action.

The "In Memoriam" cards were explained. Bequests and life memberships in Auxiliaries, Mission Bands and Baby Bands.

Any surplus monies above the allocations are to be used for an operating room in John Neal Hospital at Cold Lake, Alta., and a library for Ewha University in Korea.

Local Auxiliaries should not use their funds for any purpose but legitimate expenses.

SYSTEMATIC GIVING IDEAL

Proportionate systematic giving is the ideal way to meet our allocation, and all gifts must be given prayerfully.

Mrs. A. Cook and Mrs. G. Akey received the morning offering which was dedicated by Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton.

"Now none but Christ can Satisfy," theme hymn for the rally was sung.

The team for the rallies this year composed of the Christian citizenship secretary — Mrs. N. McKibbon, supply secretary — Mrs. W. Neelands, Mission Band secretary — Mrs. M. Clarke, and Community Friendship secretary — Mrs. Fred Bell, comprised a panel which was interviewed by Mrs. C. Holmes. In leading this panel discussion Mrs. Holmes said, "The service we will be prepared to render if we carry out our theme will reach beyond our own neighborhood, even unto the whole world.

A tape-recording of one of the programs for radio broadcasts, "When a Child Asks" was played to inform the ladies of the "pe of programs available to the radio stations and to create interest in such programs.

A delicious dinner was served by the Shannonville ladies. During the noon hour, a film strip entitled "From Sea to Sea with the United Church of Canada," was shown by Mrs. D. Baxter and Mrs. Pierson.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session convened at 1.30 with Bridge St. Afternoon Auxiliary presenting the worship service, Miss Madeline Young, Mrs. McArthur and Mrs. E. Farnsworth taking part. The theme of the meditation was taken from Deut. 7:6, "Ye Are a People Chosen." The roll was called and responded to by 110 ladies who answered with five exceptions that the study book was used in their auxiliaries.

Miss Vera Boyd, on furlough from India, was guest speaker for the afternoon session. Colored slides were shown by Mrs. Baxter and Miss Boyd gave a pictorial story of her work as a nurse in North India. These were most interesting and the running comment of explanation brought an intimate picture of the life and work of the people in India as the church reaches out to serve and minister unto them.

The importance of continued support for the missionary work was emphasized as well as the need for dedicated workers.

Highlights from the School for Leaders was given by Mrs. Geo. Price of Foxboro.

The courtesy report was extended by Mrs. Leslie Pinkle, of Marsh Hill and the benediction, pronounced by the sectional vice president, Mrs. J. Williams, bringing to a close a successful rally.

Akelas, Cubs, Scouts Hold Party

On Wednesday evening the 8th Belleville Akelas, Cubs and Scouts met in Queen Mary school for their annual Hallowe'en party.

Several mothers were also present to pay tribute to the Akelas, Mrs. Killen, Ashley, now district Cubmaster for training.

Sister Dyson Sargent, on behalf of the Cubs, presented Mrs. Ashley with a travelling iron, while Mrs. Reid, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, presented the Akela with an electric coffee maker.

Mrs. Ashley expressed her appreciation for the lovely gifts, and thanked the boys for the help they had given her in past years.

Games and judging of costumes were enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served, bringing to a close an enjoyable and memorable evening.

Fashion Mileage

This cosy topper is a good choice for home or abroad. Designed to wear over all your dresses and suits, it comes in shades to simulate fine, sheared beaver, though it is really one of the new man-made fur fabrics.

The coat is cut along narrow lines, with four low-placed flap pockets and a four-button single-breasted front closing. The colors: blond, silver, taupe or mist.

A-PLANE CRASHES

ASHLENE, Tex. (AP)—A B-47 jet bomber carrying a nuclear weapon crashed in flames near here Tuesday but there was no atomic explosion. One airman died in the crash and three parachuted to safety. The air force said there was no atomic explosion nor danger of one, and no radio active contamination occurred.

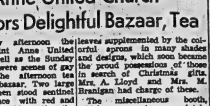
Point Anne United Church Sponsors Delightful Bazaar, Tea

On Tuesday afternoon the parlors of Point Anne United Church, as well as the Sunday School room were scenes of gay activity for the afternoon tea and church bazaar. Two large white snowmen stood sentinel at the entrance with red and white streamers decorating the posts and roping off the tea room.

Into this lively atmosphere of camaraderie the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Morley Akey, president of the W.A., with Miss Margie MacLaurin acting as treasurer.

The tea table was most attractive with its white cloth and red candles in crystal holders while resting on encircling mounds of evergreen and frosted pine cones was the snowman. The little quartet tables with their lace cloths and centred by red candles in crystal holders on sprays of evergreens and frosted cones were pretty and inviting.

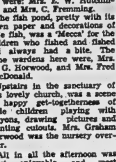
Convening the tea room was Mrs. W. L. Horwood, assisted by Mrs. Maurice Bradshaw and Mrs. Keith Lloyd with Mrs. H. E. Payne and Mrs. Charles Mac-Rae making the tea. While Mrs. A. McDowell; Mrs. Noble Brown, and Mrs. Ted Clause presided at the silver services. The white elephant booth was a drawing magnet with its many items of costume jewellery, vases, dishes, and whatnots for you. Mrs. Earl Anderson and Mrs. M. Jones were conveners.



Next came the homecooking with its delightful display of homemade buns; various pies with mouth-watering crusts; cakes; tarts; cookies, and all kinds of candy, soon found ready purchasers. Mrs. Douglas Dunstater was the convener with Mrs. J. Welsh, Mrs. W. Guay, Mrs. T. Wilson, Mrs. Charles and R. Sedore, assisting.

The apron booth was a picture with its white cloth and bronze leaves supplemented by the colorful sprays in many shades and designs, which soon became the proud possessions of those in search of Christmas gifts. Mrs. A. Lloyd and Mrs. M. Branigan had charge of these.

The miscellaneous booth, which was most appropriately named with its heterogeneous collection of pretty dolls surrounded by lovely crochet centre pieces; pillow cases; crochet hot-plate mats; Christmas candles and many items too numerous to mention. Conveners were Mrs. R. W. Hotchkiss and Mrs. C. Fremming.



The fish pond, pretty with its green paper and decorations of little fish, was a 'Mecca' for the children who fished and fished and always had a bite. The game wardens here were, Mrs. W. G. Horwood, and Mrs. Fred MacDonald.

Upstairs in the sanctuary of this lovely church, was a scene of happy get-togetherness of Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, saying he had no power to order her release requested the magistrate to release her because the amount was so small and her three children were innocent victims. Her husband is an unemployed laborer.

MOTHER OF THREE JAILED FOR THEFT OF $1.35 IN GOODS

Centre of a legal dispute is Mrs. Santa Ricci, a Toronto woman accused of stealing $2.56 worth of goods from a store. Mother of three small children, she was arrested and pleaded guilty — through an interpreter — to the charge and then was remanded to jail. Ontario Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, saying he had no power to order her release requested the magistrate to release her because the amount was so small and her three children were innocent victims. Her husband is an unemployed laborer.

ONTARIO

...ARE YOU ONE OF THE 5,300,000 ONTARIANS WHO ARE REGISTERED FOR ONTARIO HOSPITAL INSURANCE?

Registration for Ontario Hospital Insurance has been an overwhelming success. To date, more than 5,300,000 residents of Ontario (over 90%) are registered and will be eligible for benefits when the plan becomes effective on January 1, 1959. However, there are still some residents of the province who are not registered and it is to these people that this message is addressed.

It should be clearly understood, and remembered, that only insured residents will receive benefits under the plan.

ON AND AFTER JANUARY 1, 1959, THOSE PERSONS WHO ARE NOT INSURED UNDER THE ONTARIO PLAN MUST PAY THEIR OWN HOSPITAL BILLS IF THEY ARE ADMITTED FOR TREATMENT.

NOVEMBER 29 IS DEFINITELY YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY TO REGISTER AND BE ELIGIBLE FOR BENEFITS ON JANUARY 1, 1959

A NOTE TO ALL EMPLOYERS

If you employ 15 or more persons, enrolment is mandatory for every Ontario resident on your payroll. If there is any employee who has not yet registered his employees with the Commission, he must do so immediately to comply with regulations under the Ontario Hospital Services Commission Act.

EMPLOYERS OF FEWER THAN 15 PERSONS

Thousands of firms employing fewer than 15 persons have elected to enrol their employees as groups.

If you employ fewer than 15 persons you may do the same, and afford your employees the convenience of group participation.

Group registration forms are available from the Commission on request.

To be sure that every resident who is not yet registered may have a final chance to obtain the two months' free coverage, and also be protected as of January 1, next, the initial registration period has been extended to November 29, 1958. Residents who apply after November 29 will lose the two months' free coverage, and will have to wait up to three months before their hospital insurance becomes effective. This means that, if you are hospitalized during the waiting period, you will have to pay your own hospital bills at the "all-inclusive" rates. Register NOW and have no regrets.

- Have you a son or daughter 19 or over who should be registered at the single premium?
- Have you a relative or a friend who is aged or infirm whom you should encourage to register?

A NOTE ABOUT "ALL-INCLUSIVE" HOSPITAL RATES

Beginning on January 1, 1959, the hospitals of Ontario will charge "all-inclusive" daily rates, instead of basic daily rates, plus extras, as at present. The standard ward "all-inclusive" rate, which will include the cost of extra services (use of operating room, drugs, etc.), is expected to average about $17.00 a day for the public hospitals of Ontario. However, as rates will vary from hospital to hospital, according to the type of services available, the charge may be $20.00 or more a day in some hospitals.

The "all-inclusive" rates will apply whether the hospital bill is paid by the insurance plan or by the patient himself.

The ONLY Basic Hospital Insurance Available

The Ontario Hospital Insurance plan provides the most comprehensive hospital benefits ever made available to the people of this province. It will cover all the standard ward hospital services which are medically necessary to the treatment of "in-patients" in approved hospitals. It will also provide benefits for emergency "out-patient" hospital care within 24 hours following an accident.

The very low premiums of $2.10 a month for the single person and $4.20 a month for the family are made possible by substantial contributions toward the cost from the Provincial and Federal Governments. The "Family" premium covers husband, wife, and all unmarried, unemployed children under age 19, and children 19 or over who are financially dependent because of physical or mental infirmity.

AS OF NEXT JANUARY 1, THIS WILL BE THE ONLY STANDARD WARD HOSPITAL INSURANCE AVAILABLE TO RESIDENTS OF ONTARIO. IF YOU ARE NOT REGISTERED YOU ARE NOT INSURED.

HOW TO REGISTER

If you are not yet registered, and are not eligible to register through a group, you may register with the Commission on a Pay-Direct basis. Complete the application form included in this advertisement, clip it, and mail it to the Commission with a cheque or money order for one month's "Single" or "Family" premium, whichever is applicable. DO NOT SEND CASH THROUGH THE MAIL.

If your application and one month's premium are received by the Commission on or before November 29, 1958, you will be insured for January, February, and March, 1959. Future premiums will be payable on a quarterly basis beginning in January, 1959.

"WORST THING" WAS WINNING $50,000

Winning $50,000 in the Irish sweepstakes in 1950 was the "worst thing that ever happened", according to Tom Harper of Woodstock, Ont. Since then, he says, he has been plagued by cranks and intruders and on one occasion he was shot at as he stood near a window. On Nov. 18 he has to appear in court to face a charge of assault on John Wilson, 17, shot in the chest on Hallowe'en.

Sentence Miner To Death for Murder of Wife

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Roland Sabourin, 50-year-old former mine worker, was sentenced Tuesday to be hanged Jan. 7 for the bludgeon murder of his wife in their trailer home.

The slashed and beaten bodies of his wife and their two daughters were found after police broke into the trailer last March near Elliot Lake, a mining community 75 miles northeast of here.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury deliberated four hours before returning the verdict following a five-day trial. Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven had charged the jury with finding Sabourin either guilty of murder or not guilty because of insanity.

Defence Counsel C. T. Murphy contended Sabourin was legally insane at the time of the slaying March 12. He said evidence had not revealed a motive.

The bodies were not discovered for several days until Sabourin walked into a local police station said he thought he had killed his wife.

Crown attorney Ian Munroe said he doubted Sabourin's story that he could not recall killing his wife and argued it was obvious he accused knew what was in the trailer before he left Elliot Lake.

CPA Counsel Makes Strong Point in Case

OTTAWA (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines traffic has increased more on highly competitive routes than on non-competitive.

This point was made Tuesday before the air transport board by counsel Ian Sinclair of Canadian Pacific Airlines.

The board is continuing its hearing of CPA's application for a transcontinental franchise that would cut in on the publicly-owned TCA's monopoly.

Mr. Sinclair suggested to TCA comptroller William S. Harvey that the growth of TCA traffic on the highly competitive routes between Montreal and New York and Toronto and New York has been "substantially greater" than on non-competitive lines.

Mr. Harvey said he would like to look at the figures.

"But would you agree that there has been a higher growth?"

"I agree," replied Mr. Harvey.

One of CPA's arguments has been that competition on the transcontinental route would stimulate business and that neither line would suffer unduly.

Mr. Sinclair won agreement from Mr. Harvey on another point: That operational statistics of three U.S. airlines indicate they are getting greater productivity per employee than TCA.

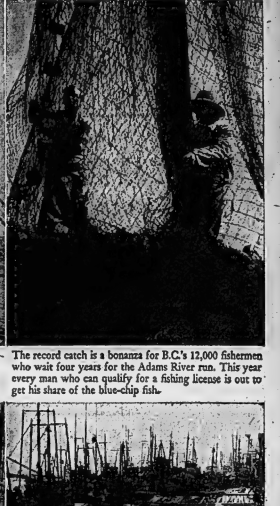
Mightiest Migration in Modern History

B.C's Fabulous Sockeye Run



B.C's 1958 Sockeye run is spectacular testimony to the success of the Hell's Gate fish ladder built in the Fraser Canyon in 1945. Installed to facilitate salmon migration to the Fraser River Basin, the fishway is receiving top honours in this year's unprecedented salmon run to the Adams River, tributary of the Fraser. Experts estimate some 15 million silvery sockeye migrated; more than two million are expected to reach the spawning grounds. Purse seiner above, having completed a "set", is held steady by power skiff to prevent it from drifting back into net.

At full flood, the take topped one million a day. Seiners such as Pacific Raider, above, average over 4,500 fish in a 12-hour run.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gar Lunney.

The record catch is a bonanza for B.C's 12,000 fishermen who wait four years for the Adams River run. This year every man who can qualify for a fishing license is out to get his share of the blue-chip fish.

Round dip nets known as brailers, scoop the fish out of pocket of the purse onto seiner. Biggest individual haul was 14,32 fish in one set taken by the Ozard. Sockeye is number one fish in B.C's $65 million fishing industry.

When the seiners return at 6 p.m. the gill netters (manned by a crew of two) go out. Gill net above held 500 sockeye, worth about $750 to fishermen.

The fear of a surplus has already been dispelled. Eager U.K. buyers snapped up 700,000 cases of the choice red sockeye hours after Britain lifted currency restrictions on fish.

The heavy catch is hard on the nets but no one is complaining. B.C's fishermen have reaped a $15-million harvest from the deluxe crop. Above, wharf at Port Renfrew, west coast Vancouver Island.

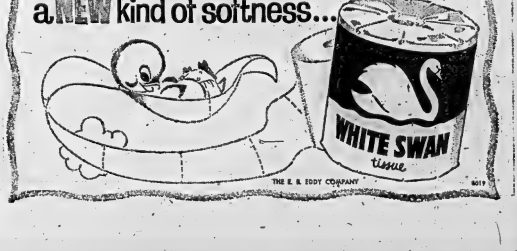
Under the chairmanship of Mr. Milley an interesting program followed directly after the meal. A sing-along led by Mr. Milley as interesting program followed directly after the meal. A sing-song led by Betty Lough, choir leader, Ivor Hughes, was a success. Mrs. Reed was the accompanist for the evening. In the numbers that followed much talent was evident. Piano solos by Walter Kincaid, Doug Duffin and Mary Lou Pogue were well played.

Always fine elocutionists, Ross Fleming and Mrs. Hilda McGowan, gave amusing readings. A recitation was also given by Peter Milley.

Miss J. Smith sang two delightful solos, "I'll Never Walk Alone", and "Christopher Robin Is Saying His Prayers".

Betty Lough read several poems of her own composition.



As a finale to the program, Mr. Archie Kincaid on the eve of his 84th. birthday rendered a humorous song with the enthusiasm of youth.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1958

Mrs. L. G. Anderson checks her students during a lunch-hour break at the Ridgetown public school 22 miles northeast of Chatham, Ont. Three years ago the school brought in 22 students from the Moraviantown Indian Reservation as an experiment and now more than 40 students from the reserve attend regular classes. Shown standing by Mrs. Anderson is Ruth-Ann Schleman of Ridgetown and seated are Gwendolyn Huff and Carole Peters of Moraviantown. (CP Photo).

Integration Venture Started By School Board, Department Of Indian Affairs Success

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—An integration venture started in 1955 by Ridgetown Public School Board and officials of the department of Indian affairs has been successful.

In the spring of that year 22 boys and girls from the historic Moravian town Indian Reservation entered the school at Ridgetown, 22 miles northeast of here, with other students.

It was termed an experiment, but now more than 40 Moravian town Indians travel 10 miles daily to take part in study and recreation with district students.

Since its inception the project has received strong support from the parents of Moraviantown children and from the people of Ridgetown.

The whole program has worked very satisfactorily," says Principal R. W. Carter. "The achievements of the Moravian troop pupils compare favorably with those of the Ridgetown children."

The Moravian Indians consist of the most part of descendants of Munsees and Delawares who migrated to Canada in 1791 from Ohio following a massacre at the missionary village of Muskingum.

The ancestors of the Moravian Brethren who came from Germany and first started working with the Indians in New York had the Indians in Canada and established the village of Fairfield on the Thames River.

The village was burned by American troops in 1813 and two years later the Moravian town of New Fairfield now known as Moraviantown) on the opposite bank of the river.

Since then many Moravian Indians have distinguished themselves. One of the most notable was Dewer Peters, a former chief of the reservation and a flying officer and winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross during the Second World War.

Ridgetown officials believe the success of the integration scheme resulted from the efforts of the principal and staff of the school and the help and friendly advice of residents of both Moravian-town and Ridgetown.

The original number of 22 students from grades 3 to 8 remained about the same until this, the fourth year of the experiment, when the number doubled with the admittance of other grades.

Principal Carter said that since the Indian children became part of the school they have shown a desire and capability to enter into all school activities".

During the first year, Dennis Timothy of Moraviantown was the school football hero. A year later, Murray Timothy represented the school in spelling bees. Several of the Indian youngsters were enrolled in the school band. Agnes Bell, 14 Indian girl passed on to Ridgetown High school.

An integration scheme is also now in operation in Walkerburg, 37 miles south of Chatham, where children of the Walpole Island Reserve attend a public school in town.

The Ridgetown Public School was built in 1950. It has 11 classrooms and an enrolment of more than 400 students.

Reinstatement Of Campus Paper Editors Is Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—A formal request from the student body for the reinstatement of the campus paper's three editors-in-chief is before Ottawa University's dean of students.

The university's student federation Tuesday night unanimously approved a resolution asking that a prohibition against the editors be lifted.

The student-editors were prohibited by university authorities from taking any further part in the publication of the semi-monthly French-language paper. The ban was ordered after the paper published Oct. 3 a statement from a former editor accusing the administration of "religious paternalism."

NO COMMENT

Rey. Leonard Ducharme, dean of students, declined to comment on the student resolution, but referred a reporter to public relations director Bill Boss for any statement.

Mr. Boss said he had "no doubt Father Ducharme, as the responsible authority, will consider the request as soon as possible." He added this should be today.

Mr., Boss was criticized in a second editorial Monday and unanimously by the federation at a special meeting of the 15-member representatives and 23 non-voting students.

The resolution said the federation "strongly deplores Mr. Bill Boss' interference by offering to the press estimates of the opinion of the student body with regard to the current Rolando issue."

The resolution, which is to be forwarded to university authorities, presented a statement Mr. Boss made last week that the "large majority" of students would agree their rights had been in no way infringed by the prohibition.

Mr. Boss, who took the public relations job this autumn, said he regrets the resolution concerning himself and added:

"No opportunity was solicited, nor offered, and was made on the basis of my understanding that the student body is an integral part of the university. If I erred, I apologize."

New Proposals Are Submitted To Stop Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's trucking industry has submitted new proposals to its drivers, hoping to forestall a strike. Any walkout of the 6,000 drivers would virtually stall inter - city runs and some routes within Montreal.

The Trucking Association of Quebec and Provincial Transporters (CLC) have studied them.

The threat developed Sunday when drivers demanded immediate wage increases and voted to walk out, against the advice of union leaders and lawyers.

The Quebec labor relations board has said any strike would be illegal since all means of arbitration have not been used.

Canada Is Prepared to Study Polish Plan to Denuclearize Section of Central Europe

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is ready and willing to give serious consideration to a new Polish plan for a denuclearized zone in Central Europe.

Adam Rapacki, foreign minister of Communist Poland, was in Norway last week to sound out Western support for a new version of his plan which would bar nuclear weapons from a zone including Poland, Czechoslovakia and East and West Germany.

Canada and Norway are allies in the North Atlantic alliance and their thinking on world problems often runs along parallel lines.

Rapacki put his original plan before the Canadian and other Western governments in a formal note Feb. 14, 1958, which suggested prohibition of nuclear weapons in Central Europe and a control system to police the ban.

Because Canada for more than a decade has been keenly interested in achievement of some disarmament agreement, it welcomed Poland's initiative.

However, Western countries, including Canada, rejected the plan on the grounds it would disrupt Western defences.

But Canada took a much more moderate view in its rejection than Britain and the United States and invited Poland to try again.

Though no new Polish note has yet been received here, it is understood Rapacki is proposing now, besides a ban on nuclear weapons, a reduction of conventional forces in Central Europe. The Canadian government is prepared to give careful study to any new plan, though it is anxious not to give the impression it would favor any scheme which would make eventual reunification of West and East Germany a more difficult.

Turn Clock Back to Stalin Era On Reds' Action on Pasternak

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The boo and cry over Boris Pasternak's Nobel Prize is hitting Russia where it hurts.

Ever since the bad old days of Josef Stalin, Soviet propaganda has worked hard and not unsuccessfully to recapture the sympathies of Western intellectuals whose initial attraction to the Communist philosophies of Marx and Lenin had been alienated by the old dictator's repellent methods of power and terror.

Since Stalin's death, the Russians had been making headway. The West was given a chance to admire the incomparable Bolshoi Ballet, the fabulous violin playing of David Oistrakh, the cinematic performance of pianist Emil Gilels.

A crack Russian hockey team toured Canada and earned non-political praise. Other Russian athletes made their mark at the Olympic Games and in world soccer tournaments. Their scientists mingled on friendly terms at international conferences, their bustnessmen materials and their visiting Western delegations and their agricultural experts toured American farms.

All these contacts helped to furnish the picture of the Soviet citizen as a blindly obedient puppet, whose movements were rigorously controlled from the Kremlin. In his place appeared a human being, scientific no different from his opposite number in the West.

Now, with the chorus of denunciation that greeted the award of the Nobel Prize for literature to Pasternak, the Russians are right back where they started.

Mindful of the controversial nature of Pasternak's novel, Doctor Zhivago, the prize committee declared specifically specified its poetry as the basis for the award. If the Soviet authorities had chosen to ignore the prize and condemn Pasternak, the 68-year-old author could have accepted his award without embarrassment.

They couldn't afford to take the first course. Doctor Zhivago had never been published in Russia. But the book challenged some of the most treasured concepts of the Communist state. It was a book that could not be ignored.

The unanimous bitterness of Pasternak's fellow-writers in an orchestrated campaign of denouncing the prize committee of political opportunism effectively turned the clock back to the Stalin era.

Unions Happy Right-to-Work Voted Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions today acclaimed election returns as ensuring a Congress that can wreck all existing state right-to-work laws at one sweep and enact new social legislation.

They gained confidence from defeat of right-to-work referenda in five of the six states in which the issue was on Tuesday's ballot.

Union strategists said the exception of the new Congress is such that the measures labor seeks—such as a higher minimum wage, extra unemployment benefits and recession curatives —will get more favorable consideration than they have in recent years.

One thing organized labor will fight for in Congress next year, union sources said, is repeal of that section of the Taft-Hartley law which permits states to enact right-to-work laws. These ban the union shop—a labor contract provision that requires workers to join a union to hold their jobs.

ONE STATE APPROVED

Kansas voters approved a ban on the union shop on Tuesday, joining 18 other states that already had such laws on the books.

But right-to-work was voted down handily in Ohio, California, Washington and Colorado, and lost by a narrow margin in Idaho.

Labor unions turned out their members in droves in the six states, but said they fought hardest in Ohio.

They wanted to avoid at all costs any spread of the right-to-work principle in the industrial middlewest. Indiana is the only state in that area now having such a law.

The other right-to-work states are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, eGorgia, Iowa, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, North and South Dakota, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia.

COULD REPEAL 14B

Union officials calculated today they will have a good chance in the next Congress to repeal the Taft-Hartley Law's section 14B, but they conceded that even with the Democratic majorities in the House of Representatives and the Senate it will be close.

Congress has the power under the Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court to regulate all labor relations which affect interstate commerce.

So if Congress changes 14B to permit the union shop and other forms of compulsory union membership, state right-to-work laws could apply only to purely local state labor-management relationships. This would narrow drastically the effect of existing right-to-work laws and make them practically meaningless.

Canada Will Likely Face Surpluses in Hogs and Dairy Products Says Harkness

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harkness predicts Canadian farmers generally will have a "reasonably favorable" year in 1959 but that Canada likely will face surpluses in hogs and dairy products.

He anticipated also in an interview Tuesday that for the first time in some years all surplus prairie wheat may be removed from farms and delivered to elevators by next July.

Prairie farmers had an estimated 294,000,000 bushels on farms last July 31 and produced about 341,000,000 this fall, giving them total supplies of about 545,000,000. Some would be used for seed and feed. Prairie marketings last year totalled about 378,000,000 bushels.

Touching on the surplus problem, Mr. Harkness said the government has already started to buy surplus hogs in the West, for delivery in about six years. The federal support price for hogs is set at 25 cents a pound.

He gave no indication whether this support price would have to be lowered but estimated that hog prices is set at 25 cents a pound.

He gave no indication whether this support price would have to be reduced but estimated that hog prices may drop by next fall. The mandatory floor under price stabilization would be 22.15 cents, basis Montreal and Toronto.

Mr. Harkness said the livestock market looked good. In the first half of 1959, farm income from livestock sales had been higher than at any time since 1951. Both prices and sales volume had increased.

Indications for 1959 were that cattle and poultry prices would remain strong but that hog prices "would be down definitely" Sometime between next May, Mr. Harkness will announce what he will do about the hog support prop.

The dairy picture looks none too bright, he said. In a four-week tour of eight European countries he had found that almost all of them suffered from dairy surpluses and that none knew how to get rid of them. Generally speaking, the outlook for dairy export markets is 1959 is extremely limited. Any markets may be confined to a few South American countries with the exception of some cheddar cheese going to Britain.

Therefore the only way we can prevent an extremely difficult situation is by cutting down on production."

The price support on butter was boosted this year to 64 cents a pound from 56. This price is to continue until next May when it will be reviewed.

Mr. Harkness declined to say whether this support price will be reduced but he anticipated that the butter surplus will be "manageable" and that if Canada has a surplus next year it will be "serious".

Macmillan Gets Tough Ride From Three Hecklers

LONDON (Reuters)— Prime Minister Macmillan was heckled by three students during a visit to Wales.

He was addressed an Anglo-Canadian rally where Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker also spoke.

Three hecklers, members of the extreme right-wing League of Empire Loyalists, were ejected.

When Macmillan rose to answer Diefenbaker's address, one heckler yelled: "Pray silence for Mr. Diefenbaker by offering to the press estimates of the opinion of the student body with regard to the current Rolando issue."

When Macmillan declared Diefenbaker's visit "a great occasion" shouted: "It's a pity you haven't any."

WOMAN HUSTLED OUT

She was hustled out of the hall. A few minutes later two other hecklers rose simultaneously and they started yelling during Macmillan's speech.

At one point, a man shouted at Macmillan: "You believe in free trade in Europe; you are hypocrite."

Shouts of, "What about the Empire?" caused Macmillan to smile and say: "I thought there was a lot of it."

He referred to the "truce" declared by the leaders of the prime minister's meetings until the end of October.

Shortly after threats of legal action by both the league and Commonwealth Conservative party following the treatment of league hecklers at the party's annual conference in Margate.

Mr. Diefenbaker earlier was accorded an uninterrupted hearing.

MISSIONARY TO LEPERS

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Harvey Kolke, 32, for 26 years general secretary for Canada of the mission of lepers, died Tuesday. Previously he had been a pastor of several Presbyterian churches including Guelph, Ulterson, Dorset and Port Credit. His work for lepers took him to colonies in Korea, China, Spain and Formosa.

Police Hold Little Hope For Men's Safety

GRIMSBY (CP)—An air search of Lake Ontario today was expected to reveal fears that two young men who vanished in a rowboat had drowned.

Police said the small little hope for the safety of Joseph Walkem and Jerry Smith, both 25, who were caught in gale-force winds Tuesday shortly after they started on a duck-hunting trip in a leaky boat.

Mrs. Walkem, 20 - year - old mother of four, said she had seen men in difficulty about a mile from shore. The boat disappeared as a wall of water swept over it, watched helplessly.

Veteran boatmen said they doubted whether anyone could hang onto an overturned boat for more than a couple of hours in such wild water. A search of the area turned up only a jacket, rubber boot and glove which Mrs. Walkem identified as belonging to the men.

Provincial police said they had asked the RCAF to send a rescue unit at Trenton to make an aerial sweep of the lake as dawn today.

Mr. and Mrs. Walkem lived in a bleak cottage about two miles north of here. Smith had been married to them since he was laid off at a Hamilton factory last week.

LABOR MOTION BEATEN

LONDON (AP) — The government Tuesday night squashed the first opposition challenge of the parliamentary fall session. MELROSE

'Conservation' Theme of WI Program

MELROSE — The Melrose W.I. met last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. L. Lazier with a fine attendance of members and visitors. Mrs. C. Weese, president, welcomed all.

Plans were made for the annual pot-luck community supper to be held on November 22 at Melrose Hall. Mrs. J. English kindly offered her home for the short-course, "What Makes a Good Officer," to be held the third Friday in November. It was suggested the W.I. make a donation to the "Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants" at Plainfield as a good-will gesture for this worthy cause. Mrs. Charles Bales and Mrs. K. Pascoe, who were delegates to the recent area convention in Belleville, reviewed the highlights of each session, giving a most interesting and comprehensive report of the various conveners and guest speakers.

Mrs. V. Pearce, convener of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, took charge of the program and called on Mrs. E. Whiteman, who guided around a "guessing box," contents of which went to the lady guessing the contents correctly. The lucky winner was Mrs. George Blatherwick.

Mrs. Pearce followed with the main topic, "Conservation and Reforestation." "Over a century ago there were timber resources of great value to the early settlers for fuel, furniture, houses, fences and shingles. The main thought was not conservation but how the land should be cleared. Later on it became evident that the reckless destruction of the timber of Canada was a menace and something must be done to replace it. An interest in reforestation of waste lands was awakened and conservation organizations were set up, she related.

She defined reforestation and its object and the way it is carried out in some section where school pupils aid in planting the trees. Free distribution of trees to private land owners began in 1905 but lately there is a small fee charged. Anyone can secure them for the establishment of snow-breaks, for the protection of roadways and lanes, or the control of soil erosion and sand drifting. "People of all ages are becoming more tree-minded and conservation conscious so in future years Canada as a whole may again have magnificent forests as in the past," the speaker said.

She then explained an unique idea — the "bulb project," and passed out bulbs to each lady, after which names were drawn and when a member's particular bulb blooms she is to present it to the one whose name she drew.

Mrs. T. Howard dealt with the motto "One tree can make a million matches, but one match can destroy a million trees," in which she described many ways in which Institute members can aid in forest fire prevention.

Mrs. S. Demill gave a humorous reading, "Tale of a Drunken Cow," and Mrs. J. English followed with a timely reading, "Back of Hallowe'en," which traced its origin and the different customs in the various countries.

The hostess was thanked by the president, after which refreshments were served.

After film records of their behavior had been made, the dugongs, under government protection because of their rarity, were returned to the sea. The mammal has flippers and a tail that is broad and crescent-shaped. Adult dugongs are from seven to nine feet in length, shooting a film called "The Reluctant Mermaid". (AP Wirephoto).

Gradual Release Of Prisoners Proves Success

OTTAWA (CP)—An experiment in gradual release of long-term penitentiary prisoners is considered a success after being tried with about 20 during the last 1½ years.

This rehabilitation procedure, relatively new in Canada, is simplicity itself.

When a prisoner on a long sentence, usually five years or more, nears the end of his stay in prison he is allowed out under supervision for short periods, to get accustomed to the life he's been away from for so long.

There has been no indication that it will become a permanent part of the correction system. But it likely will be included in changes being considered as part of a general overhaul of prisoner handling during the next few years.

After several years of life in penitentiary confinement, a man often finds it difficult coping with the simplest problems.

He grows accustomed to having virtually all important decisions made for him. He must learn again how to accept responsibility for even such ordinary needs as selecting a tie or ordering a meal.

Sometimes a prisoner within sight of his release is allowed to spend an evening at a hockey game with someone interested in his problem.

Perhaps he is given a weekend out with relatives.

Possibly the most spectacular example of this kind of treatment was accorded to one of the first prisoners experimented with.

A prisoner of the federal penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C., at the time, he had a job during his last two weeks of imprisonment. So he went to work daily from the penitentiary.

His lunchbox was packed in the penitentiary in the morning and after each day's work on the outside he knocked on the penitentiary door for readmittance.

So far the experiment has been tried with prisoners at all eight federal penitentiaries, including some women at Collins Bay, near Kingston.

The women prisoners, especially, it has proven an important preparation for their return to society.

Onion Peeling Brings $400 Fine

TORONTO (CP) — The smell of onions being peeled can be a bothersome thing — especially when tons of them are involved. Magistrate C. A. Thoburn Monday fined William D. Branson, owner of the wholesale fruit and vegetable firm bearing his name, $400 for not heeding a health department order to stop operating an offensive business.

Branson's firm had a contract to peel between five and six tons of onions a day.

Neighboring office workers—William J. Smith and Mrs. Constance McDonnell testified they had to leave their offices at times because the odor was so strong.

MADOC JUNCTION

Eggleton WMS-WA Sponsors Most Successful Bazaar

MADOC JUNCTION — The annual bazaar, under the auspices of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bruce Stapley, with over 100 ladies in attendance.

While the guests were arriving and being seated at the tea tables, soft music was provided by the pianist, Miss Joyce Stapley.

The W.A. president, Mrs. Wm. McMullen and hostess, welcomed the guests and invited them to the tea room.

The dining room was most attractive with its Hallowe'en decorations of orange and black streamers and glowing Jack-O-Lanterns. There were five quartet tables with white luncheon cloths, and each was centred with a lighted orange candle set in a candle holder decorated in orange and black.

Those serving at the tea tables were Mrs. Harold Chambers, Mrs. Gordon Clarke and Mrs. Keith Johnson; while Mrs. Bruce Stapley, Mrs. Munsey Kirkey and Mrs. Sebron Preet were in charge of making the tea and replenishing the trays.

Later all were invited to visit the tables of attractively displayed articles.

Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Maurice Clancy presided at one table of homemade cooking with its lovely display of pies, cookies, tarts, cakes, jars of jam and bags of home-made candy.

Across the room was a long line of pretty aprons, large and small, practical and dainty, made up in a great variety of patterns and at one side of the room was a display of boxes of beautiful Christmas cards on sale for the Mission Band.

Sales were brisk at all the tables and the W.A. treasurer, Mrs. Warren Harlow, reported that proceeds of the bazaar were most gratifying.

The officers and members of Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. wish to thank all those, who attended and also all who assisted in any way to make this bazaar a success.

Says Tests Make Russian A-Bombs More Powerful

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev says Russia "achieved an increase in the power of our nuclear weapons" after resuming tests a month ago.

Khrushchev spoke Monday at a Kremlin meeting in Leningrad where he welcomed a Polish delegation touring Russia, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Khrushchev said Russia honestly wanted an agreement banning nuclear weapon tests for all time. But the United States and Britain were willing to ban tests for only one year, the time needed to co-ordinate the results of their recent "intensive series of tests."

"Then they will start nuclear tests again," he declared.

FEARS SMALL WARS

HALIFAX (CP) — Richard Gould-Adams, vice-chairman of the British Atlantic Committee, said Monday it appears chances for a major war are diminishing while a small war is more likely. He told a closed meeting of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs that conventional ground forces of the Western powers must be maintained if the small wars are to be contained.

Michigan Voters Give Williams Another Term

DETROIT (AP) — Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams was re-elected to an unprecedented sixth term Tuesday and Michigan voters swept out of office the last Republican holding a major statewide elective position.

The Democrats gained complete control of all statewide offices for the first time in Michigan's 121-year history in the winning.

Philip A. Hart, ending his second term as Lieutenant Governor, unseated Republican Senator Charles E. Potter, the last of the GOP in statewide office.

The Democrats also made a dent in the Republican majority in Michigan's congressional delegation.

GOP TO CONGRESS

James O'Hara, an attorney making his first race for public office, nosed out Republican Representative Robert J. McIntosh for the 7th district congressional seat. The victory reduced the Republican majority in Michigan's congressional delegation to 11 to 7 from 12 to 6. All the other congressional victors were incumbents.

William's victory over Republican Paul Bagwell, a Michigan State University professor, was by a narrower gap than previous years. This was attributed to the professor's energetic campaigning in all of Michigan's 83 counties.

STARTING 11TH YEAR

William's was first elected to the two-year term 10 years ago. His trademark of a green polka dot bow tie is almost as well known in Ontario's industrial belt as Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson's blue one—largely because of the Michigan leader's identification with the United Automobile Workers' Union.

In the Michigan elections, the Democrats also made strides in the state legislature, traditionally controlled by Republicans. They appeared headed for victory in six Republican districts which would throw the house into a 55 to 55 deadlock.

The Republicans retained comfortable control of the state Senate.

'Copter Rescues Two Trapped by Fire at Airport

ZAVENTEM, Belgium (CP) — Fire destroyed the heart of Belgium's new $14,000,000 national airport late Tuesday night and set the scene for a dramatic helicopter rescue of people trapped in the control tower. The fire was believed to have started in a small oil stove explosion.

Officials said the helicopter flown over the flames by Sabena Air Line's chief helicopter pilot, Robert Tremerie, saved two persons.

They had been beyond the reach of fire ladders but were brought down safely by the copter.

The property loss apparently was tremendous.

An official said early today the only known casualties were firemen and workers who suffered burns and cuts in rescue work.

An old airport building on the other side of the field in this Brussels suburb has been temporarily put back into operation.

INSPECTION VEHICLE

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways has introduced a new type of rail inspection vehicle—called a "high-rail motor car"—that runs on either road or rails. It looks like an ordinary station wagon. Small rail wheels in front and rear can be lowered to enable the vehicle to run on rails. It can go about 90 miles an hour.

Quemoy Shelling Resumes After 27-Hour Lull

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Artillery fire resumed today in the offshore war after a lull of 27 hours. Red Chinese guns opened up on the Quemoys before dawn. Nationalist batteries returned the fire.

Nationalist headquarters reported the Communists had fired nearly 2,000 shells on the islands by late afternoon. They said the biggest concentration came between 11 and 11:40 a.m., when 948 were counted. That was almost 24 a minute.

There were reports of the continuing Red buildup of mainland positions opposite both Quemoy and Matsu, 150 miles north.

Observers sighted more than 1,500 Communist soldiers working on fortifications in the Quemoy sector and about 1,200 were noted constructing groundworks opposite Matsu.

Five Injured By Explosion in Brantford Store

BRANTFORD (CP)—Four persons and an 18-month-old baby were injured at mid-day Tuesday when an explosion wrecked the Agnew Surgeux shoe store in the downtown section of this city.

Several more persons narrowly escaped injury from flying glass as the explosion shattered windows of the two-storey store on main street.

Police said a new gas furnace was installed in the store Monday and the blast occurred while a gas company employee was checking the gas line.

Mrs. Naomi Caulbeck, who was walking past the store, was taken to hospital with burns to her hands, face and legs and lacerated left hip.

Treated and released were Mrs. Laurelsenta Campbell, also walking past; George Hall and Melvin Gress, who were inside the store, and Suzanne Ferrybred, 18 months who was outside.

Mrs. Campbell suffered a lacerated shoulder. Mr. Gress, store manager, and Mr. Hall, an employee of Jack Sherriff Electric Company Limited, were treated for burns and the baby was cut on the head.

Damage to the shoe store was estimated unofficially at $80,000.

New Zealand May Buy Canadian Sub Hunters

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) — A prospective order for Canadian aircraft for New Zealand defence is expected to be announced soon from Britain.

New Zealand is considering the purchase of Argus aircraft from Canada for submarine hunting, instead of ordering more frigates.

Two modern anti - submarine frigates of the Whitby class are already on order. It was planned to order two more, but action on these has been held up while the use of aircraft instead is investigated.

Each Whitby class frigate costs about £4,000,000 ($10,800,000). Four Argus aircraft could be bought for little more than the price of a single frigate. The government is impressed with the vastly greater area of ocean they could patrol and the saving in manpower involved.

A British company, however, has put forward a proposition to supply a greater number of aircraft at a lower price. A Vickers and Company of England, is offering eight Avro Shackletons at less than the $10,750,000 price of a single frigate or four Argus aircraft.

Although the Canadian machine is much more expensive than the Shackleton, it is being offered to New Zealand on very favorable terms amounting to instalment buying. This is an important consideration to New Zealand.

Pope Pledges To Seek Just, Brotherly Peace

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope John XXIII pledged today to work for a just and brotherly peace and true freedom among peoples during his reign.

The pontiff was addressing representatives of 54 countries and five international organizations in the Consistorial Hall of the Vatican palace. They were the official foreign representatives at his coronation Tuesday.

The Pope recalled that his predecessor, Pius XII, had devoted his pontificate to peace in the world. He said he would follow his example.

Probing Slaying, Police Discover Unconscious Man

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — A brutal slaying took a bizarre twist Tuesday night when police found John Feschuk, an unemployed bushworker, in critical condition 18 hours after his sister - in - law's bludgeoned body was found in a ditch near her home.

Feschuk, who lived with his brother's family in their small frame home in residential northeast Edmonton, was discovered unconscious behind a dilapidated pile of sofa's in a garage. Police said he was injured about the head.

"HOLDING HIS OWN"

Still unconscious early today, hospital officials said he was "holding his own."

Earlier Tuesday, the body of Mrs. Rose Feschuk, 30-year-old mother of four, was found in a gutter 200 yards from her home. Fully clothed, her body was covered with welts, bruises and blood.

Police said it appeared she had been hit by a car.

Her husband William, John's brother, was charged with criminal negligence soon after reporting to police that his wife was missing.

HEARD SCREAMS

William, employed by Northern Alberta Railways, told police he and his children were awakened by screams from the back yard early Tuesday. He said he looked out the window but did not want to get involved.

The children, seven - year - old twin boys, and girls aged eight and 12, said they saw a screaming woman knocked to the ground, kicked and beaten with a club.

Their father said that when he found his wife missing in the morning, he went to the yard and noticed blood stains. Then he called police from a neighbor's home. They found the body. They had not found the weapon, but believe it may have been a club early today.

Police were called after a disturbance at the Feschuk house last Friday and confiscated several firearms.

UN Asks Tests Be Suspended During Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The UN General Assembly Tuesday night overrode Soviet opposition and called on the three nuclear powers to suspend test explosions while Geneva talks on halting them under a control system go on.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, at once accused Britain and the United States of bringing pressure on other delegations to vote for the resolution which, he said: "flagrantly contradicts the interests of peace."

He described the document, adopted by 69 to 6 with 22 abstentions, as a "paper resolution," adding: "Life will pass this resolution by."

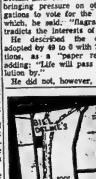
He did not, however, say specifically that the Soviet Union would ignore the November assembly appeal.

Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States rebutted the charge of pressure. He said the majority had expressed their judgment in the light of the "Soviet threat to world peace."

Lodge said Zorin's assertion showed that a Soviet representative could only think in terms of masters and slaves because that was the way Soviet society was organized.

The assembly endorsed three other resolutions submitted to it by the political committee, which completed its long-drawn-out disarmament debate Tuesday:

1. A draft, sponsored by Austria, Japan and Sweden, expressing hope the Geneva conference will be successful.



2. An Indian-Yugoslav resolution throwing the assembly's support behind the Geneva conference on measures for preventing surprise attack.

3. A resolution to expand the commission into a body made up of all 81 UN members with instructions to produce "constructive proposals and recommendations" for the Security Council and assembly, at a special session if necessary.

Members of Television Stone Age Are Still Young Men

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are living in television it is going to be an old medium it's worth remembering that members of its stone age are still young men.

The youngest relic of the medium's primitive era yet surveyed is Ronald Liss, now a CBS-TV production assistant on the Jimmy Dean Show. He is a total of 28 years old, and he remembers away back when in 1945 and 1943.

What was he and what was television doing 15 or 16 years ago?

Well, he was a child actor with a featured role in what was billed as the first full - length play on television. It ran for a half an hour.

The play was an adaptation of William Faulkner's story, "Two Soldiers," and clearly are late television's early days that nobody — including Liss—can remember whether it was presented in 1942 or 1943.

"It was such an important event that we rehearsed for about a month," he said.

"As I recall, everything went off all right — except that, wouldn't you know, a slapstick was caught on camera crossing the screen at a ballgame.

(For those who care about history, another source estimates that there were then about 5,000 TV sets in use.)

For Liss, a young man Liss really is a veteran. He first appeared on radio at the age of 3, reciting nursery rhymes. In his heyday as a child performing prodigy he was heard on the radio programs of Fred Allen, Goodman Ace and Kate Smith—among many others.

For four years Liss divided his time between TV acting and production in Hollywood before returning to New York in 1956.

A few weeks ago, as he passed a television store window, Liss was enjoying a look at his own familiar face on the screen. It was his own.

Since then crew members of the Jimmy Dean Show, who don't know of his acting background, have been telling him about an old television show he appeared in like him. (It seems that most of the show Liss has appeared in are enjoying reruns — though they haven't yet got around to that one done in 1942.)

BCIVS Shades Quinte Senior 'A's' To Capture District Rugby Crown

By ROGER WALTERS

BCIVS Seniors marched to the Bay of Quinte COSSA Senior 'A' football championship Monday as they edged the Quinte Saints 12-7 in a sudden death play-off game on the latter's home grounds.

The most outstanding play of the hard-e hitting encounter took place on the opening kickoff. BCIV Terry Ford aimed a treacherous kick that dropped over the Saints' goodly Trenton fullback, Rickey Locke, received and with some effective blocking by his teammates started on a getting the jump on the onrushing BCI squad. He took off down the sideline, a sprint of over 110 yards, to cross the line well in advance of the nearest opponent. Ron Denyes booted the convert, giving Quinte a seven-nil edge.

BCI's Ralph Boomhower, who proved to be the decisive factor in the victory, led the visiting squad with a hard struggle. Combining with backfielder Don Deacon, the stocky halfback made the first down after another until near the end of the first quarter. Deacon and Boomhower then teamed up on the five and on the next play, Boomhower smashed across. The convert attempt failed and Quinte held their one point lead.

Despite the determined driving of Ron Hull and Rickey Locke Quinte failed to penetrate BCI's solid defensive unit, which was staunchly supported by Terry Kellar and "Slim" Adair. However, Quarterback Ron McBride met with a measure of success as he clicked on several passes to Jack Stewart.

Quinte held their slim lead until early in the final twelve minutes when Boomhower and Gary Newbotham pushed the Saints' end back. Boomhower, aided by the "blocking of Stewart, scampered 10 yards around the end before he was finally subdued on the five. Quarterback Don Masters elected to take the ball across himself and booted the capable blocking of his linemen, scored the winning TD. Quinte was confronted with a much more chance to score when Bob Ross picked off a pass from the QSS junior squad, kicked a 60-yard punt which the Saints recovered on the BCI 35-yard line. However, they fumbled on the next play and BCI's defense contained the play in the remaining three minutes and walked off with the Bay of Quinte Senior "A" championship.

Trenton, Stirling and Madoc Capture Honors in Volleyball

Trenton, Stirling and Madoc captured the major honors in the annual Bay of Quinte District COSSA girls' volleyball jamboree held at the Ontario Street Armouries Saturday.

Twenty-six teams competed in the four divisions with Trenton retaining the championships in both the Junior and Senior 'A' sections. Stirling was victorious in the Senior "B" division while the Junior "B" crown went to Stirling.

The all-Ontario championships will also be held at the OSD on November 22. The above winners will meet while OSD Junior "B's" and Tweed Senior "B's" will also take part, being where they tied the eventual champions in games won before losing.

Trenton teams m e t their strongest opposition from Picton in the "A" divisions, but both the juniors and seniors downed the Prince Edward teams in the final games. Quinte Secondary School also had strong contenders in both senior and Other schools in the "A" divisions were SCIVS and Napanee.

In the Senior "B" five of the eight teams had three victories before Madoc and Tweed finally met in the finals with Madoc taking the championship game.

Junior "B" saw OSD and Stirling tied with four wins each, forcing a playoff which Stirling won.

Play began at two in the afternoon and lasted until late in the evening with well over 50 games being played before the final winners were declared.

Mr. Demeza, superintendent of OSD, presented Madoc with the trophy for winning the Senior "B" championship.

Tuesday Weld Now Candidate For Mantle of Marilyn Monroe

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tuesday Weld, who was born on Thursday and says she's 16 although she's really 15, is Hollywood's latest candidate for the elusive mantle of Marilyn Monroe.

The girl might make it. She has Marilyn's vivid imagination. She is also blonde, with fascinating eyes and a figure and manner that allow her to fudge on her age convincingly.

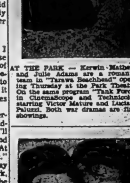
About the name. Her mother, a handsome widow who used to be a model, explained:

"I never really expected to have a girl. We had chosen the name' Rodney, after one of my husband's favorite grandfathers. When a daughter arrived, I could not think of a name. I finally chose Susan so I could get her out of the hospital."

CALLED "TOO-TOO"

"When she was very young, I often called her Too-Too because she is pretty well-developed many of her aspects. Somehow the Too-Too and the Susan combined into Tuesday, and that's the way it has been ever since." How does Tuesday like it?

"I like it," she said. "Certainly I come in for a lot of kidding about my name. I'll see you Thursday, Tuesday' and so forth. But I suppose it's the least it causes people to notice."



Tuesday has a long way to go in 15 years. Born in New York, she started modelling when she was three—she says it was two. After some grammar school in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., she returned to New York for more modelling and TV work. She also appeared briefly on the Top of the Stairs.

She came west to do a Matinee Theatre on TV, and that's how she got an important role in Shirley's Rally Round the Boys. That led to her present role as Debbie Reynolds' daughter in Five Little Pennies. She's now earning $750 a week.

We'll be hearing more from this girl.

JUNIOR "B" HOCKEY

The OHA Eastern Junior "B" League appears to be in excellent shape for the 1951-52 season, which will open in Peterborough on Friday, November 14.

At first it was doubtful if Belleville and Kingston would have teams but after a couple of meetings and plenty of signing, both cities have entered for another season. Other entries are Peterborough Liaton's, last year's group champions, Trenton Lafferty "B's" and Picton.

BRIAN MULVIHILL

The group will play a 24-game schedule with the top four teams entering the playoffs. First place finishers will have their choice of opponents in the semi-final, which, by the way, will be four-of-seven affairs, the same as the finals. George "Red" Sullivan, New York Rangers' captain, who hails from Peterborough, by the way, has donated a beautiful trophy for the group champions — a very nice gesture which should give the kids all the more incentive to play their best.

A full schedule will be drawn up by convener Jack Devine later this week, but will likely be available in a couple of days. Peterborough, as last year's champions, will get the opening home game against Kingston on Friday, November 14. The first game for Belleville Lumber-Rollins will likely be here on Tuesday, November 18 with Peterborough providing the opposition.

Junior "B" hockey is not a money-making proposition and the gentlemen who are running the teams and the loop realize this. Men like Mel Richards, Brian Mulvihill, Charles Lambert and Max Bell, Trenton; Jack Nichols of Kingston; Lou Schmidt of Trenton; Chris Lockyer of Picton, and "Red" Creighton of Peterborough, are giving freely of their time and effort only to provide hockey for the kids. We have missed a few names here, but you get the idea.

Plans were discussed the other evening to have the Hull Junior "A" Canadiens play an exhibition game against this city's Allgrain in Trenton some time next month. Proceeds would be divided among the clubs to help defray travelling costs, and the clubs can sure use the help.

* * *

Belleville and Kingston entries are fighting a losing battle as far as gate receipts go. Kingston must contend with Senior "A" hockey, but Belleville doesn't, but they also have an Intermediate "A" club in the Limestone City. In other words they are third on the list.

Peterborough Liaton's have a strong junior "B" team, but they, too, must play second fiddle to a junior "A" team and one that takes in a strong contender for Memorial Cup honors this year. Trenton will meet opposition at the gate from the Intermediate "A" Flyers, so the juniors must log a good team to draw. Trenton is hockey-happy at the moment, however, with its new arena and all, and so both clubs there should do all right if they have contending clubs.

Chris Lockyer's club at Picton will have the spotlight all to themselves. Intermediate hockey in Prince Edward is out for the year, as indicated at the meeting Monday night that although his team will receive a "C" rating for playdowns, he is sure that his county crew will give the "B" clubs plenty of opposition before the season is over.

Here in Belleville, the Lambert-Rollins should do better after the Macs leave for Europe.

But in the meantime, how about the fans doing their part in keeping junior hockey alive? Many forget that it it were not for the miners and the junior leagues across the country, there would be no NHL, senior and pro hockey. A little support at the gate will not be forgotten. Tickets are low-priced and while the hockey is not the world's best, it is highly competitive and entertaining in most cases.

Coach Mulvihill put the Belleville team through its initial workout the other evening and reported a large turnout, so large in fact, that the ex-senior "B" star shook his head and exclaimed, "If the quality is on the same level with the quantity, we will have a terrific club." The team is practising again tonight at 5.30 and all eligible players are asked to attend. All positions are open at the present time.

Litzenberger Vaults To Top Of NHL Scoring Race

Chicago Black Hawks Move Into Third-Place Tie in NHL With 4-2 Win Over Rangers

By BEN WARD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ed Litzenberger and Ted Sloan of Chicago Black Hawks staged a two-man slugfest Tuesday night that cracked Montreal Canadiens' domination of the National Hockey League scoring race.

They tallied 194-pound Litzenberger vaulted to the top of the heap with two goals and an assist as Hawks defeated New York Rangers 4-2 and moved into a third place tie with Detroit Red Wings.

Sloan, who centres a line with Litzenberger and Ted Lindsay, also picked up three points on a goal and two assists to tie with Maurice and Henri Richard of Montreal for fourth-place scoring honors.

OVE UP ON PACK

Litzenberger now has 16 points, one up on Jean Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion of Canadiens, and heads the league in assists with 11.

It was the second game in a row in which Hawks, who were in a dull slump, won one, but on a rousing performance. They trounced Montreal 5-1 in Montreal Saturday when they overpowered the league-leading Canadiens 4-0.

Hawks moved from 39 to 31 and had a 3-0 goalie midway through the first period before Camille Henry got his fifth goal of the season for the New Yorkers.

LINDSAY STARTED IT

Lindsay scored the only goal of the first period when he picked up his own rebound and hammered a shot behind Rangers' Gump in the Ranger nets. Sloan and Litzenberger connected in the second period and Litzenberger added another in the third.

Dean Prentice scored New York's final goal on a power play when Hawks' Ron Murphy was sitting out a penalty.

It's a quiet week for the teams with games scheduled until Saturday when Hawks play an afternoon game in Detroit and New York Rangers against Canadiens and Bruins against Leafs.

Argonauts Will End Year With Money in Bank

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts were a fog on the scoreboard in the Big Four football union this year, but they were no slouches at the box - office. They'll probably end the 14-game season in the money in the black, up to $60,000.

That is the only cheerful note facing executives as they conduct the post-mortem for the calamitous Argos. The punter, following Argonauts' humiliating 44-7 loss to Montreal Alouettes last Saturday, concerns the status of coach Hamp Pool.

Nothing will be known officially about Pool until the club's management committee of seven meets after Argonauts' final game against the Als at Montreal on Saturday. General manager Lew Hayman is mum on the question.

Hayman also said Argos will be out to vindicate themselves in the eyes of the public in Montreal Saturday.

" Only doubtful starter is Macon Schriewer, who has Argo executives as the club's best passrusher in Saturday's game.

Schriewer, who has a pulled tendon, said he would be able to play. "I got hit early in the game and I came back. It'll be that pretty much for a week to mend."

Half Dick Shatto who aggravated a groin injury and suffered a slight rib separation, will not be able to play, Coach Pool said.

Coach Pool said he will use Phil Munts and Jim Rountree on more offensive running plays and put Dave Mann on defence.

Johnny Unitas Lost to Colts For Four Weeks

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lawrence Gary Kerkorian is trading his briefcase for a football to help Baltimore Colts' attack this year.

It is the second time the former National Football League quarterback has come out of retirement to give the Colts a hand. This time Kerkorian is needed by the loss of Baltimore's brilliant quarterback, Johnny Unitas, for about four weeks.

Unitas, who has led Baltimore to six games and the brink of the top of the western conference, suffered a fractured ankle in the last Sunday's game with Green Bay Packers.

The Colts had confirmed previously that Unitas' injury was only a bruise and that he would be ready for a game against New York Giants on Nov. 19. They had hoped to keep the details secret.

The Colts said they had hoped the Giants would plan their defence against Unitas, then the Colts would use George Shaw.

SHAW STANDOUT

Shaw was a standout Sunday after going in for Unitas in the second quarter with the Colts trailing Green Bay Packers 14-0. He engineered six more touchdowns. Some deceptive signal - calling that kept the Packers off balance.

The Colts presumably will use Shaw against the Giants and hold Kerkorian as an ace card.

Kerkorian, No. 1 Colt quarterback in 1944, was expected to arrive here today from his home in Inglewood, Calif., to discuss terms.

Kerkorian's previous rescue of Baltimore was during the 1950 season when Shaw banged up his knee. Unitas was an untried player from Louisville then.

L. MacPhail Leaves Yankees To Manage Baltimore Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lee MacPhail will take over the general manager's job at baseball's Baltimore Orioles from Paul Richards who "will devote his full attention to managing" the team on the field, it was announced today.

MacPhail succeeds James Keelty Jr., Oriole president, confirmed recent reports that the 41-year-old baseball star would get the position of director of player personnel for the New York Yankees to come to Baltimore.

The son of Larry MacPhail, formerly co-owner of the Dodgers and Brooklyn Dodgers, will take over the duties of his retiring father.

Richards has been both general and field manager since he was hired by the Orioles when they made their White Sox in 1955. He has made practically every decision on signing of new players and trading of them.

Keelty's definition of MacPhail's position set forth a separation of powers.

MacPhail "will have the authority to approve and conclude all major deals and will confer with manager Richards of any contemplated transfers of player personnel," Keelty stated.

"We feel the new arrangement — one in which MacPhail will function as general manager and Richards will devote his full attention to managing—cannot help but be in the best interests of the Orioles."

He added that MacPhail will display competition began in the Franchise Shifts May Result From Minor Ball Meeting

By JOE REICHLER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Franchise shifts, league mergers and other changes affecting the entire minor league structure may result from a special meeting of seven high classification circuits which opened today.

Representatives of 54 teams will sit in on the two-day sessions.

The unprecedented gathering was called by President George Trautman of the National Association at the request of Bill Bewit, baseball co-ordinator and president of the Southern Association league fund.

Bewit will report on his findings during a summer-long survey of the minor league situation.

The seven leagues involved are the Pacific Coast (AAA), American Association (AAA), International (AAA), Southern Association (AA), Texas (AA), South Atlantic (A) and Western (A).

MERGER POSSIBLE

Although no legislative action is expected here, it is Bewitt's belief that several franchise shifts and possibly a league merger may develop after the draft meetings in Washington next month.

"We have learned that several clubs are in favor of becoming affiliated with different league," said Bewitt, "with highly possible that switching of clubs or consolidation of leagues might occur then. Of course, if the minor leagues representatives on hand, many changes could result. Major baseball law, however, they would not become effective until after the draft meeting in December when players' contracts, frozen since Oct. 15, can again be transferred."

Bewitt said he was not at the meeting but that clubs were seeking shifts or which leagues were considering consolidation.

Biltmores Break Teepees Win Streak at Seven

GUELPH (CP) — The mighty have fallen in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit.

Guelph Biltmores, without a win until Tuesday night, engineered the upset by defeating the league-leading St. Catharines Teepees 5-4 to break Teepees' seven - game winning streak.

The win lifted Biltmores out of last place in the standings and put them on the parity in earlier things Thursday when they meet Hamilton Cubs, who now tail the league.

The Biltmores had to struggle for their win as Teepees led 2-1 early in the second. Bilts were still trailing 4-3 going into the third.

Jim Farrelly, just up front the Bilts from Guelph Junior B team, scored for the Biltmores along with Enos Kraft, Bob Cunningham, Dan McGregor and Al Lebrun.

Stan Mikita scored twice for the Teepees and Don Grosso and Pat Stapleton once each.

The first-up Biltmores outshot the visitors 44-33.

Johnny Busso Takes on Tough One in Brown

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown is a 3-to-1 favorite to whip Johnny Busso when they open this city's new Exhibition Hall with a 10-round ring fight tonight.

Brown last fought July 23 when he retained his title in 15 rounds against Kenny Lane in Houston, Tex. He has had 97 fights, winning 71 of them, including 39 by knockouts.

Busso last fought Sept. 19 when he lost a return match to Carlos Ortiz. The Chicago boxer has had 64 fights of which he won 15 by knockouts and ranks sixth nationally.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Although Jockey Bill Hartack's appearance at the New Woodbine Park Friday is causing a stir, the racing secret will be featured by the running of the $7,500 Mohawk Stakes and the $7,500 Tatling Stakes Saturday.

The Tatling is a handicap race for fillies and mares over a mile and an eighth. Among those expected to be entered are Kitty Girl, Untamed, Real Charlaris, Turn Me Loose, Grey Gar and Willow Lake.

Kitty Girl, winner of $46,830 on the Canadian circuit this season, will be hot in the fashion herself after a rather indifferent showing in the $50,000 Canadian Championship Stakes. The four-year-old filly, owned by Larkin Maloney Stable, finished fifth, was second in 14 starts this year and her performance in the Canadian Championship was far below her capability.

The Mohawk stakes will be a run of one mile and a quarter and the possible starters include Our Sirdar, The Schreiber, Culpeper, Fleet Path, Pot Hunter, Noble Roman, Ali's Pride, Berkfield and Grey Monarch.

TORONTO (CP) — A daily double of $647.00 enlivened the afternoon for 5,475 spectators at New Woodbine Tuesday when Memphis Boy and Worthy Admiral won the double's races. There were 41 tickets on the winning combination.

Memphis Boy, owned by H. A. Stettler of Toronto and ridden by Ryan Regalbuto of Calgary, closed stoutly to defeat the favored Thorny Mac and Rich Man in the first race. Memphis Boy paid a handsome $49.60 straight.

Worthy Admiral, owned by Rollis Acres Farm of Toronto and ridden by Dan Rice, took the lead three furlongs from home in the second race and won by open daylight over Scarboro Lad and Colonel Vic. Worthy Admiral paid $26.50 straight.

LONDON (AP)—Chelsea, English League first division soccer team, defeated Prem of Denmark 4-1 Tuesday and qualified for the second round of the European Inter-cities cup.

President of Lions Denies Walker Asked to Coach Club

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Spring, president of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, says Montreal coach Peahead Walker has not been asked to coach Lions next season.

He also denied that Carl Voyles, former coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four union has been asked to become Lions' general manager.

Speculation about Walker and Voyles cropped up in Montreal Tuesday.

Spring said: "To begin with, it would be highly improper to approach Walker without first receiving permission from Montreal to do so. We have not sought that permission or talked to Walker."

The Montreal reports said Walker's services have been sold for an "indirect way" by the Lions. His contract with the Alouettes expires this year.

Spring said, "Nobody representing the Lions has approached Voyles. Nobody with authority has ever talked to him about any possible job here. We were informed some time ago that Voyles was going to make an application for the job with us but up to and as of now we have not heard from him."

He was quoted as saying he would be the best of general manager of the Lions if he wanted it. He was reported to have said that if he accepted he would insist on Frank Filchok, former coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders, becoming his backfield coach. Filchock coached Sarnia Golden Bears of the Ontario Rugby Football Union last season.

Spring said, "Nobody representing the Lions has approached Voyles. Nobody with authority has ever talked to him about any possible job here. We were informed some time ago that Voyles was going to make an application for the job with us but up to and as of now we have not heard from him."

McFarlands Reverse Form To Blank Kingston Merchants 6-0

Score Five in First Period To Tie for Second Place; Dewsbury, Bathgate Star

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Sleeping away with a first-period 5-0 lead, Belleville McFarlands blanked the Kingston Merchants 6-0 before a small crowd here last night in an Ontario Senior "A" fixture and looked full value for their victory.

The win was a timely one for the Macs, who played by far their best game of the present campaign. With the wolves howling at the door, the crowds growing smaller with each loss and a rough three-game weekend coming up, the decisive victory was a must. The two points lifted the Macs into a tie for second place with Hull.

And the Macs left no doubt from the opening whistle when Frank Bathgate scored on the initial play. They got a terrific two-way effort from the giant of the defence, Al Dewsbury, a strong offence throughout led by Bathgate, and excellent goaltending from Gordie Bell, who registered his first shutout of the season.

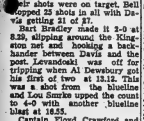
The McFarlands had several lineup changes last night and then once the contest was under way both clubs used a variety of line changes. Moe Benoit and Dave Jongebreur were out of the Mac lineup. Defenceman Floro Goegan, cleared recently from London Ville made his debut and looked good going both ways. The Payette - Menard - Bathgate line stayed together, while Hildebrand played with McMillan and Snarke and Bradley centred Brown and Marineau.

MOVED UP PRONTO

Kingston opened with "Bep" Guidolin on defence but after the first period he was moved to a forward unit with Bellring-er and Topazzini. Coach Gagnon switched his lines around in an attempt to find a productive combination. He sent five forwards into action twice when Belleville was handicapped by penalties but the Macs were not to be defied this one.

Right winger Frank Bathgate Snarke also scored while Jean - spearheaded the Belleville' attack, scoring two goals and assisting on two others. Defence-man Al Dewsbury was just one point back with two goals and an assist. Bert Bradley and Lou Snarke also scored while Jones Paul Payette and Ike Hildebrand had two assists apiece. Goegan and Floyd Crawford earned single helpings.

The first period was very clean with Joe Levandoski getting the lone penalty. It was roughened from then on and overall, referee Red Palmer assessed 11 minors and two majors with the Merchants getting the extra minor. The Macs' Menard, Marineau and Vigor Gendron drew majors for fighting early in the second but both came out of the bout unharmed.



Kingston never had an opportunity to get set when the game opened for Bathgate had given the Macs the lead. Payette took the faceoff, passed to Dewsbury who gave it to the winger. Bathgate's beautiful shot from outside the bluelines fooled Lynn Davis all the way. The clock read nine minutes.

The Macs looked sharp with precision passing and excellent forechecking. Although without the Merchants by only two shots, the Macs on the attack they made every opportunity on the ice, Belleville survived count, while the majority of the Kingston shots were right at Gordie Bell. Bell was in top form all week efforts. This trend of play continued during most of the game with most of the Macs led by Dewsbury, pasting the Merchants both defence and forwards. They missed several other good chances by shooting over the net while the Merchants bobbled a number of easy ones and were rolled by Bell when their shots were on target. Bell dropped 25 shots in all while Davis getting 21 of 27.

Bert Bradley made it 3-0 at 8.30, slipping around the Kingston net and hooking a backhander between Davis and the post. Levandoski was off for tripping when Al Dewsbury got his first of two at 13.12. This was a shot from the bluelines and Lou Snarke upped the count to 4-0 with another blueline blast at 16.55.

Captain Floyd Crawford and Bathgate hooked up for a pretty passing effort in front of the Kingston net to close the period scoring at 19.14. They passed back and forth several times before Bathgate gunned it into the rigging.

Kingston had an edge in play as the middle frame got under way and play became rougher.

"Now which club do I use to get the ball OUT of the hole?"

Marineau and Gendron had just missed with frogs, the penalty box and Gagnon was in for kneeing when Dewsbury scored at 7.27. Davis got a part of the rubber but it trickled by for the 6-0 count.

Goegan got the gate at 19.54 and Kingston rushed five forwards into action as the third period opened. But with Dewsbury still the outstanding player they made every opportunity on the ice, Belleville survived this penalty and three others against danger. Bell kicked away nine shots to Davis' six in the first twenty minutes, earning his shutout. Kingston came close when Hildebrand and McNiff broke off together for roughing at 10.03 and McLellan of the Macs followed for holding at 10.24. The Merchants again pressed five forwards into action when Goegan was caught charging at 15.08, but to no avail.

Sarnia Bears Favored to Beat Dutchmen

SARNIA (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen coach Royal Bailey says the law of averages, if not the odds-makers, favors his club tonight in the opening of a best-of-three final series for the Ontario Rugby Football union senior title.

The Dutchmen are given little chance of regaining the championship from the defending champion Sarnia Golden Bears, his shutout. Kingston came close when Hildebrand and McNiff broke off together for roughing at 10.03 and McLellan of the Macs followed for holding at 10.24. The Merchants again pressed five forwards into action when Goegan was caught charging at 15.08, but to no avail.

Two Russian Colts Take Whirl On Strange Track

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Venezuela's late entry in the $100,000 Washington International was a surprise but two Russian colts raised some eyebrows, too.

Garnir and Zarpad, the Soviet Union's entries in the Nov. 11 turf race, trotted on to the track announced Tuesday after the fourth race. They walked and jogged around the mile track while racing fans gaped. There was light applause.

Both jockeys wore full riding silks. On Garnir and wearing light blue was Nikolia Nastuno, 29 one of Russia's top jockeys. Victor Kovalev, a 22-year-old in his second year of riding, was astride Zarpad in royal blue.

The three - year - old colts are both bays and finished one-two in the Russian Derby.

Also from Venezuela, which swelled the field to 10 for the mile ¼ event on grass, is Escribeno, winner of $50,000 top money in South America's Simon Bolivar Stakes.

Owned by Juan Vidal of Caracas, the dark brown colt will be trying to duplicate the feat of another Venezuelan horse, El Chalan, who won the International three years ago. Escribeno, who was a longshot in Laurel officials because of a recent revolution in Venezuela.

No date has been set for Escribeno's arrival.

Another South American colt, Revoque from Argentina, arrived Tuesday after a three-day plane trip.

Death Recalls Ball Scandal 34 Years Ago

NEW YORK (AP)—The death of Heinie Zand in San Francisco Monday recalls the Jimmy O'Connell scandal that rocked baseball in 1924.

Old fans remember the banishment from baseball of the prize rookie outfielder for New York Giants, but the passage of 34 years has made the incident virtually unknown to the younger generation.

On a Saturday in Philadelphia in September of 1924 the Giants, engaged in a hot fight for the National League pennant with Brooklyn Dodgers, opened a series with the second-division Phillies.

During infield practice O'Connell is said to have approached Sand, then playing shortstop for the Phils, and offered him $500 "just to throw the ball over." The Giants needed to win a game or two to clinch the pennant.

Sand laughed off the incident but that night told his manager, Art Fletcher, John J. Heydler, then president of the National League, was informed. He notified Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Landis quickly held a secret hearing after which Landis announced he had banished O'Connell and Giant coach Cozy Dolan on charges of bribery. This happened Oct. 2, a few days before opening of the world series between the Giants who, meantime, had won the pennant, and Washington Senators.

Some of the proposals he advocated were:

Confiscation of group life insurance benefits for a workman after he retires.

The transfer of pension rights in the case of workers transferred from one job to another, instead of losing the benefits and starting from scratch in the new job.

An insurance plan to help protect every working family in the state against big medical bills.

Like Harriman, he spoke out against "right to work" laws, in favor of continued controls on rents and against any increase in New York city's 15-cent subway fare.

Harriman ran with the Liberal party as well as the Democratic party nomination.

David Dubinsky first-vice chairman of the Liberal party, estimated after the Harriman defeat that about 20,000 to 25,000 Liberals, or eight to 10 per cent of the party's vote, went to Rockefeller.

"A lot of people took their seriously as a liberal and will continue to be one," Dubinsky said. "But I think Mr. Rockefeller will be running things in this state."

He referred to former governor Thomas E. Dewey, who was Harriman's predecessor as governor.

Over Million Lost as Aconic Stock Plunged

TORONTO (CP) — More than $1,000,000 was lost when Aconic Mining Corporation stock plunged a year ago, it was indicated Tuesday at the opening of what is believed to be Ontario's first "wash trading" trial.

Failing four charges of fraud and "wash trading" are Montreal millionaire Joseph Beaudry, former Aconic president, and Clifford R. Butler, one-time business manager of the company.

The $1,000,000 loss by Aconic was indicated by special prosecutor R. F. Wilson. He said that $750,000 was lost in Toronto and Montreal stock exchange activities.

One victim, John Fhoogler, wartime hero of the RCAF's Pathfinder Squadron, lost $200,000 Mr. Wilson said.

The first of an expected 400 witnesses to appear at the trial, William Lyon Somerville, executive vice-president of the Toronto Stock Exchange, testified that the iron mine company's first application for listing by the exchange was refused. Aconic was listed only after certain requirements were met "and the two accused were requested to resign as directors."

"Wash trading" is an artificial trading of shares without change of their ownership to boost stock prices by giving the appearance of heavy trading activity.

European Papers Say Landslide 'Blow to Ike'

LONDON (AP) — European newspapers today reported the Democratic party's sweeping election victory in the United States under big front-page headlines calling it a "landslide against Ike."

Western Europe's major concern appeared to be how all this would affect President Eisenhower.

"Landslide is blow to Ike," said the London Evening Standard, then added in smaller type, "but his man Rockefeller wins in New York."

"It's a landslide against Ike," said the London Evening News.

HEALTHY OUTDOORS

MILVERTON, Ont. (CP)—Richard Coulter, who has just celebrated his 99th birthday, still lives on the farm on which he was born. He spends as much time as possible out of doors, but reads his newspaper and the Bible every day.

MORE DOCKS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first stage has been completed of a new deep-sea dock and warehouse project in Burrard Inlet. The complete work will include two deep-sea berths and two berths for coastal ships.

United Response Needed

As of today it looks as if the United Appeal is going to be a partial failure. Only 48 per cent of the objective of $85,000 has been reached. Only 50 per cent of those who were expected to contribute under the payroll deduction plan have done so. It is discouraging when some citizens who have good jobs and a regular source of income, do not support a vital and a worthwhile cause.

The price of the success of this campaign was so modest, per capita, that its failure is inexcusable. It is not as if we were being asked to donate beyond our means. No great demand has been made on any one person's pocketbook. Some have been asked for ten to twenty cents a week from their pay cheques. Some gave more, too many have given nothing.

Surely a few less cigarets a week, or a couple of tankfuls of gas a year, for example, are not too much of a demand on our way of living to make the United Appeal a success. And one cannot say, surely, that this self denial is too much in order to keep alive the work of those welfare and social agencies which mean so much to our community life!

Other communities, such as Kingston and Brockville, are close to obtaining their United Appeal objectives, if not exceeding them. There is no reason why Belleville cannot do likewise if everyone does his part. Contributions can still be made to Belleville United Appeal, Box 42, Belleville, or through a firm's payroll deduction plan.

After all this community belongs to all of us, not just some of us.

MOTHER AND BABY TRAPPED IN HOUSE BY GAS BLAST DIE

Could Not Be Freed From Wreckage

PALERMO, Ont. (CP) — Four men had to abandon a young mother and her child to fiery death Wednesday night when they were unable to free them from the wreckage of an explosion-shattered house.

Mrs. Roy Skinner, 24, two-months-old Gregory died as they lay trapped under a shattered bed down by the weight of the smashed roof. The men couldn't budge the section of roof and were forced outside by flames.

Firemen blamed a gas line for the explosion, which tore apart the timber frame just outside this community midway between Toronto and Hamilton. The fire followed swiftly.

BLOWN THROUGH ROOF

Roy Skinner, 30, was blown from the basement stairway through the roof. He suffered internal injuries with extensive body burns. A sister of the dead woman, Evelyn Agnew, 18, was found by neighbors wandering the lawn crying hysterically. She suffered severe leg burns.

Neighbor Delbert Dixon, 47, was working in his barn when he heard the explosion. He said he ran out of the barn believing practically fly to pieces. The walls were blown out 30 feet. The roof fell in. The fire started in the air, then crashed back on the ruined building.

Dixon and two brothers-in-law, Cedric and Lloyd Dryden, then Skinner pulling himself up off the ground. The father, despite his burns, insisted on going in with the three men to look for his wife and child.

TOO HEAVY FOR FOUR

Dixon said the debris-weighted chesterfield was too heavy to lift. "There just wasn't enough of us to do it. All this time Mrs. Skinner was with us in case the baby. We stayed with her until the flames drove us out of the building. We couldn't pull either of them out.

"Mrs. Skinner kept crying: 'Save my baby, save my baby.'"

The men stood helpless on the lawn as flames engulfed the two-storey building. The child was in Mrs. Skinner's arms when the bodies were found.

Mrs. Skinner was cooking supper in the lower part of the frame house, which she and her mother owned. It was the blast occurred. It was not known how she received the mortal wound. Her mother was visiting friends in Toronto.

LEAK SUSPECTED

It was believed Mr. Skinner had been looking for the source of a gas leak in the basement and had come up the steps looking for a flashlight when the explosion caught him.

Fire chief J. Peacock said he believed the blast originated with leaking gas. The gas main on the north corner of the street was also blown out.

New Device Designed to Keep Moon Rocket on Trajectory

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force's new moon rocketry which may go aloft early Friday will be equipped with a device designed to correct any deviation from its planned trajectory.

Such a deviation was a key factor in keeping the last moon rocket, fired Oct. 11, from reaching the vicinity of the moon.

But even with the new device chances of success in the coming moon shoot are estimated at no better than 1 in 25.

The new wrinkle is a special modification of the moon rocket's radio system. Its function is to measure every speed if the rocket deviates from its planned trajectory in the early stages of flight.

In the Oct. 11 shot, the rocket began losing speed 15 minutes after launching. It reached a much lower altitude than intended. It had a tougher fight with the earth's gravitational pull, and its ultimate speed fell some 500 miles an hour short of what it needed to reach the vicinity of the moon, some 22,000 miles away.

The new corrective device will ride in the second of the four stages of the rocket. If there is an error in trajectory which, in job would be to delay automatically the cutting off of the second stage's engine until sufficient thrust and velocity had been developed to compensate for the deviation.

The system wouldn't be expected to change the course of the rocket. But the hope would be that the added speed would enable it to zoom its instrumented payload to a point in space where the gravity of the moon might take over.

The forthcoming shot is the third of three assigned to the air force as part of the International Geophysical Year program. The first failed on Aug. 17, failed when the launching rocket exploded after 77 seconds of flight.

NIXON WILL TRY TO REJUVENATE REPUBLICANS

Put Accent on Youth Said to Be His Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon is taking charge of efforts to rejuvenate the disorganized Republican party. He is likely to put the accent on youth in doing so.

Although Nixon won't bear any official designation as party commander, President Eisenhower obviously is stepping out of the way in his second man direct the drive. Its aim is to lift the party back into contention in the 1960 presidential election in the shattering defeat in Tuesday's congressional elections.

At his press conference Wednesday, Eisenhower endorsed Nixon's plan for party members to start now to campaign for 1960. The action appeared to have a hardly needed go-ahead to the vice-president to take over the political thrust. As a presidential prospect, Nixon has a personal interest there.

HEAVY LOSSES

Returns showed the Republicans lost 16 Senate seats, while gaining none, were ousted from House of representative seats while recovering only one seat. Democrats grabbed and suffered a net loss of 13 governorships, counting one still open to upset.

The Democrats increased their margin of Senate control to 62 to 34 from 49 to 47 and that in the House to one short of two to one, 280. One side or the other will win Wednesday in one of the official canvass in Illinois determines whether Republican representative Sidney R. Yates will defeat Democrat George E. Shipley won. The prize minister, in New Brunswick hinges on a count of mail ballots, which could upset the official count of Premier Hugh John Flemming's Conservative majority of 1,000 votes. Premier Leslie M. Frost of Ontario and Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba were returned with Conservative majorities.

SEEKS YOUNG MEN

Looking toward 1960, Nixon is expected to bear down in attempts to get attractive, youthful candidates for congressional, gubernatorial and state offices as a means of helping the party's ticket. He was privately less than enthusiastic about the calibre of some of the candidates who would be campaigned this year.

Nixon also is expected some influence to bear toward reshaping of some of the administration's policies.

Staggering Republican losses in the farm belt could contribute to some change in farm policies, despite Eisenhower's prediction that the Democratic victories "do not signify a program of tapering off government aid to farmers will go along unchanged.

Only Four Bodies Remain In Crushed Mine Colliery

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (CP)—Four bodies remain in the mine crushed No. 2 colliery and they were considered safe.

Seventy - four miners were killed in the tremendous underground upheaval in the mine Oct. 23. One hundred were rescued. In after days and nights trapped underground, in the worst Canadian coal mining disaster since 88 men died at Stellarton, N.S., in the 1920s.

Rescuers worked around the clock seeking on their bellies to reach the last five miners still trapped in a sewer pipe.

Most of the last 34 bodies removed were located at the point where the force of the bump was intercepted. Progress was slow.

Relatives gave up waiting at the pithead. Deputy Coal Chief Harold Gordon returned to the pits Monday after a two-day rest to review conditions. He emerged to announce there was no life.

As the last chapter of the disaster were being written, the town's 900 jobless miners ac-mark.

cepted relief aid and wondered where the next pay cheque is coming from. There is no work. Springhill Mines Limited, the firm will not re-open. Many miners have large families and winter isn't far away.

Last Wednesday all hope was abandoned for the 39 men trapped. Then 12 miners, black with coal dust, but delightfully healthy, were located in a pocket a hundred feet down after 6½ days. Twelve days later two bodies were discovered alive. Only bodies have come up since.

Meanwhile in Toronto, Mayor Ralph Gilroy of Springhill was scheduled to address a $100-a-plate dinner tonight sponsored by the Toronto Association for the Relief Fund over the $700,000

Israeli Troops Clash With UAR Army at Border

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israeli army headquarters announced that an armed clash broke out this afternoon between troops of the United Arab Republic and Israel at Israel Force north of the Sea of Galilee.

Syria's border with Israel runs north of the Sea of Galilee.

For several days Egyptian newspapers have carried stories alleging Israel is preparing to attack the west bank of the River Jordan following the withdrawal of British troops from Jordan. The reports said U.A.R. armies were ready to go into action at a moment's notice.

Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion last Monday denied Egyptian and Soviet reports of "transportation operations" and "hostile and baseless slanders."

Israeli army headquarter said the clash today with advance posts of the U.A.R.'s Syrian zone.

A first communique said shooting had been fired by the Syrian posts on Israeli farmers planting with their tractors in the south west corner of the reclaimed lands of Lake Hula.

A tractor came under rifle and machine-gun fire at about 2 p.m. (7 a.m. E.S.T.) Israeli covering party returned the fire.

Trade Deficit Climbs Sharply In September

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports and imports both declined in September and the trade deficit for the month rose slightly, but the gap was still narrower than the first nine months of the year.

September's exports dipped by $98,500,000 to $397,500,000 from August's record high of $496,000,000 but increased shipments to the United States failed to offset declines in shipments to Britain and some other countries, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Imports for the month dropped by $21,900,000 to $433,500,000 from $445,300,000 last year with most of the decline showing in purchases from the U.S. and some Commonwealth countries.

The January-September nine-month trade picture showed sharper contrasts with exports down $1,000,000 to $3,503,000,000 but a big drop in imports—mostly with the U.S.—to $4,000,000 in the Canadian trade deficit to $197,800,000 from the high of $959,500,000 a year ago.

Prepared to Deal With 45 Requests To Go to Russia

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia and federal governments are prepared to deal as quickly as possible with 45 applications received from Sons of Freedom Doukhobors asking for assistance in moving to Russia, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

The applications were received from the group's leaders and the government agents and federal officers by Sept. 30. No other applications have been received by the governments, although Doukhobors say they have 5,000 of them.

Implementation of the assistance offer is conditional upon advice that the Soviet Union will accept the Doukhobors as immigrants, Mr. Bonner said.

Canada Opposes Control Of NATO By Trumvirate

Diefenbaker Comments On de Gaulle's Plan

GROS TENQUIN, France (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, arriving today at this Canadian NATO air base, said emphatically that Canada would not accept any plan for a "triumpirate of authority" to make political or other decisions for NATO.

At a press conference here, one day after his Paris talks with Premier de Gaulle, he was asked for his opinion on what the gaullisionet called de Gaulle's suggestion to set up a "directorate" of global policy-making made up of the NATO big three of France, England and the United States.

The prime minister said he has not seen the text of de Gaulle's letters to Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

Canada would always welcome consideration of any change that would improve NATO activities.

"But we could not accept any plan, if suggested, at any time which would have the effect of creating a triumvirate or authority for the making of political or other decisions for NATO.

"NATO is a partnership, a common constitution by member nations and any alteration in that constitution would require a revoking of the structure of NATO—something I am sure no one would desire to bring about."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had no official canvass in Illinois determines whether Republican representative Sidney R. Yates will defeat Democrat George E. Shipley won.

The prime minister, in New Brunswick hinges on a count of mail ballots, which could upset the official count of Premier Hugh John Flemming's Conservative majority of 1,000 votes. Premier Leslie M. Frost of Ontario and Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba were returned with Conservative majorities.

Cuban Airliner Believed Seized By Rebel Agents

Plane With 28 Aboard Vanishes in East

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — A Cuban airliner carrying 26 persons vanished in eastern Cuba Wednesday night and was presumed to have been seized in flight by rebel agents.

Two other Cubana Airline planes have been diverted to flight since Oct. 30 by rebel gunmen posing as passengers. One crashed, killing 17 of the 20 persons aboard.

Aboard the 25 passengers aboard the DC-3 that disappeared this time were 10 women and an American believed to be a salesman flying to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

The plane carried a crew of three: Pilot Armando Cabrera Acosta - diving champion of Cuba, co-pilot Rafael Noble and steward Amando Castillo, son of the military chief of Oriente Province.

OVER EASTERN AREA

The plane was on a flight from Havana to Guantanamo, with stops at Camaguey, Santiago and Holguin in Oriente province, the stronghold of activity by rebels led by Fidel Castro. The plane left Manzanillo at 4:30 p.m. but never arrived at Holguin 70 miles to the northeast.

Meanwhile, government soldiers hold Holguin, rebel bands are active throughout the area.

Rebels have launched upon a systematic campaign to disrupt transportation in an effort to overthrow President Fulgencio Batista's regime. Castro also controls Pinar del Rio province in the west.

Pope John Holds Jovial Audience With Reporters

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII received 500 representatives of the world press in a jovial special audience today and urged them to write truthfully.

The Pope chuckled as he commented on reporters' efforts to dig into the secrets of the conclave that elected him the 262nd pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church on Oct. 28.

"The efforts of the press have been formidable, but the silence of the conclave has been even better, said the 76-year-old pontiff.

SPOKE WITHOUT NOTES

Seated on the throne in the Vatican's apse in rapid French, Pope John spoke ill rapid French, without notes, and with considerably less formality than his predecessor, Pope Pius XII, used in his audience for the press. Frequently he looked up from the microphone and smiled broadly at his listeners.

"I am still a novice at this job of universal broadcast, he said, using the familiar first person singular that is the "we popes normally use.

"I will confess to you, he confessed with a smile that reading as I do all the newspaper, even the Osservatore Romano, all those stories about myself . . . and those allegedly revealing secrets of the conclave put me in a truly good mood for the entire day.

CRITICIZED ADVICE

The Pope criticized articles that "can be construed as advice to us on how to run things. You must remember that we stick to the traditions and rules of the church.

The Pope said he hoped his listeners would not feel insulted at his urging them to report truthfully.

Today's Chuckle

"Not all women give most of their waking thoughts to the problem of pleasing men. Some are married.

World's Only Flock of Greater Snow Geese Slashed by Weather

ST. JOACHIM, Que. (CP)—It was biologists' opinion that the "accident of nature" has slashed in half the world's only flock of the greater snow goose.

Perhaps, they said, it was a combination of bad, freezing-up in June and an early fall that contributed to the heavy losses.

Biologist Louis Lemieux of Quebec City, who two years ago went to the Arctic to establish where their nesting grounds are located, reported that the birds prefer marshy areas to the rocks of the tundra. He said they will take weeks before the photographs are developed and a fairly exact count established.

Mr. Lemieux, in preliminary observations, Mr. Lemieux says it appears clear that the young in the flock are "very few."

His observations have been confirmed by hunters who this year reported kills far lower than in past seasons.

The birds can be hunted legally in this area between Sept. 6 and Nov. 15. They are peculiarly a hunting ban in the United States.

Standby Forces Proposal Shelved

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) A plan for standby UN forces to meet international crises quickly was shelved Wednesday in the General Assembly's special political committee.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had introduced his suggestion of last month that the UN should have principles under which he could get troops from member governments quickly for use in "emergencies."

He said his report on the UN's experience with its Middle East Emergency Force, which set forth the principles, was merely informative. He added that the best time to consider the principles would be when a situation arose calling for UN troops.

Fake OPP Officer Sends Montreal Police Bustling on Phoney Manhunt

MONTREAL (CP)—Dozens of police officers were sent scurrying Wednesday on a wild man-hunt for a missing Ottawa bank teller.

Police branded the episode a hoax but denied speculation that they, or a caller who identified himself as Inspector Osborne, had been behind it.

Johnston, he said, had broken free, but had been shot in the leg as he fled across a parking lot.

More squad cars went screaming to the area. But searching officers failed to find Johnston—or the inspector. But they reasoned the latter might be in difficulty.

William Fitzpatrick, assistant chief of detectives, started searching flshy and telephoned OPP headquarters in Toronto. The OPP knew nothing of any Inspector Osborne. The squad cars were recalled.

"I am satisfied the whole thing was a fantasy," said Mr. Fitzpatrick.

"There was no shooting, no escape, and the whole thing was a hoax."

Men Marooned On Ice Island Await Rescue

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Twenty-one men, marooned when a violent storm tore loose their Arctic Ocean ice island in two, awaited rescue today as polar bears prowled their floating prison.

The Alaskan Air Command, ready to make its rescue move as soon as the storm abates, said the 21 men on the island's two 900-foot aircraft runway was on the other half of the mile-long, mile-wide island.

KETCHESON FAMILY HISTORY BOOK NOW IN PRODUCTION

Early this week a lengthy period of research made more difficult through scarcity of family Bibles and other official records, was brought to a close when the publication committee charged with the production of a genealogical history of the Ketcheson family in Canada turned over to the printing firm selected the manuscript and other material.

The 70-page book will be produced by what is known as photo-reprt, or offset lithography process marking a publication on a par with modern books.

The publishers have given assurance that the books will be ready for mailing before the end of this month.

The slight difference between the cost per book and amounts subscribed by family members and descendants has enabled the committee to increase the printing order to provide for a few extra copies to meet those who forgot to mail in their order by the deadline set.

Proposed New Shopping Area In East End Fully Discussed

Plans for a proposed shopping area in the East Bellesville area to be anaexed to the city which would include a supermarket and seven or eight other stores of various sizes, were discussed last night at the city hall.

Attending the meeting were members of the Bellesville and Suburban Planning Commission, the city planning committee and representatives of the Elmore Construction Company of Hamilton, who would develop the area.

Reports emanating from the meeting were that the advanced planning board was in favor of the development scheme as presented by the Hamilton construction firm while the city planning committee with its planning consultant, Mr. S. Venchiarutti of Toronto, would refer their area a somewhat different and more elaborate scheme proceeded with.

As the area planned for development is still in Township that township has the right to issue a building permit, although after a 30-day strike, application for such permit has yet been made.

Stores would front on Dundas St. and would be served by a service road running north from Dundas St. It is understood that approval for the service road to enter onto Dundas St. has already been given by the highways department.

On the other hand, the plan favored by the city planning committee and also by Mr. Venchiarutti, would call for a larger commercial area extending all the way from Dundas to Bridge St. with stores to front along the service road instead of on Dundas St.

Mayor Gerald Hyde said that apparently development plans were still in the preliminary stage and that the land was still only under option for purchase.

He said Charlton township would be within its rights in granting a building permit for the shopping centre at the proposed location.

Reeve Alfred Wickett of Thurlow, while not committing himself on his approval or disapproval of a shopping centre on the proposed site, said that a shopping centre would be convenience for residents in the southwestern part of his township. Also a shopping centre would tend to relieve a congested traffic situation in the downtown area.

As of January 1st the area proposed for the shopping centre will become part of the city.

Construction Industry Ready To Roll Again

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's $150,000,000 construction industry was ready to roll in high gear today after a 26-day strike.

Cement Masons Union and the Joint Labor Builders' Executive reached agreement Wednesday on a wage increase and shift premiums.

The cement masons had demanded $2.50 an hour and premium eight major construction sites after 36 other unions accepted a two-week arbitration by the exchange Monday.

The joint statement Wednesday night said contract terms call for wage increases totalling 45 cents over spread over a three-year period and time and a half for work after 7 p.m. The Masons' previous hourly rate was $2.17.

The agreement calls for an immediate increase of 15 cents an hour, October 1 cents May 1, 1959, 10 cents May 1, 1960, and five cents Nov. 1, 1960.

The masons agreed to return to work today pending ratification of the terms.

The 150-member masons' union struck over shift premiums. The 21 contractors in the builders' exchange announced a lockout Sept. 25 after other unions observed picket lines. An estimated 20,000 men were made idle.

Three other unions at odds with the exchange but not on strike — the carpenters, rodmen and operating engineers — settled during the lockout and returned to work Monday.

'Jamie' Clark, Famed Piper In City, Dies

Many a war veteran will have an unaccountable lump in his throat and an unashamed tear in his eye today.

"Wee Jamie" Clark, one of the best-known, best-loved veterans of three wars and resident of this city for many years, passed away early this Thursday in the Bellesville General Hospital.

The lovable little Scotsman, who had been ailing during the last four years of his long and colorful life, was in his 81st year.

From his earliest boyhood, Jamie was militarily and kilties-minded. Born, so to speak, wi' dirk and sporran" he never missed the opportunity to wear his beloved kilts. He had, perhaps, one of the most colorful arrays of highland uniforms, military and civil, of any person in the country.

Not the least of his highland achievements was Jamie's remarkable piping, and in his younger days, dancing ability. He was the pipe major of the Argyll Light Infantry Regiment for a number of years and he skirled many a pibroch in the stirring days of his calling.

TOURED WORLD

At the turn of the century he toured the world, visiting some 30 countries with the famous Bellesville Kilties Band under the supervision of the late Colonel Gordon City. Later he toured the United States for the same band, and in the 1914-18 war, was a member of the then-famed Albert Johnstone Dancers and this unit toured with the band.

His fame as a piper grew far and wide. He was in heavy demand. The short figure, large of girth but bursting with highland hebilimenta pacing to and fro in front of the line of march was a familiar one at many a banquet, party, city and country function, no matter where people gathered. Jamie's lament for his friend lunsell Bowes is many a fellow war veteran at graveside.

Since his retirement from active service did Jamie forget his regiment, the Kilties, or military. He was a member of practically all non-commissioned officers' messes in the district, while he was often a special guest in officers' messes.

HEADED MANY MARCHES

At an advanced age he swung along at the head of his band, Veterans of Foreign Wars and World War II. He trained with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at Picton, and headed many an early morning route march home.

Jamie had a winsome personality which endeared him to all friends. It is extremely doubtful if he had an enemy. He was of a generous nature and his happiness stemmed from seeing with people, and being beloved. Of a consistently good nature, Jamie was never gloomy and he had a rich sense of dry humor which was in evidence all the time.

Never overblessed with the material things of life, one of Jamie's last moments came a few years ago when war veterans and other friends raised funds to send him on a holiday to his native Scotland. This was a gesture, and an experience Jamie never forgot. The highlight of the trip was the reunion with his family, and specially with a brother he had not seen for fifty years, and whom he thought dead.

BORN IN SCOTLAND

Jamie was born in Dundee, Scotland where he first gained fame as a piper and entertainer. When the Bellesville Kilties Band played there, Jamie's artistry drew the attention of Tom Preaor who immediately attached Jamie to his organization. Later Jamie came to Bellesville where he had resided to the time of his demise.

Four years prior to his death he had been resident of the Hastings Manor.

The Quinte Piper Band, with which he played for years will pay final tribute to its former pipe major. Members of the ANAF Branch 201, to which he belonged, will be the active bearers.

Wants to Fight Duel With Monty

ROME (Reuters)—A politician today challenged Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery to a duel and the Italian Government lodged a formal protest against the British soldier's harsh criticism of Italian troop behavior in the Second World War.

Right-wing politician Vincenzo Caputo, president of the Italian Nationalist party, said the retired field marshal "defamed the honor of Italy's fighting men" in his memoirs.

Amid the uproar, Italian Premier Adolfo Zerbi de Parfadi instructed the Italian ambassador in London to make diplomatic representation to Britain about "injurious aspersions cast upon the quality of our soldiers."

SEEKS BAN ON COATS

An Italian royalist, Renato Marmiroli, demanded in a letter to Parfadi today that, "Montgomeries" — the Continental name for British - styled duffle coats — should be banned. He said he would personally box the ears of any youth he find wearing one and urged his soldier friends to tear the garment off all young people.

Long Trial Over, Sommers, Gray Await Sentences

By H.L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Sommers, 47 - year - old former bonds and forests minister of British Columbia, and timber firm executive H. Wilson Gray today awaited sentence for conspiracy and bribery.

Also up for sentence before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson was Gray's firms, Pacific Coast Services Limited and Evergreen Lumber Sales, also convicted on the same charges.

For the firms it probably will mean a fine and for the men jail terms—but how much is subject to legal interpretation between the old and the new criminal codes of Canada. The indictment which brought their conviction was switched from one to the old code halfway through the trial. Mr. Justice Wilson was to hear arguments from counsel on the question.

MAY HIT BC REGIME

This was the 80th day Canada's longest criminal trial, one that has seen dramatic testimony, legal tangles and other complications and one that may have political repercussions in Social Credit British Columbia. Political observers have linked the prosecution of Premier W. A. C. Bennett's government.

But it is not to be this last for the case. Appeals are expected for Charles Schultz, 54, his timber engineering firm of the same name, and Harold Gray, brother of Wilson and a Pacific official, there will be the trials of The jury could not able to agree in some cases.

The jury of nine men and three women who pondered millions of words of evidence and a mountain of documentary evidence brought in its first of the day Wednesday and were discharged from the case it took May 1.

Last Schultz and Sommers, Wilson Gray, 46-year-old father of six children, and his firms of conspiracy, acquitting the giant west coast timber concern of B. C. Forest Products Limited, but reaching no agreement in the case of Schultz and his firm or John Gray.

BRIBERY PHASES

Dealing basically with the bribery phases of the case, it convicted Sommers on five of seven counts, conspiracy on two; convicted Wilson Gray on eight of 10, disagreed on two; found Schultz and his firm not guilty on four of nine bribery counts, disagreed on two and acquitted John Gray on two or four counts, disagreed on two.

The verdicts in the case of the companies in favor of B. C. Pacific and guilty on eight of nine bribery counts with a disagreement on the remaining two; convicted Wilson Gray on eight of 10, disagreed on two; found Schultz and his firm not guilty on four of nine bribery counts, disagreed on two and acquitted John Gray on two or four counts, disagreed on two.

The verdicts in the case of the companies in favor of B. C. Pacific guilty on eight of nine bribery counts with a disagreement on the remaining two; Pacific Coast Services Limited, but reaching no agreement in the case of Schultz and his firm or John Gray.

Justice Wilson commended the jury for a "tremendous job be said probably would have stumped a third-year law student. He criticized a 35-a-day jury duty payment as "almost disgraceful" Ontario and in an unprotected action announced:

"It is my intention to recommend to the government, who, I hope will give it sympathetic consideration, that you should even-if it requires a special statute, get a substantial honorarium grant.

(In Victoria Attorney-General Robert Bonner indicated the government will act on the jurist's recommendation.)

Mr. Justice Wilson said he could not comment on the verdicts. But "what you (the jurors) have done is sufficient to establish that the process of justice still functions in this country, that a Canadian jury can be trusted to deal with the most complicated evidence, the most difficult law and reach a decision."

The Crown alleged that more than $18,000 was involved in the bribery-conspiracy and that thousands of dollars went to Sommers' brother-in-law, Ernest Fairey, and Coperland.

QUIT CABINET

Sommers resigned as lands minister in 1956 after evidence had been laid before the Attorney-General through former Pacific bookkeeper Charles W. Evers-field, who became chief prosecution witness in the case.

Sommers' status as social credit member for the legislature for Rossland-Trail appeared unsettled following the verdicts.

It was reported earlier this week that he automatically was dropped as the seat, when convicted.

However, Mr. Bonner said in Victoria Sommers still legally holds his seat. A study of obscure points of law indicated the charges concerned were technically misdemeanors and not felonies or infamous crimes, which would have resulted in automatic forfeit.

Gordon Dowding, CCF legislature member for Burnaby, challenged Mr. Bonner's ruling.

One report from Victoria said it appears the government expects Sommers' resignation.

Bowmanville-Orono Combines Down Trenton Flyers 8-2

TRENTON — The Trenton Flyers lost their second game of the season last night when the Bowmanville-Orono Combines downed them 8-2 in a regular Eastern Ontario Intermediate "A" game. The Trenton boys had played their first game to the Napanee Comets 11-4 on Monday night in Napanee. Last night's game was played in the Community Centre here, before a crowd of about 300 fans.

The Combines took the lead at the four-minute mark of the first period when playing coach Sid Arnold made a penalty shot pay off. His teammate, Art Renick, slapped in an unassisted goal at 8:17 to give the visitors a lead they never lost during the game. Goaltender Bob Brooks managed to pass from Joe Scott to give the home team their only counter for the first period.

In the second stanza the Combines again played the scoring role with Copeland getting the first goal on a hat-trick in the 3.10 mark. Trenton scored two minutes later, when Bill Foster sank one from Jack Hooper and Bob Brooks. It turned out to be the only goal for the home team although they had several tough breaks around the goal of the Combines. Coach Arnold's three goals in the last half of the second period added another two more in the third.

Gary Copeland had the big goal for the Combines getting three goals and Sid Arnold pacing his fifth game with three goals and two assists. Art Rennick also made a fine showing and a couple, to round out the Combines scoring, went to Ted Dempsey.

GIVEN SEVEN PENALTIES

Trenton players made seven trips to the sin bin for minor penalties, two for 10-minute misconducts and three up over penalty shots on their goal. The penalty shot came in the first period, when Ron Hawe was given his stick along the ice at a Combines player. Hawe was on a clear path to the Flyers' goalie.

The Combine players made their penalty shots count for on minor offences. Two of the Flyers' penalties were within seconds of one another but the Trenton squad failed to click on the power play as the opposing team was two men short.

Ron Hawe played an outstanding game in the twine for the Flyers, while Bill Foster was back aiding on his shoulder on some of his saves he rolled from the puck from the Flyers.

Legion Budget Fully Discussed By Executive

TRENTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Branch No. 110 executive committee was held in the Board Room of the Trenton Legion Memorial Hall on Monday evening, with President J. J. Farrell in the chair and 11 boards officers present.

The report of the 1959 budget committee, explained by Comrade L. C. "Harry Devonshire, budget finance chairman, was discussed at considerable length and will be studied by each executive before presentation to the annual general meeting of the branch in January.

In the absence of Secretary Max J. Ellis, correspondence at the previous meetings were read by Treasurer W. J. B. McLean, entertainment chairman, and branch financial report for October.

Vice-President J. Horace Ketcheson reported on the visit of 43 Trenton Legionnaires to the Buffalo Post of the American Legion on Monday evening, at which a very enjoyable time was had by all concerned.

Membership Chairman Carman Livingstone informed the committee that the membership ship would exceed the target of 1,100 at the next meeting of the branch, scheduled for Monday evening, November 17, at which time the membership card will be $60.

It was decided that due to the considerable financial obligation facing the branch this win, Lt. it would not be possible to sponsor local juvenile hockey, as previously planned.

Beaded Leader Evasive About Going to Russia

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says Stefan Sorokin, spiritual leader of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect, is undecided and evasive about whether he will go to Russia with other Doukhobors.

In the second of a series of articles from Uruguay by Simma Milner Holt, the bearded leader is quoted as saying first, in anger, that he will go, and lates, that he will not go.

The 2,500-odd Sons of Freedom have been offered free passage to help to move to Russia. Wrangling by the Sons' leaders here has prevented many members from the plan.

Mrs. Holt said she learned that Sorokin made no effort in five years to help his people immigrate to Uruguay, neighbor state of the Sons. Instead, he had acquired permanent residence papers and was living in luxury.

Sorokin has accepted as his Sons' spiritual leader in 1952. Then he left them, supposedly to find them a homeland in South America.

He has been there ever since except for a brief visit he made here in 1953.

Mrs. Holt said Sorokin became angry when she quizzed him about his obligations to Canada's Sons of Freedom.

She wrote: "He laughed out loud when I asked him if they thought as the. Doukhobors did, that he was sent by God."

His reply: "They are stupid."

Sorokin was quoted as saying he was originally opposed to the Freedomites going to Russia, but now he is letting them do what they want. He claimed 3,000 would go.

Stelco Furnaces Come to Life At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Furnaces roared back to life at Canada's biggest steel plant Wednesday night as key workers began resuming production lines at the Steel Company of Canada after an 8-week shutdown.

Stelco officials said it will be another week before full shifts are called back and steel begins to roll from stamping-presses.

The formal call for workers came when nearly 6,000 of the 16,000 employees at Stelco voted Wednesday to accept an agreement drawn up Tuesday by negotiators after nearly two weeks of bargaining.

Although some rank - and - file members hooted and jeered at union leaders urging acceptance of the terms, the vote was 81 per cent in favor.

The contract provides a package increase of 27.8 cents an hour spread over three years. There is an immediate wage increase of five cents an hour, effective from Sunday, Aug. 1, 1959, and 10 cents Aug. 1, 1960. Vacations, holidays, shift premiums and job classification increments of four cents make up the rest of the deal.

Main complaint by hecklers at the union meeting was over the small initial wage increase which they said was pre-strike and a sham.

But Larry Sefton, district director for the steelworkers, told the meeting the union "won the strike over" and called the settlement a reasonable one.

Guy Fawkes Day Celebrations Get Out of Hand

LONDON (AP)—Guy Fawkes celebrations got completely out of hand Wednesday night since he tried to blow up Parliament 353 years ago.

Children of all ages ever since have celebrated the event with an annual barrage of firecrackers and backyard bonfires on which to burn effigies of Fawkes.

Celebrations this year got more than somewhat out of hand.

In Trafalgar Square more than 50 persons were arrested during a violent firecracker riot that took more than 100 Bobbies two hours to end.

In nearby Paddington a firecracker exploded in the face, if not door, landed on a pile of fireworks and exploded the lot. The house burned out.

In suburban Hampstead police said 20 persons were arrested for fireworks and chanting rock 'n' roll.

At Lewes in Sussex County 63 people were arrested for explosives offenses, police said.

The traditional custom of burning an effigy of Guy Fawkes, who reigned at the time of the pro-Catholic gunpowder conspiracy, also flourished. There were running fights between rival factions.

In Glasgow, Scotland, youths rampaged through a street in the south coast resort of Bournemouth, smashing windows with bricks and milk bottles, attacking police and firemen. Boys —many with Teddy Boy ducktail haircuts and Edwardian clothes —dragged barricades across streets to stop cars and buses.

Thousands thronged the streets in the university towns of Oxford and Cambridge, before cars were overturned, more people hurt.

In Glasgow, Scotland's Tom Kelly said it the worst Guy Fawkes night in memory. An 11-year-old boy was killed when he tried to retrieve a firework from under the stands. Fifty people under the stands. Fifty people were burned in other incidents.

Families fled from their homes when a motorcycle was set on fire. Flying gasoline threatened a row of houses.

The national fire safety code said at least 300 injured, and scores and thousands of pounds damages.

Churchill Gets Kisses, Medal From de Gaulle

PARIS (CP) — Premier de Gaulle kissed and Winston Churchill on both cheeks today and invested him the Cross of Liberation, the highest decoration of the wartime Free French movement.

The medal is in the shape of de Gaulle's personal symbol, the Cross of Lorraine. Referring to the French leader's priceless generosity and demands on behalf of France, Churchill once said the Cross of Lorraine was the heaviest cross he had to bear during the war.

Their relations mellowed by the passing of time, the 83-year-old Britain and the 66-year-old French premier greeted each other warmly today at the premier's official residence, the Hotel Matignon. It was their first meeting in 14 years, since the 1944 Armistice Day celebration in Paris.

ENGLISH TIES TIME

Following the presentation in the courtyard, Churchill replied in a 20-minute speech in English. He remarked that during the war he had spoken in French but saw no reason to subject the French people to such treatment in peacetime.

Churchill flew up from a Riviera vacation. He was to fly on to London later today with Lady Churchill, who preceded him by air to Paris.

Churchill is the 1,054th recipient of the Liberation Cross and is one of the few foreigners to wear it. De Gaulle awarded the decoration in Brazzaville during the dark days of 1940 for services to Free France. The decoration, which is neither peace nor war,

Hungarian Girls Rejoin Parents

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two young girls clutching dolls ran down an aircraft ramp at Windsor airport today into the arms of parents they had last seen during the freedom fighting in Budapest nearly two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Berbanyay eluded the border patrols and slipped with their family to escape Russian retribution for their part in the uprising. Living in hiding at the Budapest home of their grandmother, daughters Gabrielle, 9, and Katalin, 8.

"Five times the government refused to let them out," said Mrs. Berbanyay, who is continuing his engineering studies at Assumption University. "We got in touch with a Hungarian politician and he helped to get permission. The sixth time they said 'yes', and here they are."

Of Liberation has only 638 members still living, and Churchill's medal is the first presented since 1946.

SYMBOL OF SOUL

Churchill described de Gaulle as "the symbol of the soul of France" and emphasized his new responsibilities as premier in peacetime.

"The problems which confront us are no less important than our struggle for survival 18 years ago," Britain's wartime premier-minister said. "Indeed, in some ways they may be more complicated. For there is at this time no clear-cut objective of victory in our sight.

"It is harder to arouse even enough fervor and allow the vitality of purpose amidst the perplexities of the world problems which is neither peace nor war."

THE U.S. ELECTION AND 1960

We have always felt that the most interesting -- and most confusing -- phase of any election was the post-mortem.

It is the interpretation of results, and the endeavor to use them as a guide for predictions about future trends, which give an election its fullest meaning.

This is doubly true of Tuesday's election in the U.S. because the results in no way change the Republican executive control of that country for the next two years and merely strengthen the legislative control which the Democrats had already enjoyed.

Thus the most important factor about the election is the effect which it will have on the presidential election in 1960, when the executive control will be at stake and when there will be a good chance that the victorious presidential candidate will carry many candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives into office with him, so that for two years at least the other of the two major parties may be firmly in the saddle.

Wednesday's Associated Press report of the results said that they "put on record Eisenhower's steady decline in influence." This, we think, is obviously true, but as the Associated Press despatch suggests this is not a new development.

More important than what the returns indicate about Eisenhower's influence are what they suggest about the prospects of rivals for the position of the party's presidential candidate in 1960. Although President Eisenhower took a very active part in the campaign than has been his custom, it was Vice-President Richard Nixon who spearheaded the Republican forces. Their defeat is certainly a blow to his aspirations, but he may perhaps take comfort from the fact that many of his rivals in the party also suffered.

There was one notable exception. By defeating Averill Harriman for governor of New York State, Nelson Rockefeller jumped into the limelight as a possible presidential choice by the Republican party. It is interesting to note that he entered the fray as a "liberal" Republican, which may indeed have been a major factor in helping him to cut down the Democratic lead in New York State, but that he could win on the votes of traditionally Republican upstate New York. It is questionable, though, whether this "liberalism" would be an asset in many normally Republican areas in the north. It the south it would certainly be a handicap.

Democratic fortunes in 1960 may depend on how well the party is able to overcome the anti-personality Governor Faubus had an easy time winning re-election in Arkansas, as expected. Another easy winner, in Massachusetts, was the liberal-minded Senator John Kenndy, a strong possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 if religious prejudice does not lead Democrats to refrain from nominating a Roman Catholic. Can the Democrats continue indefinitely to retain in the same fold men with such widely differing outlooks?

LAUGHTER A HANDICAP?

Last Saturday the Montreal Alouettes defeated Toronto Argonauts 44-7.

This loss made it certain that the Argos will not participate in the Big Four playdowns.

It was a particularly bitter pill for Argo supporters to swallow, because they had just been pushed back from the Slough of Despond by the good right arm of Quarterback Ronnie Knox. The return trip was doubly dismal.

On the other hand, the Alouettes' fans were exuberant. The exuberance even bubbled over onto the usually staid pages of the Montreal Gazette, which reported with evident glee that one of the Argo players had laughed in the dressing room - - before the game. Coach Hamp Pool overheard the laugh and was disturbed.

The Montreal Gazette reports: "I don't like that," Pool growled. "This is no laughing matter. I'll bet you players won't be laughing a couple of hours from now".

We are prepared to admit that, to a professional coach and to professional athletes, games are no laughing matter - - any more than getting out a newspaper is a laughing matter to us here at The Ontario Intelligencer.

So far, though, nobody has suggested that a laugh before the start of the day's work is likely to jeopardize the success of our labors.

Soldiers have laughed before a battle - - and fought none the less bravely for that fact.

Not that lone laugh, but the fact that it was considered unusual may have been a factor in the Argos' downfall.

THE DIFFERENCE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A maiden with a pretty face
Is welcome anywhere;
No door is shut she cannot ope,
Her life is on a pleasant slope,
With rock-bound hills she need not cope,
That is, if she is fair.

But man, though handsome as can be,
Must always fight his way;
A beauty will not let him in,
Nor aid him, in his race to win,

For no one ever cares a pin
For handsome men today.

The maiden fair enjoys a life
That's ever bright and sunny;
With beauty are her conquests
made.
But man, the weary, worn-out blade,
Must earn in work and learn a trade--
Unless he has the money.

Trend Aids Sly Father

Wall Street Journal

Bettering Business Women's Week was observed recently, and Miss Bertha Adkins, the Under Secretary of Labor for Education and Welfare, had some things to say about what's going on.

More and more, Miss Adkins said with a gleam in her eye, this trend is getting to be a woman's world, as if we didn't know. The gentler sex now holds such occupations locomotive engineers, boiler-makers and stevedores. There are 12,000,000 ladies about this land who protect us men. But while they're moving into men's jobs that's not the half of it.

They're also moving men into women's jobs, Miss Adkins warned, actually floating as she told workingwomen about this in a speech in Washington, but she didn't try to hide her statistics. And the statistics show that more and more men are wearing the dishes, doing the washing and ironing and sitting with baby while Mother bridges. Social meetings, Men, she noted, are proud of their wives' accomplishments.

Well, it won't argue with the statistics, because the wave of the future is the future, so let's ask. But let the ladies not think that some of the men don't know what it's going on. Many a husband's learned to adjust to the accommodations.

For example, one sly father we know pointed out that if the lady of the house really is interested in the progress of the civic meetings, why mowing the lawn, washing the car and the other little heavy odd jobs about the house are just the thing for it, and he'll gladly turn around and do the dishes.

Then some sneaky character, while his wife is busy writing Miss Adkins about what women ought to accomplish next, goes down to the supermarket to buy what he thinks lady's getting a couple of cold ones on the way.

And while Mother is busy reorganizing the ladies' auxiliary to the civic meetings, this scoundrel baby-sits quietly, if somewhat unwillingly, at home, showing Junior how to clean a gun, adjust an outboard motor and rearrange a model railroad's system. To top it all, our man now gets two nights a week out because his wife has been so much around the house.

He's quite proud of his wife's accomplishments, Miss Adkins. But in this changing world of the battle of the sexes, we must confess that we sort of admire h i s, too.

Tattoo Artist's Memoirs

Pembroke Observer

Like most people, we had always believed that the custom of tattoo artists were confined to sailors, soldiers, and election bet losers. Now we learn that a u c h persons as Lord Montgomery, King Edward VII a n d Georges V, Princess Ann of Norway and Winston Churchill's mother all felt the punch of the tattoo needle.

The information comes from a fascinating book, Memoirs of a Tattooist, by George Burchett, a London, Eng., man who died at 80 in 1954. He was known in the trade as king of the tattooists.

Edward VII, he wrote, h a d many fine tattoos, few of which would have amused his mother, Queen Victoria. Montgomery bore a "rather frivolous" little butterfly in the right forearm, and Lady Randolph Churchill wore several dainty tattoos.

The author wrote that there were many reasons given for people wanting tattoos, ranging from patriotism the most common. Sometimes tattooing stars was purely music hall star who asked to have the initials of her lover, J. P. Lindsay, put on her chest. A few months later she had it r e m o v e d, and applied instead the initials of Mr. L. Burchett wrote: "Over 30 years I have been through the hands of a lady who had her own lady's backside." As for patriotism, the author's career ended when the backbeaded man who had a full-color portrait of the king in field marshal's uniform, with the Union Jack in the background, pricked his big arse.

Among others recalled by Burchett were the man who could not read, write, and had a permanent five-o'clock shadow added; the sallow bank clerk who on retirement asked for a permanent tan so that he could feel proud into believing he was an ex-sailor; the soldier who had a dotted line tattooed around his neck with the words: "Cut along the dotted line"; the man who was to fall down stairs and die of a broken neck; the Countess of Norfolk, hampered by a prominent red nose which many regarded as the sign of a drinker, who found success when his problem was removed by a tattooist's efforts. There was the wealthy business man, fond of good food, who wanted his favorite dinner tattooed on his stomach. As the customer's wife would not give consent, Burchett did the job in five weeks, complete with roast duck, steamed vegetables, potatoes and desserts. One day the client escaped from his wife long enough to order a steak. There was the beautiful woman, fond of good food, who wanted a tattoo of a pig on her

Annexed Area Ratepayers Discuss City Assessments

Ratepayers from the annexed area around the City packed the Parkdale Community Centre on Tuesday evening to hear City officials speak on Utilities and assessments. The meeting was convened by the Ratepayers' Associations of College Hill, Parkdale and South Thurlow following the receipt of City assessment notices during the past week. Increases in assessment of up to 40% had been reported to the Associations and the taxpayers of the areas concerned were seething with discontent.

The large audience was welcomed to the Parkdale Community Centre by Mr. Mike Tomaso, president of the Parkdale Association, who then called upon Mr. Stuart Martin of the South Thurlow Association to be chairman for the evening.

Mr. Martin expressed pleasure at so large an attendance at a meeting which had been called at short notice. He then introduced Harry Rollins, chairman of the Belleville Utilities Commission, who spoke briefly on the functioning of the Commission. Mr. Rollins introduced F. L. Burnham and O. H. Scott, the latter then addressing the meeting on the subjects of electric power and water.

LOWEST IN ONTARIO

The Belleville Utilities Commission purchase electric power from the Ontario Hydro at cost, then retails it to City consumers at a rate which is one of the lowest in Ontario. Mr. Scott quoted figures prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in support of his claims. Township consumers, on the other hand, are supplied direct by the Ontario Hydro at much higher rates, billing and collection only being carried out by the Belleville Utilities Commission. In the City consumers pay 1.6c each for the first 60 Kilowatt hours and 0.8c each for the remainder used. Mr. Scott then gave the following comparison between the Belleville and rural rates for various monthly consumptions:

	Belleville	Rural
100 K.W.H.	$1.56	$3.37
300 K.W.H.	$2.70	$7.45
500 K.W.H.	$4.14	$10.15

METERS RETAINED

On the subject of water, Mr. Scott told his audience that meters would be retained and that rates would be established to create an equable cost with present City consumers. It is his desire to meter water to all consumers in Belleville. The cost of water would not show such a great saving as would electricity. The present Township minimum bill of approximately $24 for the year would be reduced to approximately $30.

In answer to questions Mr. Scott said that billing in future would be every two months, as this had been found most acceptable to both the consumer and the Commission. He urged consumers to make use of the flat rate for water heating as this was the cheapest method of heating water in Ontario.

On the subject of sewage rates Mr. Scott could not enlighten the questioner except for the fact that the present sewer rental charge would be discontinued.

Mr. L. Thompson, the City Assessor, next introduced the members of his Department, — Messrs. Cliff Matthews, Jack Cain, Ron Bailey and Bill Brown.

DID NOT USE MANUAL

At the commencement of his talk Mr. Thompson stated categorically that he did not use the manual of assessment issued by the Provincial Assessment Department. Furthermore, neither the Court of Revision nor the County Judge in the past had countenanced any appeal based on his failure to use this manual. The method used was based on that established in 1939, which assessed on the value of the property at that date.

Mr. Thompson acknowledged that this method was antiquated and that he favored a complete re-assessment of the City on a periodic basis. However, City Council had not seen fit to authorize such a re-assessment, which could cost upwards of $60,000. The annexed areas had been assessed on present-day values, while the older parts of the City had been assessed on 1940 values.

Mr. Thompson said that his department had been asked, as part of a province-wide study, to assess a typical story-and-one-half house of 720 square feet. He assessed it at $5500, whilst other assessments were: Woodstock $4,550; Brantford $5,345; Cornwall $3,720, and Guelph $4,265.

However, the mill rates in all these municipalities were much lower than in Belleville so that the tax on the house, which is the assessment multiplied by the mill-rate, was lower than in Belleville in most cases.

BOUNDARIES OUTLINED

The ward boundaries in the city and the annexed area had been redrawn and voters were urged to study these boundaries, also to make sure that their names are on the electoral roll.

A lively question period followed Mr. Thompson's talk. He explained the differences in assessment on similar houses due to location, availability of services and depreciation. "The assessors are human and can make mistakes," said Mr. Thompson, and he urged everyone with a grievance or query to fill in the form at the bottom of the assessment notice. One of the assessors would then contact the person concerned and, failing an amicable agreement, the case would come before the Court of Revision.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Jack Sproule of College Hill proposed a vote of thanks to the officials for the able way in which they had explained the work of their respective departments and for giving freely of their spare time in the interests of the prospective citizens of Belleville.

Police Charge 2 With Murder in Woman's Death

EDMONTON (CP)—Police have charged two men with murder in the slaying Tuesday of Mrs. Rose Feschuk, 30, whose body was found in a gutter near her northwest home.

William Feschuk, her husband, was charged Wednesday with murder. He originally was held on a charge of criminal negligence.

Feschuk's older brother, John, 46, an unemployed bushworker, was charged with murder after being discovered unconscious behind a debris-piled sofa in a garage.

He was treated for head injuries and possible effects of poison.

William is a railroad employee and John has been living for two years at William's home.

Police found a two-foot, blood-stained club in the Feschuk yard.

The woman's husband was taken into custody after statements were taken from the couple's four children — twins aged seven, two girls, eight and 12.

The children told of hearing screams in the yard during the night and leading out to see their mother being beaten and kicked by a man.

Youths Steal Two Mailbags

STONEY POINT, Ont. (CP)—Two youths grabbed two mailbags Wednesday night from a railway station platform in this community 25 miles east of Windsor and eluded a mail carrier who chased their old-model car.

The carrier, Herman Cormier, 42, said the mail was picked up from surrounding districts and piled on the platform to await a train to Windsor. He said the youths made off with the bags while he was parking his truce.

Good Reading For Boys, Girls Object of Week

TORONTO (CP)—Organized by the Canadian Libraries Association, Young Canada Book Week this year is being held Nov. 13-22.

The aim of the week, being observed for the 10th year, is to bring to the attention of adults the importance of good reading for boys and girls.

"Reading is one of the greatest joys of life," says Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusop, patroness of Book Week this year. "When we help children to become interested in books we are laying the opportunity to secure for themselves that priceless heritage."

The Canadian Library Association seeks to promote literary quality in children's books and medals are offered annually for the best books in English and French.

Books for juveniles by Canadian authors have increased in recent years and reports from librarians in the country indicate increased borrowings by junior readers.

Jean Thomson, head of Boys and Girls Division of Toronto Public Libraries — the largest junior library in Canada—says television has stimulated children's reading interest.

But, she says, more care is needed in selection of programs for youngsters.

"If a television program arouses a child's interest in a subject, he will pursue it by reading about it," she said. "But children's TV programs do not make the use they should of book material—they should dramatize more books as Alice Eyre of Lorna Doone calibre."

Miss Thomson is organizing display and talks for children's libraries in Toronto in connection with Young Canada Book Week.

Major Problem To Oldsters Is Loneliness

CALGARY (CP) — Old people who seek the services of social workers have one outstanding problem in common—they are lonely.

Gertrude Landau of New York, director of a community centre for the aged, says human beings who have nothing to occupy their time become ill. This, she says, is the major problem among old people.

She describes the work of day centres such as the one she manages as preventive programs to help people stay mentally well.

"Many older people need something to substitute for their losses."

A geriatric consultant, she says that while not all our leaders are older people "the rank and file—the strongest, the cranky man—may be still as capable as in younger years but have no opportunity to practise their skills."

St. Thomas' Parochial Guild Bazaar, Tea Most Successful

A beautiful afternoon ushered in an equally lovely bazaar and tea held yesterday in St. Thomas' Parish House under the auspices of St. Thomas' Parochial Guild, with many taking advantage of the fine opportunity to add to their Christmas purchases.

The bazaar and tea was officially opened by the rector, Canon A. S. McConnell, who thanked the Guild for the splendid display on which they had worked so diligently during the year, and wished them every success. He also extended a "thank-you" to the many persons who were present, and wished them a most pleasant afternoon.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector, and Mrs. H. H. Murray, president of the Guild; while taking the tickets at the door beside a lovely bouquet of burnished bronze mums was the treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Stone.

BOWER OF BLOOMS

The auditorium, a bower of colorful chrysanthemums which adorned the windows of the room, and forth from tall, white, stadiaards placed at intervals around the room and hall, also were the many booths making a further pleasing display of color with their attractive displays.

The homecooking booth was presided over by a beautiful supply of good things; homemade fruit cakes; mincemeat; hot-cross buns; individual pies of pumpkin and apple and good sized pies of the same; fruit cakes; tea-cloth-cut loaves; chocolate drop cakes; date and walnut squares; cocoanut snowballs; angel cakes; chocolate layer cakes-nut topped; lemon tarts; fruit confections; short breads; marmalades; potato salad; fruit cocktail; pickles and pickles of many kinds. The tea guest tables also adhered to this simplicity with their one colored spray of greenery and glistening little globe of blue.

ATTRACTIVE SIMPLICITY

The long tea table also accented the note of attractive simplicity with its white damask cloth and centrepiece of branching silver candelabra with tall, blue candles, flanked by silver cornucopias with the silver service of either end. African violets; ivy; tree - like cactus; and potted parsley, as well as containers of cut flowers, mostly mums, and carnations.

The spruce had all above all to themselves, and hanging from rushes were large red small aprons in all colors of the rainbow; prints, factory cotton, and organdy holding the spotlight, while on another rack were children's dresses and quilts useful. Mrs. H. Winters, Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Mrs. R. Young and Mrs. H. Richards were the saleslades.

Soft, Lofty Hats Blend With Clothes

The soft and lofty look prevails in fall millinery, and among the many interesting models on this look are costume-completing hats for each of the season's most silhouettes. Textures, colors and trimmings add to the effect of made-for-each-other luxury.

The soft slouch hat makes a perfect costume mate for the new walking suits, while the lofty, high-crowned fedora is particularly effective with easy, long-jacketed suits.

Casual tailoring of fall suits hats echoes the casual lines of the unfitted suit jacket. Textures and colors also match clothing, with wool jersey, mohair and other "heather" woolens, iridescent effects, bold plaids, buttons, bows and leather trimmings making style harmony easy to achieve.

The feminine and the blouson, millinners suggest bouffant, ballooning skirts and tight, neatly-rounded cloches and turbans.

Fluffy, long-napped fabrics, bouffant brims and long-haired furs make these blousest hats cloud soft and light looking.

With the increasing importance of glass costume jewelry, fur hats become more appealing than ever, every luxury fur variety of pelt from sable, chinchilla and mink to broadtail, caracul, leopard and a wealth of novelty furs.

Wig hats, a summer favorite, play a return engagement for fall. Beautiful plumage in stained glass colorings, feathers, color combinations makes attractive bed evening wear. Fur wigs are also fast on fashionable.

Appearing in fashion, along with the trend to high-waisted dresses and coats, are tall-crowned bonnets inspired by Napoleon's era. Inflated pillboxes, soaring turbans and high hats with brims that curve, reaching or ruffled brims are designed to fit comfortably over tiny chignons and clusters of curls worn Empire-fashion on the crown of the head.

The colors of fall hats are as exciting as the fashions they serve, like tones and color combinations as vivid as those of stained glass are favorites, while all blacks are a striking contrast to the color-drenched autumn palette.

ARRANGING PLATES

Arranging plates: Mesdames J. E. Mazine, E. V. Goddard, T. H. Kelly, L. Probert, John Watson, A. Acerra, F. Lancaster, Georgia Bonin, B. Keilett and Harry Taylor.

The tea room conveners were: Mrs. G. M. Miller, Mrs. T. F. Wrenshall, and Mrs. L. A. Kelly, and the overall convener, Mrs. N. C. Fisher, to all of whom appreciative thanks are tendered for a delightfully planned tea and bazaar, most successfully culminated.

St. Michael's Sodality Sponsors Annual Fall Fashion Show

The latest, up-to-the-minute fall and winter fashions for all occasions were shown at the annual Fall Fashion Show, sponsored by the Sodality of Our Lady, of St. Michael the Archangel parish.

Near capacity audience was on hand for the breathtaking fashion preview held on Monday in St. Michael's Academy auditorium.

Theme for the two-hour show which featured everything from casual suits to formal evening gowns, was "Fashions for Everybody" and the commentator, Mrs. E. Johnston, the show got off to a good start with introduction to the "bride-to-be" and her "mother."

The first part of the show was devoted to lovely sheer night attire, ranging from formal gowns, afternoon and after dark ensembles and evening gowns.

Undoubtedly the highlight of the show was an elegant jade green cotton faille dress, a French import by Rene, which drew gasps from the crowd. The dress, for evening wear, featured a low slash neckline, straight skirt, and was lined in matching taffeta and caught in the back by a tiny bow. When the cape was unbuttoned however, it became a rustling taffeta back panel, to the complete surprise of the audience.

Another lovely French import was the Blossom dress, a purple green pure silk chiffon, it featured a fitted bodice, rounded neckline and long sleeves and carried a white, white and silver spray of yellow roser.

The Chinese look is gaining prominence in fur jackets this year. These shown at last night's show featured slits on either side of the jacket.

The latest in clutch style cases this year feature pockets at each end and many were modelled at the colorful fashion preview.

The junior members of the audience were not left out, for in the second part of the show the latest in fashions for tots and teens were previewed by three charming junior models.

A real scene stealer who captivated the audience was little Jo Ann Allard, four-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allard. The little miss modelled a pretty rose velvet dress with cotton lace trim, featuring a short full skirt over crinolines, for her first appearance.

Another popular junior model was fair-haired Peter McCabe, who modelled the latest in boys' fashions for fall and winter.

Teen-age fashions, among them a blue wool coat with silver mink collar, were modelled by Miss Connie Moore.

During intermission Miss Josephine Massaro entertained with two vocal selections, "Gypsy Love Song," and "Tammy." She was accompanied by Miss Patsy Pigden. Miss Pigden provided appropriate piano music during the entire show.

The show concluded with a lovely finale featuring the "wedding party" the beautiful bride and her four attendants — during the "nuie" to the strains of the "Wedding March."

The narrator, standing at back of the auditorium, moved from side to side to call each dress across the ramp to the stage where an "altar" had been set up.

The "bride" wore the latest in bridal attire — floor length gown of white slipper satin over taffeta, featuring a bustle back and small train. Fitted bodice in rose petal moire, with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves completed the outfit. Her elbow length veil was held in place by a tiara of orange blossoms and she carried a white, white and silver spray of yellow roser.

WEE WOMEN

Her "attendants" were blue lerina dresses of deep turquoise taffeta, featuring V-necklines and bouffant skirts, and accented by yellow feather hats. They carried nosegay bouquets of yellow and white mums.

The "mother of the bride" was gowned in a slim fitting white silk lace over taffeta, featuring low cut V-neckline ending in sash in back, and three-quarter length sleeves, and accented by rust colored accessories.

Models were: Mrs Jo Gist, Mrs. Barbara Brown, Miss Barbara Chapelle, Miss Winn Mahoney, Miss Jeanne Lowery, Miss Marnie Black, Miss Margaret Rose, Miss Carolyn Forhan and Miss Cathy Cowley, and junior models little Jo Ann Ellard, Peter McCabe and Miss Connie Moore.

Ushers were: Miss Theresa Pitt, Miss June Day, Miss Donna Lee, and Miss Patsy Finnegan.

All the clothes for the show were supplied by Rachesl's, furs and hats by Woodley Furriers, jewellery by O'Connor's Jewellery, fine fashions by Mrs 'N Teens, and furnishings for the stage by Barrett's Home Furnishings. Hair styles of the models were by Capri Beauty Salon. Floral decorations and bridal bouquets and corsages, were supplied by Dimplet's Flower Shop.

A draw was held during intermission and the winners are as follows: Miss Evelyn Coulter, $50, gift certificate from Rachesl's; Joe Ann Bunton, a gift from Rachesl's; Margaret McLaverty, 13, gift certificate donated by O'Connor's Jewel Box; Mrs. Pat Baldwin, $10 gift donated by Tots 'N Teens; a $10 gift certificate donated by Woodley's was won by m. 361.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP

Popular people are people who "like people . . . and show them that they do. . . .

WHEN DIFFERENT MIDDLE NAME FOR SON . . . NO "JR."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have a baby soon, and if it is a boy, I want very much to name him after his father. About this I need your help. My husband's name (let's say) is Robert Anthony Delafield. If the baby's middle name is other than "Anthony, would we still be able to use the suffix "Jr. after the name? Or does the name have to be exactly like the father's name in order to use it?

It is only when the sons name is exactly like the fathers name . . . the middle name as well as the first name . . . that "Jr. is used after the sons name. (When the son is given a middle name that is different from his father's middle name, the suffix is used after the sons name.)

CHILDREN AS ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) Is a 10-year-old girl too old to be a flower girl? (2) Is a 5-year-old boy too young to be a ring-bearer? (3) How many in attire of the children attendants?

— Bride-to-be

(1) A 10-year-old girl is really too old to be a flower girl. At this age she usually is asked to be a junior bridesmaid, walking alone in the processional, following the ushers and preceding the adult bridesmaids. (2) No . . . just the right age for a ring-bearer or page. (3) The parents of a child attendant are expected to pay for her or his attire.

WHEN PERSON SPEAKS IN TOO-LOW OR INDISTINCT VOICE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When someone speaks in such a low or indistinct voice that I can't understand what he or she is saying, how can I politely ask the person to speak louder?

— Reader

With all possible courtesy in your manner, say, "I'm so sorry . . . I didn't hear." Adding the name is an excellent idea: "I'm so sorry, Elizabeth . . . I didn't hear what you said."

SEATING FOUR AT TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I invite only one couple to dinner, I'm never quite sure what is the correct way to seat our guests. How, please? — C. M.

You, the hostess, sit at the head of the table. Your husband, t h e host, sits opposite you. To your husband's right, the woman guest. At your right, the man guest.

THE HOSTESS SHOULD NOT BE SERVED FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine insists that nowadays it is considered correct to serve the hostess first. True or not true? — Katherine . . .

Not true. The rule has not been changed "nowadays." The hostess should never be served first . . . except when she is the only adult woman at the table.

IS IT PROPER TO POSTPONE RECEPTION UNTIL AFTER HONEYMOON?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married in about six months, and we are considering possible plans for our wedding. My parents cannot afford the expense of a large, formal church wedding, so we have decided on a small church wedding that will cost as little as possible. We thought we might just be married with only the members of our immediate families present, and then after we return from our honeymoon, Mother thought it would be nice to give a reception and dance in our honor. Would this be a proper thing to do? — L.

I hope you will plan to have a church wedding, no matter how small and how informal. Of course it would be entirely proper for you to invite only the members of the two families. The expense for such a wedding would be extremely small, but it could be an inspiring and memorable spiritual occasion. Then you may have no reception, or a small reception, inviting a few relatives and intimate friends to your home or perhaps to the church social rooms or some other convenient place. Or if you prefer, it would be quite proper for your mother to give a reception and dance when you return from the wedding trip. However, I don't understand the reason for not giving a reception directly following the ceremony, since the expense would be the same whichever time the reception is given.

American Artistry

By ALICE ALDEN

The shirt-dress, young and casual, is beloved by certain designers who have made it their own. One such creator was the late Claire McCardell, who designed for Townley and whose clothes were real Americana. One of her last designs is this typical shirt-dress of gray wool jersey. Slot seaming and a bow define the yoked high bosom about a buttoned front closing.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Elizabeth G. — The children should know about our financial problems.

Michael G. — They should feel Dad can take care of everything.

Elizabeth G. — My husband and I are having a big controversy about what to tell our children about certain financial problems we are now having.

Several months ago my husband went into a rash venture which now seems on the verge of collapse. As I see it now, unless some miracle happens within the next few months, we are going to lose everything including our home.

The children, who are 8, 10, 13 and 14, are used to having the best of everything and I think we'd better start getting them accustomed to the idea that they'll have to do without a lot of things. Even now, we should be economizing much more than we are. My husband thinks we should say nothing unless we have to. I would rather not break it on them suddenly.

Michael G. — Liz always thinks in the blackest possible terms. She has seen doom twice before and yet I've been able to pull my cat out of the fire. I may yet be able to do the miraculous. Why upset the children when it may not be necessary?

I feel that a sense of security is the most important thing in the world to kids. They should feel that their Dad can take care of everything. They'll have enough of their own troubles when they grow up.

Another factor Liz doesn't consider is what this thing does to my moral. I realize I've made a mess of this particular venture. It doesn't do me any good to let my children know that I am incompetent. It won't make much difference in the long run if we spend more than we should now.

The Council — We agree that a sense of security is a very fine thing for children, but we doubt whether lies or evasions will help them to get it.

Children gain a sense of security from learning that they and their parents can cope with events — both good and bad. It does them no good to be told that "Dad can take care of everything" and then learn that it isn't the case at all. It does them no harm to know that Dad sometimes makes errors and that he could even be conquered by superior forces. It is a fact of life highly stimulating to children to know that they share their parents' problems in adversity and can make some contribution toward improving things.

We also feel, however, that Elizabeth and Michael ought to face their own problems in a more mature manner before presenting them to the children. Elizabeth's way of seeing things is "the blackest possible terms" and Michael's view of himself as "incompetent" should not be transmitted to the children. These are not facts but emotional overtones. The children should know only the facts — that there have been business problems and that they may have to adjust to a comedown in their standard of living.

Party Help

by Mary Moore

The tempo of party-giving is increasing every week. It's "Mary what will we serve?" or "S.O.S., Mary — how much have do I buy for fifty?" etc.

eyes — OR in advance on the morning of the party. This recipe serves eight but you can reduce it by one half to serve four if you are having just one couple in to play bridge.

SEAFOOD SUPREME: This can be made —and wonderfully so—with any shellfish that swims in the seas. Four tablespoons each of butter and flour, 1 tall can (1 lb.) evaporated milk, 2 cups water, 3 cups canned lobster, shrimp or crab meat, 1 can (6-oz.) size button mushrooms, ½ teaspoon Tabasco (optional), ¾ teaspoon nutmeg. Melt butter. Add flour, stir to a smooth paste. Add evaporated milk and water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in seafood, mushrooms, Tabasco and nutmeg; add salt to taste. Heat to serving temperature. Serve in patty shells.

The Brazil Cherry Loaf is beautiful, slices best after 24 hours — and keeps for a week if well-wrapped and refrigerated. So you see it is excellent for lunches and makes a lovely gift for a sick friend.

BRAZIL CHERRY LOAF — One cup very finely chopped Brazil nuts, ½ cup finely chopped candied cherries, ¾ cup finely chopped candied pineapple, 3 egg whites, ¾ cup sugar, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2/3 cups sugar, ½ cup softened shortening, 2/3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring.

Prepare nuts and fruit; reserve. Beat egg whites on high speed of electric beater until foamy. Add ¼ cup sugar gradually, beating until soft peaks are formed. In another bowl sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; add shortening, milk and flavoring; beat 1 minute at low speed. Add egg whites and beat 2 minutes longer. Fold in nuts and fruit. Turn into a greased and wax-paper-lined loaf pan. Bake 65 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Let stand in pan for 15 minutes. Remove from pan. Cool before slicing.

TELLS OF NIGHTMARE WEEK UNDERGROUND

Most harrowing of the experiences suffered by the miners trapped underground at Springhill, N.S., was that of Barney Martin, shown with his wife and son, Robert, 15. He was buried in a shallow grave unable to move more than a few inches and for a week tried to claw his way out. He had no food or water and remained in the one cramped position the space allowed. Alone in the darkness, he lost all track of time.

RAWDON

United Church Observes Anniversary

RAWDON — On Sunday, November 2, the 87th anniversary of Mount Pleasant Rawdon United Church was commemorated.

The edifice was adorned with large baskets of chrysanthemums, as a memorial tribute.

Worshippers attended from all near-by points and several came home for this special occasion. There was a capacity audience for both services.

Mr. Harold Stobbart of Ivanhoe circuit was in charge. In the morning he based his message on "Faith" and stressed that all the Scripture is given to mankind for the edifying and upbuilding of Christian character. He urged that the Scripture passages be learned correctly and quoted properly. He said that those who possess an active faith are thus able to inspire hope, faith, and courage in others.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver officiated at the console of the new Hammond electric organ which was recently installed in the church, financed by the balance of a legacy left the church in 1953 by the late George F. Young. The organist chose "Quietude," and "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," and "True Hearted," for special numbers.

The congregational hymns were "Faith of Our Fathers," in memory of the pioneers who built the church in 1871, "He Leadeth Me," and "I Need Thee."

The full choir rendered "Be At Peace," by Rand. Misses Kaye and Mary Ellen David rendered a duet, "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Lindsay McKeown, Bert Sharp, Harry McAdam, and Raymond McConnell.

Mr. Stobbart based his evening message on Mulh. 18:3 — "Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted and became as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

The speaker stressed that all the glory of fine homes and material wealth mean very little and it is only what has been invested in the higher realm that will be of value. He also quoted various Bible passages based on "Obedience."

The choir rendered "The Abiding Rock," by Carleton and four boys — Messrs. Raeburn Scott, Paul Jaffa, David Potts, and Lyle Couch sang "Precious Lord." The hymns were "Draw Me Nearer," "Jesus Led Me All The Way," and "Hiding in Thee." The organist rendered a hymn by Nolte, Baldwin's arrangement of "Just For Today," and "Ashford's, "Saviour Again."

The anniversary services closed on the theme note "Perfect rest to me is promised in my Father's House Above."

Schools Hold Parties On Hallowe'en

RAWDON — On Friday afternoon Mrs. Ronald Parr, and the pupils of the Williams Public School, S.S. No. 4 Rawdon in the Mount Pleasant community held Hallowe'en party and entertained the mothers and pre-school children. The rooms were decorated with pumpkins and witches.

The judges for the costume parade were Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mr. Charles Hoard.

The program consisted of several short songs and recitations on the Hallowe'en theme by the pupils. Mary Ellen David rendered a number of musical selections with variations. The senior pupils presented a "Ghost Play" in three acts. The older boys and girls contributed a quartet and a two-part song. Several games and contests were also enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the program the pupils served delicious refreshments.

ALLEN SCHOOL PART-Y

The Junior Red Cross group of the Allen School, S.S. No. 13, Mount Pleasant Rawdon, and their teacher, Mrs. G. L. Morton, entertained the mothers and pre-school children of the section on Friday afternoon.

The children arranged their own program and the collection was for the Junior Red Cross.

Judy Cooey was chairman and Kelvin Sharp reported previous meetings held to date.

Recitations on the Hallowe'en theme were given by Jimmie Scott and Brenda Williams. Selections were read by Kenneth Smith and Allen Wrightman. A duet was contributed by Shirley Potts and Judy Cooney with Barbara Williams as accompanist. A trio was rendered by Brenda Williams, Brenda Campbell, and Janet Scott, with Judy Cooney as accompanist. Piano selections were rendered by Barbara Williams and Judy Cooney.

The whole school sang "Hymn to the United Nations," and the teacher, Mrs. Morton showed three reels of pictures on this subject.

In the costume parade, all the pre-school children were given a chocolate bar. The awards were won by grades 1 to 4 — Doreen Hubble, dressed as a pet; seniors — best couple as bride and groom, Ralph Reid and Allen Wrightman, and single comic costume, Brenda Williams.

All enjoyed an interesting game, after which the pupils served refreshments.

Hog Producers File Writ in Supreme Court

TORONTO (CP) — Three Ontario hog producers have filed a writ in the Supreme Court of Ontario asking that the Ontario hog marketing board be restrained from putting its compulsory marketing plan into effect.

The three farmers, Peter Mc-Donald of Blansaam Township, Charles H. Coulter of Belgrave and Ross McTavish, of Stratford, are opposed to compulsory marketing of hogs through the board.

Their action asks that the board be prevented from putting the result of the July 25 plebiscite into effect. They allege there were irregularities in the taking of the vote which approved the plan.

There was already one case before the court of appeal on which decision has been reserved. That case was against the argument the plan was not properly in effect.

Monty Wants NATO to Take Up Full Military Career

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, approaching its 10th birthday, hasn't a big up in mind yet what it wou... ike to be when it grows up. Several of its uncles and godfathers are offering unsolicited and conflicting advice.

NATO's latest bundles have come from Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, who wants it to take up a full-time military career, and from France's Premier de Gaulle, who would like to see it go into politics.

Up to now, the organization has done a little of both and has dabbled to a lesser extent in science and economics. Montgomery, in particular, feels it's high time it settled down and learned a little solidarity discipline.

The forthright field marshal, is stepping down as NATO's deputy supreme commander, was clearly concerned with the organization's lack of defending Western Europe when he labelled it "complicated, cumbersome and grossly overstaffed."

He is characteristically impatient with NATO's political struggles and is uninterested in discussions about trade or scientific cooperation and the non-military level.

De Gaulle, on the other hand, sees NATO as a kind of Exclusive United Nations, with the Soviet bloc and other powers not members excluded, in which France should play a prominent role.

Insofar as its membership consists of 15 independent countries with interest that frequently conflict, NATO is an imperfect instrument of policy in any sphere.

Its immediate reason for existence is their common desire to protect themselves from military aggression. Insofar as Communist expansion has been successfully halted at it borders, that objective has been successfully achieved.

But there is a wide divergence of views on how the organization should go on achieving it. The Scandinavian powers are sharply at variance with the United States on the role of nuclear weapons in future defence plans. The U.S. and Britain are unenthusiastic about France's plan to develop its own H-bomb.

In the political sphere, the organization has, at various times, proved too small and too large to cope with the issues before it. It has been equally incapable of settling a dispute among three of its own members—Britain, Turkey and Greece—over the future of Cyprus or of playing a decisive role in the extraterritorial problems of the Middle East and the two China.

NATO has played a modestly successful part in encouraging exchange of scientific information among its members. But in the minds of many of the men responsible for its birth, the organization's long-term future depends on economic co-operation.

They see the possibility that Western Europe could be outflanked and isolated if it devotes all its energies to making itself militarily secure without taking steps to bring about development in the countries outside its borders.

Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO's rector-general and one of the signatories of the Washington treaty that brought it into being in April, 1949, is a strong advocate of keeping this problem in mind. He says "it would be unthinkable to allow completely unco-ordinated national economic policies to develop outside the treaty area."

Barrie Becomes City on Jan. 1

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—After 105 years as an incorporated municipality, this lake Simcoe town-in the words of Mayor Willard Kenzie—"has finally grown up."

Beginning Jan. 1 it will be a city with an estimated population of 29,000 and a varied assessment than $50,000 a year normally paid in county taxes.

The Ontario municipal board Tuesday granted Barrie city status, ending a two-year struggle. Its decision followed a September referendum among residents who voted 2-to-1 in favor of breaking away from Simcoe County.

Convicted Bandit Makes Escape

CORNWALL (CP)—A 29-year-old Cornwall man, awaiting sentence on 18 charges of armed robbery, breaking and entering, theft and speeding, escaped from city police Wednesday and is believed hiding in the area near Williamstown, 12 miles northeast of here.

Kenneth Ivens, who asked for psychiatric examination after pleading guilty to the charges last week, had been taken by two detectives to the area in an effort to recover loot from his forays on service station and restaurants.

It was reported he fled after throwing dirt or salt in one officer's face while the other went to a nearby farmhouse.

Pasternak Denies Russian Novel Anti-Communist

LONDON (AP) — Boris Pasternak, the Russian Nobel prize-winning author, denied today that he intended to express anti-Communist views in his controversial novel Doctor Zhivago.

Writing to the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, Pasternak expressed regret at the interpretation placed on his book and asked for a chance to "restore my good name."

The 68-year-old poet-novelist's letter followed demands for his expulsion from Russia by Young Communist League leaders and others. In a personal appeal to Premier Khrushchev five days ago the writer said exile "is to me equal to death."

In his letter to Pravda, quoted by Moscow radio, Pasternak said he had been accused of giving vent in Doctor Zhivago to views that the Communist revolution was illegal and brought unhappiness to Russia.

CLUMSY CHARGES

"It is quite clear to me that I cannot endorse such clumsy allegations," Pasternak said. "At the same time my work which has received the Nobel prize gave cause to this regrettable interpretation and this is the reason I finally gave up the prize."

He added that he had tried to halt his book's publication abroad, and had his request been granted, "it likely I would have been able at least in part to correct this."

Pasternak's novel has been interpreted in the West as an account of failure of the Soviet system to produce the freedom sought by mankind. A best-seller abroad, it has not been published in the Soviet Union.

PLEASED AT FIRST

Pasternak said he first agreed to accept the $41,000 Nobel prize, awarded him Oct. 23, because he thought it was a literary distinction.

"When I saw the scope of the political campaign around my novel," he continued, "I realized myself that this reward was a political measure which now has resulted in monstrous consequences, and on my own initiative without being compelled by anybody I rent my voluntary refusal."

PRIEST EXPELLED

HONG KONG (Reuters) — A French Roman Catholic missionary priest, Father Andre Regis-old, has been ordered to leave Communist North Viet Nam by agency said Wednesday. A Redemptorist priest, Rev. Thomas Cote of Quebec City, is missing after being expelled four weeks ago from Viet Nam.

Transport Minister Promises Help for Airport Construction By New Financing Steps

QUEBEC (CP) — Transport Minister George Hees has announced federal government plans to undertake new financing steps for airport construction and establish a council to advise on airworthiness of operating aircraft.

Mr. Hees disclosed the steps Wednesday night in his speech at the closing banquet of the Air Industries and Transport Association convention.

At an existing airport handling flights on a scheduled airline, the transport department will be responsible for financing and construction of runways, lighting systems and navigation aids no matter who operates the field, Mr. Hees said.

WANT TITLE TO LAND

But the government wanted the title of the land turned over to the transport department before shouldering this responsibility. The land could be leased to the municipality.

Those fields where there is no scheduled service, Mr. Hees said the department would set up three categories: Development fields, remote area fields and local fields.

Under the old system there was a flat $25,000 grant for these fields with additional grants on a cost-sharing basis with the local bodies concerned. Now if a development field would benefit Canada as a whole rather than a private corporation the department might "assume full responsibility for the project," Mr. Hees said. Otherwise it would grant a maximum of $100,000 to the local body as long as title to the land was transferred to the department.

For a remote area fields the department would grant $50,000.

For local fields where the main desire is to have facilities for private flying, flying training and small-scale charter operations the government could grant up to $100,000.

The department also was letting up the Canadian airworthiness council to discuss matters of standards. The president was to be H. R. Ree, chief aeronautical engineer of the department.

Mr. Hees made the presentation of the McKee Trophy to Wing Cmdr. J. G. Showler of the RCAF, Ottawa. The award is made annually for outstanding achievements in Canadian aviation.

The wing commander contributed to the accurate mapping of Arctic regions.

WINTER COLOR

Arctic grouse, or ptarmigan, have a white winter plumage which turns reddish - brown in summer.

Higher Wages Make Further Inflation Likely

REGINA (CP)—The president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association says higher wages are pushing up prices and it looks as if inflation will be a continuing problem in Canada.

Ian F. McRae, of Toronto, said in an interview Wednesday that management is not opposed to higher wages, provided the wages are earned by increased productivity.

"Unless labor realizes that this is a real problem and that any increase in wages must be related to increased productivity, what will happen is simply that higher wages will be passed on to the buyer of goods and services in higher selling prices," Mr. McRae said.

Chairman of the board of Canadian General Electric, Mr. McRae is on a cross-country tour visiting branches of the CMA.

Mr. McRae said the settlement of a difference between Algoma Steel and workers at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., last month.

"The other day Algoma Steel settled their problem with the union and shortly afterwards higher wages resulted in increased prices for steel."

PLAN LUNAR PROBE

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

To Owners of Oil Burning Furnaces and Boilers

When deposits of soot and sludge are allowed to accumulate in oil furnaces, filters, screens and nozzles, the furnace cannot produce heat efficiently. Now a new formula for fuel oils dissolves gummy oil sludge before it can clog filters, lines and nozzles. Known as XZIT-IZED fuel oil, this formula cleans as it burns by burning away greasy soot deposits while the furnace is operating. Layers of soot that prevent heat from transferring to the heating system are eliminated. Only XZIT-IZED fuel oil attacks both oil sludge and soot. With sludge formations stopped and soot build-up eliminated you get more heat for every fuel oil dollar. Clean fuel tanks and lines reduce the service calls caused by plugged burner nozzles and screens. Our customers are now being supplied with fully XZIT-IZED fuel oil as part of our service. XZIT-IZED fuel oil will cut your heating costs. When you buy fuel oil insist on XZIT-IZED fuel oil and bank the savings.

Dulles May Be Forced to Seek Closer Congress Co-operation

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles will have to seek much closer co - operation with Democratic leaders of Congress if he is to run foreign policy effectively in the next two years.

Aides said privately today they had no doubt he would take such action, although it still was too early to say what specific steps might be necessary.

Although Congress has been under Democratic control for the last four of the Eisenhower administration's six years, a shift in power over the conduct of foreign affairs now seems certain to come about for two reasons:

1. Tuesday's election gave the Democrats such overwhelming control as to vest them with a new degree of authority and confidence.

2. Regardless of what happens in the 1960 elections, the Eisenhower administration as such is limited to two more years in office. The leadership authority of the president and secretary of state therefore must be expected to decline, relative to the reinforced Democratic leadership.

FEEL REASSURED

But the record of the last four years of working with Democratic congresses encourages Dulles aides to believe close co-operation for the next two is possible and will be obtained.

They look for continued voting support on major issues of foreign-aid appropriations and problems involving moves by the Communist bloc.

The first test of this may involve United States support for Nationalist China's continued strong defence of the Quemoy and Matsu islands off the Chinese mainland.

The administration may have to ask early next year for a supplemental appropriation to finance plans for modernizing the Chinese Nationalist army and to make up for the approximately $200,000,000 spent in supplies for the defence of Quemoy against the Communist artillery assault that began in late August.

MANY CRITICIZED

Many Democrats were outspoken in criticizing the administration's policy with respect to the coastal islands. A request for funds arising out of this policy could precipitate a major debate.

Furthermore it seems probable that if the Chinese communists gradually ease off their pressures, Democratic congressional leaders will insist on a policy more in line with their own ideas and the ideas of many allied countries. These come down to saying that the United States should defend Formosa but should try to get Chiang's forces out of the offshore islands.

The presentation of a lisp table and table lamp was made by Messrs. Tom Clements, Joe Foresell and Stan Thompson. John Farrell was presented with a sweater and Mr. Neil Farrell made a plaid. There were competitions, guessing games, grab bag, hula hula contest, the Lady with 100 pockets, a fish pond, and as a feature attraction, a crystal gazer. One of the busiest spots of the evening was the candy table and the soft drink stand. The highlight of the affair was the scrumptious refreshments given by the guides and enjoyed by all who played.

The guides are indebted to the Lions Club for the use of the Lions Hall and to all who donated to the event.

HALLOWE'EN EVENING

A Hallowe'en social evening sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion last Friday brought out some colorful and artistic costumes. While the crowd was not too large, a pleasant time was enjoyed at games, cards and dancing. The prizes for the best costumes were won by Florence Gonyon and Isiah Thompson. Following the dancing, the committee in charge served refreshments.

Wolves Do Not Choose Kill, Will Eat Any Kind of Deer

MAPLE — Wolves and coyotes are relatively inactive during the summer months. They are occupied, with the raising of their young and do not range as widely as in the winter. There is also a great change in their diet; small mammals, birds and fruit such as blueberries and raspberries are readily available; the high protein and fat consumption needed for survival in cold weather is not required in summer and predation on large wild and domestic animals is much lower.

This lessening of wolf activity in warm weather results in few wolves being seen or killed and gives biologists and others working on wolf research and management an opportunity to analyze the information they obtained during the previous winter.

Among other things, the research work centred in Algonquin Park last winter has shown that wolves range over great distances in their search for food; some regular routes or circuits are almost 80 miles in length.

Studies of the remains of 19 deer killed by Algonquin Park wolves last winter do not support the idea that they kill only the sick and old; they appeared to be in good condition after hunting and took young, old, sick or healthy deer probably as opportunity permitted.

The howls of captive wolves and coyotes kept at the Wildlife Research Station in Algonquin Park for studies of various kinds do not disturb deer which inhabit the area. This apparent lack of fear has been noted by trappers and others who have watched deer feed quietly while wolves hunted close to them.

Wolf activity began in this area in late August and this was soon apparent in the increase in the numbers of wolves presented for bounty and sent to the Southern Research Station at Maple for examination. Campers' reports (in Algonquin Park) of wolves howling increased and their tracks became more common along sand beaches and old logging roads.

In early September workers on the wolf research projects in Algonquin Park set traps and snares to catch live wolves and within a period of two weeks caught three. These were cartagged, and given a — collar weather collar before they were released so they could be identified if they were seen or caught again during the coming winter. This marking and release aids workers in their studies of movement and range and in estimating the population of wolves in an area such as the Park.

The handling and marking of live-caught wolves requires special equipment and technique and efficient methods of doing this have now been developed. The recent introduction of a gun which fires a hypodermic syringe loaded with a tranquilizing tract quillizing drug has proved to be of great value in immobilizing wolves, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests reports.

SPORT IN BRIEF

QUITS RACING

TORONTO (CP)—Gar Hatch, member of one of Canada's best-known racing families, announced Wednesday he is quitting the thoroughbred business. Hatch, breeder of Queen's Plate winner Ace Marine and other champion horses, said "business reasons and impending moves to the United States forced his decision.

SUPPORTS MOVE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Judge David A. Pine ruled Wednesday Washington Senators can move to another city if economic necessity demands that. The judge refused to support a plea by H. Gabriel Murphy, 40 - per - cent stockholder in the team, that the Senators be barred from moving to Minneapolis or anywhere else outside of Washington. Calvin Griffith, the club's president, once considered moving the club to Minneapolis but has abandoned the idea for the time being.

OFFER FAILS

NEW YORK (AP)—Sports Illustrated said Wednesday Australia's record mile runner, Herb Elliott, decided to remain an amateur after an American promoter Leo Leavitt failed to back up a $250,000 pro offer with money in the bank. The weekly magazine said Elliott and his father, Harb Elliott Sr., decided to end negotiations with "Leavitt when the promoter didn't live up to an agreement to place $67,500 in escrow.

GILCHRIST FINED

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughrider fullback Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist was fined $15 in police court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to three charges of overparking. "Even football players are under the jurisdiction of this court," Magistrate E. L. Elliott told the Western Interprovincial Football Union player's lawyer.

ONTARIO ENTRY

PINEHURST, N.C. (CP)—Miss Ada Mackenzie of Richmond Hill, Ont., was in a six-way tie for ninth place Wednesday after the first round of the Middle North and South invitation senior golf tournament for women. Miss Mackenzie had a 41—86 on the par-79 layout. The leading score of the halfway point was a 77 by Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo,

McPhail Sets Sights on Top Finish

NEW YORK (AP)—Lee MacPhail, new general manager of Baltimore Orioles, has set his sights on a first division finish for the ball club.

"Although MacPhail, 41-year-old son of Larry MacPhail won't take over the reins officially until later in the month, he already has ideas about the Orioles.

"The way I understand it, Paul (Richards) and I will collaborate on any deals involving major league clubs," said MacPhail.

MacPhail said he saw Orioles play about 11 games last season.

"I can talk better later after I get to know the situation better," he said. "I do know they scored fewer runs than anybody in the league, that they have good pitching and some good young players."

"After I take over then they'll guess the main problem will be how to beat the Yankees," he said. "Certainly, I would deal with the Yankees if it would help Baltimore."

"Any club that finished in the second division (Baltimore was sixth) should be willing to trade with anybody."

Axe Dangles Over Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The axe hanging over the heads of some of the Green Bay Packers probably will remain in the air until Sunday when the National Football League clubs announce what it can do in the return engagement with Chicago Bears.

Coach Scooter McLean hit the roof after his club was handed a 56-0 shellacking in the worst history when smashed by Baltimore Colts 56-0 last Sunday.

McLean indicated Monday six or seven veterans might get the axe.

All he would say Wednesday was that "some changes have been established."

"The players know what the results will be if they don't abide by them."

Mr., Mrs. Frederick March To Appear Together on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Frederick March and Florence Eldridge, one of the theatre's finest husband and wife acting teams, will make their first TV dramatic appearance together on Nov. 13 in The Winslow Boy.

Siobhan McKenna will co-star with them in the Du Pont Show of the Month (CBS-TV) presentation of the award-winning play by Terence Rattigan (9:30 p.m. EST).

Mr. and Mrs. March are such friendly, unaffected, interesting people that I forgot to make any notes in the course of a leisurely luncheon the other day. We talked about the theatre, television, politics, books and the pressures of living in the country, food, the disciplines of work. . . .

Several years ago each appeared separately in a TV drama.

haven't appeared together in a TV drama is 'because they've been so busily engaged in the theatre. Only recently, for example, they completed a lengthy run in 'Long Day's Journey Into Night.

They are enthusiastic about The Winslow Boy, set in England earlier in this century. In it they play the parents of a youth accused of cheating in an examination.

First Day of Shooting Brings Out Motley Crowd of Actors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Attention, beatniks! You'll flip your berets over what's happening to you in the movies.

The first scene saga of the beat generation is being filmed with the logical title of The Beat Generation. Enterprising Al Zugsmith is making it, and he beat out three other producers for the title.

The first day of shooting brought out a motley crowd of actors. The scene was a typical beat joint in which Lord Buckley was singing a song titled The Beat Generation. "Written by the same men who did White Cliffs of Dover," Zugsmith reported with wonderment.

Through the smoke-pot haze you could discern a variety of goateed males and mop-haired women. There was Charles Chaplin Jr., wearing a bushy beard; Bunderlieuck sweater and shredded walking shorts and sandals. There was Vampira, TV's onetime "ghoul of my dreams," still in her jeans with a white rat named Elmber climbing on her dirty sweatshirt.

BEADS POETRY

"She reads poetry," Zugsmith explained.

Along the walls were huge canvases which looked, according to cast members, Jackson Pollock, though they were "finger-painted" by a drunken octopus."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Last week this column quoted Wren Blair, through the column of Cornwall's Frank Orr. Apparently all was not true regarding the Blairian statements. However, this is what Wren has to say about the matter:

"We would like to straighten a little matter out between a couple of sports writers down east of here. George Carver quotes years ired by Frank Orr in Belleville, but the information he quotes comes from a third party. The third party is sportswriter Frank Orr of Cornwall. The subject is something about the abortionettes of the Belleville McFarlands regarding their coming trip to Europe. Firstly, let me assure you, Mr. Carver, that most of these items are words put in my mouth by the astute Frank Orr. Methinks they are things that Orr would like to say about the McFarlands himself, but lacks the intestinal fortitude to pen his own name to them. However, this isn't the first time he has been guilty of putting words into other people's mouths. We have been very careful in not assuring the Belleville club this early in the season, because we know only too well, from experience last year, how quick people are to jump on every possible shortcoming of Canada's representatives. As to that bit about Denny Denny (manager of Belleville) making the pro clubs mad at him, that's a little ridiculous. Certainly he's made some of the pro clubs sore, and we'd like to know who in the history of sports a hockey could ever do a justifiable job in this world tournament affair without annoying the pro's. Surely we had our battles with professional operators last year trying to pry players loose. We'll likely have them again, but that doesn't mean that the pro clubs are right about some of these things. We happen to know that Mr. Denys, along with gruff, surly, doesn't always make public utterances of some people in pro ranks beyond questioning. So whether or not the pro clubs are sore at us, Denys, or anyone else, is somebody's dster. Furthermore, the matter of building Canada's representatives one bit. Therefore, from the job at hand, we suggest George that you get your quotes re Wren Blair directly from the horse's mouth, and never mind these third party stories. But while we're at it, if you are worrying about criticism of Canada's representatives we'd suggest that so far Belleville has cut stiff rather badly. Even Whitby in their a shatin' game last year it was headlines in every Metro paper in Toronto. If we'd only won two of our first six games as Belleville has done, it's possible we would never have recovered from the blasts. They were almost ridiculous as it was. And in saying this, we still haven't said that Belleville won't be good enough to take the world championship. For one thing it's a bit too early for that, and secondly, who says that they won't procure several proven performers over the winter? Let's play hockey for awhile."

SPORTS FODGE

Belleville Minor Hockey Association is back in full swing, matter of fact, bigger and better than ever, with eight atom teams, six midget and ten in each of the bantam and pewee loops.

Squirts will play Monday, opening Nov. 10, midgets on Wednesday, beginning Nov. 12, pewees and bantams goes on Saturday mornings with their loops opening November 15 . . . Gilles Tremblay, smooth-skating 'left-winger with Sask Canadiens, suffered a broken leg in last Saturday's game with Kingston and will be out for six weeks. He collided with defenceman Ralph McNiff in the first minute of the game . . . Bill Gadsby, New York Rangers all-star defenceman, picked up two stitches in his nose last week. This brings his total to 226 since he joined the NHL with Chicago in 1946.

While the Eastern Senior "A" was classed as a "homer" loop last year, it would hardly be called that so far this season. Up until Monday of this week the visitors had won seven times to the home club's six . . . BCIVS defeats Eliminated Quinte Saints in their COBO opener for the other day . . . Frank Mahovlich, last year's NHL rookie of the year, has no goals and five assists, while Bobby Hull, whom he edged by one point, has five goals and seven assists to date . . . Local sport fans will be backing ex-Dunlop Charlie Burns for rookie honors this year. He has three goals and one assist entering this week.

Bill Storms, a veteran of more years than he would care to admit on the ice lanes and one of the finest stickhandlers of the game around here, is still playing hockey. He is potting goals for Sports Centre in the Industrial league . . . Gerry Geiger and Russ Kowalchuk are scoring quite regularly with the Kelowna Packers. The Russia-bound Packers are in first place in their league . . . Andy Milne is getting plenty of travelling. He came from Windsor to Belleville, then back to Windsor and now he is playing with North Bay Trappers.

Canadiens Starry Marksman Records 596 in 17th Season; No Signs of Slackening Up

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Any day now Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens will get his 600th goal into a National Hockey League net.

The greatest scorer in the league's history—no other player has reached the 400 mark—now has 596 goals in his 17-year career and shows no sign of slowing down. He's currently third in the NHL goal-scoring list, tied with linemate Dickie Moore at seven.

It's more than a week since the 37 - year - old Rocket slipped the puck past an opposing goalie and Montreal fans, accustomed to the Richard moods, are wailing expectantly for him to break out in a new scoring rash.

ACTION SATURDAY

He'll be in action Saturday night in Montreal against New York Rangers.

Richard's scoring record is made up of 513 goals in regular season play and 83 in Stanley Cup playoffs. During the same period he has been credited with 694 assists for a grand total of 1,290.

He holds 18 individual all-time scoring records including most goals in a season (50) and most goals in a Stanley Cup playoff series (12). But by the end of the season he held record 80 game-scoring goals, also in NHL records.

Although Richard is the oldest player in the NHL both in point of age and years of playing the game, he's no longer the biggest threat in terms of the points. At the start of the season he said he would stay in hockey until he was no longer able to play effectively.

Some critics say he's already passed that point but he still be scoring goals when he marks the 20th anniversary with the Habs.

Thinks Riders Underrated In Selections

EDMONTON (CP)—Sam Lyle says the football public is underrating Saskatchewan Roughriders in making Edmonton Eskimos favorites for the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final opening Saturday afternoon in Regina.

"These guys have got eight established stars among their 12 imports," says coach Lyle. "And Eskimos have been made as high as 20-point favorites for the two-game total-point series.

"We've got seven rookies among our 17 regulars, too. Look at these Riders, look how they've come along with practically nothing. Well, they've got a lot more than people seem to think."

PAST PERFORMANCE

On the basis of past performances, Eskimos have an edge over Riders. Edmonton finished in second place with nine victories, a tie and a loss scoring 312 point and having 222 scored against. Riders, second in point total, having 334 scored against them. Eskimos defeated Riders twice, 40-5 and 28-13 in their first two meetings, then were held to an 11-11 tie and beat Riders 34-1 in their last game in Regina, and I don't know how well it will come around by game time.

Two of those pointed out by Lyle as established stars with Riders — halfback Mike Hagler and end Larry Isbell, who handles Saskatchewan's punting—are ailing in Regina. Hagler has a wrenched knee and Isbell has an ankle injury.

"If we don't have three top boys out I just don't want to make any comment," said coach George Terlep.

JUNIORS CLASH

HALIFAX (CP) — St. Mary's University of Halifax, representing the Maritimes for the third straight year, clash with Notre Dame de Grace, of Montreal in the middle-distance Eastern Canada junior football semi-final here Saturday.

Watson Best Hockey Coach Says Patrick

NEW YORK (AP)—Muzz Patrick, general manager of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, Wednesday came to the defence of coach Phil Watson when he said he is "the best coach in hockey."

Eastern league president Clarence Campbell said in Montreal he would ask the Rangers' management to deal with Presidents Involving Watson.

Campbell said he had been reviewing "a number of incidents since the start of the season" but thought the club management should deal with the matter.

Watson's latest tirade was a complaint about the officiating of referee Red Storey in a game in New York against Detroit Red Wings Sunday which Rangers lost 3-1.

Watson charged that Storey purposely delayed a last-minute face-off to give Detroit a rest.

REPRIMANDED—

"I have reprimanded Phil Watson for incidents which justifiably have come to league office," Patrick stated, "but we have to take into account that Phil is an aggressive and fiery coach, outspoken by nature and at the same time, not in complete control of the English language.

"When Watson criticized Red Storey's officiating the other night, he had just cause to do so. There was no reason for Storey to delay the game because a piece of paper fell on the ice, 100 feet from the faceoff."

"I want to make it clear that I consider Watson to be the best coach in hockey and that his job is in no way in jeopardy."

Watson cautioned himself at first after Sunday's game. "I just better not say anything," the Frenchmen's coach said. "If I do, I'll get me suspended or thrown out of hockey . . . but I haven't the only one who saw what was happening."

Game Not A Rehearsal Says Trimble

HAMILTON (CP) — Tiger-Cat coach Jim Trimble said the quarterback club Wednesday's roughness in practices is a good sign as far as the Hamilton Big Four football club is concerned.

When practices are on the rough side, usually following a losing game, the Ticats win their following game, he said. He recalled the Ticat 37-0 defeat at the hands of the Toronto Argonauts and the following rough practice session. Ticats beat the Montreal Alouettes the next week.

Trimble added "I'm quite sure we'll get back on the winning track. The game with Ottawa Saturday is not a dress rehearsal as far as we're concerned."

On the Tracks

CAMDEN, N.H. (AP)—Vertex won the $25,625 Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park Wednesday in a stretch duel with the people's choice, Calumet Farm's Bardstown.

Owned by J. J. Brunetti and F. A. Pirrelli, the four-year-old chestnut colt moved with the pace from the start of the mile and a quarter grind, gave way slightly in the stretch to Bardstown, then came on in the final sixteenth to win by a head.

Leroy G. Burns' five-year-old Eddie Schmidt was third.

Vertex, ridden by Sammy Boulmetis, returned $14, $5.60 and $3.60. He was timed in 2:02 1-5.

TORONTO (CP) — Admiral Act, owned by Stafford Farms of Toronto, Wednesday won the featured Gallowell Purse at New Woodbine in a photo over Boundary. Ally Pride was third.

Admiral's Act, carrying the six furlongs in 1.10 3-5, paid $31, $12.20 and $5.80 to show.

Daily double of Epic Fields and Early Minded, winners of the first two races, paid $172.07. The quinella combination of Epic Fields and Wee and To Taken in the fifth race paid $25.

Texas, American Association May Be Minors' Salvation

By JOE REICHLER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The latter circuit, under Dewitt's re-Texas League and the American Association may become baseball leagues.

The two circuits have agreed to consider two proposals offered by William O. Dewitt, baseball consolidator.

Under one proposition, the Texas League would give up Houston, its largest city, to the American Association for a specified sum. In return, the Texas League would acquire Amarillo, Tex. from the Western League, which is considering disbanding. Plan No. 2 would switch Texas cities Dallas and Fort Worth, along with Houston, to the AA in return for Albuquerque, N.M. and Amarillo along with another Western League franchise as yet not identified.

IS OFFERED TEAM

Reason for the two propositions is this. The American Association, which has virtually decided to drop Louisville, has been offered its Charleston, W.Va., club to the International League. The club would join Dewitt's new circuit, under Dewitt's reincorporate Jacksonville of the South Atlantic League and expand to 10 teams. The Sally League is willing to let Jacksonville go.

The trouble with this scheme is that the International League does no want Charleston. It would agree to enlarge provided it could obtain Atlanta. The Southern Association is opposed to letting go its largest city. Sounds complicated? It is.

All is not hopeless, however. Should Charleston remain in the American Association, that circuit may consider expanding to 10 teams by adding Dallas and Fort Worth along with Houston, and dropping Louisville.

What would the Texas League get out of it? Besides the three new cities, they would be guaranteed eight working agreements with major league clubs. Currently only three of its clubs have such working agreements. According to a reliable source, the Texas League has been offered $25,000 for each of the three clubs but is holding out for $40,000 per CHICAGO (AP)—Control of Chicago White Sox will pass from Dorothy Comiskey Rigney to her brother, Chuck Comiskey, for a reported $1,000,000, sports editor John Carmichael ofthe Chicago Daily News predicted Wednesday.

Carmichael wrote that Mrs. Rigney may sell out to her brother, Sox co-vice-president, before spring practice begins for the Sox at Tampa, Fla., next February.

Stampeders' Luzzi Named To Two West All-Star Teams

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Tackle Don Luzzi of Calgary Stampeder, a newcomer to Canadian football, was the only player to make both the defensive and offensive teams in the 1958 Western Interprovincial Football Union all - star selections announced today.

Luzzi a 230-pounder from Villanova University, was a standout for Stampeders, who finished in fourth spot and out of the playoffs.

Calgary placed three others on the offensive and defensive squad, although they won 13 of their 16 games and were easy league winners, the well-balanced Winnipeg Blue Bombers placed only one man on offence. But they nabbed five defensive spots — a tribute to their record of only 182 points against them during the season — and had Bud Grant named as all-star coach.

ESKS REPRESENTED

Second-place Edmonton Eskimos had three players on offence and four on defence, while Saskatchewan Roughriders, who finished third, had three and one respectively. The last - end British Columbia Lions clicked on only one offensive position.

Quarterback Jack Jungford of Calgary was the only Canadian to make offence. Four hometown stars — Oscar Kruger and Ted Tully of Eskimos and Gordie Rowland and Steven Patrick of Bombers—and two former imports now Canadians—Rollie Miles of Esks and Buddy Tinsley of Bombers—made it on defence.

There were no unanimous choices, but three players—fullback Johnny Bright of Esks and halfback Leo Lewis and defensive back Greg of Winnipeg—were picked on all but one of the 36 ballots for The Canadian Press by football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the five league cities.

Offensive team

Half—Johnny Bright, Edmonton.
Half—Cookie Gilchrist, Saskatchewan
Half—Leo Lewis, Winnipeg
Half—Jack Hill, Saskatchewan
Quarter—Jack Parker, Edmonton
Centre—Buddy Purey, Calgary
Guard—Harry Langford, Calgary
Guard—Tom Hinton, British Columbia
Tackle—Roger Nelson, Edmonton
Tackle—Don Luzzi, Calgary
End—Ken Carpenter, Saskatchewan
End—Ernie Warlick, Calgary
Coach—Bud Grant, Winnipeg
Defensive team

Safety—Oscar Kruger, Edmonton
Half—Larry Isbell, Saskatchewan
Half—Jack Hill, Calgary
Secondary — Gordie Rowland, Winnipeg
Secondary—Ted Tully, Edmonton
Secondary—Rollie Miles, Edmonton
Middle guard — Steve Patrick, Winnipeg
Tackle—Don Luzzi, Calgary
Tackle—Buddy Tinsley, Winnipeg
End—Herb Gray, Winnipeg
End—Art Walker, Edmonton
Bright, Langford, and Nelson were repeaters from the 1957 all-star offence while Kruger, Isbell, Gotta, Rowland, Tully, Tinsley, Gray and Walker were returned on defence.

COACH RESIGNS

CALGARY (CP) — Tommy Thompson has resigned as backfield coach of Calgary Stampeders, the Western Interprovincial Football Union club announced Wednesday. Finishing his third year with the Stamps, Thompson said he wanted to devote more time to his ranch in Arkansas.

Riders Almost Intact for Tiger Game

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders have only one doubtful starter—end-linebacker Bill Sowalski—for their last game of the regular schedule Saturday in Hamilton, against Tiger-Cats.

Hal Gary Schreiber's shoulder injury and the ankle ailment which back mistertes have come around, but Sowalski's leg injury is a bit more.

Coach Frank Clair said he plans to alternate quarterbacks Russ Jackson, a Canadian, and Hal Ledyard, an import, in Saturday's game.

Jackson, a rookie sensation, played all the way in Rough Riders' games, losing in Toronto and winning here against Hamilton.

Clair also plans to "two-platoon" his team Saturday, obviously trying to preserve possibilities for injury from two-way action, resting up and getting healed.

Riders, assured of a playoff berth, meet Montreal Alouettes Nov. 12 in the league semi-final

Dunlop Rally Nips Kingston Maroons Trounce Dutchmen

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cashman Maroons took the lead in one division of Ontario Senior A hockey Wednesday night while Dunlops Jr. B's were in possession of first and second positions in their division.

Maroons regained top place in the OHA-NOHA series with a 5-3 win over Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen. The win was Chatham's fourth in five starts and put the Maroons a point ahead of the Dutchmen.

In another game in the division, Sudbury Wolves scored a 4-3 win over Windsor Spitfires then traded goals in overtime with Windsor Bulldogs for a 4-4 tie. Windsor is the leader of Long John Henderson. Dunlops scored five goals in the third for a 6-4 win. Dunlops have seven straight wins to lead their league while Marchants with five losts in six starts are in last place.

All Chatham lines were hot and the scoring was evenly divided. Jim Connelly, Ted Power, Ron Rubia, Cooper Colyle and Colin Bailey were Maroons' scorers. Jack McMaster got both Dutchmen goals. Chatham has now beaten Kitchener - Waterloo two straight.

The Wolves, at Sudbury, had to come from behind in a rough game that had 27 penalties, including two bench penalties among the 15 to Bulldogs.

DUST CHAMBERLAIN

The bench penalties to Windsor culminated in ejection of coach Murph Chamberlain after he protested what a faceoff was moved to the Windsor end.

Behind 3-1 midway through the third, Sudbury gained a tie when Hank Merczak scored midway through the period and veterans Nick Tomluk, scored at 19:08. Marczak, and Windsor's Walt Pawlecki traded blows in overtime.

Armand Lemieux got Sudbury's other goal while Windsor scorers were Lennie Speck Erwin Grosso, Lou Bando and Pawlayhun.

Former Jr. B's Jake Lumber King Jim Maxwell scored in all Whitby Dunlops' five goals Wednesday night as they trounced Kingston 6-4 lead early in the third.

Then Whitby's first line got untracked and Bobby Attersley and George Samolenko scored twice each, with Roger Tom O'Connor adding another. Defenceman Alf Treen had scored in the second.

More Savard scored Kingston's other goal. Attersley also picked up an assist to add to his league lead in scoring.

Busso Verdicts Champion Brown

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sixth - ranked Johnny Busso of New York earned a shot at the lightweight title Wednesday night when he scored a unanimous 10-round decision over champion Joe Brown in a non-title bout.

Brown, making his first appearance since his season - ending Kenny Lane at Houston, Tex., in July, appeared rusty.

Busso seemed to be in trouble in the fourth round when Brown opened a deep gash high on his left cheekbone but Busso came on slowly and carried the fight to the lethargic champion, who opened up only rarely.

It was a hard, clean fight for the estimated 5,000 fans. Busso, the puncher, started after Brown at the opening bell and kept boring in.

Busso, 130½ to Brown's 140½ pounds, had been promised a fight for the title if he won.

Bears Come From Behind Defeat Dutchmen in Opener

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Golden Bears, runaway favorites in the best-of-three final series for the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior title, had to come from behind Wednesday night to clinch a 29-13 opening game win over a tar - from - underdog Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen club.

Dutchmen, who suffered four regular season losses to the Bears struck hard in the first and fourth quarters and show every sign they'll hit hard again in the second game Saturday at Waterloo.

More than 3,000 fans saw the visitors capitalize on two Sarnia fumbles in the first quarter to take a 6-0 lead. But the Bears registered 15 points by the half-way mark and led 23-7 after the third quarter.

The Dutchmen roared back with two touchdowns in the fourth.

End Gene Cook from the University of Toledo scored after Bear touchdown on passes from quarterback Orlo Campbell. Fullback J. B. Smith, and halfback Chuck Stanley took over for the others and Cappelletti kicked four converts and a single.

For Kitchener-Waterloo, Nat Pagnan and end Chico Mendoza scored the touchdowns and Bob Ickert kicked a single.

Norcia scored the first Dutch touchdown points three min after Sarnia fumbled on its own 30.

Stanley went 30 yards early in the second quarter for Sarnia's first touchdown and Cappelletti kicked the convert. Cappelletti with a strong wind behind him, then kicked a 55-yarder and ended the first-half scoring with a convert after Smith scored from the 10.

Celeri booked an 80-yard single for Kitchener in the third quarter. Bears then marched from their 25 led by Tex Robinson and Cook caught one in the end zone.

A second scoring pass from Cappelletti to Cook came early in the fourth after Robinson intercepted a pass on the 55 and carried the ball 30 yards into Dutchmen territory.

Then the Dutchmen came back. Mendoza took a pass from Celeri for a touchdown and almost had another when he caught a pass in the end zone but the ball was ruled to be in touch.

The Bears took over on their 10. Cappelletti was hit on the two, fumbled into the end zone and was recovered by Pagnan.

Voyles Seeks Lions' Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — B. C. Lions' general manager Herb Caponi Wednesday confirmed reports that Edmonton Eskimos' Carl Voyles has applied for the job of head coach or manager of the Lions.

A Montreal report said Voyles was considering a return to Canadian football and that if he went to the Lions he would insist on Frank Filchok as his backfield coach.

Filchok is a former Edmonton and Regina coach now with Saskatchewan.

Lions directors have said they will wait until after the Nov. 29 Grey Cup game before making a decision on a head coach.

Bears Shade Indians 3-2

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Hershey Bears defeated Springfield 3-2 Wednesday night to hang on to second place in the American Hockey League.

A second - period goal by Les Duff, the Bears' top scorer, provided the winning margin.

The Bears' defensive scoring is a hectic first period when Gerry Ehman scored from just in front of goalie Claude Evans at 3:41. Jan Anderson tied the score less than three minutes later. The edge again went to Hershey when Dunc Fisher scored.

The Indians knotted the count at 2-2 on a goal by Ken Schinkel, the league's top scorer.

MOVES TO ABITIBI

TROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Marty McSorley with the Toronto Bruins in the International Hockey League the last three seasons, has signed with Abitibi Eskimos of the Porcupine Mines League. Didn't Know Her Own Child

. . . so was ice cream, candy, nylon. When you're ready to buy a car, see your Chevrolet dealer. Make the comparison over 3 days, have a good look for your self. A remodel-conscious owner the world over is right. There are how quickly a Chevrolet—it'll carry history and be lively. Won't price. They seem to be literally giving away Chevrolet's Own Investment value in your daughter.

FUSION POWER STILL DECADES AWAY

Dr. Fred Coensbus, left, and Dr. F. Post, physicists at the University of California radiation laboratory, stand by a three-stage mirror machine, a device sponsored by the AEC to investigate processes to obtain a cheap source of energy from the fusion of hydrogen bombs. Dr. Post said that if fusion engines can be developed to burn hydrogen, there is enough fuel available to supply civilization for a billion years, but practical application of the hydrogen power is probably several decades away.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, November 7

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Here is a day when you can discuss with co - workers your ideas for increasing efficiency in your particular department or endeavor and get their co-operation. Then see to it that you do your share to make their burden lighter, also.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Use free time for getting treatments at beauty, barber shops to bring out your greatest charm. Then meet your friends at swanky restaurants, smart out-of-door places, combining business with pleasure. Have lots of fun.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be perfectly sure that all is in order and thoroughly clean in own home, and if you must be in the business world, think out how to better relations with home ties. Tonight is then fine for a social evening at home in perfect comfort.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — This is the right day to shop for necessities and little luxuries that make life more pleasant and efficient for you. At tea time be with those persons who can give you an insight into how to become more successful with less effort.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — While you have magnanimous ideas and great operational skill, the best way to progress wisely is by bringing everything down to a practical working level. Get right at the core of things now; set up a fine budget system. P.M. take care of throat.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — See that your wardrobe is in finest order, being sure to be immaculate in all ways. Shop for what you need. Later you can get into the world of activity and gain your aims with relative ease. Be very sociable and charming.

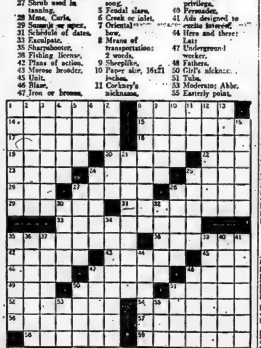
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You would do well to be thoughtful of executives and experts today, for they will reciprocate by giving you valuable pointers that will spell greater success for you. P. M. help the needy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A day to get together with loyal friends that you may discuss ways and means of clearing away obstacles that have made reaching your goals so difficult for some time past. Meet new people and get a better understanding of modern methods.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be public minded today. Know how to contact those persons who have it in their power to assist you in job, civic or cultural interests. Also s^ good day to do regular work more efficiently. Get credit higher.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — All sorts of novel ideas and thoughts occur to you that can be put immediately into practice for increasing your success. Meet interesting people and learn much; travel if you possibly can.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The day is here in which you can get valuable ideas from real authorities that will assist you in putting financial and other affairs in far better condition. Be sure to show your gratitude for suggestions and assistance.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A good long talk with associates today will reveal many new ideas and methods by which you can jog along much more successfully in the future. Then the rest of the day is good for increasing good will and making new contacts.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will possess great constructive imagination plus the ability to follow through with plans formulated to his or her benefit as well as the benefit of others. Your one real duty here is to inculcate the spiritual and ethical values so that your child's talents will find full and best expression. A most successful horoscope.

RUSSIA IGNORES PLEA FOR TESTS BAN

New Moon Shoot Postponed After Knock Is Heard

May Try Again Early Saturday or Sunday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A strange knocking inside the missile early today caused postponement of the latest U.S. Air Force attempt to shoot a satellite around the moon.

The pioneer moonrocket slowed in the rays of floodlights for more than two hours in a driving rain storm before the launching was called off.

The air force has two more chances to shoot the moon this month—in the early morning hours of Saturday and Sunday and then only within a critical time period of 18 to 20 minutes.

If the missile men fail to fire within the specified time, they will have to wait until early in December.

ZERO HOUR

The launching was less than an hour away from zero when the noise was heard.

The air force announced only that "operations pointing toward an early flight of an experimental, U.S. space exploration vehicle . . . were postponed due to technical difficulties."

The rocket, cocksure at the moment, was to be fired in three stages—a Thor missile and two modified Vanguard sections—and equipped with an infra-red scanning camera into a brief orbit about 50,000 miles from the moon after a 240,000-mile journey through space.

The last attempt failed when it went to go all the way—the moon is 238,000 miles away—but it got much farther—but it did reach a height of more than 70,000 statute miles, the farthest man has penetrated into outer space.

The first air force moon rocket blew up 77 seconds after launching Aug. 17.

ELEVEN METRO POLICE OFFICERS HELD FOR THEFT

Three Suspended After Ring Exposed

TORONTO (CP) — Eleven suburban North York police officers were arrested today on charges of shopbreaking, theft and receiving.

Three others were suspended for having knowledge of the crimes and an ex-constable is being sought.

Magistrate C. O. Bick, chairman of the police commission, said he was shocked and would issue a statement later.

Metropolitan Chairman Fred Gardiner, a member of the commission, said he will call for an investigation.

VALUED AT THOUSANDS

Police said the value of the stolen goods runs into thousands of dollars.

The Chief of the Metropolitan Police Force, James Mackey is on vacation and is not due back until Nov. 24. However, he is expected to resign to deal with the matter.

The arrests have almost halved the strength of No. 19 division in North York.

The officers under arrest and awaiting appearance in court were Constables Allan Hanna, Jean-Paul Burke, Thomas P. Higgins, Arthur Broadwell, Walter Alexander Hoey, Leonard W. Watts, Roy E. Williamson, George J. Bones, William Herbert and Ernest D. Bone.

Bone is a member of the North York force until a month ago when he resigned to join the Vaughan Township force.

ARRESTED ON DUTY

The first officer arrested was Roy E. Williamson, who was on duty at the time.

He answered a radio call early today to meet Inspector Dinan in a police cruiser and the inspector took him into custody. Later, it was said on more than a dozen homes ransacked.

In 1936, two dozen Toronto police officers were arrested. Nine were suspended and 15 reinstated after a lengthy investigation into numerous thefts.

Last February some 20 officers in another division of the Metro-

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Heavy frost covered most of southern Ontario this morning while snow from upslope winds off Lake Huron darkened the ground over the higher terrain of Bruce and Huron counties.

Cold, cloudy weather with snowflurries prevailed over Northern Ontario.

A well developed low pressure system is causing a mixture of light snow and rain in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. This disturbance is moving rapidly eastward and is expected to affect the Ontario weather on Saturday.

Police Chief Walter Probert was one of the first customers today as the sale of poppies for the Belleville "Poppy Day" fund got underway. 20 Marooned Men Taken to Safety From Ice Floe

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) Drifting Station A's 20 marooned men were snatched to safety Thursday night in an Arctic rescue carried out in the light of clickering flares.

All 20 of the rescued scientists and aimen were reported to be in excellent condition despite five days of isolation.

They were stranded Sunday on the desolate and windswept reaches of the Arctic Ocean 300 miles from the North Pole when an unseasonal polar storm ripped apart their mile-square ice floe.

The scientific station they were maintaining on the floe was an International Geophysical Year project.

They were whisked to safety as a C-123 from Thule, Greenland, guided only by the light of a row of flares set out by the stranded men themselves, landed.

Two Children Burned to Death

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Two small children were burned to death Thursday in a fire that destroyed their home at 345 miles north of the Sault. Aged 2 and 6, they were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Escavery.

Mrs. Escavery is in hospital at Hearst recovering from burns and shock suffered when she rescued the children. Both were badly aged five years and six months. The victims were identified as Joe Anne and Bonnie Gail. The parents and relatives are Jimmie and Robert Allen.

Two Men Who Shot Mountie Found Dead in Burning Cafe

BOTWOOD, Nfld. (CP) — Two men who barricaded themselves in a burning restaurant after an RCMP constable was shot to death were found dead today when police broke into the building.

Officers rushed the restaurant, in the industrialized community 175 miles northwest of St. John's, after exchanging shots with the men.

The victims found in the cafe were identified as James Ling, owner of the establishment, and Chris Soo, Kenneth Ling, both of Chinese origin.

The constable was not identified here but he is believed to be a member of last month's graduating class at the RCMP training school in Regina.

(In Peterborough, it was learned the mountie was Const. Terrance Hoey, 21, whose mother lives in the Ontario city. Const. Hoey joined the RCMP in January, 1957, and after training at Regina, was posted to the Botwood detachment only a week ago, on Nov. 1. He is survived by five sisters and three brothers.)

The Lings had locked themselves in a bedroom. When the two constables tried to force the bedroom door one of the men inside jerked the door open and fired point-blank into the constable's chest. He died within minutes.

Fire broke out in the restaurant shortly after the shooting. Fire Chief Graham LeDrew was hit in the arm by a bullet and fireman Gordon Locke, Jr., was hit in the shoulder while they were fighting the fire. Neither was believed severely hurt.

Fire broke out in the restaurant shortly after the shooting. Fire Chief Graham LeDrew was hit in the arm by a bullet while leading his men in the battle against the blaze.

The fire at one time threatened nearby buildings and a call for help was sent to the fire department at nearby Grand Falls.

Police surrounded the building and exchanged shots with the men. An attempt to drive them out with tear gas failed.

After the fire was brought under control police broke into the restaurant.

No explanation was given for the men's behavior. An informed source said James Ling closed up the restaurant as usual on Saturday night. When he didn't reopen for business and refused to admit employees police were asked to investigate.

When police entered the building after the fire was brought under control they found the bodies of the Lings in the bedroom. Beside the bodies were gauge shotgun, a .22-calibre rifle and a .303-calibre rifle.

RCMP Inspector A. W. Parsons said details of the shooting were "still vague." He said he knew only that the constables went to the restaurant to investigate a complaint.

Find All Springhill Bodies; Royal Commission Planned

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — A royal commission to investigate the Cumberland No. 2 upheaval Oct. 23 that killed 74 miners was announced Thursday night a few hours before the last two bodies were removed.

The body of Fidele Allen was the last brought to the surface after two weeks of digging and crawling through rubble and stope by bare-faced miners.

One hundred men were rescued in the bump that occurred two weeks ago in the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company colliery, deepest in North America.

Nineteen survivors were found alive after days and nights entombed without food and water. The disaster, second in two years, was the worst in Canadian coal mining history since the 1920s.

The royal commission is expected to have terms of reference similar to one which investigated

FIVE MEN LOST AS GAS DRILLING RIG TURNS OVER

Search Lake Erie For Missing Men

PORT BURWELL, Ont. (CP)— A United States coast guard cutter searched Lake Erie today for five men who were aboard an offshore gas-drilling rig when 60-mile-an-hour gales demolished it before dawn Thursday.

RCAF and U.S. planes were to join the hunt.

The men, who had begun to dismantle the four-legged platform and tower 14 miles off Long Point, Ont., were identified as: geologist Jack Bogan of Dawson, William Marsh Jr. and Leroy Bauwens, both of Bothwell, and George Mitchell and Walter Koziol, both of Dresden.

FIRST WORD

First word that the rig had disappeared came when Charles Bates, an employee on two power boats, reported he had picked up shipto-ship messages wondering why the rig had not "lit" (switched on) screens. A check revealed that the supervising tug had withdrawn from its anchorage in 40 feet of water.

Wreckage of the tower lay roughly 15 miles north of Erie and 20 miles east of the point where the tower and platform were linked. The installation was owned by Underwater Gas Developers Limited which rented the drilling and dismantling operation firm.

The rig was equipped with an inflatable raft capable of carrying 12 men. There were also two small 4-metre lifeboats and a smaller raft and life preservers.

The rig dismantling had reached the point where 4,270 feet of drill pipe had been hauled up and taken apart to be stacked under the platform. Some already had been moved to shore.

Diefenbaker Late Reaching Bonn As Result of Fog

BONN (Reuters) — Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived today for the start of an official visit to West Germany.

Fog at Gros Tenquin, France, on the prime minister's flight the night at the headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization delayed the take-off of his C-5 transport and caused him to arrive an hour later than expected.

The world-touring Diefenbaker, accompanied by Mrs. Diefenbaker in an airport speech that he looked forward to renewing the "candid discussions" he had with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had begun at NATO conferences in Bonn last December.

Adenauer, dressed in a dark blue overcoat, shook hands warmly with the Diefenbakers as they left the plane. West Germany's protocol chief, Dr. Sigismund von Braun, brother of rocket expert Wernher von Braun, handed Mrs. Diefenbaker a bouquet of orange carnations.

A 100-man West German army guard of honor in steel helmets and grey uniforms stood at attention. Diefenbaker walked bare-headed and in a dark grey coat, walked along the ranks with Adenauer and Defence Minister Strauss, inspector of the West German forces.

Eisenhower Says U.S. Suspension Will Continue

2 Shots Fired by Reds Since U.S. Ended Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States said today that Russia has fired two nuclear weapons tests since the U.S. halted testing. President Eisenhower said, however, that the American suspension will continue for the time being.

In a statement, Eisenhower appealed to the Soviet government to join in a temporary ban on experimental nuclear explosions.

At the same time he warned:

"If there is not shortly a corresponding renunciation by the Soviet Union (of testing), the United States will be obliged to reconsider its position."

AEC ANNOUNCEMENT

Announcement of the new nuclear explosions in the Soviet Union was made by the Atomic Energy Commission.

There was no implication in the AEC statement that the Russians might have thought the two tests would be decisive, although this was merely a speculation.

The AEC statement said:

"The Atomic Energy Commission today announced detection of two nuclear weapons tests conducted in the U.S.S.R. on Nov. 1 and Nov. 2, respectively.

NEW TEST SITE

"Both explosions were of relatively low yield. They were conducted at a test site in the southern part of the U.S.S.R. rather than at the Novaya Zemlya test site north of the Arctic Circle where most of the tests in recent weeks have been held."

Eisenhower in his statement said that "this continued testing by the Soviet Union has occurred despite the fact that negotiations for the suspension of testing of nuclear weapons have been under 31 been under way at Geneva."

The United States, he said, announced on Aug. 22 that it would recently with the opening of the Geneva negotiations it would suspend the testing for one year "unless testing is resumed by the Soviet Union."

RED TESTS IN SEPTEMBER

Russia suspended tests on March 31 and has not since resumed them in August. Soviet scientists started a new series at the end of September, Khrushchev arguing that this was necessary because the United States and Britain had not accepted the Russian proposal in March to halt all nuclear weapons tests.

Later, about Sept. 30, the Soviet government refused to OK U.S. British call for tests to halt for TORONTO (CP) — Talks resumed today in an effort to settle a strike of 200 Peterborough district workers at the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company who walked off their jobs on Oct. 9.

Conciliation officer R. B. Bradley said the talks were adjourned Oct. 17 to permit the company's vice-president and general manager, Allen Beech, to go to Europe.

Major Quake Born Deep in Pacific Rocks Japan but Damage Light

TOKYO (AP)—A major earthquake apparently deep in the Pacific rolled over northern Japan in a thunderous wave today. It was felt throughout Honshu, main island, but damage was light.

Unusual wave action was reported from Wake Island, east of Japan. An apparently weak tidal wave hit Hawaii. The Hawaiian islands of Oahu and Kauai reported rises of about one foot along their shores. There were no reports of injuries or damage.

The shock rumbled across Hokkaido for two terrifying minutes, beginning at 7:58 a.m. Lesser shocks surged as far south as Honshu, a distance of some 600 miles.

The fact that the earthquake's focus was estimated at 60 miles below the ocean floor east of Hokkaido was believed to have saved Japan from extensive loss.

It was Japan's worst earth shock in five years, ranging as high as intensity 5 on a Japanese scale of maximum 7. Japan's meteorological board estimated that at the point of origin, the shock hit 8 on the Richter scale of 10 maximum. That was almost as severe as the 8.25 jolt that wrecked San Francisco in 1906.

Hokkaido, second largest of the four main Japanese islands, has an area of 30,000 square miles and a population of nearly 4,000,000. Its mountain chains include many volcanos.

Argue Charges Information Was Concealed

HODGSON, Man. (CP)—COP House Leader Hazen Argue has accused Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government of "concealing" information from Parliament.

Speaking at a political rally Saturday, he said the government pushed spit-dumping laws through the Commons last summer "because very important representations against the legislation by the United States.

Mr. Argue said the government did not want "all the facts presented" because the U.S. representations would have strengthened arguments against the bill advanced by the opposition.

"It wanted the bill put through without change and it used its overwhelming majority to do so. It is disgusting that the new government should succumb so early in this very unedifying temptation to seek the easy way out of an embarrassing situation," he said.

United Appeal Drive Nearing $60,000 Mark

Belleville has a good chance of reaching this $18,000 of reaching its objective in the 1958 Belleville United Appeal Campaign, provided canvassers and other U.A. workers put in a special effort to complete their territories soon.

At a special meeting of the campaign committee and United Appeal directors held last night at the Y.M.C.A., Campbell Street, chairman Archie Lewis announced that with donations already received and money collected but not yet turned in to U.A. headquarters, the campaign is fast approaching the $60,000 mark.

He termed the '58 campaign a "partial success."

Mr. Lewis stated if all canvassers completed the kits in their possession, the amount received by the end of the campaign should exceed $70,000.

Approximately 300 kits have not as yet been turned into United Appeal headquarters.

Chairman Lewis again urged all team captains to continue encouraging their canvassers to complete their kits as soon as possible so the '58 campaign, now nearing its end, might be wound up.

He noted all members appointed "to help the campaign get off to a better results received recently. He said the fifth appeal ly appreciates the support given the campaign by the Ontario Provincial Police and Station CJBQ, which did a great deal to help advertise the appeal.

As the campaign nears its end, all Appeal workers are urged to make a special effort to complete their particular task as the Belleville United Appeal campaign will wind up as soon as possible, Mr. Lewis concluded.

Wear a Poppy

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

In 1921, 37 years ago, the poppy was first adopted by the Great War Veterans Association as the symbol of Remembrance in Canada.

This Friday evening and on Saturday the citizens of Belleville, in company with the citizens of over 2,000 communities in Canada, will once again be asked to remember the glorious dead of two world wars by the simple act of wearing the blood red poppy, and where possible, by displaying in places of business, churches, schools and in the windows of homes a poppy memorial wreath.

The National Poppy Campaign is both a debt to the dead and a duty to the living. In perpetuating the memory of the glorious dead, it imposes attention on the awful consequences of war. It tries to give meaning, to the sacrifice made by some 100,000 Canadians who died in the war.

The object of the campaign and the subsequent wearing of the poppy at thousands of cenotaphs says in effect: "This is the price a nation pays for war."

Today under the spectre of the H-bomb it reminds us that the price of another war would be terrifyingly greater.

In the city the poppy campaign is conducted by the Belleville Poppy Committee comprised of representatives from the Canadian Legion, the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association, the RCAF Association and the Red Cross.

FUND USED FOR WELFARE WORK

All profits derived from the sale of poppies and wreaths, after payment to the Veterans Shops for the purchase of poppy emblems, are retained in the Belleville Poppy Fund and administered by the committee to provide emergency assistance in needy cases, their dependents and the dependents of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

Local assistance takes many forms. It may be aid to a disabled veteran temporarily unable to provide his family with the necessities of life, payment of medical bills for a veteran in financial straits when D.V.A. hospitalization is not available and so-on.

Whatever the cause, as long as it is a just one, all veterans and their dependents may look to the Poppy Fund for assistance. Since all work is done voluntarily all the profits are reserved for this work.

Incidentally, like everything else, the cost of all the things the Poppy Fund provides is much higher today than it used to be. Therefore it takes more money to do the same job.

Canada asks very little in the way of sacrifice from its ordinary citizens. We, of the Belleville Poppy Committee, and the other organizations united with us in this national campaign ask only that you give generously to the Poppy Fund, and wear your poppy proudly so that all Canadians may give thought at least one day in the year to the high cost of freedom.

"They grow not old as we who are left grow old,
Age does not weary them nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them."

Les Digby, chairman,
Belleville Poppy Committee

Senior Citizens Hold Hallowe'en Party at Centre

The Senior Citizens held their Hallowe'en Party on Wednesday evening at the Kiwanis Centre with a good attendance and a good turnout in costume.

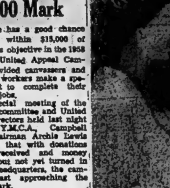
President Jim Brennan opened the meeting with the singing of the National Anthem. One minute of silence was observed for a late member Mr. Bowie, who passed away while on holiday in the states. "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung and Mr. Robertson sang "The Old Rugged Cross."

The music was provided by Mr. Bruce Sills and Mrs. Grace Wilson, who played for round and square dancing and parade of all those in costume. Mrs. Grace Wilson and Mr. Bruce Sills were the judges of the masquerade. The best dressed lady was Mrs. Holohan, the best dressed gent was Mr. Harry Scales and the best dressed comic went to Mrs. Thorn. A sing song was led by Mrs. Drummond and the ladies' auction table provided the program between the dances.

Mrs. Scrow sang "O Canada" in French and Italian and a trio of Mrs. Drummond, Mr. Robertson and Mr. Taylor sang two old favorite songs by request. All the talent got a good ovation.

The lucky draw was won by Mrs. Holohan and Mrs. Clapp.

A big "thank you' to Miss Helen Cook for her donation of song sheets and music book for the club.



The singing of "O Canada", brought a wonderful Hallowe'en Party to a close. A very happy crowd sat down to a lovely lunch provided by Mrs. Cook and her committee.

A special welcome to all persons 60 and over. Come and join us and have a good time. The club meets the first Wednesday in every month at 7.30 p.m. in the Kiwanis Centre.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices were uneven this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Top grades sold fully steady on some classes of steers and cows and higher in others. All lower grades were slow except canner and cutter cows, which were steady. Lightweight heifers sold fairly well, however, lower grades and fat cow heavy heifers were difficult to dispose of at steady money. Good and choice vealers sold fully steady at steady prices. Top grades of bulcher cows were under pressure with little or no price change noticed. Lower grade cows continue to sell actively strong.

Veal calves were actively strong with numerous heavy rough calves slow and hard to sell. Hog prices were steady and lamb prices were slightly higher at the close. Bulls were in broad demand at the first two firm prices.

Cattle receipts were about 300 head fewer than last week and some 300 head fewer than the same week in 1957. Receipts of western cattle were more than double those of last week at 374 head, in addition to the western slaughter cattle were 204 western stock calves. Shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers were seven carloads, a decrease under last week of one carload. There were no exports to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 24.50-25 with sales to 25.50; good 23.50-24.50; medium 21.50 — 23; common 19.50-21; a few choice heifers sold at 23-; good 21.50-22.50; medium 19-21; common 17.50-19; choice fed yearlings 25-26 with numerous steer calves at 26.50; rdd tops at 27; good 23.50-24.50 . good cows 16-18.50 with sales to 19; medium 15-16; common 14-15; canners and cutters 13-14; good heavy bologna bulls 20 with sales to 20.50; common and medium 18-19.50.

Replacement cattle: Good stockers 25-28 with stock calves 28-30; common stockers 22-24.

Calves: Good veal calves 30-34 with choice to 34.25; mediums 26-29; commons 19-26; boners 13-18.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs 18.50-19.50; heavy sorts 17; light, sows 18; stags 18 0 hundredweight on a dressed factor.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs 18.50-19.50; heavy sorts 17; light, sows 18; stags 18 0 hundredweight on a dressed factor.

However the second half of last week in lambs finished as far as steps were in concerned and the forms for the movement are being put in place.

It is also expected the bridge will be closed down for three days this time as the cement pour is wider than it was on the north side, by about two feet.

With the entire length of the bridge being 300 feet it will take three pours of 120 feet to complete it and as was found necessary on the north side traffic will have to be kept off the bridge to enable the cement truck to have free movement on the span while the quick-drying cement is being poured.

It was also reported that the cement would not have been installed in the structure and fol. lowing the pouring of the cement on the deck the remaining work will be chiefly under the bridge on the piers and the painting.

The support rods have been installed from the top of the overhead bridgework down through the stress on the deck of the bridge and are equipped with a turnbuckle to enable them to be tightened or slackened as tightness is necessary from time to time.

On the piers the old cement will be chipped off and aluminum sheets will be put around them at the water line and the space between the sheets and the former cement will be filled with new concrete. The aluminum sheets will act as the former to hold in the cement and will be left there to give added protection for the piers against the water and ice.

The bridge will only receive the primary coating of paint this fall and will be given two coats of permanent paint some time next spring.

The contracting firm reports that work on the bridge is progressing on schedule and that weather conditions generally have been a great help in keeping things going along smoothly. They would not comment on the possibilities of the work being finished and the bridge opened to two-way traffic before the finishing date as set out in their contract.

20 MAROONED

and nine civilians were to be flown to Thule and then to Ladd Air Force Base, Fairbanks, Alaska.

The 10-foot-thick ice floe, first manned as an IGY scientific station in the spring of 1957, was ripped into two 1,000-foot-square pieces when the storm broke over it Sunday.

The men were marooned on the camp-site half. The runway used to supply the station was on the other half of the severed floe.

The marooned men dashed by small boat across 75 miles of open water and ill flares to guide the rescue plane into a landing.

Firemen Out To Minor Blazes

TRENTON — Five trucks have been called out twice in the past few days for minor fires which caused little or no damage at all.

Yesterday the firemen went to the King Street United Church where two boys were reported to have started some heavier to fire near the building. The firemen quickly put it out and soaked the area before leaving down with water to make sure it didn't occur again. The police were notified as to who the boys were and it is expected they will deal with the lads' parents.

At about 7:45 this morning the truck was called over to the east side of the river to the home of Mr. Stevenson at 177 Marmora St., where an oil burner had flooded.

It was reported there was oil all over the floor and coming from the heater but it had not ignited. Firemen said it could have been a serious fire if it had.

There was no fire damage and the firemen quickly corrected the trouble.

Dogs Fight Coon, Fear It May Have Had Rabies

TRENTON — Residents of Fairview Crescent called police yesterday to investigate a raccoon which was fighting with some dogs in the vicinity.

It is not known as yet if the coon was rabid but the carcass has been sent away for tests by the proper authorities.

The raccoon was apparently selling the worst of his fight with the dogs and was on his last legs when the police arrived.

The police, rather than shoot the wild animal in the vicinity of homes, killed the suffering animal unconscious and then took him into the woods, where he died from him.

They brought the remains back to town and had it sent away for tests. If a negative report comes back on the animal having rabies the "pressure" will be taken off the dogs involved in the fight. If the raccoon was rabid the dogs, of course, will all have to be impounded.

RCAF Officers Hear Talks on Red Weathermen

TRENTON — Air Vice Marshal J. G. Bryans, accompanied by Eastern RCAF Staff Officers from the Training Command Headquarters, visited Toronto recently to hear talks by Drs. Thomson and Dr. Warren Godson, director and superintendent of Research for the Canadian Weather Service, speak on "Meteorology in the Soviet Union."

Their addresses were presented at a special dinner meeting of the Canadian Branch of the Royal Meteorological Society which was attended with a national conference of officers - in - charge of Canada's civil forecast offices.

Doctors Thomson and Godson have recently completed a six-month tour of the Russian Hydro-meteorological Service. Visits were made to meteorological offices and educational institutions throughout the length and breadth of Russia.

Earlier this year, Dr. A. A. Solotoukhine, director of the Russian Hydrometeorological Service, and Dr. Pridorkine, director of the Hydrometeorological Research Institute at Kiev, toured civil meteorological offices and educational institutions in Canada.

By an arrangement made some time ago, exchange visits between the Canadian and the U. S. S. R. Services were set up so that senior members of each service would visit the other country for approximately one month, to become better acquainted with organization, working methods and personnel.

Although the content of the addresses has not been released as yet, it is understood that the science of meteorology has assumed considerable importance in the Soviet Union. The scope of Russian meteorological research is very extensive, involving hundreds, if not thousands, of skilled scientists carrying out special research in many branches of the fields of agricultural meteorology, hydrology and long range forecasting using electronic machines.

A free exchange of scientific meteorological papers and day-to-day weather information has been carried on for many years between East and West. The Canadian visitors found that the Russians were completely up-to-date on Canadian research and practice in the field of practical use.

Arrangements for the RCAF representation at this Royal Meteorological Society meeting were made by Dean Bolton, RCAF Staff Officer Meteorology, Trenton, and Commander of the Unit assisted by Dave Parkinson, Senior Meteorological Officer, RCAF Station, Trenton.

No Accidents

TRENTON — No accidents have been reported to, or investigated by, the Trenton Detachment since the worker who fell into the Trent River from the bridge on Monday morning.

The fact there have been no accidents on the bridge could well be attributed to the fact that much of the thorough traffic is now proceeding along the 401 direct to Highway No. 30 which has been south to Brighton and on No. 2 again. This relieves the traffic through Trenton.

U.S. May Move To Break up General Motors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Possible government anti-trust action to break up General Motors Corporation, the world's largest car maker, is recommended by Senate investigators.

However, Republican Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois takes strong issue with this proposal by the Democratic majority of the anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee.

He described the majority report issued Thursday as being "handicapped by errors."

POSSIBLE ACTION

Recommending that the justice department consider court action against General Motors, the majority said:

"The hard core of the monopoly problem in the automobile industry is in the concentration of production and power held by GM."

The report said that General Motors accounts for about 55 per cent of U.S. auto production and "plays the key role in setting price levels for the whole industry."

NO COMMENT

In Detroit General Motors spokesmen declined comment.

The report, based on hearings earlier this year, contended that price competition has disappeared in the industry. And it criticized what it called overemphasis on high-priced styling changes, advertising, promotion and misleading auto financing practices.

Substantial price reductions could be made without any sacrifice in profits, the report said, if auto makers curbed expenditures for styling, advertising and selling in connection with frequent model changes.

Dissenting from the report, Dirksen said:

"Without specifically charging wrong-doing against anyone, the majority's report suggest improper and illegal practices by an important and successful industry which are unsupported in the record."

Trade Figures Show Russia Big Exporter

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

AP Foreign News Analyst

Foreign trade figures released in Moscow show that the Soviet Union is on the way to becoming one of the most important exporters of basic commodities and raw materials.

Some of these are new. Others are traditional—Russian and Soviet exports now being sent abroad in larger quantities.

Among them are oil, oil products, coal, including anthracite, iron and chrome ores, pig iron, steel, ferrous metal products, lumber, cotton, flax and grain. Earlier this year the Soviet Union disturbed both aluminum and tin markets by heavy exports.

Russia is not a new exporter of oil. In the early days of the petroleum industry it was the world's largest petroleum exporter. Since the Revolution, however, the Soviet Union has not ranked among important oil exporters.

But this is changing. In 1957, for instance, 13,700,000 tons of oil and oil products were sold abroad by the U.S.S.R.—three per cent over 1956. This amounted to not quite six per cent of Russia's production. The weights given here are in metric tons of 2,205 pounds).

This figure is also interesting the world coal market. It exported 8,500,000 tons in 1957, an increase of 56 per cent.

Pig iron exports totalled nearly 1,300,000 tons in 1957. Exports of steel and rolled steel were nearly 2,000,000 tons.

The 1938 pre-war level. Lumber and timber are traditionally among the most important Russian exports. Total lumber exported in 1957 was 3,500,000 cubic metres. The Soviet Union supplied about 15 per cent of the needs of Western European countries, it is estimated.

The Iron Curtain claims to rank second in the world as exporter of cotton—700,000 tons in 1957. Some of this likely was re-exports of Egyptian cotton received in payment for arms.

Soviet grain exports doubled to 7,400,000 tons—more than was exported by Australia or Argentina, retreating glaciers.

NO PUNCHES PULLED

Deputy Metropolitan Police Chief Albert Lee, acting chief said "if the men are guilty or involved, they will be prosecuted to the limit and no pulling about it, and no punches pulled as far as I am concerned."

Metropolitan Chairman Gardiner was insistent. He said the arrests "came at a time when the force was being integrated and mobilized into one of the best police forces in America."

He said an investigation of the police commission will be called.

All of the arrested police officers are married except Doherty and they are all from No. 19 station.

Attorney-General Roberts said although he has the power to order an inquiry, he feels the case is within the metropolitan framework and the proper steps will be taken by metropolitan Toronto authorities.

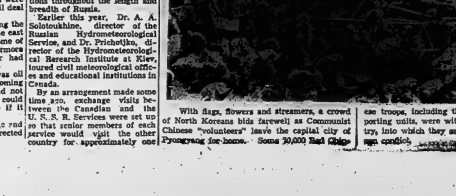
He said if the charges stand up in court there might be a need for a study of the qualifications required for police officers.

INQUIRY IN AUGUST

Insp. Dinan opened an investigation into the number of breaking in No. 19 division shortly after his transfer there in August from Court Street station.

He relieved Insp. Tom Mercer who was transferred to Court Street and who later asked for a demotion to sergeant and a posting to a less active division. This was done.

It is not believed that any members of a newly-formed squad to investigate a rising incidence in break-ins and burglaries took part in investigation of the arrests.



Also the arrested officers are less than 30 years old and have been on the force for periods ranging from three to eight years.

All their service has been in North York and all have been in No. 19 division since it was established a few years ago.

SPENDING AND PRICES

The Canadian Press reports that federal authorities estimate that Canadian consumers may spend a record $21,000,000,000 in 1959. This compares with $19,788,000,000 spent in 1957 and an estimate that $20,600,000,000 will be spent this year.

This anticipated increase in consumer expenditure is interpreted as good news -- as both an indication that Canada is slowly emerging from the recession and as "a strong prop for a gradually expanding economy."

We admit to some misgivings as to whether it is permissible to interpret a development as at one and the same time an effect and a cause of the same set of economic circumstances. Perhaps, though, that is an unfair interpretation of these observations. A more accurate way of putting it might be that the increased consumer spending will be the effect of past improvements in the economic outlook and the cause of future strengthening of the economy. In other words, we are back on the prosperity merry-go-round, which once it picks up momentum should whirl faster and faster. This leaves unanswered the question of what started the merry-go-round spinning in the first place and why, after recession set in, we have been spared a lengthy spin in that direction. Economists, no doubt, will have an answer -- or rather we should say several answers, almost as many different answers as there are economists. Nevertheless, we're puzzled.

We are somewhat puzzled, too, to relate the elation over the prospect of increased consumer spending with the concern over the continuing climb in the consumer price index. Another rise, to a record 125.6 on Sept. 1, was reported by The Canadian Press last week and it cheerily accounted the increased consumer spending in 1959. Now almost everybody agrees that the climb in the consumer price index is alarming. But won't increased consumer spending tend to push it even higher, at an even faster rate? A partial answer to that is provided by an observation in the story we mentioned concerning prospects. "There still may be many surpluses in consumer products, tending to impose restraints on price rises," we are told. Good. But that will be true of only some products -- most of them, we suspect, the products of the farm. Increased consumer spending will almost certainly push some other prices higher.

Is this a good thing? The answer, surely, must be in the negative. Unfortunately an increased demand is necessary to support certain sections of the economy and it seems that, in a free economy, there is no way to prevent that increased demand from operating also in the other sections where its effects will not be so beneficial. It almost seems that prosperity and higher prices are like the popular song's evaluation of love and marriage -- you can't have one without the other. It is to be hoped that this evaluation of economic circumstances is as wrong as the one in the song without marriage and marriage without love being fairly commonplace, as a glance through any daily newspaper will show. The trouble is that while the connection between prices and prosperity, while not desirable, may be true.

There is one thought about prices, though, which provides some comfort. Before the defeat of the Liberal Government, in the spring of 1957, there were some Cassandras who were declaring that a runaway inflation was inevitable, that no matter which party won the election the result would be the same, that the Liberals had set a summer date for the vote because by fall the nation would be in dire distress. We have experienced a considerable amount of unemployment, and prices have continued to rise in spite of the deflationary influence of unemployment, but we have survived. Our present lot would be considered enviable by the peoples of most of the nations of the world. So perhaps, in spite of every indication to the contrary, we may yet find some way of grasping this nettle prosperity without feeling the sting of high prices.

U.S. NEEDS CANADA

In all the current talk about re-appraising and revamping United States policies in our own hemisphere, we see no mention of Canada. This can be a serious oversight -- as costly and as vitally important to U.S. interests as our foul-up in Latin America. (Indianapolis Times.)

THERE'S NOTHING TO IT
By EDGAR A. GUEST

I speak from experience, brother;
I've tested the plan, and I know
The story they tell one another
To lessen the force of the blow.
For even they have worked this old story:
That two lives as cheaply as one;
Forget it! It's ancient and hoary;
I tell you it cannot be done.

They told it to me, and I tried it;
They're telling it now every day;
I think it quite time to deride it.
You mustn't believe what they say.

I wonder who started the fable
That two live as cheaply as
That notion I want to disable;
I tell you it cannot be done.

I smile when I hear someone say it,
Though once I received it as true;
If they stopped a moment to weigh it
They'd doubt it, as married folks do.

It's really a nice bit of jolly,
That two live as cheaply as one;
But in truth it's the wildest of folly;
I tell you it cannot be done.

The Generals and Policy

By ARTHUR BLAKELY in The Montreal Gazette.

For some years now, members of a gaunt little band of disgruntled soldiers on the retired list have scrutinized every development in the field of defence policy with anxious eyes. They have received much in the manner of rabid supporters of a Big Four football team that isn't performing up to expectation. They have second-guessed the quarterback, criticized his every move and, on occasion, tried to send in a few choice plays of their own.

Oddly enough, their best efforts have inspired only rarely another who never seemed to be able to adjust himself to the new situation. Ex - Prime Minister Louis S. St. Laurent was usually moved to comment only when he solicited counsel having to do with defence matters and, on at least one occasion, he expressed sharply that the generals were alarmists.

When the Conservatives finally won a general election and the Hon. Ralph Campney was given the defence portfolio, there was a theory that the generals would gradually fade away into the background. They had never commanded the popular unswerving affection for the Conservatives. But the news minister was, after all, a published soldier (Major - General, retired) in his own right who had long been a fellow - critic in the defence policy field.

Shortly after he became Minister of National Defence, Mr. Pearkes let it be known that he wished to drop the title of "general" as applied to himself and be addressed simply as "Mr. Pearkes, henceforth, he said, from that moment on," he received the benefit of the published dicta of some of the same professional critics who had once cried, "Generals to the rear!" Mr. Pearkes, Claxton and Campney on the royal road to success in the defence policy field.

One of the most urgent problems dumped in Mr. Pearkes' lap by Defence Minister was involved the fate of the controversial and expensive all-Canadian manned jet interceptor, the CF-105 Arrow.

The generals had been critical of this project when it was still in the days of Major - Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former Adjutant-General, had a feeling that the Arrow would keep them, obsolete. Lt. - Gen. Guy Simonds, Chief of the Canadian General Staff, was positive. Long before the first Arrow, even in the hangar, he described the huge expenditures earmarked for development as money down the drain." Both warned that the Defence Department's preoccupation with air power was a snare and a delusion and a gigantic expensive variety of bosh, at that. Gen. Simonds, in particular, argued persuasively that the Arrow program should be junked.

Which is just about what happened to the Arrow, a few weeks ago.

The generals, however, remain critical. They now argue that the BOMARC missile, which the Government is to buy to replace the Arrow from Canada's air defence system, is every bit as obsolete as the Arrow. If not more so.

Mr. Pearkes ordered the other day that the RCAF would be a missile force by 1961 and force without aircraft. He and others, he said, had warned for years that the RCAF would get themselves some up-to-date airplane the Air Force would just disappear." Though just what aircraft in the world could be considered up-to-date" if the Arrow is as obsolete as Gen. Macklin asserts, he did not make clear.

In his view, the RCAF needs two types of planes. One is a short take-off transport aircraft, and the other a fighter to perform personnel with their weapons and supplies to any point on the globe. Such an aircraft, couldn't be, says he described as "a flying Queen" with concrete runways.

The other essential aircraft, Gen. Macklin holds, is one "that can intervene in a land battle in support of the ground forces entering it."

As far as the air defence of Canada is concerned, Gen. Macklin has this to say in his book:

"There are too many ways now to deliver H bombs for any defence system to be effective in the deterrent and nowhere else."

He would have the Defence Department, in other words, concentrate on a war (deterrent) rather than nuclear weapons which, he says, overemphasize Canadian air defence.

But Lt.-Gen. Simonds, on this point doesn't agree.

"All our efforts in the field of defence," he told a parliamentary committee, "and our material warfare should now be directed to seeking an effective defence against the ballistic missile."

He points out: "If a defence can be evolved that can deal effectively with the ballistic missile it will also deal with any possible version of a winged missile [such as the BOMARC, which is one] favors an anti-missile missile. And remember that this is the concentrated trend in this field.

Time to Buy Was Year Ago

Windsor Star

A current quip has its humorous aspect. It does define, however, the evils of inflation. It is: "Financial statistics prove the only thing that's cheaper is inaction.

"Everything is cheaper than a year ago." That's precisely what they do prove.

In an inflationary period most things are more cheaper a year ago than now. They also will be cheaper now than a year hence. That's the fundamental facts about inflation. The idea of "buy now instead of later" may save the purchaser money in the immediate sense. But it boosts inflation and, costing him more in the long run.

This really is the answer to those who protest around them of inflation keeps the economy buoyant. Trouble is, there is no prosperity that can be kept modest; be restrained within limits. Inflation, by its very indeed nature, is on itself, even though it may impoverish millions in the process.

Socialite Drops Fork

Brockville Recorder and Times

In the harassment of the week is the announcement by the Socialist Party that the Canada Social Register has been received by the public with mixed reactions.

In Brockville, (we've yet to see a copy), we have had impressions appearing upon its pages are less than flattering to some of them know the local agent of the Register, others are not. Some are in it, and it is the person responsible for Brockville's social register and it may be that he is slightly "puckish" about some things.

Take the gentle reference that Maggie Grant did about her Kingston social group -- "The Beautiful" this part especially:

"When interviewed at her home, Mrs. Grant received this reporter wearing tasteful blue slacks and a pale "T" shirt, a contrasting red bandana concealing her pin curls. When invited to dinner she was among the elite, she dropped her manure fork in delight."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the radio the other night I heard a panel of three journalized ladies and genis discussing culture. Canadian culture. And they certainly seemed, one more I realized that they were each talking about something different. So I got the dictionary, and sure enough, there are ten differences of culture. In three of four definitions, any one of which could have been in the mind of the different panelists, that are nearest the subject they were really trying to discuss, are these:

Development or improvement by education or training.

Enlightenment or refinement resulting from such development.

A particular state or stage of civilization, as in the case of certain nation or period; such as Greek culture.

The sum total of ways of living built up by a group of human beings and transmitted from one generation to another.

One of the panelists thought culture meant opera and the ballet. Another thought it was a pale "T" shirt, a contrasting red bandana concealing her pin curls. When invited to dinner she was among the elite, she dropped her manure fork in delight."

Legs Source Of Rhythm

BBC London Letter

"Music fundamentally comes from two physical sources," said Sir Adrian Sargent, the well-known conductor in the BBC's television service. "One is obviously the rhythm of the heart and the voice with inflections that the art of medicine has long associated one's voice rises; if one gets gloomy or sad or the voice falls, as a result of a pressure on the heart.

"The other is the rhythm of the legs. The legs are the instrument of rhythm whatever it is and sinking in reasons of depression of solemnity." To speak of being 'lose deaf was complete nonsense, he said. A tone deaf person could not carry on an ordinary conversation correctly.

"What is more interesting," Sir Malcolm went on, "is the other part of our physical anatomy which governs rhythm. That is strangely enough, is the legs. We have two legs of equal strength and because of that it is not possible for us to move without moving rhythmically. Self-right. right. Obviously if we evolve a little in our art from one-sided asymmetry to one-foot-and-then the other, we have what is known as a waltz.

The rhythmic step of the human legs, because they were of the same strength, was extremely complicated. Even in a primitive life Sir Malcolm said, the primitive stamping of the feet could be developed into hand clapping and eventually into a dance. The rhythm was kept.

"Ordinary straightforward rhythm is inherent in the human body. Just as we move rhythmically when we walk, having two legs, we clap because of our arms being the same length; and from this all music, particularly jazz music, arises. It is fascinating to think that, when we hear jazz or a half a kangaroo, with a long and a short leg, our natural gait would have been a jerky skip, and the ordinary left-right would be a very been then a form of syncopation."

DUODENAL ULCERS REQUIRE A BLAND DIET

"Dear Dr. Molner: X-rays show I have a small hernia of the esophagus. Since these ailments are the same as for ulcers, should diet be the same? How about alcohol, coffee, cigars? Will this condition heal or must I remain on a bland diet for the rest of my life? Odiests creamed foods. Also, this is hard on a man who isn't a vitamin supplement necessary for this type of diet? I am also very nervous and tense. G.M."

An ulcer is a raw spot in the mucous membrane of skin — and just as Alaska has a lot of coastline, the human body has a lot of such membrane and skin.

Here we're talking about an ulcer in the duodenum or in the stomach — and the patient wants to know about a hernia or rupture where the gullet comes through the diaphragm.

Yes, Mr. G. M., is right. The symptoms are similar — and the treatment is just as similar. (There are different types of hernia or hiatal hernias, are not uncommon. Secretaries' Ideal Boss

The German Bulletin

The outcome of a recent interview-questionnaire among secretaries, undertaken by West German experts, is of interest, research methods, shows that the majority of secretaries have an entirely different concept of the "ideal boss" from what tradition, many employers themselves think. Who would have it. Not the young, gay and flirtatious type by any means. He is said to work for, but the older, married, silent man who makes no passes, who draws between his private life and h i s sphere of work, who is friendly but who they entirely agreed with earlier generations of secretaries. Not the "ideal boy" for should be well-dressed. Married bosses were preferred to bachelor by 74 per cent of the interrogated secretaries and older employers by 72 per cent, and 79 per cent said they did not wish to have social contacts with their employers' families, and 85 per cent that they liked to work for married men.

Questioned on the manner in which they prefer a boss to react when there is reason for reproof, 91 per cent of the women interviewed said they preferred that he him lose his temper than express criticism with "biting irony".

Strength for The Day

TO FORGIVE OURSELVES

In yesterday's column we dwelt on the necessity for truly loving ourselves and entering face to face with our faults in order to improve ourselves. But there is another step beyond self-acceptance. We must forgive ourselves.

Whenever we make a close examination of ourselves and o u r motives, we inevitably will find much to be disappointed and ashamed about. We will discover evidences of failure, weakness, blindness, and sin. Such an examination is sure to bring on feelings of discouragement and even depair.

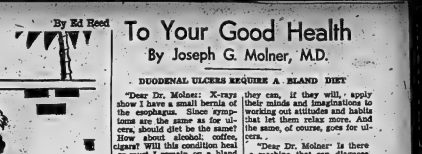
But we cannot live the best and most useful lives burdened down with feelings of guilt. We need peace of heart. We need fresh start that only the state of being forgiven provides. "Forgive us our trespasses," we pray; and forgiveness will help bring about the fulfillment of this prayer by forgiving ourselves.

Forgiveness is as necessary as self-knowledge. We must forgive ourselves as a part of penitence, that we may be reconciled with ourselves. Somehow, for better or worse, we must keep on living with ourselves the rest of our lives, and the fact that we can, but not despairing because we have not been saved. Thousands of those suicides which occur every year are a shocking record of the unfortunate people who have not become reconciled to themselves.

Know yourself, yes. But be prepared to forgive yourself, too.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS



YOU CAN

The first of these brief talks were ever published in book form. The book was called "You Can." It went into 12 editions, had a run of print, and I am not sorry. I kept one copy as a curiosity. But now, more than 30 years later, the publication was the name. Why? Well, I had a talk with a man who went through High School at Colborne, Victoria University, Ottawa, Kansas. My son was a student at Queen's College. Now, anything that I doubted I could do, a h e would come right back to me and say: "George, You Can!" And so that motto has followed me through my entire life.

Just to say "You Can" is an older person, who may doubt his or her ability to do a certain thing is like adding power to a machine. No one wants to believe that there is anything he cannot do. Often when it is "impossible" such a person thinks that he can manage. Things, words should be over the door of one's head. Remember Alice? One "It Couldn't Be Done, But He Did It!"

The experts told E. H. Harriman, the great railroad man of his time, that his plan to lay tracks of building a bridge across 1 h e Golden Gate was a fool-hardish and couldn't be done. Effort after effort failed, but Harriman told his engineers Guess entitled: "You Can, and You Will!" Today we have gone over that bridge several times. Many said that you couldn't build a tunnel under the Hudson River, but it was done. I get a thrill every time I go through it. Be a You Can person! You'll live longer — and happier.

Plan Chemical Institute Meet At Cobourg

Some forty members and friends from this district, from Belleville, Trenton, Deseronto, Tulpihide and Corbyville, are expected to attend a meeting of the Chemical Institute of Canada, to be held at Cobourg on Wednesday, November 12.

The meeting will hear an address, "The Titanium Story," by Mr. L. Firing, assistant general manager of Canadian Titanium Pigments Ltd., Montreal.

LUDVIG FIRING

The Titanium Story is mainly the development of Titanium Oxide Pigments. Although Titanium is one of the 4th most commonly occurring elements in the crust of the earth, Titanium Oxide was rarely known outside the laboratory forty years ago. It has now grown to a major chemical industry with a world production of nearly 1,000,000 tons.

In the last few years almost everybody has heard about Titanium metal and while it is not made in Canada as yet, there are several manufacturers and fabricators of Titanium metal in the United States and elsewhere. On account of its corrosion resistance it is finding increasing use in the Chemical Industry. Some Titanium compounds have found limited uses but markets for them have not been develop to any great extent. The film, "The Ninth Element," shows some aspects of the manufacture and uses of Titanium Oxide.

The gathering is a dinner meeting, to be held at the Chateau Hotel in Cobourg at 6.30 p.m., and besides the members from this district it is anticipated that another forty members from Cobourg and district will also be in attendance.

Belleville members will meet at Albert College at 5.30 p.m. prior to leaving for Cobourg.

Extend Free Blood Service So Red Cross Society Here Looks for 600 More Donors

The Canadian Red Cross Society and the Ontario Hospital Services Commission yesterday jointly announced an extension of the Red Cross blood transfusion program, under which free blood transfusions will be provided for patients in Ontario hospitals.

The first move will be to extend the already existing service in Metropolitan Toronto hospitals to hospitals along Lake Ontario shore as far east as, and including Belleville, to hospitals north from Toronto and west to Sault Ste. Marie. This extension of service will be in operation by the end of this year. The second phase, to be completed as early as possible in 1959, will result in the inclusion in the plan of hospitals in Western Ontario, and in the area east from this city to the Quebec border, north to Ottawa and along the Ottawa River to North Bay.

The Belleville General Hospital, which is covered by the first phase of the extension, will get a quotidian weekly quota of blood from the district depot in Toronto.

Patients here had "already been relieved of the necessity of procuring blood donors to replace the blood they received in transfusions. This was affected by the Belleville branch of the Red Cross Society this past spring, when it arranged for a series of clinics.

Far from eliminating the need for further blood donations here the new plan makes it necessary to obtain additional donors. Instead of a large number of small clinics, it is planned to hold four or six large clinics during a year. This means that the escalating list of donors will have to be enlarged, in order that the Belleville branch of the Red Cross can be assured of having a sufficient number of donors when a mobile clinic calls here.

The blood will be taken from here to Toronto and then shipped out on the requisition of the hospital.

It is expected that the first mobile clinic will be held here within the next month, although the date and the place have not yet been decided. At present 900 donors are enrolled here. This donor panel must be increased to about 1,500. Donors can be expected to be called twice or three times a year, for half to three-quarters of an hour at each clinic. A screening process is staged to make certain the donor is able to give blood without injury to himself or herself.

Donors may enroll on the panel by telephoning WOodland 2-5408 and giving the operator their name, address and telephone number.

52 CLINICS HELD

Since March, when the free blood service was started here, the Belleville branch of the Red Cross and the Belleville General Hospital have co-operated in holding 33 clinics, the first on March 4 and the last on October 14. Thirty of these 33 clinics were held at the hospital here. Seven were held at the Quinte Trenton Air Station, the last clinic in each of the months of April, August and September, through the courtesy of the commanding officer and the goodwill of the personnel of the Station who came to the rescue when the clients of the district did not meet their quota of donations. In all there were 52 complete donations at these 33 clinics, an average of about 19 clients with 24 incomplete donations and 147 rejects. With the number of clinics sharply reduced, to four or six a year, the number of donors at each clinic will have to be proportionately increased and it is for this reason, that 600 additional donors are required.

Old-Fashioned Solidarity Knits Rockefeller Family

NEW YORK (AP) — An old-fashioned solidarity knits the Rockefeller family, and Mrs. Mary Rockefeller, wife of the governor-elect of New York, fits the pattern all the way.

She's completely the wife and mother.

A tall, reserved woman, of genteel manner, the new first lady of New York reflected that heritage in her husband's moment of triumph.

Her concern was with her children—and with him.

"This is a very high moment in Nelson's career," she said. "I'm very proud of him."

And in the jubilation that surrounded the 50-year-old Nelson Rockefeller on his election as governor, Mrs. Rockefeller occupied herself with shepherding their five children.

"Stay all together," she told them quietly, guiding them to his side. "Hold hands."

She daubed quickly at her eyes, bright with tears. But she was smiling, too, in her discreet way, and she gazed devotedly at her husband.

For Mrs. Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller—known as "Tod" to her close friends—the spotlight of public attention comes as an unfamiliar thing.

She's never cared for it, even shunned it, dedicating herself to her home, the circle of family friends, and the many Rockefeller youngsters.

But the Nov. 4 election projected her, unavoidably, into a new public role.

"I'm not a very experienced lady at those things," she said.

In a sense, Mrs. Rockefeller's tasteful, domestic leanings personify a characteristic of her husband's family, the close ties of the heirs of their grandfather's oil millions.

The Rockefeller brothers have always enjoyed each other closely on plans and projects and maintain a joint office. There had been a family conference about it before Nelson sought the governorship.

His wife comes from an old American family, the Clarks of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Rockefeller were married 22 years ago, in 1930, right after he graduated from Dartmouth.

FIVE CHILDREN

They have three sons, Rodman, Stephen and Michael, and two daughters, Mary and Ann (now Mrs. Robert L. Pierson).

Although her husband has always been a Republican, Mrs. Rockefeller registered in 1956 as a member of the Liberal party, a frequent ally of Democrats in New York state. She is a close friend of Mrs. Averell Harriman whose husband was beaten in his bid for re-election by Rockefeller.

The Rockefellers live in a twenty - room penthouse apartment in New York City and also have homes in Pocantico Hills and North Tarrytown, N.Y.; Seal Harbor, Me., and Washington, D.C. They also have a ranch in Venezuela.

Teamsters Reject Proposals to Settle Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC) Thursday night rejected proposals by the Quebec Truckers Association aimed at settling a wage dispute.

Further talks were scheduled Monday. They are aimed at heading off a threatened strike by 2,500 Montreal junk drivers.

The truckers' association Thursday asked chief labor conciliator Cyprien Miron to intervene if a deadlock occurs.

Meanwhile a work stoppage by 670 drivers was settled Thursday. It involved about 400 men at Kingsway - Transport Limited and about 70 at Hill the Mover (Quebec) Limited and Motorways Limited.

Highway drivers are to receive 77? for hauls between Montreal and New York, a 5?? increase. Highway drivers on provincial runs are to receive an increase of ¼-cent a mile each of the next three years. They now make about eight cents a mile.

Drivers on hourly rates are to receive $17.50 retroactively and eight-cent hourly increases each year.

In the main dispute the drivers originally sought three-year contracts providing 15-cent wage increases each year. Present basic rate for drivers is $1.31 an hour.

The association's first offer was a three-year contract with increases totalling 81 cents.

Mrs. Christman mail bags for the door, pictures, peanut salt and peppers, watch bracelet, ash trays and a host of others. Mrs. Helen Miller and Mrs. Jill Empey were the conveners of these.

The tea room, upstairs, was prettily appointed with a white wicket fence, wide open gates, and a hedge of chrysanthemums, while more 'mums occupied strategic positions throughout the room.

The tea room hostesses were Mrs. Jone Carruthers, P.N.G., assisted by Mrs. Laura Downey and Mrs. Irene Marlatt, who graciously welcomed each guest and escorted them to the guest table, with its white cloth, centred by a bowl of baby's tears, and an attractive plate of sandwiches and little cakes, in double-decker style, separated by lacey doilies, with a tiny glowing candle as centre.

LOVELY TEA TABLE

The tea table was centred by a lovely and novel arrangement of yellow Shasta daisies and mums in a bird of chrysanthemums, mingled with asparagus fern, and glistening green leaves, rising by a pedestal crystal holder from a circlet of glowing tiny candles in shades of yellow, rose, green and white, the whole surrounded by pink carnations in a moulding, golden tinted cones and tiny sprays of Scotch pine. Assisting at the tea table were: Mrs. Bessie Hay-worth, Mrs. Ethel Nicholls, and Mrs. Verna Hill, PNG of Oakdale Lodge, Madoc; Mrs. Sandercock, Mrs. Ethel Hall, Mrs. Marjorie Large, PNG, Mrs. Dorothy A. White, P. Burton, Mrs. Brenton, M. Blakely, M. Plumpton, G. Bonsour, J. Salisbury, R. Ray, E. Jose, B. Kidworth, M. Sills, B. Clarke, L. Pierce, H. Wilson, N. Taylor, E. Craig, L. Bath, H. Danull, N. MacDonald, D. Tugnett, K. Brown and W. Langdale.

Elderly Women Enjoying Home In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg couple mortgaged all they owned to buy and establish a home for elderly women.

Mrs. Judy Gratton and her husband Leo "did a little dreaming two years ago" and bought a former nursing home in Winnipeg's south-central district then spent the next 18 hours a day renovating the home to make the dream come true.

Now it is transformed into the bright Regina Haven with pastel-painted walls and big windows.

When the residence was opened 11 elderly women made it their home. Private residents pay up to $5.00 a day for their board, nursing, laundry, entertainment and occupational therapy.

ARE KEPT busy

The specific purpose is to keep its residents busy and interested in living, said matron Mrs. Gratton, who also is a registered nurse.

Their whole attitude is changed since they discovered they could do useful work, used to be difficult to get them out of bed before 10 a.m. and now at 7:30 a.m. working on Red Cross supplies."

Mrs. Gratton is proud of the boxes of bandages and dressings completed by residents. The Red Cross blood transfusion service which keeps them supplied with raw materials. The residents have also offered their services to the Cancer Research Society and to CARE of Canada.

Mr. Gratton has a full-time job looking after the administration of the home.

For almost six years in the administration field with the Canadian Army Special Force during the Second World War and I just knew it all to him, including payment of the laundry bill of his wife, who takes care of the sanitary side.

MOTHER OF TWO

Another change has taken place in their apartment building, said Mrs. Gratton, mother of two children, Anita Louise, 10, and Leonard, 8.

"The ladies are not content any more to wear housecoats and informal times—they dress up."

The home has only six bed rooms, one with five beds, one with three, five with two, and one with a single bed. There is a large reception hall, dining room, sitting room, craft room and a sick bay.

Most of the residents are private, but Mrs. Gratton insists on keeping six beds for welfare patients.

This is in honor of her mother, Regina Havenda, who was a welfare worker in Kamsack, Sask., and after whom the home is named. Mrs. Gratton died last December and "she would have wanted it that way," said Mrs. Gratton.

The Experts Say

Babyhood Is Right Time To Introduce Democracy

By EDNAR USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) - It's never too early to introduce democracy into a person's life, says Mrs. Victoria Wilkinson, president of Parent Education Associates and mother of two.

"Babyhood is the right time to introduce democracy," she says, "following the democratic theory of discipline with children and dress better mental health in later life."

This means replacing instructions such as "do this," or "don't do this," with "let's do this," or "it's time to do this," and "remember it be better to do that."

CANADIAN IN U.S.

Born in Toronto, Mrs. Wilkinson has spent most of her life in the United States and is an American citizen. She became interested in parent education when her first son, Phillip, was born in 1942.

Parent Education Associates is a group of 25 women, all with specialist training in parent education, and its aim is to help parents.

"We don't tell people how to bring up their children, but we will advise," said Mrs. Wilkinson.

"The democratic method of discipline does not involve punishment it involves learning, and learning always involves mistakes. Children must be taught that failure to conform to certain requirements or routine must be followed by certain logical consequences."

RIGHT APPROACH

For instance, the remark that "it's time to go to bed" will produce a better response than the straight command. An older child can have explained to him that if he does not go to bed in time, he will not be able to work properly at school next day.

And if children won't go to bed?

"An infant can just be picked up and carried off to bed, or older children can have a privilege withdrawn, such as watching television or going to a movie," says Mrs. Wilkinson.

"The democratic method involves giving a child some responsibility.

"Children should be encouraged to be responsible for dressing themselves as soon as they are old enough by the time they reach high school, they should be responsible for their own health and diet."

She says boys should be taught to help wash the dishes in families where it is customary for everybody to do some housework.

"The time to start is when they are tiny and want to copy mother in her household duties," she said.

"If a child grows up in a democratic home which has the same basis as our democratic society he will be able to adjust to his environment well and will be a good citizen," she said.

"He will be a person who loves his fellowmen."

MOST CHILDREN enjoy showing gum as a treat. But it's no treat for Mom when the gum gets stuck on Junior's clothes. Washable fabrics can be soaked in cleaning fluid until the gum loosens enough to be scraped off. Soap and warm water will finish the job.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: - ON CONVERSATION'

Don't be a one-topic conversationalist. Be alert to zests when your listener (perhaps a "captive audience") has really heard enough about your children or your grandchildren, your diet, your symptoms, your stamp collection, your job, your club activities, your garden, your golf game, your travels, or whatever else is the pivot of your attention and interest. Remember "the world is full of a number of things," delightful things of real interest to your listener, and extremely important and significant things too for you to know about and to talk about.

THIS BRIDE AND GROOM DO - NOT WANT TO HAVE ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to be married soon, and we are going to have quite a few relatives and friends in the church ceremony. (1) Neither my bridegroom-to-be nor I want to have any attendants. Would this be proper? (2) Is it proper for the bride and bridegroom to walk down the aisle together to meet the minister at the altar? — Bride-to-be

(1) Yes. The bride and bridegroom may have no attendants, if this is their wish. (2) They have no attendants, they must, of course, plan to have two witnesses to sign the marriage certificate. (3) This is not considered a good procedure. At such an informal wedding as you are planning to have, you, the bride, instead of walking down the aisle alone, may enter the church from an entrance at the left of the altar (or platform) and your bridegroom may enter following the clergyman from the vestry-room or other room at the right.

DO NOT SIGN A LETTER WITH TITLE BEFORE SIGNATURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A insists that it is never correct to sign a letter of any kind with a title before the name. B maintains that in general this is true, but that there are certain cases, such that a doctor, for instance, may sign a professional letter "Dr. John Clark." Who is right?

— A and B

(1) B is right. A doctor should not sign a letter "Dr. John Clark," but may, in a professional letter, sign "John Clark, M. D." .

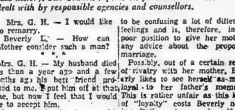
THE WEDDING GIFT SENT AFTER THE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was ill in the hospital when a friend of mine was married about two months ago, and so was unable to send her a wedding present. Now I am recovered, and would like to send a gift. (1) Do I address it to her in her married name? (2) The couple want to live out-of-town after their wedding, and I dont know their address. Would it be correct for me to send the gift in care of the bride's parents, or what do you suggest? — Elite R.

(1) You should address the wedding present sent after the wedding to "Mr. and Mrs." (2) I write this reply hurriedly to get in touch with someone who knows the couple's address . . . and if this is impossible, send the gift in care of the bride's parents.

"Some of those pins were terribly independent tonight!"



Elegant Cocktail Outfit

By TRACY ADRIAN

Swiss cotton shantung is used for this elegant after-five ensemble of jacket and sheath. The little coat has three-quarter sleeves and a rounded neckline. Under it, more dress is sleeveless with a low-cut square neckline, a fitted waist and a slender skirt.

Both coat and frock are embroidered all over in a motif of yellow and white flowers. When the jacket is removed the dress becomes plate formal.

Mrs. G. H. — I would like to remarry.

Beverly L. — How can Mother consider such a man?

Mrs. G. H. — My husband died less than a year ago and a few months ago his best friend proposed to me. I put him off at that time, but now I feel that I would like to accept him.

My married daughter, with whom I've been living, is all upset by the idea. She doesn't see how I could ever consider marriage before a full year has elapsed. But she doesn't understand how lonesome I feel. My daughter and son-in-law have tried to make me feel at home here, and I adore the children, but I can't help feeling like a stranger in a place that doesn't belong to me.

My daughter has made me feel ashamed of myself for considering this idea. Is it really so terrible?

Beverly L. — Mother really did shock me when she came out with this idea. I never expected it and wouldn't have believed it could happen only a few months ago.

My parents were married for 35 years and I never knew them to have an argument. My father was the most devoted husband and father any family could have ever asked. He did everything he could to make Mother happy. She never had to work as hard as other women and she got so tired and lonely after Dad's death.

Mother keeps calling her suitor Dad's best friend, but I remember that Dad had quite a few things to say against him in his lifetime. He doesn't come anywhere near Dad as a human being. How can Mother consider him?

The Council — Beverly seems to be confusing a lot of different feelings and is, therefore, in a poor position to give her mother any advice about the proposed marriage.

Possibly, out of a certain sense of loyalty with her mother, Beverly feels she must see herself as most loyal to her father's memory. This is rather unfair as this kind of "loyalty" costs Beverly nothing. Rather, she sees herself enshrined in her own eyes because of it. It is likely that her mother's unstirred feeling about her husband goes much deeper and is less selfish.

Beverly's implied accusation that her mother is desecrating her father's memory by considering marriage to a man who might not measure up to the deceased husband's standards is cruel as it is foolish. Needless though he may have been, Beverly's father's opinions cannot be taken as the final word about anyone. We assume that he was human and capable of error and distortion. Even if he were entirely right in his evaluations, Mrs. G. H.'s sister may be right in her somewhat stodgy attitudes.

Mrs. G. H. ought to put Beverly's ill-founded objections out of her mind, and take on the responsibility for a more mature appraisal of her own situation. She should have ever nearly all the information she needs to make important decisions at this time. Many times make important decisions only later regret.

If this proposed marriage is really a good thing for Mrs. G. H., neither will be lost if she takes her time and considers carefully. She should try to get her bearings socially so that she will be able to consider her future in terms of what possibilities will be open to her in the next few years of her life.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: . . . yesterday I tried to make a banana cream pie. The crust was fine, so was the meringue. Of course you guessed: the middle was like custard . . . If you get a chance in dude one in your column I'll see it.

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Appetizer Salad; Seafood (or Tuna) Supreme (see Thursday); Corn and Green Pepper Saute; Brussel Sprouts; Fresh Warm Applesauce; Brazil Cherry Loaf (see Thursday); Coffee.

Answer: Your individualistic handwriting intrigues me Ann. You mention a combination of peaches and raspberries in jam. Where do you get raspberries in peach time? I would like to try it.

BANANA CREAM PIE FILLING

One tablespoon butter or margarine, 8 tablespoons (½ cup) flour, 2/3 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 beaten egg yolks, 2 cups hot milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 ripe bananas, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg whites. In top of double boiler melt the butter and add flour, sugar, salt, milk and yolks and cook stirring over hot water until thick. Remove from heat, add vanilla. Pour into baked pastry shell, one-third at a time, alternating with layers of sliced banana. Beat whites and sugar together into a stiff meringue; cover filling and bake at 325 deg. until delicate gold.

Question: A neighbor gave me 2 citrons and I would like to candy them for use in Christmas bakes and cookies . . . we are not fond of lemon and orange peel . . . also would like a good recipe for ginger cookies.

Mrs. M. B.

Answer: Candying citron is difficult. Do not attempt more than 1 pound. If you are satisfied you could then do more.

HOME CANDIED CITRON —

Cut pared and seeded citron into ½ inch wide strips and weigh one pound. Soak overnight in brine of 4 cups water and 3 tablespoons salt. Drain, cover with cold water, bring to boil. Drain and repeat twice. It should be tender. Make a syrup of 1 lb. sugar and 1 cup water. Add half of the citron strips and boil, covered, until strips are clear. Skim out onto plate and cook remainder. Note: If syrup scorches before all of it is used, discard and make more.

Drain strips. When cold, roll in sugar and let dry thoroughly before storing.

GINGER COOKIES

One cup sugar, ½ cup shortening, ¼ cup molasses, 1 egg, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ teaspoons soda, ½ teaspoon each salt, cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1¼ teaspoons (or less) ginger, ½ cup granulated sugar. Cream together sugar and shortening until light and fluffy. Beat in molasses and egg. Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices. Stir well into creamed mix. Roll 1" balls of dough between palms and drop and roll in granulated sugar. Bake 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet at 375 deg. F. about 15 minutes. Cookies flatten out and should be removed at once to cool on cake rack.

IVANHOE

Beulah United Church Marks Anniversary

IVANHOE—Anniversary services held at Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, on Sunday, were largely attended.

A basket of mums was placed in the church in loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reid and Charles Burton Reid by Violet and Ruth Reid, Emma and Clarence Roe, Fred, Betty and Leslie Reid.

Special music under the direction of Mrs. George Wood, included: morning anthem, "Choir, "There'll Be One Song," and "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and in the evening, "Tell Me More of Jesus," "Softly and Tenderly," and "Evening Hymn."

The guest minister, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., of Stirling, delivered inspiring and thought-provoking messages. Morning theme, "Meeting God at Life's Corners, taking his text from a modern rendering of Psalm 50:10, "My God In His Loving Kindness Shall Meet Me at Every Corner." This text brought renewed strength and courage to Hugh Redwood, the eminent English journalist, at a time of grave crisis in his life.

The guest minister went on to illustrate the truth of the text from the corners of various Biblical characters: Abraham, Moses, Joshua, Isaiah and the two disciples on the road to Emmaus.

He continued by telling some of the corners that we all must turn and how the realization that God will meet us at every corner, can help us.

Evening: "Hiding from the Inescapable God."

"There is a deep-seated, eternal and universal tendency in all men to seek God who is ever-seeking man. There is also the opposite tendency to try to run away from God, or hide from Him. We have seen this illustrated in the life of Adam and Eve and in the experience of Jonah when he attempted to flee from God.

"For some the flight from God is conscious and purposeful; for others it is unconscious but not less real. We try to get away from God because of fear, brought on by sin, by disobedience to God.

"Jesus made it clear that the God from whom we vainly seek to flee is our loving Heavenly Father and the reason why He will not let us go, is because He wants to save us from our waywardness and bring us home to Himself."

CAMPBELLFORD

John A. Irwin Marks 90th Birthday

CAMPBELLFORD — A lifelong resident of Campbellford, Mr. John A. Irwin, celebrated his 90th birthday here on Sunday, Nov. 2nd.

Mr. Irwin's mother, widowed at a comparatively early age, founded the business which her son, Mr. Irwin carried on until about 12 years ago. From a small beginning, they built the block now occupied by the Liquor Control Board, a furniture and appliance store on Front Street, and for 50 years Mr. Irwin owned and operated a general store at that location.

Mr. Irwin was quite active in affairs of the town until he had the misfortune to lose a limb some years ago. He served the community in various capacities on council, county council, and on the school board. He was an energetic worker on behalf of St. John's United Church and formerly the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Irwin has been in poor health for some time and the couple lost their only son, Dr. Joseph Irwin, this fall. Five daughters live in Toronto, and one daughter, Lilian died 40 years ago.

Mr. Irwin's many friends in the district sent him their best wishes on this occasion.

DESERONTO

Heavy Agenda Seen at Session Of Town Council

DESERONTO—Regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday night in the town hall. The minutes revealed that a special meeting had been held on October 30th to deal with a letter from the Dravo Company. As a result permission was granted subject to considerations for the Dravo Company to erect a temporary fence on the lower end of Mill St. Also dealt with at the special meeting was a reply from the municipal board that the by-law suggested to encourage repairing and improving houses was not permissable as there was no authority for such a by-law. Council also granted authority for temporary help to be hired to assist the town clerk. The streets committee asked that those who had tendered on the tractor be notified that funds were not available for such purchase due to an omission in entry of previous work.

At the present meeting council was advised by letter that a meeting would be held in Deseronto on November 4th to discuss the setting up of a Recreation committee. There was also a letter from the Legal Department Inspection Offices to the effect that the police court from July 15 to Sept. 16, had been audited and all records were now in the office of Magistrate Willis.

WILL ATTEND BANQUET

An invitation from Branch 290 of the Canadian Legion for Council to attend the Remembrance Day banquet was also received. All members of council, except Councillor Gill, signified their intention to attend.

In reply to letters from residents the Streets Committee advised that several trees were to be removed. A letter from the Compensation Board regarding the claim of Chas. Knight who suffered an attack of pleurisy following a fire was referred to the Fire and Police Committee for investigation.

In his report the reeve spoke regarding the inability of council to buy a tractor at the present time. He revealed that there were some $18000. outstanding in uncollected taxes. The streets committee asked that a letter be sent the Highways Department asking if some action could not be taken regarding the intersections at the highway. Council was advised that the public utilities are to cut down the trees at no expense of the town. The wood is to be stored to be used for welfare work.

There was some discussion regarding the purchase of snow fences. The property committee offered to purchase them for the streets committee. Councillor Ward asked why the property committee did not repair the roof of the town hall if they had money to spare. It was finally decided to allow the property committee to purchase the snow fence and loan it to the street committee.

Councillor Marks introduced a by-law to authorize the salary increase to Constable Clare but then asked to withdraw the by-law for clarification of the gratuities allotted.

A statutory holiday was declared for November 11th.

MAY NUMBER HOMES

Councillor Marks then advised council of the recent grants advertised in the papers by the Dominion Government and suggested that it would be a good move for the town to take advantage of the offer. He suggested that an estimate could be prepared of the sidewalks to be repaired and the storm sewers that could be installed. After some discussion it was decided to prepare such an estimate and secure further information on the grants.

Mr. Roe of the Municipal Services, Co. Oakville, addressed council regarding the numbering of the houses of the town. The estimated cost would be in the vicinity of $1200 and the mayor advised that he has already been promised donations of $450 towards such cost. It was decided to hold a special meeting when the official estimate is received.

Man's Changing Fortunes

By ROY L. SMITH

The fortunates of one generation can be the unfortunates of the next. Czar Nicholas of Russia was esteemed to be a very fortunate man in the year 1914. He lived in a palace, he had an army of servants, he ruled over a vast domain, and he could command tens of millions of rubles for any cause that might suit his fancy. Three years later he lay a corpse alongside his wife and family, at a lonely outpost in Asian Russia, awaiting quicklime.

There are those passing fancies which attract a multitude or a generation, and then go on to oblivion. Elvis Presley numbered his devotees by the millions in 1957, but we predict that he will come out of the armed services at the end of his term of training, and find a world that has well-nigh forgotten him.

LONG LIVED GOOD FORTUNE

In His Sermon on the Mount Jesus paused to congratulate ten groups of people — the poor in spirit, those who mourn, the meek, those who hunger after righteousness, the merciful, the pure in heart, the peacemakers, and those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake. These He said were the people to be envied.

It will pay us to note the fact that He never mentioned the goodies, the man who discovered oil under his land, the one who patented a gadget, the entertainer who lived in luxury, the social lion, the much touted jockey, the popular idol, or the man who had just been elected to office.

He knew the difference between the fortune that lasts, and that which is only washed in gold.

NOT ALL OF THE PERSECUTED

We will be well warned if we keep in mind the fact that not all those who are persecuted are persecuted for righteousness' sake.

There was the man who committed the near-perfect crime and evaded the police through a period of almost 15 years. But the FBI finally caught up with him, and the courts were ready to sentence him for the crime. "I'm glad it is over," he said. "A fellow gets mighty tired of running away, year after year." He had been pursued but not for righteousness' sake.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 9: "Jesus Describes Discipleship," Matthew 5 through 7.

The helpless cripple who sat in the wheel chair and watched the traffic go by was persecuted by bacteria. It had seemed like a little like an adventure when he had been first infected. But now his unrighteousness had caught up with him. And the persecution of the micro-organisms was relentless.

Her father had invented a gadget and made millions. In the belief that his daughter must never want for anything he had showered her with gifts and given her an almost unfettered bank account. In time she came to think that it was only those who had money, no matter how they had gotten it, who were important. She found she could buy her way out of so many scrapes. Then came the inevitable collapse, and when she stood before the judge someone who knew her story said, "Poor little rich girl." That, too, was probably what Jesus would have said that day in court.

Vancouver Sun, Publisher Fined $5,000 for Articles Written During Bribery Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, trial judge in the Sommers bribery conspiracy case, Thursday fined the Vancouver Sun and its publisher Donald Cromie a total of $5,000 for contempt of court.

The publisher and the newspaper each was assessed $2,500 because of an article on the trial and accompanying headlines which appeared in The Sun Aug. 11.

The motion that they be found in contempt was made by J. R. Nicholson, counsel for H. Wilson Gray and Pacific Coast Services, two of the defendants in the lengthy and complex trial. Both were convicted of bribery and conspiracy in Supreme Court Sommers while he was minister of lands and forests.

Mr. Justice Wilson ordered The Sun and Mr. Cromie to pay costs.

Mr. Nicholson made the contempt citation at the time the article appeared but Mr. Justice Wilson postponed a hearing on it until the end of the trial.

PRELIMINARY TRIAL

Mr. Nicholson claimed that the article, particularly the headlines, tended to prejudice the trial. In different editions the article bore the headlines: "Bribery kingpin confess to testify," "Mr. W. Gray shuns witness box;" and "H. W. Gray keeps mum."

The headlines were read in court by Mr. Nicholson.

Mr. Justice Wilson said:

"The general level of reporting during the whole course of this trial, in the newspapers and in such radio reports as I have heard, including the Vancouver Sun, has been of a high level and unobjectionable.

"This particular incident, I am bound to say, constitutes a regrettable aberration from that standard, because this headline is contempt of court."

WRONG ASSERTION

"I say that for a newspaper to assert that an accused man is a kingpin in a bribe case before a jury has reached any verdict, and while the case is still before the court, is wrong, and very wrong.

"The consequences of such action, of course, are unpredictable, but it might well have led to a new trial. I hope that Mr. Cromie, and whoever else is here from the Vancouver Sun, will also note and remember that the Sun was a very bad thing to have done."

Senator Farris repeated an apology he had made earlier on behalf of Mr. Cromie and the Sun. He said the article and headlines were submitted to the paper's lawyer who passed them, and there was no bad faith or intent.

TRANSFER SHIP

VICTORIA (CP)—The Pacific command announced today it is included in hospital coverage only.

A new benefit was comprehensive benefit to employees only which substitutes for the present in - hospital doctors' calls. The plan pays 80 per cent of most medical expenses not covered by other parts of the plan, subject to a deductible clause of $25 to $50. The maximum benefit is $5,000.

Stelco will pay 1.3 cents per hour toward the cost of the improvement. Employees will pay three-tenths of a cent.

Government Acts To Keep Missile Experts Here

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is taking measures to prevent dispersion of a group of electronic and missile engineers and their exodus to the United States.

The problem arose last month when the government scrapped two major defence projects: The Sparrow air-to-air missile and the Astra armament control system for the supersonic Arrow jet interceptor.

Many engineers had to be laid off and industry sources said last week that hundreds were seeking new employment in the U.S. American companies have sent engineer recruiting teams into Canada.

Authorities said Thursday the government has arranged to keep some 200 of these engineers at useful work by awarding their companies small development-type projects that the armed forces wanted done.

Government officials did not furnish an estimate of the amount of money involved in this scheme but an industry source said the total would come to between $50,000 and $2,000,000.

The arrangement is temporary and covers a period of about five months. By that time the government believes the engineers will be reassigned to other engineering work in Canada.

Stelco Workers Get Improved Medical Benefits

HAMILTON (CP) — Improvements in benefits for employees of the Hamilton works of the Steel Company of Canada under the new agreement with the United Steelworkers included:

Life insurance for male employees was increased from $2,500 to $3,500. For employees over 65, the increase was from $1,250 to $1,500.

Weekly indemnity for sickness and accidents was increased from $20 to $25.

Hospital benefit for employee and dependents was improved with adoption of the Ontario hospital plan.

Surgical benefits for employees and dependents was improved through extension of the Blue Cross surgical schedule.

The maximum was raised to $20 for diagnostic x-ray and laboratory tests for employees and dependents.

Doctors' calls for dependents only was improved, being included in hospital coverage only.

A new benefit was comprehensive benefit to employees only which substitutes for the present in - hospital doctors' calls. The plan pays 80 per cent of most medical expenses not covered by other parts of the plan, subject to a deductible clause of $25 to $50. The maximum benefit is $5,000.

BLOODHOUNDS READY FOR ATTACK

Two "Bloodhound" surface-to-air missiles stand poised on their launching pads at the Royal Air Force missile base in North Coates, Eng. The supersonic missiles feature a gyro-stabilized aerial system that picks up the target reflections and provides missile data for firing.

H. GLYNNE JONES of Northern Electric, Belleville, a past president of the Quinte District Foremen's Club and now president of the YMCA-affiliated Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs, addressing the 14th National Conference on Industrial Management held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, last weekend.

Economic System Needs Redefining - - Wintermeyer

SASKATOON (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer suggests Canada's economic system needs "redefining" and said Liberals must lead the way in seeking a new approach to current problems.

"We must do so in the realization that the battle of the future with communism is going to be indeed has already begun, on the economic front," he told the biennial convention of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association Thursday night.

The economic system which developed in the industrial age and which worked to a greater or lesser degree for about 200 years has become "old and outdated."

This was a technical era and there had already developed "quite a new appreciation" of management-labor problems.

BEST SYSTEM

"We have seen on this continent that the free enterprise system, through the co-operation of capital, management and labor can be made to function more efficiently and more cooperously than any system existing in the world today."

Through the maturing of organized labor and proper application of collective bargaining, workers had been able to exert influence on capital and management for general improvement.

Any future economy "must be so organized as to recognize the modern fact" that almost everyone in society now is dependent on wages. When wages cease "the worker is at the mercy of the system."

A practical answer to the problem was establishment of management - labor councils, sponsored and overseen by governments that would be represented on the council.

Canada Urges Free Elections For All Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Canada has told the United Nations there must be free elections throughout Korea as a starting point in rehabilitating the divided country.

John Holmes, addressing the 81-member political committee, said Thursday no solution to the Korean problem can be reached until the will of the people has been taken into account.

The committee has before it a resolution expressing the determination of the UN to bring about a "unified, independent and democratic Korea." It also urges the Communists to agree to this "genuinely free elections."

The Canadian delegate said a solution could not be found by seeking to impose unilateral decisions.

The ability of the Arab countries to preserve peace in the Middle East has their own efforts —as they promised the United Nations in August—is being put to the test.

British and American troops have gone from Jordan and Lebanon. They were sent in after the July 14 revolt in Iraq when the West feared the uprising there might be the start of a new try by President Nasser to pull more countries into his United Arab Republic.

The British and American intervention was debated in the UN at a special General Assembly session. The upshot was an agreement by the two countries to remove their troops when the danger of further strife ended and a pledge by the Arabs not to threaten peace.

Already there are signs that may point to new trouble.

The Kremlin considers the situation safe enough for him to leave Jordan for a holiday in Europe. He had to be out of it for treatment for stomach ulcers. His government is confident it can maintain stability while he is away but some Western observers are not satisfied that Hussein commands sufficient popularity to withstand subversive intrigues by Nasser's supporters.

Iraq, one of the countries the May revolt has been arrested. Col. Abdul Salam Aref was the chief advocate at Cairo for the new republic with the U.A.R. But Premier Karim Kassem showed he preferred to follow an independent policy and slapped Aref off to West Germany as ambassador. Aref returned "without permission" and was arrested.

There is speculation in Washington—as an outside possibility—that Hussein may be having Jordan so that his government can be close to a closer understanding with Kassem to prevent a solid front to Nasser.

The "young king" cousin, Faisal, was killed in the Iraq revolt but the pledge is that Harrison prefers to deal with Iraq rather than Egypt. Jordan and Iraq were joined in federation until the revolution.

The most dangerous sign that Middle East trouble may break out again is Nasser's renewed propaganda attacks on Israel.

Israel, the U.A.R. warned, would attack Jordan as soon as the British left last Sunday. When that didn't eventuate, the warning was altered to Hussein's leaving on his vacation.

Thursday there was a clash between Israeli troops and U.A.R. forces at the Syrian border. Nasser's press and radio had said his army was ready to go to Jordan's aid at a moment's notice if Israel moved. As usual in these affrays, it was hard to say immediately who shot first.

But it does seem likely that President Nasser is badly in need of some new success to point to. What better target is there than Israel, to Arab minds the core of the Middle East problem?

Britain Unprepared to Meet Japanese Invasion of Burma

LONDON (Reuters) — Burma fell to the Japanese army in 1942 after a campaign of only 56 months when British forces were unprepared "in practically every respect to meet an invasion of the country."

This was stated in the second volume, published Thursday, of The War Against Japan—part of the official history of the Second World War.

The fighting, by a combination of senior officers, covers the loss of Burma, the retreat into India, the first abortive attempt to reoccupy Akyab on the Burmese coast, the experiment with long - range penetration groups, plans for a counter offensive and the building of bases as a base.

It ends with the setting, up in August, 1943, of the Southeast Asia Command.

The authors say unpreparedness in Burma was reflected in the lack of troops and equipment, in plans and proper administrative services.

The Allied troops in Burma were unsuitably equipped for the type of country in which they had to fight and had not been trained in jungle warfare.

Colombo Plan Members Will Meet at Seattle

OTTAWA (CP)—A global club which costs Canada $50,000,000 a year in membership fees holds its annual stock-taking next week.

From Monday to Thursday, ministers of Colombo Plan countries will meet in Seattle, Wash., to get up to date on a post-war partnership aimed at aiding 16 countries in south and southeast Asia.

The Canadian delegation at the consultative committee meetings will be headed by External Affairs Minister Smith, and the Canadian theme is likely to be that this has been a pretty good year for the Colombo club.

Canadian delegates will note decisions this fall reflecting awareness of problems faced by under-developed countries.

GOOD YEAR

These are the increases in Colombo plan aid announced at ministerial during the Sept. 15-26 Commonwealth economic conference: the special development fund set up by the United Nations General Assembly; and the New Delhi plans for increasing the supply of money available for underwriting world trade.

The Colombo Plan, variously styled by supporters as a global partnership in service to humanity and as a kind of Marshall constructive creative ideas of the century, came into being at Colombo, capital of Ceylon, in January, 1950.

Originally conceived as a Commonwealth project, it now embraces 22 members.

Most that receive aid, all in south or southeast Asia, are Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, India, Indonesia, Laos, Nepal, Pakistan, Philippines, Thailand, South Viet Nam, Singapore, Brunei, Sarawak and North Borneo.

Those that provide aid are Canada, Australia, Japan, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States.

From 1950 to mid-1957, donor countries have extended a total of $3,500,000,000 — Canada has voted through Parliament about $600,000,000 to the end of the present fiscal year next March 31.

Major Canadian Airports Woefully Short of Firefighting Equipment Says Official

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's major airports are woefully short of fire-fighting equipment to deal with a major emergency, says Capt. A. D. Gagher of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association.

Capt. Gallagher, chairman of the CALPA safety division, said in an interview that Montreal's Dorval Airport is about the best equipped of Canada's big civil fields, but it's unlikely that more than a fire in a Viscount—one of the smaller commercial planes—could be adequately handled there.

The transport department spends an average of $250,000 a year for fire-fighting equipment at major airports, Capt. Gallagher said. It should spend four times that much.

Canada may set a precedent in international aviation, given by-laws regulating flying with light crimes on aircraft in flight.

Such regulations now are being considered by the federal transport department, it was disclosed Thursday.

In a letter to James H. Foy, CPA president, the department said it does not intend to wait for the legal committee of International Civil Aviation Organization to adopt regulations covering "crimes in flight."

Capt. W. J. Rodgers, CALPA delegate to the International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations, said international machines have given a ship captain almost absolute control over his passengers.

CALPA has told the transport department it wants airline captains to be given the powers of law powers as ship captains. Philippines is the only country to enforce discipline on the passengers and crew.

Labor Urging Congress to End Union Shop Bans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO, stated by the results of Tuesday's congressional election Thursday called for an end to the state right-to-work laws that ban a union shop.

The federation's executive council called on Congress to knock out three sections by taking away the federal sanction given them in the Taft-Hartley Act.

It pressed, in fact, for an overhaul of the whole act which now governed labor-management relations since 1947.

Election results increased the Democratic margin in the Senate by 16-34 from 49-47 and in the House of Representatives to 281-153 from 235-200 with one race undecided.

MORE HONORS

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Lt.-Col. John Mahoney and Mrs. (Lt.-Cmdr.) Smith, both of Victoria Cross winners of the Second World War, are to be given the honor of Freeman of the city.

Russians Mark 41st Birthday Of Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union placed the accent on peace today in a 41st anniversary celebrating the 41st anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The display of military equipment contained nothing new. But Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in reviewing stand atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb in Red Square, delivered.

Marshal Rodion Malinovsky gave the tune in a speech hailing the "fight for peace", which Soviet Defence Minister said, "is distance from the ruling circles of the United States and Britain."

ARMED CONCERN

"Thanks to the tireless concern of our people, of our Communist Party, its government," the Soviet defence minister said, "the Soviet armed forces have everything necessary to deal a destructive counterblow to the aggressors should they dare to unleash a new world war.

"Unity of the socialist camp makes it invincible."

Rocket-launchers equipped with rockets, scores of motorized artillery pieces, mortars and personnel carriers swept through the square in big time before Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet leaders and the visiting Polish Communist party chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka.

BANNERS, BOUQUETS

Thousands upon thousands of Soviet citizens bearing flag, bouquets, banners and streamers jammed every street in the vicinity.

When the military procession ended, swarms of sportsmen in vivid blues, reds and greens darted spurted in front of the reviewing stand.

They came the people. They carried pictures of Lenin, Khrushchev, President Klement Voroshilov and Praesidium members.

SURPRISE GUEST

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion made a surprise appearance Thursday night at a Soviet Embassy reception marking the 41st anniversary of the Soviet Revolution. It was his first visit to the annual affair. There was speculation that Ben-Gurion attended to help deflate the Soviet and United Arab Republic press campaign alleging Israel is planning aggression against Jordan.

Reds' Sex Smear Campaign Irks Trade Unionists

LONDON (Reuters)—The government will be asked in Parliament next week whether it intends to bring conspiracy charges against Communists for conducting a sex smear campaign against a London trade union official.

Behind the House of Commons questions are stories splashed in two trade unions—the Amalgamated Engineering Union and the Clerical and Administrative Workers' Union — have tried to discredit non-Communist officials by making unfounded complaints of sexual misconduct against them.

One of the reported victims is Tom Chapman, North London division organizer of the engineering union. He claims that since defeating a Communist in elections for the post other Communists have plotted to destroy his career and marriage by trumped-up charges.

These included the allegation that he assaulted his secretary, Miss Vera Sinkins.

Miss Sinkins, who resigned her job, has declared that the charge is false and that Communists tried to make her sign a statement accusing Chapman.

The second case concerns Norman Nicholson, a London organizer of the small Clerical and Administrative Workers' Union.

VOTING DISCREPANCIES

His discovery of voting discrepancies at elections for the area executive committee led to Communist and another meat being unseated.

Subsequently came a Communist allegation that he had produced a junior clerk under 16, the legal age of consent. Police investigated the case and told Nicholson no action would be taken against him.

The union's leaders, after investigation, also accepted Nicholson's innocence.

BANS T-SHIRTS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—T-shirts were banned Thursday for boys attending A. M. Myer secondary school. Principal H. T. Hall announced that boys' shirts with collars although be said ties were not necessary. Hoods of the shirts often related to bad behavior, in and out of school, Mr. Forgan said.

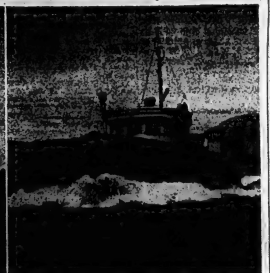
POLICEMAN FINED

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Constable Andrew McCombie, 32, was fined $70 Thursday and had his licence suspended for 90 days after being convicted of careless driving. The charge arose from an Oct. 16 traffic accident in which McCombie, while off duty, struck Ida Mae Brandit, 70, as she crossed a street. She suffered a fractured skull and broken pelvis.

INVENTS PERPETUAL MOTION MACHINE

Alex Blair, 39, of Hamilton, Ontario, has been working on inventions for years and hopes to have hit the jackpot with this perpetual motion machine. It operates by using electro magnets to create a generator that in turn activates the electro magnets—in short, a wheel within a wheel. He claims it can be used to supply hydro power and can operate a car without gasoline, and even says his machine being used in flying saucers. He says it took 15 years of thinking and one year of actual work to complete the machine at a cost of one thousand dollars.

Protective Policy Pays Off



CANADA

The day when a fishery officer was someone to be outwitted or avoided is disappearing in Canada. Today, a friendly spirit prevails between protection officers and the men whose livelihood depends on a program of planned conservation. Patrolling B.C.'s Discovery Passage, Fishery Officer Fred Shaughnessy hails the trroller Millie. In addition to such routine inspections, officers clear hundreds of streams to facilitate fish migration.

B.C. fishermen Herman Quockister displays two beauties. Salmon must be over 3 pounds, fished only in season. Control measures pay off: 1958 sockeye catch was largest in history.

A Fisheries' patrol boat slips through tricky Seymour Narrows. 76 vessels, ranging from a 20' launch to a 155' converted mine-sweeper help to maintain fish stocks along 21,000 miles of seaboard on Canada's East and West coasts.

Govt. Buying Pork to Support Price of Hogs

OTTAWA (CP) — Heavy hog production, especially in the west, has forced the government into the pork-buying business under price support for the first time in six years.

Federal officials said that instructions have gone out to the trade, announcing that the government will support the market by buying and storing surplus pork cuts.

Federal buying started about two weeks ago. Officials anticipated the heavy surplus may come between now and mid-December and during the February-April period of 1959. They hope to dispose of government surpluses next summer.

SUPPORT 25 CENTS

The support price is 25 cents a pound, basis Montreal and Toronto, with lesser prices in the west. Under price stabilization legislation, the floor could be reduced to a minimum of 25% cents a pound next year.

This is the first time the government has had to buy surplus pork since 1952 when an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease brought a shutdown of the American market to Canadian livestock and forced the government into the pork canning business. The federal loan ran into millions of dollars.

Officials estimated that in the first 10 months of 1958, Canadian hog production rose by some 14 per cent to some 6,000,000 head. The big increase was in the west.

1958. There's an interesting offshoot to the Walker report.

It said that Walker talked to Carl Voyles, who left Hamilton Tiger-Cats after five seasons as general manager and coach to accept a real estate job in Florida. Voyles made a swing of the Big Four circuit a few weeks ago and was quoted as saying he could move to Vancouver to take over the Lions in place of General Manager Herb Capozzi.

This makes a bit of sense. Voyles was successful with Tiratz and Capozzi, one-time Montreal player, has been criticized severely throughout the season by various Vancouver newspapers.

All will be straightened out in a few weeks and then forgotten until the 1959 pacific season.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The open season on professional football coaches is on schedule. And just as sure as there is beach and tennis, at least two of the nine from Montreal to Vancouver will either get the shoo or voluntarily quit before they are fitted for small-jackets.

This annual pastime is heralded during the panic season—when players of the slow-starting teams East and West recently lost their nannies when they realize that they could be out of a job next year. The ensuing scramble for a playoff berth is sometimes unbelievable.

Crowds jam the parks looking for miracles that rarely happen. Then the gossip and rumor starts about the coach—and they, or will have their heads removed? Will they be given another year's reprieve to defend their record?

The open season continues until shortly after the traditional last-Saturday-in-November Grey Cup final and the wolves switch attention to the National Hockey League gate-openers. It all makes interesting reading.

Actually, the open season in football coaches opened a little early this year. British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Union jumped the gun by firing coach Clem Crowe after three losing starts. Successor Dave Edwards won three of the next 10. Lions ended in last place for the fifth straight year and club directors postponed a decision on the 1959 coach until after the Cup final.

Officials, who said that Edwards shouldn't be overlooked, added that they needed time for close scrutiny of all possible candidates.

Meanwhile, rumors have been floating around that George Terlep of the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the WIFU may be elsewhere next season.

In the East, talk centres around Toronto Argonauts' Hamp Pool and Peahead Walker of the Montreal Alouettes.

Pool's future was clouded when his Argonauts were humiliated 44-7 by the Als after a three-straight panic-season string of victories following a terrible one-for-nine record. That game drew 26,803 fans and allowed the club to end the season with a profit.

WANT WINNING TEAM

But fans aren't concerned about the financial troubles. They want a playoff contender: Argonauts have been cellar-dwellers three consecutive seasons and Pool's status won't be known until next week when the club's management committee meets to talk about 1959 plans.

The post-mortem on Argonauts was in full swing when word filtered out of Montreal that Doug Walker may not coach the Als in 1959. There's an interesting offshoot to the Walker report.

It said that Walker talked to Carl Voyles, who left Hamilton Tiger-Cats after five seasons as general manager and coach to accept a real estate job in Florida. Voyles made a swing of the Big Four circuit a few weeks ago and was quoted as saying he could move to Vancouver to take over the Lions in place of General Manager Herb Capozzi.

This makes a bit of sense. Voyles was successful with Tiratz and Capozzi, one-time Montreal player, has been criticized severely throughout the season by various Vancouver newspapers.

All will be straightened out in a few weeks and then forgotten until the 1959 pacific season.

Minors Back Where Started, Realignment Out Swinging

MEMPHIS (AP) — Baseball's troubled minor leagues were right back where they started 10 day after a two-day realignment conference that went down swinging.

The radical realignment proposals fathered by Bill Dewitt of St. Louis, baseball coordinator and administrator of a $500,000 emergency fund, never got to first base.

The first step—a deal involving the AAA American Association and the AA Texas League—fizzled. That blocked everything else in the program and ended the action shuffle.

The only thing the two-day session accomplished was the transfer of the American Association's Wichita franchise to Louisville, Ky. That bookkeeping shift left the American a little better off, but not much.

The Wichita franchise replaced an American Franchise at Louisville, where the Colonels were giving up the struggle. It left the association with only seven clubs instead of the normal eight.

In an effort to complete its lineup, the American Association scrambled the realignment conference with a new proposal: it offered to buy the Fort Worth club of the Texas League.

The Texas League said it could only agree to the original proposal—that the association take over Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth and pay a total of $120,000 damages.

Dick Butler, president of the Texas League, said he didn't consider the American Association offer a realignment move.

"It would help them but nobody else," he said. "We came here for realignment. We wanted to cooperate. Sure, we wanted to help ourselves, but we were looking out for the best interests of all leagues concerned, too."

The sagged deal apparently ended for the time being. At least—all hopes of solving some of the problems facing several minor leagues.

The American Association had hoped to acquire a healthy eighth member. The Texas had hoped to ease its money troubles by getting three clubs, then rebuilding by adding three clubs from the sputtering Western League.

The class A Western has a bare treasury and, worse yet, no hope of acquiring working agreements with major league clubs that could provide top caliber players. The loop is expected to fold.

Heavy Betting On 'Ballymoss' In International

By GEORGE BOWEN

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The reputation of Ireland's Ballymoss is so great that even the London bookmakers are willing to lose him in Tuesday's International race.

This was the word relayed to Laurel by Laurel racing official Cyril Parker, managing director of one of England's foremost bookmakers, Ladbroke and Co.

Parker said that the firm is receiving such "a tremendous amount of money from all over the world" that it will not quote odds on Ballymoss. It is accepting the bets and offering to pay off on Ballymoss's track record if the four-year-old colt owned by Charles McShain of Philadelphia wins the world's international.

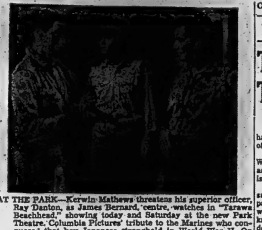
SEEING IS BELIEVING

Thousands and thousands of pounds are already down from Ireland, naturally," said Parker about the betting on Ballymoss. "And a great deal has come from France. We have the public saw Ballymoss win the Arc de Triomphe.

"In addition, we have received sizeable wagers from such places as South Africa, Nigeria and Hong Kong and we are taking bets every other place on the globe where anything is known about well-thoroughbred racing."

Parker said his bookmaking establishment is not worried at all about are receiving no bets on any of the nine other entries in the $100,000 international.

CAN'T BE BEATEN



It is his own personal opinion that "there isn't anybody in the world that can beat Ballymoss."

The colt arrived at Laurel Thursday, along with Tharp, another British colt, and Orsini from Germany.

Venezuela's Escribano is due Saturday to complete the roundup.

Parker wanted to know how much a $10,000 win bet on Ballymoss would drop the price. He was surprised when told it would cause only a slight drop from a probable 8-to-5 to 7-to-5.

"Well, you can still expect $10,000 to show up to your mailbox!

Actor Compiles Hollywood Marriage Tree for Hobby

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Some fellows collect stamps or blondes. A colleague of mine compiles a Hollywood marriage tree for a hobby.

He's a wry fellow named Dial Torgerson, and his tree is a masterpiece of complexity. It shows filmland marriages on a chart that rivals the table of organization of an infantry division.

Torgerson's triumph is in seeing how long a string he can relate. The string is a series of disrupted sequence of marriages from one celebrity to another. Here is his champion sex champions:

Martha Vickers was married to Mickey Rooney who was married to Ava Gardner who was married to Artie Shaw who was married to Lana Turner who was married to Bob Topping who was married to Arline Judge who was married to Topping and who was married to Sonja Henie.

Torgerson! Nine in a row and each one a solid celebrity! Of course, any string that includes Artie Shaw and Arline Judge is bound to prove impressive.

PICKS FIVES

Here's another whiz: Howard Duff to Ida Lupino to Collier Young to Janis Paxinou to William Dozier to Ann Rutherford to Tom May.

And now's this for star power: Michael Wilding to Liz Taylor to Mike Todd to Joan Blondell to Dick Powell to June Allyson!

Another high - powered sequence: Pat Nixon to Errol Flynn to Patricia Eddington to Dick Haymes to Rita Hayworth to Aly Khan (alternate: Orson Welles). You could also use Lily Damita for Vymore or take off from Hayworth to Joanne Dru to John Ireland. Delightful!

Torgerson's great ambition is to compile a chart of these strings a complete circle. In other words, to marry the first name on the list to the last one.

All this gives you an excellent picture of Hollywood's regard for the institution of marriage.

HELD OVER

Among other, more conventional charms, Brigitte Bardot displays in her new film, "La Parisienne," a prowess at flisticuffs.

While Brigitte's straight right will be watched with keen interest by students of the Manly Art the rest of Brigitte will, as always, be watched with equally keen interest by students of Womankind.

"La Parisienne," held over today and Saturday at the Ocean McCarthy Theatre through United Artists, was filmed in Technicolor.

Brigitte's easy-to boxing is one of the most hilarious sequences in the film. It takes place in a bar on the Riviera when Brigitte and Bover, dancing-partners of many films, are accosted by a group of French gangsters. They leave everyone on the punch. Inspired, Brigitte's sunny punch was a classical straight right travelling no more than six inches.

Cogan's verdict: "She does not know how to pull a punch. This is very effective."

Less critical, but keen-sporting admirers be concerned, let it be understood that she only spends a small portion of the picture's footage in fisticuffs For the rest, it's the Brigitte everyone knows.

TV Paying More Attention To Conversation This Year

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has been taking more cognizance of conversation this season.

Edward R. Murrow's Small World (CBS-TV) on Sundays is an outstanding example. Another notable is the Jack Paar show (NBC-TV). Paar is an excellent conversationalist who can run a fast pace among lofty ideas when he wishes. Usually, however, he knows that a midnight audience does not care much about the great issues of the world. So he is basically doing a surprising—or what' he going to say next?—conversation program.

In the field of conversation a line or two of television history must have been written this week when Jackie Gleason appeared in a scary duo on Arthur Godfrey's Morning Show (CBS-TV). They were at ground and beat their guns with some of the most entertaining results on daytime television in years.

Watching and listening to Godfrey and Gleason could make you wonder why there isn't more of this sort of thing on the home screen.

DUNNERS TONIGHT!

It will be a joust worth the tilting. And the tilt will be a joust worth the watching.

It happens in Walt Gerow's Ice Amphitheatre tonight when Sir Isaac Hildebrand's Knights of the Mo-Farland Round Table clash with the Doughty Dunlops out of Whitby, under the eagle-eyed surveillance of Sir Wren Blair.

The Doughty Dunnies are undefeated. The slowly-emerging McFarlands intend plastering the first blot of setback on the hitherto unblemished hockey escutcheon of the world champions.

It can be done. In fact Kingston almost did it the other night when King Blair gave his troops ye olde peppe talke 'tween second and third periods, and the varlets responded with five smokers in a row that changed what looked like a 3-1 defeat into a 6-4 victory.

The Hildebranders unscabbarded their goal-getting scimitars against Kingston here on the occasion of their last tussle—incidentally these squads play in Kingston again tomorrow night—and barred entry to base in six goals, by far their most impressive swiping display of the schedule season thus far.

What stood out was the work of the defenders of the blue-line bastions. Doughty Dunnie headed the push-'em-back push and he was ably abetted, especially by Sir Lionel Bottley, Floyd Crawford and Flori Georgas, with Rags Ragnan helping on occasions. Backed up as usual by the sterling performance of that lusty knight of the pipes, Sir Gordon Bell.

But that was the other night. Tonight is an evening of another hue.

And those laddy bucks from the Blairian greenwood are a lusty bevy of rogues with nothing fearful on their minds. They take their sticks in their hands and give nothing in return. They wield a hard-hitting stave while their production lines reek with danger at every move.

The McFarlands hung a 7-1 defeat on the Dunnies in that exhibition tilt in Trenton before the season started, but in fairness to both squads neither was in seasonal shape. In fact the Dunnies were in better shape, as subsequent events proved, while the Macs are slowly but surely, reaching some kind of physical fitness.

They proved their potential early in the season in the aforementioned game with the Dunlops. It blazed for the second or third time this year in their 6-0 victory over Kingston. It was one of their better two-way exhibitions of the year. It will need to be in full bloom this evening.

The Dunnies boast a powerful scoring punch in Artersley, Sid Smith, Sandy Alr and the rest of the gang up front, while Jim Trenn, who got five minors and a misconduct—how a repeat of that would help — in the game with Kingston Wednesday night, and Harry Sinden of the rearguard, are showing up well in the points records.

However, that is water under the bridge, and Sir Isaac Newton Hildebrand, and his lusty cohorts from the banks of the Moira are confident they will be the first club in the Eastern senior league this season to make the coveted words "undefeated" and "champions" by the time the official puckus shrills its cease fire.

ONLY FIVE "OUTSIDERS"

With the exception of five players, every member of the Montreal Canadiens was born and learned his hockey in the Province of Quebec. Three of these five players are performing for the first season with Canadiens.

The players to come from outside Quebec are Tom Johnson, Bob Turner, Ian Cushenan, McDonald and Ralph Backstrom. Cushenan, McDonald and Backstrom are all new players with Canadiens. Johnson was born at Baldur, Man.; Turner at Regina, Sask.; Cushenan at Hamilton, Ont.; Backstrom at Kirkland Lake, Ont., and McDonald at Winnipeg, Man.

FOUR COACHES FORMER CENTRES

Four of the six NHL coaches were outstanding centre players during their National Hockey League playing careers. The four former centres are Phil Watson of New York; Milt Schmidt of Boston; Billy Reay of Toronto, and Sid Abel of Detroit. With the exception of Reay, all starred on the teams they are currently coaching. Reay played with Montreal Canadiens.

Coach of the Stanley Cup champions Montreal Canadiens, Toe Blake, played left wing, and won many laurels such as the Hart Trophy in 1938-39, and the Lady Byng Trophy in 1945-46, playing that position for the Canadiens. Rudy Pilous, coach of the Chicago Black Hawks, is the only NHL pilot who failed to play in the National League.

Abel and Schmidt are both former Hart Trophy winners, too. Abel won it in 1948-49, and Schmidt in 1950-51.

Schmidt, Blake and Abel also had their share of All-Star honors. Boston's inspiring coach was picked at the centre position on the NHL All-Star first team in 1939-40, 1945-47 and 1950-51. Blake was named to left wing on the first team in 1939-40 and 1944-45. He was also picked on the second team in 1937-38 and 1945-46. Abel was selected as centre on the first team in 1948-49 and 1949-50.

Phil Watson was never named to the first team but was picked as centre on the Second All-Star team in 1941-43. Billy Reay was never a member of an official NHL All-Star team.

Armstrong Unhappy About Ability of Self While Reay Ponders

Leaf Chief Not Getting 'Em But Neither Are Team-mates; Olmstead Gets Right Wing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

George Armstrong is unhappy with the way George Armstrong is performing for the lowly Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League.

"I'm going to try and bear down a little more," George said Thursday in a burst of self-criticism. He thought his team mates might do a little of the same.

"I've had four breakaways in our 11 games and I didn't score," said the team captain. And scoring consistently is a necessity in games against Boston at home Saturday and against the Red Wings in Detroit Sunday.

The most drastic measure in switching Armstrong, Quiniard, a left winger through most of his eight full seasons in the NHL, to the right wing slot on a line with Dave Creighton at centre and Frank Mahovlich at left.

Armstrong, previously partnered with Olmstead and Creighton, will team up with centre Billy Harris and left wing Dickie Duff.

The Leafs will need all the power they can muster as Punch Brunse who are only one point behind the leading Montreal Canadiens.

In other Saturday games, fifth-place New York Rangers are at Montreal - while Chicago Black Hawks visit Detroit in the afternoon in a game which could break the third-place tie between the two clubs.

New York invades Boston Sunday night. Montreal and Chicago are idle.

Billy Maxwell Tops Pack in Atlantic Open

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)— Billy Maxwell hoped to keep rolling in his point today as he began the third round of the $25,000 Atlanta open golf tournament with a two-stroke lead.

The stocky 29-year-old Texan opened in front Thursday with an amazing eight-under-par 64 over the 7,004-yard Cherokee course, three strokes off the course record.

Maxwell carded eight birdies, four of them in a row. He had 26 putts, 14 on the front nine and 12 on the back. The 64 and accompanying 72 gave him a 36-hole total of 136.

Bill Collins, who shared the first-round lead with Chick Harbert and J. C. Goodie at 68, hung on with a 70 for a 138 total. Harbert and Goodie slipped to 141 with over-par 77s for 145 totals.

Four strokes off Maxwell's blistering pace with a 140 was Julius Boros. He had a 66 Thursday.

Al Balding of Toronto was 4th down the list with 151. He scored a 76 Thursday to go with his opening - round 72.

Professionals who shot 152 or less and the low 10 amateurs were allowed to continue. Gerry Magee of Toronto didn't make it. He had 154 with rounds of 80 and 74.

WON MARSH TROPHY

OAKVILLE (CP)—Marshal Cleland, 17, Toronto area amateur rider and 1958 winner of the Marsh Memorial Trophy, died at his home here Wednesday. The Leo Marsh Trophy is awarded annually to an outstanding Canadian athlete, amateur or professional, for "outstanding feat of equestrian to receive the trophy." Cleland won it after defeating the Brooks Bright Foundation Trophy at Madison Square Garden, New York, thereby taking the military knock-down-and-out competition.

'The Rifle' Wins Jeff Russell Memorial Cup

By W.R. WHEATLEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes is the 1958 winner of the Jeff Russell Memorial Trophy for a precedent-setting second time.

The announcement was made by Big Four president Ted Workman who appealed to the president of the Football Reporters of Canada to break a tie.

Workman is also president of the Alouettes Football Club. He did not make known the name of the other player involved in the tie.

The prize trophy is awarded annually to the Big Four player selected by the most sportsmanlike and most valuable.

FIRST TIME

No other player has ever won the award twice and, far as known, this is the first time a tie has existed in the votes cast by the league governors and officials, who work in all games. The trophy was offered in 1928 in memory of Russell, a former star who was electrocuted in an accident.

Regulations provide that in case of a tie the Big Four president shall cast the deciding vote.

"It was a really embarrassing position because one of the players is a member of my team," said Workman. "I called trustee George Marrion and asked if there was anything to prevent me passing the decision to someone else."

WALKER DECIDED

"I told him my idea was to ask George Cornish of the Montreal Globe and Mail, who is president of the Football Reporters of Canada, for his ballot. This was a gesture to the fellows who cover football. He also knew that Walker would give an unbiased opinion.

"Marrion said the procedure was-in order and that the idea sounded good to him.

"So Walker was asked. He has made his decision."

Cornish, in contact with Alouettes, Etcheverry has been a standout as a quarterback. Etcheverry came to the Als from Denver University in 1954 and first was awarded the trophy in 1954.

Claude Richard Called by Montreal Royals

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Richard, youngest member of the Rene hockeying family, has been called to play with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League tonight when the Royals meet Trois-Rivieres Lions.

Richard has been playing for Hull-Ottawa Canadiens seniors in the Ottawa Hockey Association. In six games he has scored two goals and collected five assists.

The Royals management said he was called up because two veteran regulars are on the injurel list.

Claude's appearance with Royals will mark the professional debut of the younger brother of the National Hockey League Canadiens' Richards.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)— With Bill Hartack looking on approvingly from the grandstand at New Woodbine Thursday, Aldaco Cey demonstrated just why he is considered Canada's best jockey. Cey rode three winners, including Exmino Flyers, which captured the featured Xavier purse.

Hartack, North America's leading jockey for three consecutive years, rides against Cey in six races at New Woodbine today.

Eskimo Flyer, bred in Alberta by Lucien Maynard and racing in the colors of Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe, ran seven furlongs in 1:23, one second behind Mister Dive's Canadian record.

Eskimo Flyer defeated Master Sgt. H by a nose in a photo finish. Dr. Ern Jay closed much ground to finish a good third.

Packers Brass Blast CAHA Charge Lack of Player Help

By BOB TRIMBLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Kelowna Packers, off to defend Canadian hockey honor in Russia, say the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association let them down when they needed help.

Coach Jack O'Reilly told reporters as his Allan Cup finalists left by plane Thursday night that he asked the CAHA for player aid in August "and we still haven't got it."

Packers, in the Okanagan Senior League, are on a three-week, nine-game exhibition of Sweden and Russia. They will be the first Canadian team to play in Russia.

O'Reilly said Packers lost two key players. They tried unsuccessfully to pick up three Western Hockey League stars. The club then went after top senior players in the country and sought CHA assistance.

COST PROHIBITIVE

Dr. Mel Butler, past president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, said "most of the recruiting problems stemmed from Kelowna's inability to meet the cost."

He added: "The CAHA can't order a hockey player to play in Kelowna. We spent hundreds of dollars getting Quebec and Western and eastern Hockey clubs try, to help Packers get the players they asked for.

"The Packers executive had to consider the job of building a team that could make the trip and also fit into regular league play before and after the tour. They just didn't have the money to attract the help they wanted."

O'Reilly criticized the CAHA for its "apparent disinterest in our attempts to get centre Bobby Hassard."

PLAYER SUSPENDED

Hassard was suspended by Buffalo Bisons of the American league for refusal to turn west with the Bisons this season.

"We heard nothing from the CAHA so we talked to Bobby ourselves and he indicated to us he was willing to make the trip," O'Reilly said.

O'Reilly said Packers sent the CAHA a list of 50 players from which reinforcements could be selected.

"What happens? Saturday they send us two players from Winnipeg who haven't been in action since last spring. We're supposed to have a look at them and pick our team."

Even if Buffalo agreed to let Hassard make the trip, there was doubt he would be eligible because he is a professional.

MADE AGREEMENT

O'Reilly said he was told by the CAHA Thursday it made an agreement with the Russians that no reinstated pros will be on the team. Hassard, 25-year-old native of Lloydminster, Sask., has been playing hockey since he was 14 with Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks. He was with Buffalo last season.

The Russians invited the Canadian team to make the trip.

O'Reilly named 13 regular members of the Packers in the club and added five outside players. He said "this team's got a lot of spirit and fight and I know we'll come back with a good record, if nothing record."

ORFU Awards Are Announced

KITCHENER (CP)—A 30-year-old Canadian backfielder who played for nine of the 13 senior clubs still operating in Canada has won two Ontario Rugby Football Union most valuable player awards.

Davey Watt, playing his first season with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, has been selected as ORFU's most valuable player, Canadian or import, and as most valuable Canadian.

The latter goes by reversion to another Dutchmen veteran, centre Don Mattingley of Sarnia Golden Bears.

Both players win a trophy sni $200.

Kenny Lane Meets Godih

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The busy lightweight division takes over the boxing front tonight with Kenny Lane, 147, challenger, heavily favored to whip Lahouri Godih in a 10-round match.

Coming only two days after Johnny Busso's upset of lightweight champion Joe Brown in a non-title match, the bout calls for a superior effort by Lane to prevent his shocking defeat.

Both the National Boxing Association and Ring Magazine list Lane at the top of the list of Brown's challengers.

Brown's recent opponent has not been signed. In addition to Lane, other possibilities are Busso, Carlos Ortiz, Duilio Loi and Paolo Rotoli.

MUST DO WELL

Southpaw Lane must make a good showing against Godih, a fight hitter but clever boxer with an effective jab.

Godih, 29, is former lightweight champion of France. Born in Oran, Algeria, he now lives in Paris.

His five fights over here he has beaten Larry Baker and Domaso Collazo while losing to Busso, Don Jordan and Jackie Blayden. His career record is 47-6-2.

Until the Busso fight, Lane has a 19-bout winning streak, running back to 1955. The 30-year-old Negro, Mich., native has whipped Johnny Gonsalves and Davey Dupree before losing to Brown. In his only outing since the title match, he outpointed Orlando Zulueta, Sept. 5.

Suit Against Leafs, Canadiens Is Dismissed

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba court of Queen's Bench Thursday dismissed a $125,000 damage suit launched against Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League by Winnipeg Warriors of the Western League.

Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin, in a 22-page judgment, ordered the Winnipeg club to return to Warriors $12,531 the western club paid as part of a five - year agreement among the three teams.

Under the agreement, which began May 1, 1956, the Warriors were to keep 15 players of Western League calibre or better on continuous loan to the Winnipeg club and in return the Warriors would pay the parent teams a percentage of its net aggregate profits during the agreement period.

LONG LOSING STREAK

Warriors claimed that during the 1956-57 season the Leafs and Canadiens provided only 10 players, four of which met WHL standards. In the season just ended in the WHL that season, had the worst goals-against record in the league's history, a mark that was a record for the longest losing streak — 16 games.

Warriors claimed damages on grounds the parent teams did not live up to the agreement, with the result the western team had a net deficit of $12,531 in the 1956-57 season. The farm team also sought reversion of the $12,531 of the previous year in which it won the league championship and defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

PLAYERS DRAFTED

The Winnipeg agreement said the NHL teams had lived up to the agreement in the 1956-57 season by providing players on the championship club had been drafted by the parent clubs, members of the American Hockey League, also supported by Leafs and Canadiens.

The NHL clubs filed counterclaims for $125,000 on grounds the Warriors team was mismanaged during the season and claimed 18 players were sent to Warriors and reverted to Warriors and reverted by other clubs were rejected by the WHL team. The counterclaim was dropped.

Mr. Justice Monnin ruled the Western League clubs had failed to prove the western teams did not provide sufficient players. He said that prior to the signing of the season the Warriors management had been given acquired the players of proven Western League ability. This meant, he said, Leafs and Canadiens had to provide nine. This had been done.

"The agreement is not ambiguous among the three parties" can not be considered in the circumstances of this particular point. It is declarative in that it does not provide machinery for the acquisition of calibre of players in case of a dispute such as this."

Eskimos Meet Sasky Riders In West Semi-Finals Opener

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Edmonton Eskimos face the passing and rushing skill of Saskatchewan Roughriders in the first game of the WIFU semi-final series.

The clubs open the two-game, total-point set in Regina Saturday and play the return half in Edmonton Tuesday. The winner advances against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Western Conference series for the right to represent the west in the Grey Cup classic.

Coach George Terlep of Riders has a double - barreled attack that can hurt. Coach Sam Lyle of Eskimos figures each barrel represents an equal threat.

BIG PASS THREAT

Quarterback Frank Tripucka of the Roughriders has posed the greatest forward passing threat in the Western Interprovincial Football Union for years.

He completed 238 of 338 attempted forwards—30 of them for touchdowns — and gained 2,766 yards.

Halfback Jack Hill was his favorite target, catching 74 forwards for touchdowns and gathering in 60 in all to run up 1,061 yards. Both set a record 145 points.

Riders have a strong running attack. Saskatchewan fullback Cookie Gilchrist was second only to Johnny Bright of Eskimos in total yards gained. Fullback Bob Marlow and halfback Mike Magyar of the Riders also finished in the top 10 rushers in the conference.

"With Hagler in there," says Lyle, "Riders have an equal threat along the ground and in the air."

The catch might be in the soundness of the 21 - year - old speedster from the University of Iowa. He suffered a wrenched knee in the last game of the regular season. While he is running and catching in full stride, his efficiency may be hampered.

Basically, Eskimos and Riders were built through their last workout in Edmonton. End Jim Letcher is the only player not likely to start. He has been out for two weeks with a knee injury.

Quarterback Jackie Parker, who worked at the No. 2 halfback post, is in good shape.

Eskimos, who finished second in the regular race, are favored to take the series.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Bobo Olson and Paddy Young who fought for the United States middleweight title in 1953 will collide on the light heavyweight championship here Nov. 28. Olson will defend against Randy Turpin. Going into his 10-round fight at Oakland Auditorium Arena Young's record stands at 49-13-3 and Bobo's at 67-10-6.

Guelph Up In Third Spot; Teepees Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Just last weekend the outlook was dismal for Guelph Biltmores. The best they could show in six games in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series was three points picked up in three ties. That tied them with Hamilton Cubs for last place in the seven-team loop.

Today they stand in third place, only two points back of the second-place Peterborough Petes but far behind rampaging St. Catharines TeePees who downed Barrie Flyers 9-3 Thursday night for their eighth victory.

Guelph started its climb Tuesday night with a 5-4 verdict over St. Catharines, only loss of the season for the TeePees, and vaulted another notch Thursday by humiliating the hapless Cubs at Hamilton.

The Petes clung to their second-place spot with a 7-4 conquest of Toronto Marlboros Thursday night. Guelph tonight has a chance to move up on even terms overnight when it visits Barrie in the only game scheduled.

The Biltmores, unbeaten now in four consecutive games, came from behind a 1-0 first period deficit on goals by Hamilton Ron Brain and Sandy McGregor, notched two goals apiece and Gordon Haight and Ron Attwood, George Usitalo, Rod Gilbert and Bob Cunningham, Jim McNeil, Dennis Rathwell, Ed Cooke and Bob Brown scored for Hamilton.

MIKITA RESIGNS AGAIN

Stan Mikita, the league's leading scorer, resigned to their victory at Barrie by scoring three goals and assisting on another. Ray Cullen and Don Grosso tallied the other goals. Scorers for Barrie, which suffered its fifth straight loss, were Nelson Leclair and Ed Westfall.

At Peterborough, the Petes forged into the lead in the second period after the first ended 1-1. Wayne Boddy led their attack with three goals. Bill Hicke had two and Wayne Connelly and Barry Babcock one apiece. Jim Murchie, Jack Wilcox, Fred Davis and George Standing tallied for Toronto.

FIGHT WHITE SLAVERY

PARIS (Reuters)—The French interior ministry has added a white slavery squad to its central police headquarters to combat activities of organized procurers. Detective Chief Michel Haeg told a press conference Wednesday an average of 1,000 women leave France every year to work as prostitutes abroad.

Savoie Loses To Vasquez By Knockout

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Youthful Mauro Vasquez, Mexico's foremost featherweight, made his debut as a ring headliner Thursday night, knocking out veteran Armand Savoie of Montreal in the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Olympic Auditorium.

The 18-year-old accountant disposed of the 30-year-old French-Canadian in two minutes and 20 seconds in a bout that was no contest after the first minute.

It was the 14th consecutive knockout and 20th straight victory for the handsome, black-haired Vazquez. He has never lost.

Vazquez weighed 133½, Savoie 133.

QUICK COMBINATIONS

Vazquez landed the first good combination, a jolting left and a right to the head. It did no great damage.

Savoie, a veteran of 98 fights who had fought the world champions, put across a fair right hand to the head. The Mexican shook it off and retaliated with a left and right that knocked Savoie down.

Referee George Latka reached a count of seven before the fighter's manager arrived at his side and righted him. The Canadian slumped to the floor near the ropes in a neutral corner. The referee stopped the fight.

Savoie, one - time Canadian lightweight and welterweight champion, had been knocked out only once before in a main event. However, he won only two of four bouts in which he was inactive throughout most of 1956. He had not fought this year.

EISENHOWER SAYS

a year on Oct. 31, and said it would be free to continue nuclear explosions until its total equalled that of the United States and Britain since March.

Eisenhower said the United States and Britain during the last week have maintained their Oct. 31 suspension. He went on:

"The Soviet Union, which had been testing intensively at its Arctic proving ground from the latter part of September to the end of October, has, however, continued to test at another location.

UN RESOLUTION

"The Soviet Union is continuing its campaign in the UN on a resolution voted by the United Nations General Assembly urging the parties in the Geneva negotiations not to undertake further testing of nuclear weapons while these negotiations are in progress.

"This action by the Soviet Union relieves the United States from any obligation under its offer to suspend nuclear weapons tests. However, we shall continue suspension of such test for the time being, and we understand that the United Kingdom will do likewise. We hope that the Soviet Union will also do so.

"If there is not shortly a corresponding renunciation by the Soviet Union, the United States will be obliged to reconsider its position.

"The United States will, of course, persevere in the negotiations at Geneva to reach sound agreement for controlled suspension of nuclear testing."

The fact that the White House statement was coming up had been announced Thursday night. The advance word was given out after an hour-long conference of Eisenhower, State Secretary Dulles, Deputy Defence Secretary Donald Quarles and Paul Foster of the AEC.

There was no word at that time, however, as the nature of the statement. Advance specula tion centred only on the idea of a policy statement regarding suspension of tests.

Until the new Russian blasts were announced, there had been some apparent hope that the Russians would go along with a tacit suspension dating from Oct. 31.

The Geneva talks were deadlocked during their first week. Russia has insisted first on an agreement to outlaw tests, to be followed by work on an international inspection system to police the agreement. The two Western powers have contended the inspection system should be agreed upon as the first step.

Britain sought to break the deadlock on Thursday with a proposal that discussions proceed on the assumption that a tacit test suspension already exists—it was argued that this could be extended indefinitely if progress toward international control is made at the Geneva talks.

BISHOPS MEET

OSLLIA (CP) — Thirty-three bishops are expected to attend the three-day annual meeting of the House of Bishops of the Anglican Church of Canada which opened in St. James' Church Thursday. The primate of all Canada, Most Rev. W. F. Barfoot, archbishop of Rupert's Land is presiding, and the archbishop; of the three other ecclesiastical provinces—Most. Rev. Philip Carrington, Quebec, most Rev. William L. Wright, Algoma, and Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, British Columbia—are taking part.

Showing the happiness of victory is Cuba's new president-elect Andres Rivero Aguero and his wife. Aguero was voted into office in the national elections by an overwhelming majority. (AP Wirephoto).

Believes New Marketing Plan Will Be Evolved

TOROTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow emerged from a meeting with hog industry representatives Thursday and expressed confidence a "workable" marketing plan will be evolved on a province-wide basis.

He said there are "problems needing solution, but added:

"With the co-operation of all concerned some satisfactory plan could be worked out."

Mr. Goodfellow gave no details on what was discussed at his closed meeting with meat packers and officials of the Ontario hog producers' marketing board.

The meetings were called to hear a proposal for auction sales advanced by big packers in the Meat Council of Canada. Smaller packers, represented by the Domestic Processors' Association of Canada, also attended.

Mr. Goodfellow's statement said the government is not a party to the negotiations. The government's function was merely that of mediator.

PAKISTAN OIL

East and West Pakistan produced a total 977,000 barrels of crude oil in the first half of 1958.

EX-CABINET MINISTER AWAITS SENTENCE

Conviction of Robert Sommers, former B. C. minister of lands and forests on several bribery counts has caused a storm of demands for the resignation of Premier Bennett's government, and particularly of Attorney - General Bonner. Criticism question the 707-day delay between allegations being made and the charges, involving timber rights, being laid. Sommers, above, is the first cabinet minister to be so convicted in the history of the Commonwealth.

Airline Pilots Discuss Safety At Convention

By GEORGE FRAZIOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Safety—and shop strength topped the agenda of today's session of the annual convention of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association.

The association, representing pilots of Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Airlines, was to deal with a number of proposals on air safety, including safety rules, international law, civil reserve fleets and possible utilization of the association with the Canadian labor congress.

CALPA was expected to follow the lead of United States pilots associations in prohibiting flights of disabled planes to repair bases, and demanding that jet transports be flown by a crew of three, pilots instead of two pilots and a flight engineer.

FIRST LINE

British Overseas Airways Corporation, first line to fly a commercial trans-Atlantic jet service, carries a crew of three—pilot, flight engineer and a navigating officer on its jet-prop Britannias and pure-jet Comets.

Ferry flights to repair bases of airplanes with one engine out of working already are banned by U.S. pilots associations.

Prohibition of three-engine ferries meant companies would have to ship a new engine to the plane and have the "cripple" repaired where it was.

CALPA president James H. Foy Wednesday reiterated the association's request for a one month vacation every year for the last eight years—for a reserve civil air fleet.

In two emergencies, he said, Canada has been short of planes ready to handle extra loads. The Suez and Korean crisis caused the countries other American planes had to be secured to take care of the added demand for emergency flights.

NAVY PROMOTIONS

OTTAWA (CP) — Seven men from the navy's lower deck will go to college at the government's expense. The navy's Canadian Navy announced Wednesday promotions to the rank of naval cadet for seven sailors who will attend universities under college training plan. After completing their college studies they are promoted to the rank of sub-lieutenant. The men include Petty Officer Walter G. Henry, Mr. of Chilliwack, B.C., who will attend Queen's University and Able Seaman Michael Rafferty, St. Acton, Ont., who will go to University of Western Ontario.

AIRPORT REOPENS

NATO NATIONS SHOULD CONSULT MORE

Fingerprinted and handcuffed, Metropolitan Toronto police constables charged with theft or breaking in, cover their faces as they leave police headquarters to be taken by police van to jail. All officers were charged and remanded on $2,000 bail yesterday.

Toronto Police Chief Personally Probes Charges 11 Officers Engineered Robberies

TORONTO (CP) — Police Chief James Mackey launched a personal inquiry today into charges against 11 policemen accused of engineering break-ins most had been detailed to investigate.

The chief, in his post less than six months, broke off a hunting trip and hurried back to his city when told of raids that rounded up the suspects, all on the Metropolitan Toronto force. The arrests climaxed an investigation of several weeks by senior officers.

Police said more than $2,000 worth of goods has been recovered — golf clubs, flaking rods, rugs, floor tiling, kitchen articles and men's clothing.

Ten of the constables were attached to Division 19 in northwest Toronto. The 11th is a former North York officer who resigned a month ago to join the Leaside Township force.

All were taken to court Friday in handcuffs to appear on various theft, shoplifting and receiving charges. None entered pleas and bail for each was fixed at $2,000.

Police said the 12th man, who quit the Metropolitan Toronto force two months ago, is being sought.

Three other North York officers were suspended pending investigation to determine why they were allegedly unaware that fellow officers were suspects in burglary cases.

"The arrested men will be treated the same as other suspected criminals," Chief Mackey said. "We are not going to pull any punches in this case."

The defendants: Robert Evans, John Hanna, 27; Jean-Paul Burke, 28; Thomas Patrick Higgins; 31; Arthur James Brockington, 30; Walter Alexander Hoey, 29; Leonard Wilfred Watts, 28; Roy Edward Williamson, 28; George Horace Bones, 25; William Dockery, 25, and Ernest Douglas Bone, 28, the Vaughan Township officer.

Attorney - General Kelso Roberts said he has confidence in the Toronto force generally. However, he said tighter recruiting standards might be needed. No thought has been given to a broader investigation.

Jury Asks Probe Into Death Of Man With Red Pamphlets

VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury Friday night suggested further investigation by police in the case of a man who died of gunshot wounds last Sunday in a downtown hotel and who was found to have Communist literature and pictures of the DEW-line radar sites among his effects.

The jury said it could not determine whether Merrell James O'Donnell, 37, was a homicide victim or died accidentally. It believed the death was not a case of suicide.

Police said that in addition to the pictures and the Communist literature, they found among the dead man's effects a letter from his mother, now in Russia. The jury also was told that $200 the man was carrying shortly before his death was missing from the body.

mother was written on board his ship. The letter from the dead man's mother was written on board ship bound for London. It said she was to fly from Toronto to Prague and then to Moscow from where she would travel to the Black Sea for a month's rest before returning again to Moscow for a two-week stay.

"The return trip is paid for by the U.S.S.R.," the letter said.

Norm Cunningham, Vancouver port agent for the Seafarers International Union (CLC), said O'Donnell had worked for the union hall since his discharge from the U.S. navy.

A friend testified that O'Donnell had been fired after working for six weeks on the DEW line for a transportation company. He was organizing for the Seafarers' International union, but was dropped by the union.

Inspector Percy Easter said O'Donnell had been shot with a 38-calibre revolver found on the floor of the hotel room and tests indicated the muzzle was about two inches from his chest when the shot was fired.

CANADA, SOVIET UNION OPEN NEW TRADE TALKS

Trade Agreement Expires in February

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the Soviet Union have opened a new round of hard bargaining to extend their current trade agreement, which expires next February.

Soviet officials emphasize that though they are willing to buy more from Canada, they do not agree to any boost in purchases of Canadian wheat or other goods until Canada makes a firm commitment to buy more from Russia.

Under the current arrangement, Canada has a big margin in trade with Russia. With indications of continuing large-scale wheat surpluses in Canada, the Canadian government likely will do everything it can to encourage an increase in purchases of Russian goods.

1956 AGREEMENT

The first agreement, signed in 1956, committed Russia to buy a minimum of 14,700,000 bushels of Canadian wheat annually over the three-year term.

In return Canada agreed to reduce tariffs on Russian goods to the most-favored-nation level, the same as for imports from non-Commonwealth members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Trade figures show the deal worked out to the benefit mainly that for Russia. For example, in 1957 Canada sold Russia $10,658,000 worth of goods—mostly wheat — and purchased only $2,800,000 worth her—mostly furs.

DIFFERENT SYSTEMS

The difficulty in the Canadian government making any firm commitment to buy more from Russia lies in the differences in trading systems.

Trade by private industry in competitive trade-dominates the Canadian scene. In Russia, goods are bought and sold through state controlled organizations without competition.

The Canadian administration will show its desire to do what it can by establishing a trade commissioner in Moscow.

Diefenbaker Says None Should Act Without Notice

All Allies Should Know What Others Planning

BONN (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today that every NATO member should consult with and advise its fellow allies before taking any world action that might lead to disunity.

"Prudence demands consultation," he said at a press conference on the concluding day of his two-day visit to West Germany.

"Consultation does not include all times concur," he added. But there should be knowledge of planned actions, and a realization of where each action would lead.

The prime minister spoke to the press conference of some 125 reporters following release of a communique on his talks Friday with Chancellor Adenauer.

ONLY SUBJECT LISTED

The communique did not go beyond listing the areas of discussion: NATO political cooperation, methods of establishing the proposed 11-nation European free trade area, Middle East relations and the situation in the Middle East and Far East.

In said Adenauer reported on West-German efforts to settle the question of the Soviet occupied and that Diefenbaker gave assurance of "understanding" by Canada of the problem.

The two leaders, the communique said, reaffirmed their intention to continue efforts through NATO to preserve peace and "voiced the hope that progress would soon be achieved towards a general controlled disarmament."

The communique did not directly mention the proposal of French Premier de Gaulle for tripartite leadership by Britain, France and the United States in NATO political decision. And in his press conference the prime minister steered away from direct comment on it.

But it is understood that both Diefenbaker and Adenauer are strongly opposed to any proposal that would weaken the voice of smaller NATO countries.

NO NATO PROPOSALS

He said that in his talks during the last two days with Defence Minister Macmillan, de Gaulle and Adenauer he has made no definite suggestion for NATO reorganization.

NATO could not be reorganized "without removing the entire edifice and starting all over again" and no one wants to do that.

He also said he had no specific suggestions to offer for replacing an Anglo-French dispute over formation of the European free trade area.

Canada naturally would welcome increased economic stability, but this is not only unfair but really stupid.

Zsa Zsa Gabor Says Vienna Press Unfair

VIENNA (AP) — Zsa Zsa Gabor announced today she will go on television when she returns to the United States to tell all about what she calls the unfair Vienna press.

Said she before departing for Berlin:

"The Vienna press claimed that the reunion with father was publicity stunt. But this is not only unfair but really stupid.

Supersonic Arrow Interceptor Said Far From Dead Duck

OTTAWA (CP) — The supersonic Arrow interceptor is far from a dead duck, government authorities say.

If it could be shown by next March that the engine could be produced at reasonable cost, there would be a chance the government ordering it into limited production.

The question arises: What is "reasonable cost"? Officials said that is a very questionable. Generally, the Arrow's cost would have to be roughly comparable to that of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile considering the jobs they perform.

The two Bomarc bases which have been ordered have little operation in 1961 will cost $164,000,000 The missiles themselves will cost $2,000,000 each. The Bomarc bases are not recoverable and therefore many more of them would be needed compared to manned interceptors.

The government announced Sept. 23 that it would postpone until next March its decision on whether the Arrow should be put into production.

Authorities said at least the partial reason for this delay was to afford time for every effort to determine how the cost of the Arrow can be sharply reduced.

The government was appalled at the then estimated price: $9,000,000 each.

Since then, it has sent teams into the United States to investigate the possibility of obtaining out of current American production and permanent control systems and air-to-air guided missile for the Arrow.

It is also investigating the possibility of buying from Britain the air force moon rocket—duplicate of Pioneer I—when its planned firing early Friday was postponed 24 hours because of technical trouble.

The first air force try fizzled Aug. 17 when the big rocket blew up after 77 seconds of flight.

But on Oct. 11, a second 88-foot rocket travelled about 70,850 miles toward the moon before falling back into the atmosphere and burning up from friction.

Scientists hope finally to get today's rocket to within 50,000 miles of the moon, and possibly circle the orbit.

Chances of Pioneer II being a success had been given as fair to vance at less than 1 in 10. But observers had been optimistic nonetheless.

Scientists said Pioneer II reached an estimated maximum speed of about 16,000 miles an hour—well below the 25,000 miles scientists said was needed to send a rocket to the region of the moon.

A spokesman said the rocket probably flew slightly over 1,000 miles off target.

The 86.5 pounds of instruments aboard the rocket launched today included an infra - red scanning device to enable the probe to get crude pictures of the far side of the moon and relay the impressions back to earth—provided it had attained a lunar orbit.

The trip to the moon would have taken 2.6 days, or until next Monday afternoon.

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—From now on, distance runner Ken Bally will take his night workouts in just a plain sweat shirt.

His luminous model, designed so motorists could see him trotting along the road, was in tatters today—victim of an owl.

The bird was settling down quietly for the night when Bally, along came Ken in his luminous shirt. The owl didn't take to it, flew down and ripped it from chin to belt.

Permit Britons To Carry Arms In Cyprus

NICOSIA (Reuters) — British today gave permission to her civilians in violence - wracked Cyprus to carry firearms.

The drastic action followed a wave of terrorism that has claimed the lives of four British civilians in the last week. British newspapers have demanded sweeping measures immediately to halt the slayings.

Maj.-Gen. Kenneth Darling, director of the operations against the EOKA underground organization here, took a conference today: "If British civilians want guns, they can have them."

Darling declared: "We are determined to defeat EOKA's murderous attacks on British civilians.

"There will be no holds barred in the campaign we intend taking against these attacks."

All Greek-Cypriot males were under government orders to stay indoors from midnight to dawn. Greek-Cypriot women under 26 were under a night curfew.

TROOPS ON GUARD

Armed troops and police guarded many buildings where they were likely to enter on business.

The security crackdown came following the fatal shooting Friday of Anthony J. Benson, a British bank official.

Quebec Jail Prisoners Riot At Supper Hour

QUEBEC (CP) — Prisoners in Quebec jail chanted, "Nous ne mangerons pas de ce pain-la" and caused $2,000 property damage Friday night during a short-lived supper hour riot.

The jail holds about 225 prisoners. Authorities said 50 to 60 men were involved. No one was injured.

A spokesman for the provincial government, which operates the jail on the Plains of Abraham, said the convicts were protesting about the type of food being served them.

During the 45-minute ruckus the inmates shattered windows, broke tables and chairs and damaged kitchen equipment.

Many of the prisoners began the riot when they were served a regular Friday night supper of beans, cheese, bread, pudding and beverage.

Gene Letourneau, governor of the institution, entered the dining room and tasted the food. He pronounced it excellent.

Then he left the riot broke out in earnest, it was subdued by 8 p.m.

Says Cure of Cancer, Heart Disease Could Easily Prove Major Disaster

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The cure of cancer, heart diseases and hardening of the arteries could easily be a major disaster.

This picture was drawn at the 11th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society in a banquet speech Friday night by Dr. A. I. Lansing, the organization's outgoing president.

Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

The Pittsburgh biologist said cancer and cardiovascular diseases "may not be conquered tomorrow or next year but conquered they will be."

Yet, he said, neither the government nor private organizations are studying the financial and other implications of this to the United States.

"We are eliminated, Dr. Lansing added, the majority of people in the U.S. will reach 65 and a much younger age, he pointed out.

Without some planning now for the inevitable lengthening of life, "we could quickly see the bankruptcy of our insurance companies and financial embarrassment of our federal government."

Blasts Give Scientists Knowledge For Landscaping Earth Safely

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—The last four nuclear shots fired in the Nevada test site in October gave scientists the knowledge for landscaping the earth safely with peaceful explosives, say U.S. researchers.

From measurement of the blast effects, all of which were underground, the observers learned that low explosive yields can be set given depths without breaking through the surface and spewing out radioactive particles.

The calculations yielded a formula called scaled depth. It can indicate the amount of explosive to use and the depth it must be buried to create a new harbor in Alaska or loosen 3,000,000 tons of rock or ore.

The formula was given in a paper before the National Academy of Sciences Friday by Dr. Gerald W. Johnson, of the University of California's Livermore clear laboratory.

A 20,000-ton blast, Dr. Johnson said, will loosen 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons of rock.

Even explosives with thermonuclear energy becomes feasible, Dr. Johnson reported, because of the small size and other massive features of the earth's surface can be created or changed with a few explosions.

One of the first large-scale jobs now being considered is the digging of a harbor at Cape Thompson, Alaska. It has been calculated the excavating can be done for 20 cents a cubic yard, or about one-tenth the estimated a cost by conventional methods.

Andrew Pappas Charged With Wife's Murder

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Andrew Pappas, 35, of Port Arthur has been charged with murder in connection with the death of his 25-year-old wife, Audrey.

Police said they went to the Pappas home shortly after 4 a.m. Friday following a telephone call from a neighbor. They found Pappas sitting in his home with the body of his wife. One of the couple's five children was found under a bed.

Darlene Joyce, 17, told police she had been baby - sitting with the children until the parents returned after 3 a.m.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: — Clear skies in eastern parts of the province last night enabled temperatures to drop down to the zero and low 20s, for the remainder of the province, increasing amounts of cloud had the effect of holding temperatures in the 30s.

This was caused by a storm centred west of the Great Lakes. Showers ahead of the storm extend into Michigan and should move into Southern Ontario today. In Northern Ontario the precipitation takes the form of snow or a mixture of snow and rain.

Sunday, as the storm moves northeast of the province, drier air from the west should bring clearing skies to all except the most northern sections.

Rocket Fizzles Over Africa When Third Stage Misfires

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Air Force launched its third moon rocket early today but it fizzled in flight when its third stage misfired.

It rose about 1,000 miles—only a fraction of the 220,000-mile distance to the moon.

The 63-foot rocket took off in perfect form at 2:30 a.m. EST.

Less than 10 minutes later the air force reported that all the rocket's three main stages had fired. It said the launching "now has been accomplished."

But within a few minutes a radio set showed that the third stage failed to ignite.

In Washington, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said "sometime later we'll know why the third stage did not fire."

Scientists studied data obtained from tracking stations and announced about two hours after launching that the rocket reached an altitude of about 1,000 miles before falling back into the earth's atmosphere.

The rocket probably entered the atmosphere over east-central America — about 7,500 miles from Cape Canaveral—and burned up due to air friction.

Two more lunar probes have been authorized, both as army projects. The initial army attempt is to be made in the first week in December, although there has been no official announcement.

2,400 of DOUKS READY TO MAKE MOVE TO RUSSIA

Prepared to Trade Citizenship for Aid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of British Columbia's turbulent Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have submitted guarantees by more than 2,400 of their followers that they will renounce Canadian citizenship in return for government assistance in a proposed mass migration to Russia.

Freedomites for participation in the return to the Doukhobor ancestral homeland were presented Friday to Dr. W. G. Black, immigration and citizenship officer here.

The federal and B.C. governments have offered assistance towards cost of resettlement difficulty expired Oct. 1, but Assistant Deputy Minister Black Jerome said Friday night the two governments "are not committed whether they can still accept the application.

He said implications of the move will be considered during the next few days.

NEED GUARANTEE

If the applications and guarantees are accepted, the government for government assistance apparently would be an official promise that the Soviet government that the Freedomites would be accepted.

Dr. Black asked the delegation whether word had been received from Premier Khrushchev or Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Joe Podovinikoff of Hilliers, B.C., said: "We've had no answer from the beginning that we could go.

Dr. Black said renunciation of citizenship will not take effect until the applicants leave the country.

Peter Ekseff of Brantford, another member of the delegation, said about 400 other Freedomites are ready to make the move but were withholding applications until a "better understanding is received on what the government has gone to do."

The group sent a telegram Sept. 2 to Russian officials asking for permission to settle in Russia but no reply has been announced. Leaders of the group have said it is up to the Canadian government to put the question to Russia.

Runaway 'Dozer Bumps Into Pole

Stories of runaway horses and of later years runaway cars have frequently been in the news, but this is the first time we have ever heard of a runaway bulldozer.

It happened this morning at Avondale, just west of the city where a local contractor was excavating for a new house basement. The bulldozer had apparently been left unattended on a height of fill when the cat pooling gave away and it moved down the incline and bumped into a telephone pole, breaking it off at the base.

Tabernacle United Church Ends Renovation Program, Will Hold Special Services

This Sunday, the Tabernacle United Church congregation will be having special services to mark the completion of the extensive renovations which have considerably modified the basement facilities. The dedicatory ceremonies will mark the reopening of the ground floor area which includes a new church hall, Sunday school class rooms, two nurseries, a kindergarten, large kitchen, church office and minister's vestry.

No new space has been created in this renovation but greater use has been made of existent facilities through the removal of twent-odd pillars, the laying of a new concrete floor, and the installation of several 20-inch steel girders to carry the load of the main floor of the building. New wiring and appliances have been installed throughout and especially in the kitchen. Painting and decorating of the new rooms was completed today and new vinyl tile floors have also been laid.

DONE IN STAGES

These improvements mark the latest stage in an improvement program which the members of Tabernacle United Church have been carrying on for the past fifteen years under the guidance and leadership of several pastors. The Reverend A. J. Wm. Meyers, Ph.D. (1943-1945) started the program with the replacement of a coal furnace and some thirteen stoves by a steam heating plant. The Reverend Frank Harback's tenure as pastor (1947-1951) saw the completion of the new chancel and the installation of the organ and lights in the sanctuary. In 1953 the church auditorium was redecorated and a new ceiling installed during the Reverend Rowley's pastorage. The new pews and carpet were also installed during this time. The present pastor, the Reverend James C. Eastcott, has guided the downstairs renovations which have amounted to $45,000 during the summer of this year.

The Reverend Frank Harback, now of Ottawa, will be present for the morning and evening services Sunday, after which the dedication ceremony and the official opening, respectively, will take place. A festive gathering will also be held on Thursday evening of next week to celebrate the completion of the basement facilities. The combined women's groups will serve a "Smorgasbord" supper for the friends and members of the church.

Three Trenton firemen are seen on the roof of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carman Neil as they battle a blaze in the wooden building at 71 Byron St. last night. The fire was believed to have been started by children playing with matches in leaves at the rear of the house. (Photo by Georgeson.)

Around Town With Al

A new gimmick, new to Trenton that is, to aid in fire prevention and also help cut down on fire losses may be installed in local manufacturing plants which are equipped with a sprinkler system. We are told this new gadget will be attached to the sprinkler's "heart" and once a fire sets off one of the sprinklers an alarm will also be sounded in the Trenton fire hall.

At the install there will be a tape on much the same style as a ticker tape in a broker's office and the number of the plant will be punched out which will in turn tell the firemen where the fire is and they can rush right out. It is understood it will eliminate the need of a night watchman and will cost the plant using the alarm about $200 per year. This sum will be paid to the company installing the machines as rent and $25 of this money will be returned to the Trenton fire department for their services.

No one can say at the moment if this type of extra fire protection will cut the cost of the local firm's fire insurance but it is expected it will. Representatives of the firm which make these alarms have been in the town for the past few days soliciting the local plants and the idea was also presented to the council meeting Monday night.

We are told the town has only the one building, the Community Centre, which would come under this scheme. However, as the council meeting the matter, was turned back to the committee of Protection to Persons and Property to be further studied by them and the town solicitor.

Nothing official from town authorities can be heard but we have been led to believe that Trenton will not have a new police station in the near future or in a good many years to come. When we say a new station we mean, of course, a new building and it has been, up until the present, a new building which was discussed by the town council on several occasions. The latest in this respect has been the construction of a new station on the corner of Ford and Divisions Streets. About two blocks north of the present site at the Market Square.

In the proposed capital budget for the town a sum of $75,000 has been set aside for just such a purpose and the town officials concerned in the matter have brought in an architect from Kingston to get his opinion on the site on the corner of Ford and Division Streets. The gentleman, a Mr. Cook, has approved the site but it is only a suitable spot. But with the new proposal coming up the whole thing may be scrapped. The latest idea, however, and who the founder is remains unknown, is in our opinion a well thought suggestion. It goes like this: Apparently the Federal government has for some time been considering the possibilities of building a new post office in Trenton.

If the government does build a new post office, and more floor space is certainly needed for this important government "industury" in Trenton, then it has felt that the present post office building could be taken over by the town police department. It would give them the room they need badly for offices and proper storage space. The cells could be got down in the basement of the building and with the main floor being used for offices where the public can be entertained the second floor rooms could be for recreation and instruction areas which the police have had in mind for some time to help, not only themselves but the youngsters of the town.

It looks like a good idea all the way through and perhaps the town fathers would not be far wrong if they investigated it further. Perhaps they can even purchase it from the Federal Government for less money than it will take to build a new one. Most of the town policemen think it is an idea with many good points.

We know it's a bit early but yesterday morning over a coffee at Berg's a dreamy-eyed friend was looking out the window and asked, "Do you think we'll have snow for Christmas?" There was no answer for the query and it is doubtful anyone can answer it even the proverbial "old Indian." However we do know a few facts about the amount of snow which fell on Trenton and Belleville last December and some of it did fall in time for Christmas. And, incidentally, for you Trentonians who are always seeking ways in which Trenton "outdoes" Belleville, you will be interested to know that Trenton now on Trenton during that month in 1957 and in less time too. A dubious record, but that's what happened. According to weather records 4.9 inches of snow fell in Trenton in 6 days compared with 4.7 inches in Belleville in 7 days during December. The 1957 total was 46.6 inches in Trenton and 40.5 inches in Belleville.

Believed Fire Set by Children, $1,000 Damage

TRENTON — Fire which was believed set by children playing with matches in leaves caused an estimated $1,000 damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Neil of 81 Byron Street in Trenton last night.

The fire started at the rear of the frame home near the oil tank and on ground which had been saturated with oil spilt at various times when the tank was filled. It ran up the rear wall, ate through and then spread to various partitions in the rear hall of the home.

Ernie Brown, who lives next door to the damaged home, noted the blaze and rushed outside a pail of water to nearly quell the blaze on the outside wall. He was unable to do anything about the flames which were by then inside the walls. The fire department arrived shortly after.

It was only by the quick action and determination of the fire fighters that the entire home was not lost. The flames could be heard roaring inside the walls and at one time broke out through the roof.

Fire Chief Cecil Hall was out of town at the time the fire alarm came in but he had left the department under the charge of A—Lieut. Gerald Lewis.

Lieut. Lewis used the method the fire chief had found so successful at the Boston Cafe fire. He had his men attack the blaze from the top and bottom, and on ground which had been saturated with oil spilt at various times when the tank was filled. It ran up the rear wall, ate through and then spread to various partitions in the rear hall of the home.

A crew of men and a hose chopped a hole in the ceiling of the kitchen and another did the same in the bedroom above the same room and wrench exposed the attic. In less than an hour they had the fire out. To make sure of the upper portion being out, Engineer Elmer Stacey placed the roof ladder in position and checked the peak of the house.

Neil, Cord Steenberg and Constable Sid Vickers of the town police were on point duty and directed traffic as well from the fire hoses which crossed the street in front of the home.

Mrs. Neil and one of her children were away from home when the flames broke out and her other three children were watching television. Mr. Neil, who is employed as a fireman on the railway was reported to be out of town at the time.

Water and smoke damage was extensive throughout the rooms of the home but Mrs. Neil told firemen last night that the home was insured against fire.

Thompson Firm Celebrates 75th Anniversary in Funeral Business

Thompson Funeral Service on Monday celebrate 74 years in business as funeral directors. Founded in November, 1883, by the late William Thompson in a little business block at 205 Front St., the firm later moved to 290 Front St. where Loblaws is now located.

Thompson's pioneered many ideas in Belleville. The late William Thompson was one of the first embalmers in the city. Thompson's were the first to have a funeral parlor in 1916, and the first to use motor funeral cars. In 1951 they were the first to have a funeral chapel.

The business was carried on for 30 years by the founder until his death, and his son, Thomas C. Thompson, has carried on the business for the past 45 years. He is assisted by his son, David B. Thompson, the third generation of the firm.

In 1930 the funeral home moved to its present location at 38 Everett Street in the quieter part of the city. Mr. T. C. Thompson received his licence in 1914, while his son, David, received his in 1936.

The Thompson Funeral Home and chapel is centrally located at 38 Everett Street, opposite Christ Church Parish hall, two blocks west of Front St. The home and chapel are completely modern in every respect and offer every convenience and facility. The modern, spacious chapel is air conditioned and equipped with church pews and a Hammond electric organ. It seats 175 persons. Two slumber rooms are provided giving a home-like atmosphere. Convenient rest rooms, smoking room, telephone and lounge are provided as well as off-street parking adjacent to the chapel.

Vehicular equipment includes a 1958 Cadillac funeral coach, limousine-passenger family car, clergy car, flower car and flower car. Ambulance service is also provided, with two ambulances available 24 hours, completely equipped with oxygen and first aid.

The firm is proud to have served the city and district for 75 years and has been glad to have made its service and facilities available regardless of family financial circumstances.

Penny Press Rate Is Safeguarded

GENEVA (Reuters) — The Conference of International Telecommunications voted Friday by an overwhelming majority to leave unchanged the telegraph regulations for press messages in areas outside Europe.

The vote was 52 to 3, with one abstention.

A Pakistan proposal would have limited tre maximum reduction for extra-European press messages to 66 2-3 per cent of ordinary telegraphs. It had been adopted by a separate committee by a vote of 38 to 27 and three abstentions.

The committee's action — reversed Friday by the conference sitting in plenary session—would have carried a threat to facilities granted to the press in areas outside Europe such as the "Empire penny press rate," which allows press messages to be sent anywhere inside the Commonwealth at a penny a word. A penny is equivalent to 1.17 cents.

Col. D. McMillan, leader of the British delegation, told the plenary session that there was no good reason to change the existing regulations for press telegrams.

Delegates from Australia, India, Ceylon, France, Israel, Jordan, Colombia, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Libya supported the British view.

The Soviet delegate said that, although he had voted for the Pakistan proposal in committee, he was ready to vote against it now in view of the general feeling of the conference.

Retail Merchants Want to Change Store Hours

CAMPBELLFORD — In the absence of Mayor Douglas R. Mayhee, who is ill, Reeve F. M. Hollingsworth took the chair for the regular meeting of the Campbellford Town Council this week. Councillors George Nicholls and A. D. Bennett were also unable to attend.

A petition was presented by the retail merchants asking that the by-law regulating store hours in the town be amended to allow the stores to remain open on Fridays until 9.30 p.m., and close on Saturdays at 6 p.m. Stores in the town now remain open on Saturday nights. Individual petitions were presented for the classifications. The great majority of these were signed by 100 per cent of the merchants in the classification, while others covered about 80 per cent. After the petition is certified by the town clerk, the council must pass the by-law. It is expected the new hours will go into effect on January 1st, 1959.

A number of merchants, members of the chamber of commerce attended as a delegation to speak on behalf of the amendment.

The manager of the Campbellford Precision Products asked for a decision on whether or not council was prepared to pay for damage caused when a 20 - ton cement mixer caved in a portion of a cement driveway into the company's plant on Front Street.

Council explained that they could not spend public funds to pay damage to private property, but in view of the fact the truck was employing a number of local people, they said they would meet the company half way and contribute a grant of 50 per cent of the cost of repairs, which will amount to a total of approximately $250. The building occupied by the company was at one time a woollen mill, and a flume carrying water from the Trent River passed in front of the building. This has since been covered in and the driveway to the plant built over the top of the flume. The truck bringing in a load of cement last week plunged through the driveway and had to be winched out of the hole it created. The plant manager did not believe the offer would be suitable to the plant owner, but he will notify council later as to the owner's decision.

WILL CONTINUE GUARDS

A report from the solicitor regarding the responsibility of the school board for the guards at intersections and street crossings was received, in which he stated that the act does not provide for guards, but if the school board issues the guards, the board would be responsible in the event a child was involved in an accident when crossing a street while under the supervision of the guards. Similar incidents of the public schools and separate schools act as guards in the town. The board decided a short time ago, when the question came up, to continue to use the guards at least until the parents were notified. A check with the persons holding the insurance coverage regarding liability, assured the town that any accident would be covered, meaning that the guards will be continued as at present.

Council received a petition from ratepayers on the Grand Road about a junk yard operated by R. E. Wood. Apparently the yard is not fenced and the property owners and residents object to this and say that they are annoyed by the smoke and odor caused by the burning of old tires. During the discussion, council learned that the yard was not licensed under the by-law governing such an establishment, and the police constable was left with the problem, and given power to act.

The election law was passed, calling for nomination to be held on November 24th, with the general election one week later, on December 1st.

The assessor, Harry Townsend, has been absent from his office due to illness, and the clerk was instructed to carry on the duties of the assessor and building inspector until the return of Mr. Townsend.

TOLERANCE AND JUSTICE

"Toleration is an important part of government, but it is not the same as justice."—J. Chinna Dural, Senior Advocate of the Supreme Court of India.

Sometimes people confuse justice with toleration or feel that justice can replace toleration or vice versa. We have always felt that the two are complementary and, in order for either to function properly, indivisible.

Justice is the administration of the law of the land via a set of mechanical processes in conjunction with a set of written rules. Justice can be capricious and unfair. It can be a hollow institution such as it was under the Nazis, or it is under the Communists, or as it is administered in some southern states in the U.S. It can be a mockery of all that democratic, fair-minded people consider true justice to be. It can also be one of the finest and most respected institutions of society.

Toleration used to mean merely religious freedom, but over the past couple of hundred years has come to mean much more - - a freedom from prejudice and bigotry regarding matters of race, religion, politics, manners and dress, amongst other things. But toleration is not a social institution such as is justice. It is one of our social mores which might, in the course of time, become institutionalized as a permanent part of our society's laws—As it exists now it is a human trait which modifies our conception or sense of values. The main point is that it is expressed mostly by our personal actions in doing what we feel is right by our conscience rather than in doing what we know is right by the written law.

However, just as justice by the letter of the law without regard for human feelings and reason is not good for society, so, too, human actions without being channeled through acceptable methods of expression can be bad for society. The two, justice and toleration, must balance each other in the administration of government which is, in our society, the largest human relations program in action. The two should also balance the personal actions as individuals as well as those about us if our relations with others are to be harmonious, and form a good foundation with which our government can operate.

Things would be much easier in this world if we but asked ourselves two questions before we passed judgment on another fellow. Have we completely divorced ignorance and prejudice from our observations and reasoning? Have we considered the situation from the other person's viewpoint? If each of us could answer "yes" to these questions there would surely be fewer problems within our society today.

TOUGH ON THE CUSTOMER

In Poland, where the restaurants are all nationalized and run by the Government, getting a meal is a trying business. Worse still, from the standpoint of the Communist government, all its socialized restaurants are running in the red.

That's the word from Warsaw, where Premier Gomulka reports has just launched an all-out campaign to persuade restaurant waiters to treat customers a little less than if they were dirt. Apparently it is the firmly-held belief of waiters in Poland's socialized restaurants that the customer is just a nuisance who clutters up the place and interferes with their gossip over a glass of tea.

According to New York Times correspondent A. M. Rosenthal, the restaurant customer who doesn't want to go hungry must be nimble-witted indeed. Getting the waiter to come to the table calls for expert wheedling tactics. Even if the waiter condescends to come, he is prone to tell the customer that it is not his table. Follows another interminable wait, and then the second waiter breaks the news to the customer that they are all out of the items on the menu which he wants to order.

To cope with the situation, the Polish Government plans to try a bit of good, old-fashioned private enterprise. Twenty per cent of each restaurant's monthly take will be set aside for a wage bonus, excluding the take from liquor sales. The reason for this provision, it seems, is that when incentive pay was tried once before, on liquor sales, the waiters poured vodka into customers at such a pace that so much food was consumed and drunkenness became an appalling social problem.

One conclusion which can be surely drawn from the Polish restaurant muddle is that under socialized enterprises and state monopolies life is rugged for the customer.

THOSE WHO LOVE US

By EDGAR A. GUEST

If those who love us find us true
And kind and gentle, and are glad
When each grim working day is through
To have us near them, why be sad?

If those who know us best approve
In what we are and hold us dear,
What matter if the stranger's voice
Shall speak the bitter jibe and jeer?

If those who cling to us still smile,
Though grim misfortune has us down,
If they still think our work worth while,
What matters it if strangers frown?

Woes of Sudden Wealth

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Perhaps most people wonder what they would do with the money, if they were suddenly to come into a fortune. They dream dreams, but as they never really expect to become rich, the thought does not trouble them very much.

News items tell of a New York policeman who came into a legacy of $2,500,000, and of a group of 18 people, 15 of them police-men, at Memphis, Tenn., who formed a football pool, and won over $700,000, which they will divide equally.

The New York policeman will continue his life much unaffected. How the Margate bobbies will react remains to be seen, but it is doubtful whether their good forbye calmly and philosophically.

Said one: "It will take a bit of getting used to." Said another: "Quite a change from pie and a pint, which is the policeman's usual lot." And reflected the wistful air of another: "$2,000 is too much for anyone who has to earn a wonderful commentary on the seven pounds a week police wage. Twelve pounds would be about $30.

Unlocked — for wealth knocks at some people's door, he hears. Research workers who have followed up winners of huge sums in Irish have found that the recipients got little permanent good out of their money. They spent lavishly and gave away lavishly, and engaged in comfortable behaviour they realized it most of their money back.

In another sphere — the sphere of beauty contests — sudden fame came to Miss Britain, Miss America or Miss Something Else. Investigation has revealed that their beauty did not bring all of them happiness. Rich men married them, but in most cases after the first glamour of being married to a famous beauty had worn off, the marriage went on the rocks.

It certainly takes strength of character if one comes into a large sum of money for beyond anything one ever anticipated. If the strain of making ends meet is not keeping a comfortable mediocrity, the temptation to go to the other extreme is great.

As so many thinkers have said in various forms, the value of money is not in the possession of it but in the use it is put to. The Margate bobbies had a great opportunity of putting all that money to good use — good in sufficiency to themselves and also in sufficiency to their friends and the community in which they live.

Tomatoes In Concrete

Sudbury Daily Star

We don't imagine members of the Sudbury District Horticultural Society would take kindly to the idea of growing tomatoes in concrete, but they gave their gardens with concrete. But in Copper Cliff, Ill., a man with the name of Oscar Harper harvested 30 ripe tomatoes from a plant he grew up through a concrete sidewalk. Twenty green tomatoes were killed by a frost-bit his area.

Mr. Harper has this comment to offer to gardeners—"It saves hoeing."

The story is one of how Mr. Harper noticed the plant growing through a crack in the sidewalk in front of his store. He decided to give it a chance and protected it with a paper cup.

While horticulturists would not take kindly to the suggestion that they grow tomatoes with concrete it is worth pointing out that Mr. Harper was available that put an end to hoeing weeds. The black paper cup could be punctured with holes through which seedlings are planted. The plants grow but the weeds are prevented.

And so tomatoes growing through a crack in concrete — Is there anywhere that tomato seeds have been planted unknowingly among the most viable of all seeds.

However, when people say "grass will not grow on a busy street" it should not be unkind to remind them of Mr. Harper's that is that it shrinks when placed since pioneer times. If deer alone were wholly protected by law, in ten years they would be as plentiful as the locusts. What the h a v e they done to the human beings, are likely — to develop hardening of the arteries when fed a rich diet of butter. The condition, known as atherosclerosis, is believed to lead to circulatory disorders such as coronary thrombosis and apoplexy. Margarine does not produce this condition.

Well, to farmers at least the warning is clear. Don't feed your hogs a diet of butter. Margarine is plenty good enough for them.

Dog's Life Softer Today

Sudbury Star

The day is coming when "it's a dog's life" won't mean what it almost people now think it to mean.

No longer is it a dogs life when latended to convey rough treatment and starvation diet. And no more dogs is now a pleasure who has a "master" instead of a "boss."

The facts of life show that not only is the average lifetime age of people increasing, but dogs are also living three to four years longer than they did 25 years ago. And many breeds are growing bigger, too. Just like the youngsters of today.

This canine health and long life is attributed to better food, better care and trips to the veterinary. The well-adjusted dog of today has had his "shots" to guard against infection and disease. He gets a regular bath as is fed vitamin-packed prepared food. He doesn't get as much exercise as he should because his master has become more of an automobile rider than a pedestrian. I guess what happens to the family dog? Right! His master-rides ill service in the family limousine.

It would be a brave person, indeed, who would gainsay the beneficial hand and predict the future of the canine world. Yet, we can see day when the hunting dog will lie at his master's feet in the field and quietly regard his master retrieve the game brought down by rifle fire. Not living but have only one effect on the hunting instincts of the hunting dog, and we believe the master thinks it bright of me for my food in the form of guests?

In a world that devoted much time to the rumors of wars, labor disputes and economic disturbances it is fine to hear that things are happening in the animal kingdom which are alright with the world. But we must beware that every dog does not grow up to be a hero and that dogs do not find the odour of youth before man. It would be a cruel blow if the world went to the dogs!

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME PEOPLE ARE ALLERGIC TO NYLON SOCKS AND STOCKINGS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Nylon socks cause intense burning on the soles of my feet. Can something be done about it? Thirty minutes' contact with clean socks will bring on this burning."—W.J.H.

Sir, I offer two probabilities: Yes, new allergy to Nylon (which essentially is possible) or perspiration solution you have been using has changed so it could be a combination of the two.

Nylon, unlike cotton, doesn't absorb moisture.

If your feet remain comfortable when you wear cotton socks, but not Nylon, your trouble must skin is more sensitive to allergies than dry skin. Since Nylon doesn't absorb, the skin of the feet remains more moist. If you have a case of allergy, whether to the Nylon or perhaps to dye, or to leather, or whatnot, the moisture helps the allergy along.

For a woman, avoiding Nylon becomes more of a problem. The only solutions that occur to me are wearing heavy cotton hose or cotton in the foot, or cotton mesh stockings over nylon. I see no way to find but are quite attractive.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I do beg to apologize for being so late writing to thank you, but I think it my duty. I think it is now six months. I received your little booklet about constipation with which I was troubled for a long time. I have never taken one pill or cathartic since hearing from you. I never was one to drink much water, but since reading the pamphlet I drink half of ty and am never troubled with more. I will soon celebrate my birthday and will be 84 for me! — C.S.B."

Thank you for your letter, and a Happy 87th Birthday! Knowing how the body operates is no more than half the battle. The other half is the application of this principle to your own body. Your letter as an object lesson for other readers.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter married a pharmacist and he seems to think it is a waste of money to go to a physician since he can get drugs at cost. And constipation. I am alarmed at the diet she gives him. He should stick to baking. She has always been healthy and I see no reason for her taking tranquilizers until she is more or less inert all day. — C.

I have the greatest respect for pharmacists, but this chap is fooling with dynamite. I'm a doctor and don't attempt to be a pharmacist. He should stick to his pharmacy and stop trying to be a doctor. What's more, he unquestionably was no student in college. If he wants to prescribe, he'd better go to medical school. Somebody, he'll unintentionally do damage. I pray he'll receive a liberal training before something happens.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 87 and feel good except for colds. I have noticed for the second time in three weeks a small drop that looks like blood dripping from the nipple of the breast. I cannot find any lumps or anything. — Mrs. M.M.H.

A bloody discharge from any opening should be checked by your doctor. It is not necessarily a dangerous sign, but it is a sign that should be taken as a serious warning, so the only logical thing is to find out which. In this case, any change in the appearance of the nipple, coupled with the tiny sign of blood, demands examination and observation at least.

R.F.: The most frequent causes of such sore spots on the tongue are allergy, and lack of adequate vitamins.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write in for the cure of this newspaper, requesting my pamphlet, "How To Stop Leg and Foot Pains." Others dealing a cleaning, large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Automatic Lawn Mowers

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The management of a large cemetery at Warren, Rhode Island, has purchased several motor lawn mowers, thereby doing away with the need of horses that has kept the grass short since 1834. For more than a century, Warren has been neat and well done, by a flock of sheep.

The sheep method of mowing has been in effect at Hyde Park in London and several years long or longer. Hyde Park covers an area of about 400 acres part of which is trees and part is a large artificial lake known as Serpentine. Dotted about in the park grass, and the job of cutting it is done by maybe one hundred recently dicsegated to hundres of sheep. Visitors to London are always instructed to see sheep grazing right in the heart of London.

These sheep belonged to large breeders of pure stock and they came from all parts of the country, even Scotland. There might be a number of flocks, and each flock had its own shepherd so that he could look after his own sheep. They were to be shipped back home.

Sheep are great nibblers, and can live on grasslands where other livestock would starve. Another livestock would starve. Another livestock would starve. Another

A Lift for Living

The Secret Balloting in Life

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Last Tuesday Americans went into polling booths and cast their ballots. It is stirring to see millions of citizens exercise their precious privilege of voting by free and secret ballot. In the election booth each of us is equal to every citizen, each able to cast one vote, each independent and unobserved. There is something sobering, even exalting when one stands alone with his conscience and his God to choose his leaders.

A weekly news magazine recently carried an article with this title "The Generals Take Over." In Egypt, Pakistan, Iraq, Lebanon, Burma and Thailand, military leaders have assumed rule with practically dictatorial power. All of these nations, except Thailand, have been freed from British or French rule within the last 13 years. Yet their democratic liberty did not last. Freedom from restraint is not enough. Citizens must look upon their liberty as freedom for responsibility. Where that does not happen dictators take over. Therefore it behooves us to prize and preserve our free secret election.

The political election is over but the secret balloting continues. Right now each of us, wherever he sits, is in the process of voting on some issue. And today I want to think about this business of secret balloting in life. I should like to view it in the light of something Dante said as recorded in the twelfth chapter of Luke, the third verse. Listen: "Whatever you have said in the dark shall be heard in the light and what you have whispered in private rooms shall be proclaimed upon the housetops."

Let us start right where we are, each in his own place. There may be others in the room as you are reading this. Nevertheless, the person next to you cannot see what you are thinking. Others can come only to the threshold of our natures. Each of us thinks in secret.

CHAMBERS OF THOUGHT

This secrecy is essential to our selfhood. We could not be ourselves if we had no chambers of thought which we could lock from the inside. There are times when we have to withdraw into ourselves in order to be ourselves.

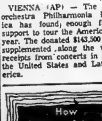
And this secrecy is essential to our association with others. T h e shallow person who chatters forth everything that comes into his head and carries all his emotions on his sleeve does not invite deep abiding friendship. We prefer those people of quiet dignity who reveal by their reserve that they have thoughts too deep for words. We like to look into eyes which have a depth that indicates emotions not exposed to everybody's gaze. We like persons who c a n keep their own secrets because it is to them that we feel like trusting our secrets. A certain separateness is necessary for real togetherness.

And some secrecy is essential to our very sanity. George Orwell drew a fanciful picture of life in the 1980's if some of the present trends continue.

He showed what could happen if the mechanical means of transferring sight and sound a n d memory were perfected and p u t under the control of ruthless totalitarian governmental agencies. In his imagination he showed that it could be possible for a central intelligence office to follow the movements, the words, even the thoughts of each individual into his own rooms and take away all privacy. Such life would prove maddening.

NECESSARY TO LIFE

Yet, secret places and secret chambers within our own minds are as necessary to the life of the spirit as shadow and darkness are necessary to break the blinding monotony of uninterrupted light. Each of us needs to withdraw into ourselves that in these secret places of the mind, decisions are continually being registered. If we had any meters which could record the movements of our minds as we have meters to clock our taxicabs, we would find that they keep running every waking moment. We are always thinking but no thoughts are really idle. They are working in us.



And according to the Master of Life, our secrets do come to light eventually. Sometimes they come out in slips of the tongue and in moments when we are off guard. Sometimes our secret thoughts eventually affect our facial expression. When Gilbert Stuart, the experienced painter of portraits, met Talleyrand, the wily French politician, he is reported to have said, "If that man is not a scoundrel, God does not write a legible hand."

Also, the secret ballots of o u r minds show in emergencies. Professor Peabody of Harvard w a s fond of saying that character is discriser is the result of what we have been doing for the previous ful days preceding.

Truly, "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Days and Customs of All Faiths

St. Martin the Beggars' Patron

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Tuesday, November 11 — Sometimes a saint gets pushed badly out of perspective just because his day comes at a time of year when people's lives are affected by special seasonal distractions. This is true of St. Martin, the fourth century bishop, who is commemorated today in t h e Christian calendar. To make him the patron of tavern-keepers, winegrowers, and drunkards is carrying fatality to put him out of focus. (He is also the patron of beggars which is all right, as will be shown later).

The trouble is a double one. First, St. Martin's day was all tangled up with the time of year when the new wine is ready. It really had nothing to do with the good saint that on his day a great many people were a little overcharged with conviviality a n d effect. Second, it was also t r u e that at this time of year todder was becoming scarce; the grazing season was drawing to a close, and anyone who wished the good meat and beef-cattle h a d better slaughter them now. So St. Martin, who himself had nothing to do with drinking or slaughtering, got maneuvered into being associated with both.

November was from earliest pagan times the month of the killing of animals. And of course the pagans hooked it up with their sacrificial system and made a religious thing of it. They propitiated the animal god. Poor Martin inherited this emphasis on bloodshed just because his day came at this season. All over Europe it was thought that blood must fall on the ground on St. Martin's Day. If you had no animal to kill, then you had better cut your finger and spill your own blood on the earth.

BEASTS STILL SLAUGHTERED

In Ireland, today (or yesterday St. Martin's Eve), beasts are still slaughtered with special prayers and their meat eaten in a way that could also be called ere-monial. Their blood is sprinkled about the house and smeared on the foreheads of members of the family. This ritual keeps out evil spirits for exactly one year.

In Yorkshire, England, St. Martin's Day was the beginning of the season for goose to Christmas, which pushed it even farther ahead than American inec-chants have been able to do so far. Singers, for some reason always women, went about from house to house carrying an image of the Lord adorned with evergreen and singing Christmas songs. They kept this up until Christmas Eve.

About why he is the beggars' patron — the most famous legend connected with St. Martin tells that while he was an army officer he met a poor shivering man on a cold day and on a sudden impulse (or inspiration) took his sword and slashed his cloak in two and gave half of it to the unhappy man. That night in a dream he became aware that it was Jesus to whom he had given the cloak. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." The half of the cloak St. Martin kept is still on view as a venerated relic at Amiens, in France. What became of the Lord's half is not known.

SOLDIER SAINT

Because he was an army officer, the story of his conversion Martin is often thought of as "the soldier saint," but he might just as accurately be called a conscientious objector. When he became a Christian he wanted nothing more to do with fighting or t h e military life. He even refused a bonus that was coming to him for his army service, directing that it be divided among the others. He asked for a discharge, which was grudgingly granted.

Martin had no desire for fame, but what he could not was to be a hermit, but the rumors of h i s goodness spread abroad and t h e people of Tours drafted him to be their bishop. From that position he was sent on frequent missions of, and of t h e unsavory characters

Kiwanis LA. Announces New Directors

The November meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held in the Kiwanis Centre last Thursday evening, with president Erma Reid presiding. Laura Hyde as treasurer gave a fine report, mentioning that $112.37 had been raised at the fall tea and the "Pay as you Pull" draw gave a net profit of $235.75.

Kate Cooke as general convenor of the tea and bake sale thanked all who had in any way helped to make the affair so successful. Margaret Black and Kate Cooke were presented with the president's decoration in appreciation of their work at the tea.

Ella Trumpour was called forward to receive the president's Rose in appreciation of the outstanding work she has done in convening the Auxiliary's project, the "Dixie Dancers' Clinic. It was decided to leave the decision re to what form the December meeting would take in the hands of the Entertainment and Refreshment Committees. The ladies were asked to take home dolls from the tree to be dressed for the Kiwanis toy project.

NEW DIRECTORS BOARD

President Erma announced the results of the ballots cast for the new Board of Directors for 1959 and declared these five elected: Helena Duffy, Laura Hyde, Zina Hume, Jean Lott, Lois Morris, Gladys Slade and Reta Coleman.

The by Auxiliary decided to make the following contributions: $30. to the Belleville United Appeals, $25. to the Children's Aid Society; $50. to Mr. Eric Cooper for use in the Kiwanis toy project and $50. to Kiwanis Welfare convener.

Nancy Fozard won the November birthday draw. Joan Lusk and Lois Morris conducted a game new to most called "Blackout Bridge". A most enjoyable time was had, the prize winners being Ella Trepanier and Kay Craig.

Gertrude McKenna and her committee served refreshments concluding a most enjoyable evening.

Wedding

SOFINKA — ROWE

FRANKFORD — Tall white standards of bronze and yellow 'mums were the setting of a lovely autumn wedding solemnized at the United Church, Trenton Creek, Frankford, on Saturday, October 18, 1958, by the Rev. D. L. Bain, when Dorothy Louise Rowe, of Toronto, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rowe, became the bride of Mr. Andore Sopinka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Metro Sopinka, of Stoney Creek, Ontario.

The church organist provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Bonnie Rowe, Frankford, Ontario, niece of the bride, who sang during the signing of the register, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Raymond Rowe of Frankford, the bride was charmingly attired in a floor length gown of white satin and lace and imported lace with full flowing skirt. She wore a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and carried a cascade of red roses and snowdrift 'mums.

Miss Marion Frederick, of Toronto, was bridesmaid in Dior blue crystalette with matching headpiece and carried a cascade of pink carnations.

The dainty little flower girl, Marilyn Rowe, of Frankford, niece of the bride, wore white nylon over blue taffeta with matching headdress, and carried a basket of white baby 'mums and red rose buds.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Lorne Lott, of Plainfield, as groomsman. A friend and brother of the bridegroom was usher.

The wedding dinner was held at Alpine Lodge, Trenton, the bride's slater-in-law received, wearing black jersey and white accessories and a corsage of white snowdrift 'mums and red rose buds. Lois Morris presided, assisted, wearing blue lace with matching accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums.

The bride's table was appointed with fall flowers and centred by the traditional three-tier wedding cake.

Travelling to their new home in Edmonton, the bride wore beige wool dress with matching accessories and china mink jacket.

Guests were present from Windsor, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Toronto, Belleville, Brighton and Frankford.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored guest at a miscellaneous shower from her office convenors and presentation the office employees of the Toronto Transport Commission, at which she received by her aunt, Mrs. Ernest Brown of Toronto.

Eastminster W.F. Sponsors Successful Christmas Bazaar

A crisp, sunny afternoon gave a typical fall atmosphere to the recent delightful tea and bazaar at Eastminster United Church, sponsored by the Women's Federation. Beautiful blue and silver hues accented reds and greens presented a preview of the Yuletide season.

Welcoming guests were Mrs. A. McDowell, wife of the pastor; Mrs. J. Williams, president of the W.F. and Mrs. Irene Scrase and by Mrs. C. Hewson.

On the ladies' house-keeping table was an abundance of jams, jellies; pickles; and relishes; assorted potted plants; crocheted doilies; white, lace-trimmed collars; cushion-pin bags; decorated christmas candles; pretty slippers; plain sewing, and the perfect peak Mrs. M. Reid and Mrs. E. Burnham were in charge, assisted by Mrs. Russell Miss Marilyn Booth.

The Reverend Alexander McDowell welcomed the gathering and declared the bazaar open.

The many guests wended their way to the tea room in the lower hall, via the lighted entrance through an arbor of silvered evergreens set with glowing blue candles. Blue and silver shaped blue - sprayed spruce bough with silver bells and silver balls was suspended at the front of the room, and beneath the white spruce tree with silver bells and red centred white bells nestled. Mrs. Linking and Mrs. Morton, the tea room hostesses, Mrs. C. Parker, Mrs. R. Johnson, Mrs. C. Hewson and Mrs. Ross Moffatt escorted the guests to the attractive plates of assorted cookies and sandwiches on white lace doilies, centred with white sprays of silver, red and blue covered oats.

PRETTY TEA TABLE

The long tea table was appointed with white linen, centred by a reflector floating a crystal dish bearing clusters of silver and blue balls, flanked by a trio of midnight - blue candles in crystal holders.

Presiding at the silver services were Mrs. G. T. Platt, Mrs. H. Swan, Mrs. L. Read and Mrs. F. Simpson. Those serving included Mrs. R. Bateman, Mrs. N. Britton, Mrs. F. Valentine, Mrs. Ernest Ross, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. J. Loeke, Mrs. H. Elliott, Mrs. A. Duffy, Mrs. H. Hagerman, Mrs. Jas. Barratt, Mrs. C. Wannamaker and Mrs. G. McDonald.

Assisting at the tables in the kitchen: Mrs. G. Munro; Mrs. C. Wannamaker; Mrs. G. McClarnid; Mrs. J. Hatfield; Mrs. W. Fothergill and Mrs. R. Windover.

The treasurers for the afternoon were: Mrs. L. Horning and Mrs. D. Lamb. Those responsible for the decorations were: Mrs. R. Roblee, Mrs. F. Clarke and Mrs. L. Horning, to whom much credit is due is extended.

VARIOUS BOOTHS

The various booths, situated in the nave of the church, were gaily decorated with white and white valances with red and green scallops and red and green circle and corner bells and green and red.

The homecooking, convened by Mrs. S. Hoard and Mrs. C. Lusk, assisted by Mrs. J. Hagerman, G. Smith; Mrs. A. Wilson; Mrs. R. Bridge; Mrs. J. Allan, Mrs. Ewald and Mrs. J. Henry soon were sold out of berry, apple, cherry, pumpkin, lemon, and mincemeat pies; cookies of many fascinating white, lemon-iced cherry-iced layer cakes, chocolate iced squares; date and cream bars; chocolate angel food; and orange, pineapple and date breads.

A display of Christmas cakes was in the charge of Mrs. G. Stable and Mrs. H. Harper.

Th aprons, convened by Mrs. A. Knowlton and Mrs. A. Hotchkiss, assisted by Mrs. W. Hutchinson and Mrs. H. Irwin, were gay with many colors and styles; fancy and plain hostess numbers, and half and all-over styles; cobblers, as well as the hand-towel and dainty pinnies for the wee tots.

CHILDREN'S WEAR

Children's wear was under the convenorship of Mrs. C. Hunt and Mrs. C. Young assisted by Mrs. A. Jantzen; Mrs. L. Lane; and Mrs. H. Beacn. Here were little dresses for play, and neat, smocked nighties; several cowboy and cowgirl suits complemented by yellow or green fringe; little mitts.

The dolls' clothes booth, directed by Mrs. F. Kline and Mrs. H. Brodie, assisted by Mrs. G. Meeker, Mrs. S. Turner, Mrs. J. Rudd and Mrs. T. Riley, dressed many gift seekers for the little mother's dolly. The focal points of this table were four exquisite dressed bride and bridesmaid dolls and one lone cowboy in miniature regalia. Nigger Hair mitts and Christmas stockings were additional attractions.

Christmas cards, wrappings, ribbons and all-occasion greetings were under the convenorship by Mrs. C. Hewson.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

T G T has during previous columns, drawn attention to the warm hospitality and the superb cooking and baking of the Lake Quinte housewives. This week we were talking with a gentleman who is a resident of Belleville too long. The other night he experienced that first turkey supper in our midst. This particular supper was put on by a group of church women in Prince Edward County. It is unnecessary to mention names because the gentleman paid compliments to the high standard of both friendliness and quality of the food suppers so popular throughout our two counties of Hastings and Prince Edward. We are told by those who know that these happy features of our autumn activities are equally fine in Northumberland. Our friend has experienced similar functions in the Townsend or Kitchener where the German fare enjoys her share of fame and the genuine hostess at such gatherings. He could not get over having done justice to a hearty helping of turkey with all the trimmings, our enthusiastic partner of fowl supners in the Bay of Quinte excluded, "and they go around and around so you know what was my choice for my first piece of pie. Imagine that."

The fowl suppers throughout the autumn in our community are a grand institution and it is hoped they continue on for many generations to come. The informal friendliness, the generous helpings of beautiful food, the community spirit and the blessings of bountiful harvests all help to make the country fowl supper a seasonal institution. The housewife comes into her own in a world that has been hers for centuries. She is the world's finest caterer.

Samuel Johnson wrote: "Boundless is always received part of its value from the manner in which it is bestowed." What a high value is put on the hand-bounty by the manner in which the hostess welcomes visitors to their guests at their fowl suppers.

Prince Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker will soon be visiting India. Mrs. Diefenbaker will find a country where the status of women may seem limited but considering the past two decades has changed beyond belief. She will find a country of leadership, daughter of one of India's ambassadors and wife of a UN diplomat. Her horizons are broadening rapidly. The first woman to be elected president of a university is perhaps representative of the opportunities opening before her, so many conflicting paths to choose from. Her interests to have lost a certain steadfastness of purpose in the midst of tranquility, which was the mark of her forbears.

"The Constitution guarantees women the right to vote, the right to an equal chance at livelihood, the right to equal pay, the right to an equal education in the family and the right to any office feven that of premier." Women who have found their horizons widening, their ceiling unlimited. This ceiling is slowly permeating the villages, too. During the recent election last year, women all over the country turned out to vote in numbers far exceeding even optimistic predictions. They tell of an old grandmother who, too old and too sick to walk to the nearest polling booth, insisted that her daughter-in-law take her, too, could cart her vote. And that was no isolated incident. Women, by the thousands, are men are of sturdy rural calibre of equal individuality and sentially main role of an Indian woman is, and perhaps always will be, that of wife and mother — a role she has usually played with wisdom and sometimes with a role in which she has excelled down through the centuries as the power behind legislators and politicians (though India has had her queens and virgins, too, who lash out at their husbands and children with their tongues, but never with their fists) while the property and spare years ago a knowledge of women themselves, rather than what a visiting correspondent says after a few hours' or days' stay in a foreign land. It is to be hoped and expected that India's struggle to make democracy work is a success and that Indian women are ever with their men to help it work in the face of all the challenge from two great neighbors.

Belleville-District H-S Council Meets at Queen Alexandra

The November meeting of the Belleville and district Home and School Council was held Thursday evening in Queen Alexandra with presidents and representatives present, some from as far away as Campbellford and Madoc.

After the business portion of the meeting, the president, Mrs. R. Jones, welcomed all present and gave a short resume of the topics which had been discussed at the Federation Board meeting in Toronto, from which she had just returned. Such matters as a set rate being charged to all Associations in Ontario for the purpose of allowing Associations paid; the location of needed for conducting Leadership Training Courses; a drive to educate children to assist parents in keeping poisons in the home and keeping it out of the reach of members; a grouping together of all School Days by the National Film Board to facilitate the handling of film orders, were the topics discussed.

CONVENTION DATES

The dates of the annual convention and Home and School Camp for 1959 were decided upon as April 21st and 22nd, June 7th to 12th respectively. Further to this, Mrs. Jones gave information of the organization of how the Home and School per paid fees are distributed and used. She emphasized the fact that H. and S. Associations raise out money making organizations, usually having only one—all-rounder", more versatile and money-making than she was a generation ago, but one cannot help feeling that the wealth of opportunities opening up before her, so many conflicting paths to choose from, she seems to have lost a certain steadfastness of purpose in the midst of tranquility, which was the mark of her forbears.

Air Travel Reaches Ultimate With Luxurious Jet Airliner

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

In the system timetable of Pan American World Airways marked "effective Oct. 26, 1958" a familiar word appeared for the first time at the head of various schedules. It was "Jet" and in the bland footnote terminology of schedule makers since the dawn of public transportation, it is defined simply as "Equipment — Boeing 707."

As almost everybody who can read is aware by now, the Boeing 707 is the first jet airliner that airplane ever put to commercial use; flies at a speed that is more than the earth where the sky is a near purple instead of blue and that is utterly silent, is so vibration-free you can balance a quarter on its edge on the arm of your chair or seat.

All the last month we were among more than 100 newsmen piled into such an airplane, long as two Pullman cars, a sister ship to the fresh paint and fabric like the latest model in a fine new assembly line. The occasion was a sample trip from New York to the Americas's Britain's Idlewild Airport.

Everything previously said about this airplane seems to have turned out to be true except for the business about turbulence. On this trip, a failure m o s t likely attributable to either t h e captain or the weather, there was slightly worn around the edges.

A great deal was made of the quiet than speed and smoothness was true too. Our purser, a veteran of 10 years with Pan Am, told us how every airplane ever introduced before has had its short-comings in passenger facilities.

"But in this baby we've incorporated everything we've learned from all the airplanes ever made. This is what the airline industry has been waiting for. It's the ultimate."

Even discounting his company loyalty, he has a point. There is room enough to fact to satisfy objective reporters with half a million miles under our seat belts. It was a trip not only of unprecedented swiftness and luxury but one of unprecedented ease.

It used to take people and propellors and railing eaves to reach Paris. This jet-propelled baby got us there the time of a fast ocean liner, but still a long time for anyone to be in one place while being assailed by a deafening din.

Our trip took only nine and one half hours including a fuel stop at the Azores occasioned by weather restrictions at Idlewild Airport. Ours was the heaviest load — nearly a quarter of a million pounds — ever to take off from the field and we got through Pan Am and Boeing both insist that enough extra fuel can be lifted safely to make the nonstop load equally safe.

They may even have the restriction ended. If they do, or when the new longer runways at the 707 goes into service some months hence, the entire trip will be routine in the same hour period between a New York and Paris, a shortlived late Friday afternoon dinner.

But the 707 here today is to even the most casual observer a patent fulfillment of the giant-airliner dreams of the most far-out visionary from Leonardo da Vinci to Jules Verne. A swept-wing behemoth which, to coin a phrase, is now the only way to fly.

It takes off and soars at the angle and speed of a rocket. Inside it is each time, immediately up to a quiet and lovely world far above most of the world's weather. Below your window, unblocked by the old bulky wing, is the arid aid of Libya, Algeria and Morocco. There are no whirling propellers or flaming exhausts to hint of power. There is only the throb-free whine of the jet turbines remind you that you are not sitting in a floating on air.

Inside, 71 of them at bargain basement economy fares in Pan Am's seating arrangement, exciting first class and tourist in North Americans: Europe is here, just over the horizon in fame and time.

A round trip to Paris can be had for as little as average one third of your day's time each way and you're there, whether from New York. As more seats become available at ever-lowering rates in the face of the big planes, the trip that was once the rich man's luxury will become practically the average man's privilege for little more than he may spend for a first class vacation at home.

The only trouble is that Paris is not the only place to go.

In the coming few weeks we'll tell you what it's like for the lucky being anyway, as well as m o r e about travelling jet.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"GOD THAT MADEST EARTH AND HEAVEN"

God that madest earth and heaven,
Darkness and light
Who the day for toil hast given,
For rest the night
May Thine angel guards defend us,
Slumber sweet Thy mercy send us,
Holy dreams and hopes attend us,
This live-long night.

And when morn again shall call us
To run life's way,
May we still, whate'er befall us,
Thy will obey
From the power of evil hide us,
In the narrow pathway guide us,
Nor Thy smile be e'er denied us,
The live-long day.

Guard us waking, guard us sleeping,
And when we die,
May we in Thy mighty keeping
All peaceful lie
When the last dread call shall wake us,
Do not Thou, our God, forsake us,
But to reign in glory take us
With Thee on high.

THOMAS KEN

Three distinguished English clergymen had a hand in the writing of this lovely evening hymn of faith and trust.

Each of the three contributed a verse to the song.

Bishop Reginald Heber, who wrote "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty", "From Greenland's Icy Mountains", and many more equally successful hymns, wrote the lines of the opening stanza. It was published as a one stanza hymn following his death in 1826.

Several years later, the Rev. William Mercer added stanzas two and, after another pause, the final verse was contributed by the Rev. Richard Whately.

Bishop Heber, whose father also was a clergyman, was born in Malpas, England in 1783. He studied at Oxford and shortly after his graduation he was ordained and began his rectorship at Hodnet. He held this post until 1823 when he was consecrated bishop of India. His missionary career in Calcutta was halted by a fatal fever, in 1826. Dr. Mercer issued "The Church Psalter and Hymn Book" in 1857 and Archbishop Whately was known for his lectures and writings. One of his best-known books was entitled "Difficulties Of The Writings Of The Apostle Paul."

The popular tune for the hymn, "God That Madest Earth And Heaven", is a beautiful Welsh folk melody, "All Through The Night".

GOOD MANNERS

NOT NECESSARY TO REPLY TO FORMAL INVITATION TO WEDDING CEREMONY

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I have just received a formal invitation to a church wedding. Although I hoped I would also receive an invitation to the bridal reception after the ceremony, I'm sorry to say I didn't. How do I reply to the invitation to the church? — Ann

A formal invitation to a church wedding does not require an answer. (It is the formal invitation to the reception that requires an answer.)

INTRODUCING HER FRIENDS TO HER MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

What is the simplest and most natural way to introduce anyone to my mother? — Elaine T.

When everyone is introduced to your mother, mention her first in the introduction. If you have spoken with her often about the friend you are now introducing, it would be natural to say, "Mother, this is Rosemary." Another introduction might be: "Mother, this is Mrs. Davis"; or, even more informally, "Mother, this is Kathrine Davis." Mrs. George Davis." Or, "Mother, this is Mr. Field," or "Mother, this is Arthur Robinson, whom I met last summer at the shore."

BRIDE MAY WEAR WEDDING DRESS AND VEIL FOR SMALL CHURCH WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Our wedding is to be in our church, very simple, only the families, a few relatives, a few intimate friends of ours present. Even though the wedding will be so simple and small, would it be at all proper for me to wear a white wedding dress and short bridal veil? And would it be proper to have a large reception after this ceremony? — Edith L.

It is completely proper for you to wear a wedding dress and bridal veil even though the church wedding is to be a small and simple. And proper too for you to have as large a reception as you wish.

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

When someone whose voice I don't recognize calls on the telephone and asks for me — "May I speak to Miss Brown?" — I am not sure whether I should answer "This is she" or "This is Miss Brown." Which is correct?

— Kate

Either is correct. However, I think that "This is Miss Brown" is somewhat preferable, since it repeats the name for the assurance of the one calling.

ANSWER:

I am delighted to have you ask in the venison season.

VENISON DINNER MENU:

Grapefruit and Orange Mint Fruit Cup; Broiled Venison Steak; Sauteed or broiled Whole Mushrooms; Stuffed Baked Sweet Potatoes; Spiced Grape Jelly or Currant Jelly Butter in Orange Skin Shells, Cauliflower with Cheese Sauce; Lettuce Heart, Watercress and Parsley Salad with Roquefort Dressing; Hot Mince Pie with Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

BROILED VENISON STEAK:

NOTE:

Venison is always served rare as you doubtless know.

A two-lb. venison steak will serve 4. Marinate it in a half and half mixture of salad oil and lemon juice for 2 hours. Do not drain. Place on preheated broiler rack and broil 7 to 10 minutes on each side, at 350 deg. F. (extremely hot). Season with salt and paprika and serve on hot platter at once. Garnish with broiled or sauteed whole small mushrooms. If desired slices of lemon may garnish it too or you may spread the steak with a mixture of 3 tablespoons butter and 1 tablespoon currant jelly, just before it is taken to the table. Because it must be served hot your guests should wait for the steak never the steak for the guests.

QUESTION:

. . . what can I do to make my fondant richer? . . . Mrs. Grace A.

ANSWER:

Your long letter was delightful and I am so glad you got a bread mixer. Let me know how will you? Was it through the paper? I think you will find this fondant exactly to your liking.

CREAM FONDANT:

Two cups granulated sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 1 cup undiluted evaporated milk, vanilla or mint or almond or orange extract — 1-2 to 1 teaspoon. Combine all ingredients except flavoring in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until syrup forms a medium firm ball in cold water or candy thermometer registers 238 deg. Remove from heat; cool to lukewarm — 110 deg. Beat until thick and creamy. Place in covered dish overnight. Work in flavorings and tints as desired — pale green with mint, pale orange for orange etc. Variations: 1) Dip fondant balls in melted dipping chocolate. 2) Knead chopped nuts, raisins, dates, figs, or candied fruits into fondant before forming it into balls.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Albert D. — I don't want to tell my father.

Mrs. H. D. — It may be a means to get him back.

Albert D. — My parents were separated and divorced three years ago when I was 18. My father had fallen for a girl of 25 and now they are married.

My sisters and I were furious with our father and we didn't want to have anything more to do with him. Finally my mother urged us to see him on the ground that he might be more generous with us from a financial point of view.

I visited my father's new home several times and I soon became aware that my stepmother was making a big play for me. At first I thought I could be imagining things, but soon it became obvious that I couldn't be wrong. I don't want to visit them anymore and when my mother asked me why I told her. She wants me to tell my father, but I don't want to.

Mrs. H. D. — This marriage of my husband's was an insane thing from the start and I don't know whatever led me to be so foolish as to give him the divorce. I was advised against it, but I finally had to give in to his pressure.

I have been repenting my mistake and feel fairly sure that this thing will eventually break up. If we can give it a good shove, so much the better. My husband will realize what a fool he has made of himself.

I am still hopeful that when my husband sees the light, he'll want to take up our family life again. He does love the children and if at won't visit him because of this woman he may be willing to give her up. I don't understand why he should be so reluctant to tell all to his father.

The Council — We can see a few good reasons why Albert is reluctant to tell this story and we think he is right.

One reason is that he could have been wrong about his stepmother. In spite of the fact that he thinks her advances were "obvious" it is possible that there is some measure of doubt in his own mind. He doesn't quite admit this to himself because he may have felt some attraction for this woman and has misinterpreted warmth and friendliness on her part.

Another reason is that his father will not accept this story so readily. There is little doubt that he will accuse his wife and she will deny all. Probably, she will turn the tables and make the accusation against Albert, and for all anyone on the outside knows she could be somewhat justified. Such matters are seldom a one-way street.

Mrs. H. D. shows that her mind is just as volatile now as at the time she gave in to pressure and gave her husband his divorce against what was probably expert advice. She might have given herself and her husband a cooling off period of several years. She should accept the fact that she made a mistake and that she must live with the consequences of it.

It is possible, even likely, that this second marriage will eventually break up, but Mrs. H. D. is all wrong to attempt to use her children as an instrument in that break up. If she does so, she will probably destroy whatever slim chance is left of ever winning back her husband.

Our advice is that Albert should avoid his stepmother, see his father only if he really wishes to — and keep mum.

CHARGE IS REDUCED

Husbands and wives alike have found that oil heat is clean heat . . . no annoying furnace soot and dust.

You'll save money with oil heat, too. It's providing economical heat to more than a million Canadian homes. And because you're dealing with a supplier who directly competes with other suppliers, costs will stay down, service stays up.

Whether you're buying a new home or converting to automatic heating, do as fine builders do . . . choose oil heating. It's safe, dependable and thrifty. Ask your neighbour his opinion.

Remember, more people by far heat automatically with oil than with any other fuel.

And an electric heater is so efficient, it costs only a few cents a day to operate. With the proper size and heating capacity you can depend on plenty of hot water for all your household needs. An electric water heater is safe, clean and economical. It's the modern choice of families who "live better electrically."

ONCE A LAKE, NOW A PUDDLE

INTO THE CRUSHER

Ton-size chunks of asbestos ore are dumped into a chute leading to the primary crusher at the Black Lake, Que., mine and mill of Lake Asbestos of Quebec, Ltd. Here the rocks are broken down to six-inch chunks and later are crushed further, dried and the asbestos fibre separated from the rock. Mill is designed to handle and crush 1,350,000 tons of-ore a year. (CP Photo.)

Huge power shovels load ore into waiting trucks for transport to the new 59,200,000 mill of Lake Asbestos of Quebec, Ltd. Water in background is all that remains of 500-acre Black Lake, drained and dredged to get at the asbestos ore. The operation called for pumping off 55,000,000,000 gallons of water and dredging of 27,000,000 cubic yards of lake bottom. The asbestos deposit now is being mined to produce 100,000 tons of asbestos fibre a year. (CP Photo.)

Newest Asbestos Mine in Que. Raises Canada's Productive Capacity About 10 Per Cent

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BLACK LAKE, Que. (CP) — A dredge that walks and experience gained at Steep Rock iron mine in Northwestern Ontario have made possible a new mine in this asbestos-rich region of the Eastern Townships.

In the rolling country 150 miles east of Montreal — source of 60 per cent of the world's asbestos fibre — the dredge strips away boulders and earth covering the mineral-bearing rock, sucks them up and spews them out at dumps near it to be mill.

Miners blast loose the ore with explosives. Big mechanical shovels scoop it up tons at a time and haul it on to 22-ton trucks that take it to be mill.

SEPARATED FROM ROCK

There it is crushed and, with the aid of machines operating on the principle of the household vacuum cleaner, the asbestos fibre is separated from the serpentine rock in which it is found. From a ton of ore roughly 150 pounds of fibre is obtained.

Bringing this mine into production involved drinking a lake, diverting a river, constructing four dams, building a mill and crushing plant and re-routing a highway.

About $36,000,000 was invested in the project by Lake Asbestos of Quebec Limited, a subsidiary of the American Smelting and Refining Company.

The mill can produce 100,000 tons of asbestos fibre a year, adding about 10 per cent to Canada's productive capacity.

Eleven years ago this mine was covered by a 500-acre lake. Asbestos mining, the main industry in this area, was being carried on at locations scattered between Black Lake and Thetford Mines, 10 miles away.

LAKE NOT STAKED

No one bothered to stake the lake. Little was known about the mineral deposit under it and many thought the costs of mining a submarine ore body would make a profitable operation impossible.

The Steep Rock iron mine changed this. The success of draining and dredging operations to recover the iron-ore deposits at Atikokan made the possibilities of developing Black Lake look more attractive to Canadian asbestos.

The water - covered area was staked on Jan. 1, 1946. United Asbestos Limited was formed to exploit the deposit. It spent more than $1,000,000 on exploration and outlined three ore bodies. But the company did not have enough capital to bring the property into production.

American Smelting agreed to provide the necessary capital and to operate the property on a profit-sharing basis.

The program to develop the mine was launched in 1954. An 8,000-foot channel was dug to divert the Becancour River, which flowed in and out of Black Lake on its way to the St. Lawrence River, 75 miles away.

FLOW REGULATED

Four dams were built to regulate the flow and to prevent flooding in this heavily populated region. Then the dredge — dubbed the Fleur-de-Lys by its operators — was put to work.

It is powered electrically and has a 75-foot cutter and suction ladder. Like an anteater's snout, this place roots through the overburden covering the ore.

The loosened soil is dislodged by a cutter with special alloy steel teeth. A 16-foot pump, driven by a 6,000-horsepower motor, sucks it up. A fine crusher in the dredge then smashes large boulders into pieces small enough to pass through the pump and the special discharge line.

Through a 22 - inch discharge pipeline six miles long this muck is pumped away from the lake, leaving the ore body exposed. Three pumps spaced along this line are needed to move boulders and earth covering the asbestos-bearing rock.

So powerful is the Fleur-de-Lys that it can cut through a bank 250 feet long, eight feet thick and 30 feet high in about 40 minutes if the material is soft. If it's hard, it takes about an hour.

WALKS ON "SPUDS"

The dredge, which floats on a small controlled pond, is moved by walking one of its "spuds" — iron cylinders mounted at the rear used to manoeuvre it. The operator lets each down alternately, swinging on it and thus the dredge "walks" on its spuds.

Since work on the project started, 200,000 cubic yards of overburden were cleared from the ore body — 30,000,000 cubic yards by, dredging and pumping. The balance was moved by mechanical shovels and trucks.

In addition to this, about 55,000,000 gallons of water were pumped from the lake basin.

The open pit mine which resulted from this effort is 600 feet deep, three times deeper than the Niagara Falls gorge. It can yield 1,350,000 tons of ore a year, of which about seven per cent is asbestos fibre. Reserves are estimated at 42,000,000 tons.

The takedown operations at the mill started in July. By October employees worked two shifts a day, five days a week. Expectations are that, as markets are developed, the mill should hit capacity production some time next year.

Counties Plan Meet to Study Algae Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of nine counties bordering Lake Erie and Lake Ontario are to meet here Nov. 20 to discuss the algae problem which has plagued lakeshore areas in recent summers.

The conference, sponsored by the Ontario water resources commission, will be attended by committees and municipal officials, plus experts in biology, botany, fish, wildlife and public health.

Counties involved are Haldimand, Welland, Lincoln, Wentworth, Halton, Peel, York, Ontario, Northumberland and Durham.

Dr. A. E. Berry, general manager and chief engineer of the commission will act as chairman of the conference; vale Ontario Welfare Council, had suggested the department help to eliminate the "great danger" existing at Whytehaven might be forthcoming if Mrs. Whyte would stop playing lone wolf.

The article continued: "There is no doubt some of the inadequacies of Whytehaven are due to the fact that Mrs. Whyte tends to operate in a vacuum without recognizing her service as a part of the whole."

After suggesting ways in which Mrs. Whyte could be helped, the editorial said it still must be stressed that there could be great danger in allowing her to continue to operate as in the past."

Thompson's pioneered many ideas in Belleville. The late Mr. Thompson was one of the first embalmers in the city. Thompson's were the first to have a funeral parlor in 1916. And the first to use motor funeral cars. And in 1951 the first to have a funeral chapel. The business was carried on for 30 years by the late William Thompson until his death. His son Thomas C. Thompson has continued the business for the past 45 years and is now assisted by his son David B. Thompson, third generation of the firm. In 1930 the funeral home was moved from Front Street to the present location at 38 Everett Street, opposite Christ Church Parish Hall.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Unbeaten as yet, and unbowed by adversity, the Kelowna Packers, the gallant gang that carried the Maes to seven spine-tingling games before they surrendered hopes of becoming the 1957-58 Allan Cup champions, are now in Europe where they play Swedish and Russian teams in a nine-game junket of the various arenas, open-air and air-conditioned.

Unfortunately the Packers left with a somewhat bitter taste in their hockey mouths. Their officials charged the club had been let down by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, because that august body refused to grant them what they termed the necessary reinforcements.

When Coach Jack Douglas and other Packer officials smuggled down in the Sweden-bound plane out of Montreal last night, CAHA secretary George Dudley would hardly get the vote as the most popular bloke aboard, nor would the stars ringing in his ears be the last word of the big things in Texas.

Douglas charged he had sent the CAHA a list of 50 players as early as last August. "What happens? They send us two players on Saturday from Winnipeg who haven't even seen action since last spring," he bitterly criticized the body for "apparent disinterest in our efforts to get player Bobby Hassard."

The CAHA also handed out a hands-off-Eastern Canada-players to Kelowna last fall after it was learned the Packers were "raiding" eastern clubs.

Unknown to the Packers until the last minute was the fact the CAHA had made an agreement with the wily Russians to the effect reinstated pros would not be used on the Packers' club. This information came with but minutes to go, so to speak.

The Russians knew what they were doing. They know the difference a few "old pros" would make — and they cannot afford to lose face in their home arena. They will go all out to win this series, you might say, any cost, in an effort to prove that their "near-best" is as good, if not better, than Canada's second best.

The CAHA, we believe, made a big mistake in not letting down a few hairs, extricating the "red tape" and having the old "down-town feeling or two, and ordering two or three top senior "A" players, regardless of affiliation, to the Packers' club for the few days' safari.

In the event the Packers take a goshawful walloping at the hands of the Swedes and the Russians, perhaps the CAHA will be to blame.

The Packers could scarcely be blamed for laying the blame of ultra-defeat on the shoulders of Dudley Incorporated.

On the other hand, guess who will modestly take the blame for the victory accolades, should the Packers, which, we doubt under existing circumstances, return with a fine record of victories despite player handicaps.

We concur with Bob Giordino, the Packers' manager, in his statement: "This has been billed as an exhibition series, but no matter how you look at it, everybody will be watching the results and it will mean a lot to both sides."

"We have no doubt," Bob said, "that the best Russian players will be in the lineup. I think we should have done our best to send the best team we had. We wanted three Western Hockey League players and this was turned down. The CAHA did not give us the senior player assistance it promised."

This department joins the McFarlands' hockey club in wishing the Packers the best of success in their handicapped tour. We are sure they will not be "Canada's Disgrace" when they return in the land of vodka and caviar, nor on the snowy slopes of the fine country that produces some of the most beautiful blondes in the world and where the smorgasbord is another daily dish.

After all the Maes are represented on the Packers' club by Gerry Joyer and Russ Kowalchuk. Both are on the tour and will, no doubt, give a good account of themselves. Perhaps Russ, if he stars at defence, as he usually may end up as a Siberian ash shaker, but then again maybe they need hockey coaches out yonder in the salty steppes.

In serious vein, Kowalchuk, it will be remembered, played one of his better games in the Eastern Canada series played the touring Russians in Kingston last year. Russ got the first Canadian goal and Bart Bradley the other in the 4-2 defeat. He appeared to be able to adapt himself to the European style of play, so we are not looking for any international incidents should Russ go off half-cocked and shake the slats of a couple of Ivans and Sergei.

LONDON (AP)—Kilone Lave, the Tonga island heavyweight, lost his appeal Friday night against a six-month suspension imposed for proposing to appear in a barefist fight to be thrown in Such fights are banned in Britain, The British board of boxing control suspended Lave Oct. 8. Bruins Could Dethrone Canadiens Over Weekend

Undefeated in Last 5 Games Beaneaters Need Double Win With Habs Only Playing One

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The way is wide open for the amazing Boston Bruins, unbeaten in their last five games, to take over first place in the National Hockey League this weekend.

Montreal's leading Canadiens have only one scheduled game, a Saturday date at home against New York Rangers.

The second - place Bruins, one point behind the leaders, are at Toronto tonight and at home Sunday night to the Rangers. All they need is a double win to vault over the Canadiens.

They are catching the hapless last-place Leafs in a stricken state. Friday, the tail-enders got word that goalie John Bower is out for at least three games with an ankle injury and defenceman Marc Reaume will be idle for two weeks with fractured ribs.

Coach Milt Schmidt of the Bruins, whose team has a 1-1 record against the Leafs, declared his assignment tonight might be tough. "Leafs are never soft," he said. "They have too many good players to be floundering around."

CHADWICK IN GAL

Bower was hit on the ankle with a puck and Reaume was checked into the boards at a practice Thursday by teammate Bert Olmstead. Both wasn't known until Friday. Goalie Ed Chadwick, who played in all Toronto games last season and only one so far this year, will replace Bower. There is no problem about Reaume since the team is deep in defencemen.

Detroit Red Wings are at home in the other games this weekend — this afternoon to Chicago Black Hawks and Sunday night to the Leafs.

Canadiens' all - star defenceman, Doug Harvey, will be dressed for tonight's game after a nine-game layoff with a chipped ankle and inside knee.

"He still limps and his skating is affected," said coach Toe Blake. "He'll be 100 per cent but he wants to play."

Two Athletes Plead Guilty To Charges

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two University of Michigan athletes pleaded guilty Friday to charges of engaging in an illegal occupation in connection with a campus football gambling ring.

Football fullback Rony Rio, and varsity basketball captain Jack Lowis, both 21 and from Chicago, changed their pleas after standing mute at their original arraignment Oct. 29.

Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien fined each $100 plus $6.60 in costs.

Rio and Lewis, along with five other Michigan students, were arrested last week in a police crackdown on the distribution of football pool cards.

Three of those arrested pleaded guilty and were fined last week. The fourth, Durwood J. Collins, 22, of Houston, Tex., entered a guilty plea Friday and was fined along with Rio and Lewis. The fifth case still is pending.

Rio was a first-string fullback. He and Lewis have been suspended from their teams.

It was considered doubtful that either athlete would regain his athletic eligibility. Both are seniors, however. Rio has been a varsity competitor for only two seasons and normally would be able to play football again next year.

With Herve Filion driving, she paid $11.80, $4.70, $2.70 across the board.

Winbee took place money of $3.50 and Wile Single Chips showed and brought $3.60.

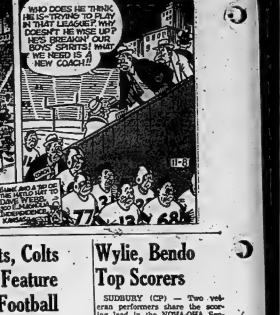
OLD BOYS LEAGUE

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Old Boys Hockey League embarks on its second season this Saturday afternoon at Memorial Gardens here. The league which was inaugurated last year is designed to give amateur ex-players opportunity to play hockey. To be eligible a player must be 25 years of age and not have played OHA hockey for two years.

Cubs Defeated By Biltmores; Salaries Cut

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Gerry Brown says the salaries of Hamilton Cubs have been cut and they'll stay at the low rate until the team gets out of the Ontario Junior A Hockey League cellar.

"Since the boys are in the cellar, we'll treat them as cellar-dwellers," Brown said. "When they improve they'll receive their normal rates of pay."



Brown acted after the Cubs dropped their fourth game in six starts Thursday night, losing 7-4 to Guelph Biltmores.

The coach described the work Thursday night of goalie Carl Wetsel as "sickening." The Cubs next meet the Marlboros at Toronto Sunday.

"Wetsel always plays well in Toronto," Brown said, "but if he doesn't, I might change goalies for our next home game." The possible goalie replacement would be Dennis Jordan.

Maroons Defeat Wolves 2-1 As Hounds Muzzle Bulldogs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Who can stop the Whitby Dunlops?

The Russians couldn't. And it looks as if none of the teams in the Eastern Ontario Senior A group can either.

Friday night the world champions went into Belleville and administered a 7-1 shellacking to the McFarlands, Canada's representatives in the next world tournament.

The win was Whitby's eighth in as many starts and boosted their goals to 18. Their 16 points gives them a nine - point margin over the second - place Hull - Ottawa Canadiens in the standings.

MAROONS HOLD FIRST

In the OHA-NOHA group, Chatham Maroons took a home-ice 2-1 decision over Sudbury Wolves. At Sault Ste. Marie the Greyhounds scored a 4-3 victory over Windsor Bulldogs, their second win of the season, and vaulted from a last-place tie to fourth place in the standings.

The Dunlops played like world champions at Belleville. They hammered in three goals, one in the first period and two in the second, before Wilmer Fox managed a goal for the home club. Then they let up with a goal-rush in the third.

Playing, coach Sid Smith and Fred Pilling scored two goals apiece for the winners. George Samolenko; Harry Sloden and Al Arbour added one apiece.

POWER GOT WINNER

At Chatham, centre Ted Power scored the winning goal in the second period and the Maroons clung to their slender 2-1 lead during the furious assault the rest of the way. Frank O'Grady scored for the Wolves in the first period but the Maroons in the first period. The win was the fifth in a row for the Maroons and their third straight on home ice.

At the Soo, the Greyhounds shook off a two - game losing streak in the opener of a fun-filled series. Centre Laurie Peterson tallied the winning goal early in the third period. Jim Furelli, Tom Walker and John Offidani were sharp Soo goal-getters. Bob Seymour scored two goals and Joe Klukay one for Windsor.

In the eastern group tonight it's Cornwall's turn to face the top of the Dunlops attack. At Whitby, Belleville is at Kingston. Hull-Ottawa is at Cornwall and Belleville at Hull-Ottawa.

In the OHA-NOHA group, Sudbury is at Kitchener and North Bay at Sault Ste. Marie tonight. Sunday Sudbury is at Windsor.

Campy Has Passed a New Milestone

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Campanella has passed a new milestone.

The paralyzed Dodger catcher went home Friday to live with his family in Glen Cove where he will begin a new phase in his medical and physical treatments.

Campy, 36, had been undergoing treatments at New York University's institute of physical medicine and rehabilitation since May 5. He suffered a broken neck in an auto accident last January, 1958, and has been confined there 2½ days a week for necessary therapy.

Dr. Edward Lowman, clinical director who has served as Campanella's personal physician since he entered the institute, said:

"Mr. Campanella is progressed sufficiently in his rehabilitation so that he was released today from the institute to go home with his family. Further improvement in his condition is still to be expected, particularly with regard to the strengthening of the muscles of his fingers."

"I feel very good mentally and physically," said Campy as he left the institute. "I'm going home to what I've gained and I plan to work as hard as ever on my rehabilitation program."

RETIRE GALLANT MAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Gallant Man, the 1957 Kentucky Derby winner of the Kentucky Derby last year before a crowd of 85 million people, has finished the finish line, was retired to stud Friday. Willis Shoemaker was in the saddle that day and stood up in the stirrups some 200 yards from the finish. Since then Gallant Man established the American record for 1¼ miles by winning the 1957 Belmont Stakes in two minutes, 26 3-5 seconds and developed into an outstanding handicap horse.

Giants, Colts Will Feature Pro Football

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants will be at full strength for the first time this season when they take on the powerful Baltimore Colts Sunday. They also will be underdogs.

These two factors could spell trouble for the Colts, who lead the western conference of the National Football League with a 6-0 record. A crowd of more than 65,000 is expected to witness the game in Yankee Stadium.

The Giants were 10-point underdogs for last Sunday's meeting with Cleveland. But without the services of three—key operatives they surprised beating the previously undefeated Browns 21-17.

The three key men — halfback Frank Gifford, quarterback Don Heinrich and regular right guard Jack Stroud—will be ready for Baltimore. What's more the Giants think they have an injured list. Quarterback Johnny Unitas and backfielder L. G. Dupre will not face the Giants. Baltimore is a three-point favorite.

EXHIBITION GAMES

It probably doesn't mean anything, but for the record the Colts whipped the Giants twice in pre-season exhibition games. The scores were 27-24 and 45-7.

The Browns, one game in front of the Giants in the eastern conference race, meet Detroit Lions in Cleveland, San Francisco will be at Los Angeles, Green Bay at Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals at Washington and Pittsburgh at Philadelphia.

The lowly Lions, who have only one victory and a tie in six games, will have to do a complete about - face to give the Browns any trouble. But Detroit has a 6-1 record over the Browns including regular season and exhibition games. And if Bobby Rote gets hot it could make for another disappointing afternoon for the 60,000 fans expected

Wylie, Bendo Top Scorers

SUDBURY (CP) — Two veteran performers share the scoring lead in the NOHA-OSA Senior A series. Kitchener's Wiggie Wylie and Windsor's Lee Bendo each has 10 points, each with three goals and seven assists.

Jack McMaster, Kitchener forward, is second with nine points. Sharing the next spot with eight points each are Murray Costello of Windsor and Kitchener's Butch Martin. McMaster leads in goals with five.

Statistics are based on games played up to Thursday Nov. 6.

Don Head, of the league-leading Chatham Maroons, is tops in the goal tending department with a 2.20 average. He's let in only 11 goals in five games and has the only shutout so far.

Windsor's Jerry Cleverich is second with a 3.50 average.

to be on hand in Municipal Stadium.

JIM BROWN THREAT

Conversely, Jim Brown of Cleveland will be out to maintain his 156 yards per game average. The brilliant fullback gained "only" 113 yards against the Giants. He needs 219 more to better Steve Van Buren's league mark. Jims total is 939.

The Bears, second to Baltimore in the western conference with a 4-2 record, are 14-point choices to make it two straight over Green Bay.

Macs Fail To Stop Dunlops; Beaten By 7-1 Score

Ikemen Wilt in Third Frame When Dunnies Rap in Four; First Period Was Brilliant

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Some of them said it couldn't be done. If they meant the Macs could not halt the onrushing Whitby Dunlops in their unbeaten stride, they were so right.

Veni, vidi, vici. They came here last night and after a first period of brilliant hockey went on to trounce the McFarlands by a 7-1 score. And they were full value for it.

For thirty minutes it was a nip-and-tuck battle with honors going to neither side. The Dunnies whipped in a goal in the last seconds of the first heat, outscored the Macs 2-1 in the second, then gave them a four-goal cave-in worthy in the third period.

You could take your choice in the first period with both squads skating at lightning speed and the Dunnies edging the Macs 10-9 in shots on goal. The second goal midway in the second seemed to crack the Macs both ways, and the third, seconds later, clinched the job. In the third period they could do nothing right, especially against a stonewall defence with Lou John Henderson backing it up.

The shots on goal tell the story. It was Whitby 10-9 the first, 12-10 in the second and 16-7 in the disastrous final frame. Two of the third period Whitby goals were scored while the Macs were a man or at times, two men short.

During the latter thirty minutes of the game the Macs shelled a definite lack of finish around the net. The close - knit Whitby defence thwarted all their efforts with body and stick, and only once did they penetrate close enough to score when "Wiener" Brown smashed home his own rebound off the boards.

Meanwhile the Dunlops' attacking division, dangerous at all times were poised for darting, swooping attacks that had them close to payoff every time. Gordie Bell was good at times but Long John, Ted Brown and Vaughn Blue to some sort of delights especially when attackers came in single file on a stone.

The game, while rugged and hard-hitting at times was clean. Ivy waxer Jack Shropshire assessing 10 penalties on a total of eight, both drawing an inclusive misconduct. Three of the Macs' penalties were roughs.

Fred Eicher and Sid Smith led the Dunnies' big guns with two goals each with Samolenko, Sinden and Treen getting the others. Bobby Attersley had three assists and Semolenko and Ted O'Connor two each. Wiener Brown's goal was unassisted.

The clock was ticking away the dying seconds of the first period when the Dunnies opened the scoring on a two-way passing play in front of the Macs net. The Dunnies were pressing the Macs and had the play in their end when Attersley flipped a straight goalmouth pass to Eicher who drove the puck past Gordie Bell for the opener.

Up to this minute or seconds the period had been a hard-fighting nip-and-tuck battle with both sides travelling at top speed and both goalies standing out.

Only three minor penalties were handed out—the referee and all minors with none proving of any consequence. The Dunnies edged the Macs in shots on goal 10-9 .

Both sides missed chances from close in. Davy Jones passing up a beauty late in the period going it alone but flipping the puck into Henderson's pads. Power play or both sides failed to produce and both defences were solid with the exception of the Macs when the only goal of the period was scored.

The teams kept up the blistering pace of the first heat until midway through the period when the Dunnies struck swiftly and savagely. Tom O'Connor was cleared for tripping and the subsequent Macs power play were not functioning. On a breakaway and still a man short Attersley slipped a forward pass to Sinden who coasted in and gave the Dunnies a 2-0 lead.

The goal appeared to discourage the Macs and they were all over the ice. Within thirty seconds Treen after three shots at Bell finally drove it past him to make the score 3-0 with Samolenko and Ted O'Connor drawing assists.

Henderson got the gate for bridling the puck and Sinden got a misconduct for arguing the point. The Macs seemed to come back to life and Wicner got his first goal of the season on a beautiful effort smashing home his own rebound off the boards to cut the margin to 3-1.

The Dunlops surged to the attack in the third period and the Macs practically fell to pieces with penalties playing an important part. Smith scored after a minute of play then Hildebrand was hurt and Brown given his misdirect for arguing.

Eicher bounced a puck off a Mac player for the Dunnies' fifth goal then McLellan and Dewsbury drew minors within a minute of each other.

The Dunnies flew to the attack and Treen, Sinden, Ted Eicher, Youngberg, Samolenko, Rabando, Myles, Air, Kane, Tom O'Connor and Bell.

Bellerville — Goal, Bell; defence, Coogan, Bolley, Benoit, Raglan, Crawford, Dewsbury; forwards, Parrett, Baltgate, Wiener, Brown, Macs, Mcmeau, McLellan, Smrke, Hildebrand, Jones, MacDonald.

Macs Fined $25.00 Each

Manager Drury Denyes announced this morning that every playing member of the Bellerville McFarland hockey club was fined $25 following the OHA Eastern Senior "A" game with Whitby here last night.

Denyes said the fines were levied because the players did not play the hockey of which they are capable. Whitby defeated the McFarlands 7-1, scoring four goals in the third period.

Jap Players Good But Have Lot to Learn

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese ball players are good but they still have a lot to learn.

That's the opinion of Vaughn (Bing) Devine, general manager of St. Louis Cardinals, en route home after watching his team lose two of nine games to the Japan all stars.

In an interview just before he left for the United States Devine said: "The Japanese sting the ball better but they lack all around playing ability. They don't run as well as our American players. The players show sign of pressure.

"They should learn mental strategy for unusual situations. They lack quick judgment and alertness for unexpected situations."

One handicap for Japanese players was that Japan doesn't have minor leagues, baseball clinics and organization to give proper training to youngsters who want to become better players.

PITCHERS IMPRESSIVE

Devine said Japanese pitchers impressed him most.

"They sure have control. They placed the balls right over and around the plate without the slightest trouble."

Devine lauded third baseman Shigeo Nagashima of the Yomiuri Giants, a 22,000 home run player. "Nagashima has everything to be a major leaguer. He is good in fielding, batting, base running and throwing."

Asked if any U.S. ball clubs would like to have him Devine said "If he is available I think some clubs would like to have him."

However, the Yomiuri Giants said they will not release Nagashima even for $1,000,000.

Stamps Put Star in Corner

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders say import fullback Jim Bakhtiar will not enroll in McGill University medical school in Montreal next year but may attend the University of Alberta.

Jim Finks, general manager of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club, said Bakhtiar has left for California and will attend pre-medical classes this winter at the University of Southern California.

A report from Montreal said Bakhtiar is known to be interested in studying medicine at McGill. Although he hasn't as yet made a formal application.

Finks said Bakhtiar, who attended the University of Virginia last year, is definitely interested in continuing his studies. If the Stampeders hope to enroll him at the University of Alberta medical school in Edmonton. He would commute between Calgary and Edmonton during the first half of the season.

Bakhtiar, 25-year-old native of Abadan, Iran, was picked the Stampeders outstanding player this year by a vote of the fans. He captained the University of Virginia football team in 1957 and was an all-American candidate.

Blues Seek Perfect Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Toronto Blues, Canada's only amateur and undefeated senior football team, today went after its first perfect season in 54 years.

The Blues were on their home field, against McGill Redmen, as part of today's football program which brought the end of school league play in the Intercollegiate and Big Four football unions and the second game of the Canadian playoff in the Ontario Rugby Union senior series.

University of Western Ontario was at Queen's University in Kingston in the other Intercollegiate windup. In the Big Four, where second place—and a chance at the semi-final playoff—venue are at stake, Ottawa Rough Riders played at Hamilton and Toronto Argonauts at Montreal. In the ORFU, Sarnia was at Kitchener-Waterloo in the second game of the best-of-three final series with Hamilton.

The Blues, said to be the Toronto school's most powerful team in 25 years or more, have swept six games by lopsided margins, scoring 205 points to 50. Not since 1904 has a University of Toronto team boasted a perfect season. The 1951 team was unbeaten but it had one tie.

Toronto would wrap up the title without a playoff by downing McGill. But a combination of McGill and Queen's victories would send the Redmen into a sudden-death playoff with the Blues. Under Intercollegiate rules, there's a playoff if the second - place team beats the first - place finisher during the Thanksgiving Day Rhedule.

Lane Takes Split Verdict From Godih

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Kenny Lane, the No. 1 lightweight contender won a split decision from Labouari Godih, of France and Algeria in a 10-round fight Friday night. Lane weighed 141½, Godih, 139½.

It was a dull bout, marred by frequent clinches in which referee Joe Palmer had more work than a wrestling official. Only in the final seconds of the 10th round when Lane drove Godih into a neutral corner was there any semblance of a sustained attack.

Lane, a 26-year-old southpaw who lost a title match with Joe Brown in Houston last July scored the cleaner punches. Time after time he locked up Godih when the former French champion tried to fight inside.

In the 10th round, when Godih tried to keep plunching as referee Palmer tried to break them out of a clinch, he drew a warning from the referee. He almost hit Palmer with a left hook as he left the ring after the decision had been announced. Godih appeared steaming mad, talking to himself.

Referee Palmer had Lane a lopsided 7 - 3 winner and judge Harold McGrath also scored it for the lefty from Muskegan, Mich., 5-3-2.

Judge Dick Albino had Godih out front 6-4. The AP card had Lane ahead 5-4-1.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Jockey Bill Hartack rode six horses on an eight-race card at New Woodbine race track Friday, and scored with one, had four seconds and one third.

Victory for the 25-year-old race rider, trailing Jockey in North America the back three years came on Men Ruler for owner Isobel Lawson of Toronto in the fifth race.

Hartack is between meetings and fitted in the Canada Stakes mount by invitation to ride for the first time in Canada. He returned to New York's Jamaica today.

Fans booed Hartack at times but most vehemently when he was beaten on Mr. Beverley's Pink Velvet when Norwin G., owned by Vince J. Sheridan of Leaside, won a narrow decision. Pink Velvet was just recently moved back in training after a long layoff and leaving the race track after the race, he would have gone unsound again.

The daily double at Fort Erie in the first and Kandi Kid, which beat the Hartack - ridden Wakefield for $ B. McCall of Toronto in the second paid $30.30. Norwin G and Pink Velvet in the quinella was worth $35.40.

Dealing With Duck Conservation

The boys in the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service have learned, the hard way, that life is not one long round of beer and skittles. It isn't one thing it's another. Somehow their best-laid plans have an uncanny capacity for going completely haywire all too often.

About 20 years ago, the limit on ducks, with certain exceptions, was 12 birds a day. Then the farmers, notably the wheat farmers, grew too hungry. Their drainage of the prairie pot holes and marshes of the northern states and the southern provinces of Canada and converted this land into farmland.

Deprived of their former nesting areas, the North American duck flock dwindled. At one time it was estimated that the total duck population was down to approximately forty million birds, a mere fraction of its former total. It took many years, much money, and a great deal of effort to undo the damage and restore, partially at least, the former balance. Things gradually came back toward normal — not entirely, but decided progress was made.

Then came three dry years in a row, the past three, that were dry enough to take out the nesting cover, sufficiently dry enough to lower the water levels to the danger point. The lowering of the water levels left duck's "bottle" puddle ducks too much — mallards, pintail, black duck, and so on — but the diving ducks, canvasback an redhead mainly, have had three bad nesting years. The result is that these, as well as the other kinds of water fowl, have been reduced in numbers until the danger point shows up plainly.

The result has been that Fish and Wildlife has found it necessary to place rather drastic shooting restrictions on these two species — the canvasback and the redhead. The daily legal limit on these two birds is now two — two canvasbacks or two redheads or one of each, two in the aggregate. Now Fish and Wildlife, mainly through the medium of the newspaper columnists as well as the balance of the outdoor writers, is urging the duck hunters to do their part to lend a hand in this emergency.

Every year the crippling loss among the nation's duck flock is tremendous. The loss, carefully checked and compiled, is said to be high as fifty-three per cent, with a nation-wide average of 25 per cent. Disease, food shortages, predation, poaching and other factors all help fatten the share of squalling the annual crippling loss.

RECOGNIZE SPECIES

First-off, it is the duty of every duck hunter to learn to recognize species before,he shoots. All too many gunners can look at a duck in the air and identify it as a duck and tell you what kind of a duck it is. To the great majority, a duck is a duck and, as such, fair game. Subsequent examination in a bag to show that the dead duck is illegal game. To include the bird in the day's bag is to invite arrest. Thus, the duck is discarded, wasted.

Simply by using a little caution, combined with a sense of sportsmanship and fair play, the gunners of the nation can lend a big helping hand in this emergency. Here are some of the things, usually practices by the beginners and the unscrupulous, which cause crippling losses and seriously impair the quality of the shooting in future year.

Trigger-happy shooting — that business of letting fly at anything that passes, even though there is little chance to kill the bird.

Inability to judge distance — fellows with this difficulty try to shoot down every bird over that comes over. The duck flinches but doesn't fall. Gunners who do this often cut all the ducks in the area for each other's sport as well as their own.

Poor marksmanship — the Khaki of gunning done by the man who refuses to practice and then tries to sharpen his shooting eye on every bird in sight, regardless of range or poeties.

Inability to recognize limitations in the range of modern shells. Improved ammunition or long-range shells encourages firing at non-killing ranges. Result — another cripple.

Failure to retrieve birds — shooting downed birds in water lost in marsh or heavy vegetation by the failure of the gunner to drop them to pick them up. They can be recovered. Heaviest crippling losses occur in the marsh or heavy vegetation which, if followed, will aid materially in reducing crippling loss.

All these faults are faults which are surely within killing range. In every case, when you connect, you have a dead bird; when you miss, you miss clean.

This is a retriever — It adds to the sport and cuts cripple wastage by more than half.

The duck hunter you shoot. Will the bird come down, a clean kill, or will it go on to lose life slowly, needlessly?

Of course, duck hunters are no different than any other people. In every walk of life you will find the unscrupulous and the thoughtless who get much from these. But if the honest gunners of the nation make a serious effort, to lend a hand in duck conservation this year the prospects and probabilities are that we will have more duck.

TV TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Regardless of his training, skill and experience, a television technician must have proper equipment with which to work. For example, one technician in a shop must have the following: a high quality Tube Tester, a Sweep and Marker Generator, an Oscilliscope and a Vacuum Tube Volt Meter. Although not essential, further aids would include a Transformer and Yoke Tester and a Test Pattern Generator.

Of course the technician must carry a kit of tubes. Since there are over 1,000 different types of radio and TV tubes, he cannot possibly have them all — but he DOES carry an impressive number of the most popular types.

The point is this: equipment such as we have mentioned is precision-built and thus expensive and each set of tubes and spare parts are costly — which means that a TV technician must invest considerable money before he can put to use his training and ability.

Whenever your TV set gives you trouble, remember that at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St., have this combination of skill, experience and proper equipment. This means that you get better service and repairs that cost you less in the long run. Phone WO 8-6791 — in Trenton EX 2-7689 for fast action!

Cut Cards To Decide Last Player

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 18th and last spot on Kelowna Packers' playing roster was decided here Thursday by cutting a deck of cards.

Kelowna was allowed to take 18 players on a three-week's training camp session in Eastern and Russia. Kelowna wanted to take 20, but the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said the Russians agreed to allow only 18.

Coach Jack Bionda of Packers couldn't decide between three players — Joe Kaiser and Bill Swarbrick, regular Packers members, and Ray Manson of Windsor, Ont. — for the last spot on the team.

It was suggested cards be cut and the player with the highest card be awarded the trip.

Manson declined to take part and said he felt it would be wrong for him to make the trip and "leave both the regular players at home."

Kaiser cut first and drew a king, but Swarbrick came up with an ace and was given the last spot.

Packers Left For Europe On Friday

MONTREAL (CP) — Kelowna Packers, still without reinforcements, left by air Friday night for a series of exhibition hockey games in Stockholm and Moscow.

The reinforcement issue began to blow up before the team left Vancouver. Coach Jack O'Reilly sounded off against the Canada Amateur Hockey Association for what he termed lack of assistance.

In Montreal CAHA president Bob LaBel disclaimed any responsibility for the amateur hockey-governing body in digging up additional talent.

"O'Reilly and LaBel had a long private huddle in the wake of O'Reilly's blast from Vancouver.

LaBel said the CAHA has no power to step up Packer hockey, that it can't make a deal, that it never said it would give the team additional players and that it "promised nothing except to help as far as we could."

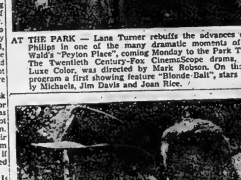
"Furthermore, I don't think it's good policy for O'Reilly or other Packers officials to run down their club. They're certainly not helping the spirit of the team. They're as much as saying their players that some of them wouldn't be making the trip if other players could be obtained to replace them.

"O'Reilly has a good team. Is he trying to shirk now in case his team is defeated?"

Fred "Cyclone" Taylor, one of hockey's great old-timers and a member of hockey's hall of fame, arrived with the Packers and said he thinks the team "will all right."

"They can skate, they're in good condition and they have played a lot of hockey. I honestly think they will do well."

Taylor, the Listowel, Ont., hockey product who made his home in Vancouver, said he believes the Packers are a fine defensive team.



Taylor is going merely as a spectator — he won't be one of the rookies those Russians tick. I've a lot of questions to ask them about their hockey when we return. I only hope I can get some answers."

WHITBY (CP) — Wren Blair, manager of the world amateur hockey champion Whitby Dunlops, blasted Canada Packers for blasting the CAHA for failing to help the Packers financially.

Blair certainly not the CAHA's responsibility to obtain their sponsorship," said Blair. "Packers have known every since last May that they were going to and feel they haven't got a qualified claim by now. I'd say it was inefficiency in Kelowna management that's at fault and certainly not the CAHA.

AT THE PARK — Lana Turner rebuffs the advances of Lee Philips in one of the many dramatic moments of Jerry Wald's "Peyton Place", coming Monday to the Park Theatre. The Twentieth Century-Fox CinemaScope drama, in De Luxe Color, was directed by Mark Robson. On the same program a first showing feature "Blonde-Bait", stars Beverly Michaels, Jim Davis and Joan Rice.

AT THE McCARTHY—Michael Craig and Belinda Lee in tense scene from "Over the Moon by Night", filmed in color and opening Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd. action packed hit is "Lost Lagoon" featuring Jeffrey Lynn.

Thinks Durelle Match for 'Ole' Archie

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Manager Chris Shahan says he is convinced Yvon Durelle will be a match for world light heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore in their Montreal title match Dec. 10.

"The more I see of Durelle, the more I am convinced he's going to give Moore a real go," Shahan said.

The Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., strapper trains Moore-Dec. 10 opponent at Greenfield Park.

Shahan says Yvon looks good in early workouts. I hope he can keep it up."

"Right now Yvon weighs around 179 pounds. He started training at 182. I don't think we'll have any difficulty getting down to the 175-pound limit.

Pick Ottawa Past, Present All-Star Team

OTTAWA (CP) — Eight Americans and four Canadians have been picked from Ottawa Rough Riders, present and past, for a quarter-century all - star football team. Three still are playing, two with the club.

Football observers who had watched the Riders from 1922 to 1937 presented their selections as half-time guests during football broadcasts over Ottawa radio station CFRA. The team:

Ends — Bo Simpson, Bill Sprague; centre — Don Lumpp; quarterback — Tom O'Malley; backs—Tony Golab, Hoale Turner, Ace Ellowitz, Wally Masters.

Simpson and Vaughan are still with the Riders and Gain plays with Cleveland Browns in the U.S. National Football League.

Simpson, Golab, Sprague and Loney are the Canadians. O'Malley was quarterback in 1931 when Ottawa beat Saskatchewan Roughriders for the Grey Cup.

Linkletter Best Remembered For Conversation With Kids

By BOB THOMAS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Art Linkletter was in fine form before 2,500 citizens at the Arizona State Fair.

Breezing through his daily houseparty TV show, he exchanged quips with the oldest old maid in the audience, galloped a horse down the race track, tied about the wild west with a 92 - year - oldster atop a stage coach, watched three housewives try to gift-wrap Christmas hams (live) and gave a pair of newlyweds a door prize (a cow).

But the biggest response came at the end of the show when Art sat down for a quiet conversation with four six-year-olds.

SHINES WITH KIDS

It's possible that after all the pie-throwings are forgotten, Linkletter will be remembered for his conversation with kids. After a year, his book, Kids Say the Darndest Things, rivals in budge from the best-seller list.

A sample of the Phoenix chatter:

Art: Who's the boss in your family?

Girl: My mother.

Art: Why is that?

Girl: She's older.

How does Linkletter manage to evoke choice comments from the youngsters? It's not a matter of chance.

"The secret of our success is in planning," he explained.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, November 9

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Steer clear of new acquaintances, for they have ideas that could lead you far afield and use very much of your present security. P.M. use that fine diplomatic sense you possess and you will get the approval of executive or employer.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Take particular care on the road and in all activity today, particularly where your job is concerned. You will make a fine impression upon associates and also close ties, which will insure your future materially.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Analyze thoroughly what it is you must do today, and you will have the confidence you need that you are progressing along the right lines. Then be sure you take the treatments that will help you to be strong and healthy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — While you want to have a day of pleasure at almost any cost, it would be wisest to stick doggedly to obligations you have made and work while must be done. Tonight, see that your wardrobe is in better condition.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to leave the house today, though it may mean taking household members merely to a picnic or other inexpensive place for diversion. You will find that you will have a better time than if you had emptied your wallet.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — While your spirit would move you to roam, the countryside logic tells you that working diligently at home is the most practical course to follow. Do just that, P. M. you will be lauded by those who count for their assets and character.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Be sure not to pile up any more bills in A. M. Be with sensible persons who lead you in the right direction. P. M. is excellent for fun with crumbs, good friends of long standing.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You are not thinking so clearly today, so it is best to get the advice you need from experts in your field. This will give you a better understanding and in P.M. you can analyze your situation clearly and make concrete plans.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Private worry can certainly make this a most unhappy day for you, accomplishing absolutely nothing, if you permit. Concentrate on outside activities instead and go after your aims resolutely. Be very tolerant and kindly, even.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Sidestep that pal with strong convictions that are contrary to your own and not in line with the Golden Rule, or you will have serious disagreements. Be with close ties who are very kind and intelligent and be happy with them.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be sure you avoid Bigwigs today who are in irate mood and want someone to vent their spleen on. Why should it be you? P. M. friend of long standing makes the evening a happy one for you. Be very sociable.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are very much tempted to run off to some seemingly wonderful new pasture, but it is really not half so good as what you are now enjoying. Stick to tried and true and get much necessary work done.

If your child is born today: The interesting child born today will appear to have a most clear purpose in mind at all times, but towardly there is an unrest due to ever searching for a more satisfying outlet. A good, thorough education should bring marked success in this chart, since mind and memory are both very fine, provided the environment is also ideal. Your progeny's future depends mainly on you as parents.

Monday, November 10

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A. M. is fine for consulting with banking experts, authorities in whatever problems or affairs are facing you of personal or business nature. Make concrete plans for long time ahead. P. M. don't be extravagant. Steer clear of jealous person.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A day for greater understanding between partners, friends, close ties, etc. Contact as many vital persons as possible. P. M. do not divulge plans you have made at home or an argument is sure to start.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get an early start on work you have to do and you will soon clear that desk, bring order out of chaos, be far ahead of the game. Then be jolly with comrades. P. M. is likely to bring sarcasm, snide remarks. Ignore such and be careful while driving.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — If you have faithfully followed your astrological sign, you arise this morning in fine fettle, and can have a splendid day. Every moment can be a happy one. P. M. be sure not to overspend. Indulge in inexpensive pleasures.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — You will get some fine suggestions from close ties today which you may not exactly agree with yours, but will assist you greatly nonetheless. Follow. P. M. avoid any bickering which may lead to serious arguments. Be courteous, thoughtful.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — A day for activity. Go to meetings, visit with kin, friends, shop for necessities, etc. But be sure in P. M. you do not get into any quarrelsome melees. Keep busy at some kind of duty and you avoid trouble.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — A day thinking of nothing but monetary matters. See that everything in that sphere of your life is attended to most carefully. Insure security for the future. P. M. take it easy, set up good budget system and start saving.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be very friendly during A. M. and be sure you tone up your system, get beauty treatments, etc. P. M. steer clear of powerful persons, and you get into arguments of a serious nature. This could be very bad for the future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While it is your nature to be blunt and decisive, there are times when silence is golden and quiet ferreting out of information brings far better results. And don't act frustrated. Keep plugging away industriously.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Strong — willed pal holds the key to your problem settling right now, so follow advice given. P. M. suggestions made by pals and those of personal advisers are much at variance, though all are sincere. Listen but follow own counsel.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day for planning carefully concerning all civic, personal and business affairs. P.M. be certain not to irk one in authority or you get your ears pinned back for some time to come. Be clever and diplomatic.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day for coming out of comfortable little niche into the world of progress and activity. Show appreciation for ideas of others, and give them benefit of own great ones. P. M. start rolling yourself and small, petty little ways.
